BRIAND PROPOSES FREEDOM AT ONCE OF 2D RHINE ZONE

Will Ask Paris Cabinet Today to Assent if Reich Accepts Supervision.

HAS NEW PLAN OF CONTROL

GERMAN LOAN DISCUSSED

Flotation of Reparation Bonds in Europe Without American Aid Is Talked Of.

By WYTHE WILLIAMS.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

GENEVA, Sept. 13.—Backed strongly by Lord Cushendun, who insisted that this morning's conference of the Big Six—the allied powers and Germany—descend from impractical heights to the level of possibilities, M. Briand today again demonstrated his right to the title "The Richelieu of Modern Europe."

Although it is impossible that actual Rhineland evacuation can be decided here, it now appears strongly possible that after the next meeting, set for Sunday—when M. Briand will have returned from his Cabinet meeting in Paris, which is to be held tomorrow, and after which Chancellor Mueller has made up his mind to depart for Berlin—a definite formula will be presented upon which the proposed committee of conference experts may begin work.

M. Briand, at the Cabinet meeting will demand the promise of immediate evacuation of the Second Zone, provided that at Sunday's conference the Germans accept the proposal for Rhineland control in some definite form.

Summing up the results of today's meeting, it may be asserted, first, concerning reparations, that Chancellor Mueller agreed to the appointing of experts by both sides in order to discuss the German proposals, which are to be drafted within as short a time as possible after he has had a chance to consult his colleagues in Berlin.

Plan To Float Loan in Europe.

It is now visualized that one limited financial operation will be possible on the European markets, which later will be extended and submitted to the United States. M. Briand promised to take this question up also at tomorrow's meeting of the French Cabinet. The conversation developed the opinion that a quick loan flotation—mobilization of German bonds—might be accomplished without waiting for the "official" attitude of the United States. This in the belief that the loan would be guaranteed by German industry and that the other powers would get a quick response from the American market, anyhow.

It also developed that one of the main points of the German proposals will be a reduction in the number of annuities, the same to be paid at the same rate and the same instalments as the allied debts of the United States. The allied statesmen apparently are ready to cut the total of reparations in order to pay the United States more quickly than under the various Washington agreements, but holding back a small amount for the devasted areas.

The French scheme for some form of allied control to be exercised over the Rhineland after the troops have been withdrawn was not touched upon today. The French Foreign Minister, showing haste to take the train, left his plan in the hands of members of the French delegation to be explained to the Germans and be pondered between now and Sunday.

New Rhineland Control Scheme.

Without the original plan for a control commission being essentially changed, M. Briand has now an entirely new explanation—or interpretation—in the hands of his subordinates. This, if accepted here, he believes will calm public opinion both in Germany and France and be really advantageous for Germany.

In brief, M. Briand would have the Locarno Commission considered as nothing less than a sort of subcommission of the Council of the League of Nations. This body, he further believes, could handle all matters arising in the Rhineland in such manner that the German populace would think it was being done by themselves, while on the other hand the average Frenchman would consider that the iron hand of allied authority still lay over the Rhine.

Control Board Plan Details.

GENEVA, Sept. 13 (AP).—The Associated Press tonight learned the details of the plan being developed under which evacuation of the Rhineland may proceed.

The nations allied against Germany in the World War have proposed, it is learned, the creation of a special commission of "conciliation and verification" which would function in control of the Rhineland in case it was decided to withdraw the troops now there.

Germany is willing to discuss evacuation on this basis, The Associated Press has been informed on high authority, only provided the commis-

Joint Tax and Water Office To Save Rate Payers' Time

Mayor Walker announced yesterday that arrangements had been made between Controller Berry and Commissioner John J. Dietz, of the Department of Water Supply, Gas and Electricity, whereby water revenues will be collected hereafter by the City Collector along with the annual tax payments.

At present, as for many years, city taxes are paid in one office and water charges in another. Payments of arrears of taxes used to be payable in a third office until a few months ago, when Controller Berry consolidated the collection of both taxes and tax arrears under one bureau. The Controller and Commissioner Dietz will now ask the Municipal Assembly to pass a local law making the necessary changes in the City Charter so that the Finance Department may also take over the water rate collections. It is believed this will save time and annoyance for many thousands of taxpayers.

Sloop With Hassell Party Had to Race for Beach After Striking Rock.

IVIGTUT, Greenland, Sept. 13.—When on Sept. 2 Bert R. J. Hassell and Parker D. Cramer arrived at Camp Lloyd, the Summer season was about over. The snows were already overdue and the fliers were fortunate in having clear, even if cold, weather rather than wet snow during their fortnight of hiking.

When they reached us the motor sloop Nakuak, of six tons displacement, was on its way from Holstensborg to Camp Lloyd to take the Summer party out to the coast. On the afternoon of the 4th we, together with its Eskimo skipper and crew, had loaded stores and equipment aboard the Nakuak at Camp Lloyd and with the fliers Hassell and Cramer and four members of the University of Michigan Expedition, Ralph L. Belknap, Duncan Stewart, Mr. Potter and Elmer Etes, we started down the fjord, expecting to reach Sukkertoppen in from two to three days. The little craft was new and the skipper and his crew were part owners.

As we expected to carry out balloon ascents on the coast we had a supply of ammunition and other foods beyond what would probably be needed on the cruise. And one must always take with him a sleeping bag in a country without hotels or any kind of night accommodations. Hassell and Etes made a comfortable bed on the baggage and stores in the hold, Potter and Stewart found clear space on the deck, while Cramer, Belknap and I disposed ourselves in the little cabin.

Sloop Begins to Fill.

Just before dawn on the morning of the 5th we struck on a reef, but the Nakuak almost immediately slipped off and again gained steerageway. I said to Cramer, "We are wrecked, I fear," and at once climbed on deck. Though it was still dark I could see that instead of being out in the channel, for the fjord was there one and a half miles wide and very deep throughout, we were close in under the steep rock cliff on the north side.

Soon the cry came from both the cabin and the hold that the sloop was filling and the skipper, now fully alarmed, was driving his craft hard for a possible place to beach it.

I went down into the cabin and fished my boots out of the rapidly rising water. All hands passed baggage and bedding up to the deck, some of it already soaked in salt water. Steam was now coming from the half-submerged motor, but the skipper succeeded in driving the

ELECTRICAL STORM HERE

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

SAN JUAN, Porto Rico, Sept. 13.—The worst tropical storm in the city's history struck San Juan today, raging from 1 A. M. until 5 P. M. and causing great damage. All communication within the city is stopped, so that the police have been unable to check up the possible loss of life and injuries.

From mid-morning the city was without telephones, electric lights and power. Wires are down in the streets, with hundreds of light and power poles and thousands of trees uprooted or broken off. The streets are everywhere littered with trees, wires, advertising signs, parts of houses and broken windows.

Ships in the harbor that could not get to their docks were badly damaged. The steamer Helen, a freighter, went on the rocks near the entrance to the harbor. The steamer due to sail this afternoon for New York is still at her pier.

The Weather Bureau recorded a wind of 132 miles an hour. Then the instrument was carried away as the barometer fell. The bureau estimates the maximum velocity of the wind at fully 150 miles an hour.

Communication with the rest of the island is paralyzed.

Damage Is Put at $2,000,000.

SAN JUAN, Sept. 13 (AP).—Damage approximating $2,000,000 is believed to have been caused in this city by the tropical hurricane which struck here today.

The wind reached its highest velocity at about 2:30 this afternoon. It blew more than 100 miles an hour for five or six hours, and is believed at times to have attained a velocity of 150.

Tonight the city was in darkness and completely isolated from the rest of the island, all telegraph and telephone lines being down and transportation, even about streets here, being stopped.

Shipping is believed to have suffered heavy losses. The Helen pulled her anchor and drifted onto rocks, and just before dark two sailing vessels in the harbor appeared to be sinking.

Governor's Palace Is Damaged.

The roof of the Hotel Palace in the heart of San Juan was carried away, as was also part of the roof of the Union Club. Hundreds of homes in San Juan are believed to have suffered either partial or total demolition. Trees by the thousands have been uprooted, many of them smashing into homes and falling across streets.

Cocoanut trees in the garden of the Governor's palace have been flattened, while in the palace itself windows and doors were blown in by the wind, and the building flooded with the torrential rain.

At the Weather Bureau tonight it was stated that San Juan probably had borne the brunt of the storm so far as the island was concerned and that probably the south side of the island had suffered much less than this area.

Such were conditions tonight, even with the wind diminishing in force, that it will be days before communication between the city and all the island can be restored.

Storm Is Sweeping Northwest.

Centring at a point about 100 miles southeast of Porto Rico and traveling west-northwestward at a velocity of between 130 and 150 miles an hour, the storm which caused such havoc in Porto Rico yesterday and, it is feared, in other islands of the West Indies, may reach these shores today.

Already the widespread atmospheric disturbance which wrought such

German Scientist Breeds Yellow Rats, Blue Monkeys and Other Strange Animals

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, Sept. 13.—Seeing blue monkeys, yellow rats and rabbits with chinchilla fur is not necessarily any more a symptom of alcoholism. These strange creatures really exist and are not merely creations of a morbid fancy.

Proof was furnished today at the opening of the Kaiser Wilhelm Institute for Breeding Science at Muenchenberg, near the German capital. The exhibits in the new institute show that theories on heredity taken as gospel truths two decades ago were entirely wrong. It has been demonstrated by innumerable experiments that species of animals and plants can be changed at will and varied thousands of times by crossing breeds.

Each crossing brings further improvement in the new species produced and in many cases practically new forms of life. Every new generation differs somewhat from the preceding one. The results of crossing are especially surprising in animal life.

At the opening of the institute the director, Professor Erwin Baur, explained that he succeeded in breeding more than 1,000 combinations, among them yellow rats, monkeys with bluish fur and many other strange-looking creatures.

Still greater, however, are the variations obtained by crossing in plant life. The institute, for instance, exhibits 40,000 varieties of dandelions, all produced by crossing old and new breeds.

Liner's Mail Plane, Launched at Sea, Missing; Le Bourget Anxious for Ile de France Craft

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Sept. 13.—Grave concern is felt at Le Bourget flying field tonight for the safety of the postal seaplane which was launched from the liner Ile de France's catapult at 10 o'clock this morning and at a late hour had failed to complete the flight normally requiring not more than six hours.

The plane took off when the ship was about seventy miles southwest of the Lizard, England.

The seaplane was carrying mail from America and was piloted by Lieutenant Demougeot and also had aboard Lieutenant Monrouzeau as radio operator and Mechanic Letierce.

The Government and the French Line officials are puzzled over why the machine, equipped with radio and manned by an expert operator, has failed to send a single distress signal if trouble was encountered.

The French Ministry of Marine has ordered the coast patrol boats stationed at Cherbourg and Brest to conduct a search, but four vessels returned to their respective bases tonight without finding trace of the missing plane. They reported a rough sea off Land's End and in the Channel. The Ile de France left New York last Saturday and is due in Havre tomorrow.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Sept. 13.—No news of the missing French airman, Lieutenant Demougeot, who was catapulted with the mails from the Ile de France this morning, had been received here to the time of cabling. The Air Ministry tonight received the following message from the British steamer Mostyn:

"Saw floating a white life belt, name not noticed; 5:15 P. M., just south of Longships."

Longships lighthouse is off Land's End and on the route which Demougot probably took. For the moment, however, not much importance is attached to the sighting of this life belt.

It was stated at the Air Ministry tonight that if there is no trace of the missing seaplane by morning, an airplane will be sent out to search over a wide area of the sea off Land's End. In the meantime, a radio appeal was broadcast from Croydon asking shipping to keep a lookout for the missing plane and radio stations along the coast have been requested to listen in specially for signals which Demougeot's radio man may be sending out.

ALL CITY POLICE HUNT 3 HOSPITAL SLAYERS

ESCAPED CONVICTS SOUGHT

Orderly Says One Man in Wanton Fordham Slaying Looked Like Sing Sing Fugitive.

After hours of investigation the police were forced to admit last night that they were no nearer a solution of the wanton murder of Patrolman Jeremiah Brosnan than they were when he was shot down just outside the prison ward at Fordham Hospital at 3 o'clock yesterday morning. Brosnan, 53 years old, of 2,478 Tiebout Avenue, the Bronx, the guard at the prison ward for seven year, was instantly killed by a charge of buckshot which ripped away his jaw, as told in a late edition of THE NEW YORK TIMES yesterday.

One theory last night was that gangsters had deliberately offered open defiance to the police and the prosecuting authorities. Kindly "Jerry" Brosnan, who had not made an arrest in twenty years, was the victim of a cold-blooded murder. But District Attorney John E. McGeehan of the Bronx, who two days ago said "gangster methods will not be tolerated in the Bronx," and in July said that gang rule was a "challenge of lawful civil government," believes that there is another explanation than defiance of the police.

McGeehan Seeks Motive.

"Why should they pick a policeman in the hospital if that was their motive. Why not Times Square?" he said, and added, "Those three men went there for a definite reason. What their motive was I do not know yet. I don't know any more now than I did when I first arrived at the hospital, but we have to establish the motive and then we will be on our way to catch the murderers.

"The shooting was a bold challenge to law and order," he had said earlier, "and if it is an attempt to stampede the authorities some one is sadly mistaken. Three men invaded the sacred precincts of a hospital and killed a policeman on duty in full uniform. In my experience the only similar case was the payroll hold-up in Roosevelt Hospital by the cry baby bandits. Five of them were convicted," he added significantly, "and are now serving terms which might as well be life sentences."

Escaped Convicts Hunted.

While the police have not definitely established a motive for the crime, it is known that they are searching for Edward McLaughlin, alias Edward Ryan, who, with James Nannery, another desperate gunman, escaped from Sing Sing Prison last July. Frank Marrin, the orderly on duty who saw the three men, picked the picture of McLaughlin from the Rogues' Gallery at headquarters as resembling one of the murderers. He said at the hospital last night that one of the men looked like the picture of McLaughlin, although Inspector John Coughlin had previously announced that no identification had been made.

Three men took part in the shooting of the patrolman. Shortly before 3 o'clock in the morning they drove up to the front entrance of the hospital, thus indicating a knowledge of the situation, because if they had entered the rear or ambulance entrance they probably would have preceded several persons. Passing Robert Boynton, 2,977 Webster Avenue, the Bronx, on duty at the telephone switchboard, they said they wanted to have an injury dressed and proceeded directly to the stairway leading to the emergency room in the basement, which opens off the same corridor as the prison ward.

Policeman Was Dozing.

Brosnan was dozing against the wall, seated on a stretcher near the door. In the rear of the room Marrin, the orderly, was seated on a stool. Two of the men entered the

A. E. NORRIS INDICTED ON LIQUOR CHARGE

Philadelphia Federal Jury Holds New York Broker Conspired With Kerper, Bootlegger.

RECALLS RAID MADE HERE

Many Prominent Philadelphians Listed as Kerper's Actual or Possible Customers.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 13.—Alfred E. Norris, stock broker, of 55 East Seventy-second Street, New York City, was indicted on a charge of conspiracy jointly with Joel D. Kerper, so-called "society bootlegger" of this city, by a Federal Grand Jury here today.

Kerper was indicted for illegal possession, transportation and shipment of liquor also, after twelve men prominent in Philadelphia's social and financial world and Otis Leroy of New York had testified as to dealing with Kerper.

Twenty-eight other men, all prominent here socially, whose names were listed in the book seized when Kerper's place of business was raided on July 20 and for whom subpoenas have been issued, were reported out of town. It was said that several were in Europe and the others at their Summer homes.

In connection with Kerper's list, prohibition officials said the fact that the names of many prominent persons were in Kerper's book did not necessarily mean that these men had purchased liquors from him.

Charge Against Norris.

The indictment brought against Mr. Norris comes as the outgrowth of a Federal raid on his New York apartment last February, when, it is stated, six quarts of whisky were found and seized. This liquor, it is alleged, was traced to Kerper's establishment here. Mr. Norris is specifically charged with conspiring with Kerper to ship intoxicating liquors from this city to the broker's New York home from Oct. 28, 1926, until Sept. 13, 1928, the date of the indictment.

The raid on the broker's apartment took place when his daughter, the former Miss Dorothy Norris, now Mrs. Raoul d'Alevra, wife of a diplomatic courier of Rumania, who came to this country in 1926 in Queen Marie's entourage, was at home. Mr. d'Alevra wrote a letter of protest to George Cretziano, Rumanian Minister to the United States, complaining that the prohibition agents had invaded the sanctity of a diplomat's home. He said that no liquor had been found in the apartment.

Mr. Norris demanded that the agents who made the raid be dismissed at once, since, he charged, they had entered his home without a search warrant and had found no liquor.

Mr. Norris, who is 55 years old, formerly was a resident of this city, and his daughter was formally introduced into society here in 1915. She married Mr. d'Alevra at Narragansett Pier, R. I., Sept. 4, 1920. Mrs. d'Alevra's mother is now the wife of Gustave da Hapsberg, who was Baron von Hapsberg of Austria, but dropped his title when he came to this country several years ago.

Champagne Shipment Alleged.

After the thirty-three counts on which Kerper was indicted, twenty-four are of illegal possession and transportation of liquor, one of maintaining a common nuisance and eight of violating the interstate shipment laws. One of the charges is that Kerper shipped, sold and delivered two cases of champagne to a customer on Aug. 29, more than five weeks after the raid on his office and a few days before the present Federal Grand Jury began its sessions.

The indictment states that Mrs. D. C. B. Catherwood of Haverford, Pa., wife of a banker, was the recipient of several package shipments of liquors which were sent to her Summer home at Bar Harbor, Me. Mr. Leroy was called to testify on an alleged shipment of whisky by Kerper to his home in New York.

Indicted with Kerper were two of his alleged employes, Tony De Mayo

SMITH FORCES SEEK NEW YORK CITY MAN FOR GOVERNORSHIP

WAGNER'S NAME TO FORE

FOR NON-PARTISAN BENCH

Governor Has Made Overtures to the Republicans on the Question, He Reveals.

From a Staff Correspondent of The New York Times.

ALBANY, Sept. 13.—Democratic leaders from all parts of the State conferred with Governor Smith tonight, shaping a ticket which points to New York City for the Gubernatorial nominee, and pledging their adherence to the principle of a non-partisan judiciary.

It was the last meeting of the State leaders with the Presidential candidate before he starts on his Western campaign tour Sunday, from which he will not return until the morning of the State convention at Rochester on Oct. 1. It was also, therefore, the last meeting before the convention of the whole board of Democratic strategy, in which the Governor is the leading spirit, and as such its subject matter comprehended the entire political situation in the State.

While the proceedings at the conference were kept in comparative secrecy, reports from the Executive Mansion, where it was held, indicated that the Governor was to be left holding the key of the situation, ready to make the motions which would disclose the chosen slate only when the convention was virtually in session. Up to that time, when the Republicans in convention at Syracuse will have already picked their ticket, it was expected that the name of at least the person favored for the Gubernatorial nomination would remain a riddle to the general public.

Several Names Mentioned.

The leaders went to the conference, which began with a dinner at the mansion, privately agreeing that it was necessary to choose a standard-bearer with a popular reputation already made. This agreement was based on the fixed opinion that it was necessary to give the national ticket what aid might come from a State nomination and to insure victory for the State ticket in a year when conditions would be made more difficult by the fact that for the first time in ten years the familiar name at the head of the slate would be missing.

The name of Owen D. Young, Chairman of the board of the General Electric Company, and a figure of national prominence, was again on the lips of some of the party chiefs. Coupled with him in the discussion of the strongest possible nominees for Governor were Franklin D. Roosevelt and Senator Robert F. Wagner, although all three have been taken out of consideration at one time or another.

Bray Had Talk With Wagner.

State Chairman M. William Bray of Utica is understood to have seen Senator Wagner yesterday and to have come from his interview with the impression that in spite of the Senator's assertion that he would not be a candidate, he might at the last defer his personal wishes to the mandate of his party.

The leaders, including the up-State representatives, are understood to have voiced agreement to the fact that New York residency would not militate against a candidate. This opinion, in the eyes of observers, cast a cloud on the candidacies of Public Service Commissioner George R. Lunn of Schenectady, former Representative Peter G. Teneyck of Albany and others of up-State New York who have counted on some geographical aid.

Two specifications for the nominee were agreed upon at the conference, it became known. They were that he must be of such standing as to help the national ticket and that he must be identified with Governor Smith or his program. There was a

Polish Cavalry Rides Wildly Into Infantry, Injuring 40

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, Sept. 13.—During the joint manoeuvres at Cracow of the Polish cavalry and infantry units, forty infantrymen were injured when a squadron commander failed to halt the charging horses when they reached the infantry lines, according to reports reaching Berlin tonight.

The soldiers tried to protect themselves against the cavalry with fixed bayonets, but the horses galloped on and only halted when the second line of infantry raised a protective screen with a cloud of bombs, which caused the mounted troops to change their direction.

According to orders the cavalry was to halt 100 yards from the infantry lines, but why the order was not obeyed is unknown.

HOOVER AND AIDES CONFER ON NEW YORK

Moses and Willcox Indicate Republican Concentration on the Up-State Districts.

VICTORY CERTAIN, BOTH SAY

D. B. Robertson, Brotherhood Chief, Visits Nominee—Denies Wet Issue Swings Labor.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 13.—That the Republican campaign managers are concentrating attention on the vote in upper New York State was indicated today after Senator George H. Moses, Chairman of the Eastern Campaign Advisory Committee, and William R. Willcox, Chairman of the Republican National Committee in the Hughes campaign, conferred on that subject with Herbert Hoover.

Both visitors were highly optimistic, Mr. Moses declaring the Hoover-Curtis ticket would "certainly win" in New York State, and Mr. Willcox that the Republican nominees would receive more votes there than obtained by the Coolidge-Dawes ticket.

According to Senator Moses, the Republican campaign in New York City is merely "marking time" until the selection of the State tickets two weeks hence.

"But in the meantime," he said, "all activities relating to the national campaign are going ahead full speed. Our work up-State, which is the most important, is going forward without a hitch, and its results give us every confidence that Hoover and Curtis will carry New York State."

Mr. Willcox repeated the argument that while Governor Smith had been successful four times in Gubernatorial races, he would not be able to persuade a majority of New York voters to support him for the Presidency.

Willcox Predicts Up-State Sweep.

"Up-State New York will give Hoover and Curtis a considerably larger majority than it gave Coolidge and Dawes four years ago," Mr. Willcox said. "We must recognize that many voters now refuse to be bound by party ties, and this group will go largely to the Republican ticket this year.

"I have talked to many business men in New York State who have supported Governor Smith in State elections, but who will not do so in a national election. Up-State knows all about Tammany Hall and its constant effort to get a grip on New York State, and the voters are distrustful of Tammany and all of its graduates."

Former Representative Homer P. Snyder of Little Falls, N. Y., another caller at Hoover headquarters today, assured Mr. Hoover that his majority outside New York City would be ample to give the ticket the electoral vote of New York State.

"I told Mr. Hoover immediately

Hoover to Speak in Carnegie Hall Oct. 17; Wide Radio Hook-Up for Third Campaign Talk

Herbert Hoover, Republican nominee for President, will speak in New York on the night of Oct. 17, the Eastern Speakers' Bureau of the Republican National Committee announced definitely last night. The speech will be the third of his campaign.

Although the Speakers' Bureau announced no detailed arrangements, it was said at the headquarters of the Hoover-Curtis Campaign Committee that Mr. Hoover probably would speak at Carnegie Hall and that the meeting would be under the auspices of the Union League Club. The speech will be broadcast widely.

Mr. Hoover's first speech after his acceptance speech at Palo Alto will be at Newark next Monday evening. On Oct. 6 he will speak at Elizabethtown, Tenn., the anniversary of the Revolutionary battle of King's Mountain, which is in that vicinity.

Representative John Q. Tilson, Director of the Speakers' Bureau, said he had received assurances from friends of former Governor Frank O. Lowden of Illinois that Mr. Lowden would speak for Mr. Hoover during the campaign. Mr. Tilson also said he had been in communication with Charles E. Hughes, who is expected to return from Europe next week, and that Mr. Hughes's acceptance of a seat on the Permanent Court of International Justice would not prevent him from speaking for Hoover during the campaign, but that no date for a speech by him had been set.

GOEBEL BATTLED STORMS

50,000 Acclaim Him After He Flies 2,500 Miles in 23 Hours, 50 Minutes.

USED FUEL FIGHTING GALE

Landed at Prescott, Ariz., When Gas Ran Low—Haldeman Grounded at Albuquerque.

THAW AND MORRIS IN CRASH

Injured in Indiana Crack-Up—Mamer, Burgin and Iseman Are Down in the Far West.

Of the nine planes which left Roosevelt Field Wednesday in the non-stop transcontinental air race to Los Angeles, only one reached its destination yesterday, and it was disqualified. All the others were down.

The one to get through was Art Goebel's white Yankee Doodle, a Lockheed-Vega plane with a Pratt & Whitney Wasp engine. Goebel, who was the winner of the Dole race to Hawaii last year, landed on Mines Field near Los Angeles at 3:22 P. M. Pacific Time, after approximately 23 hours and 50 minutes flying.

Goebel was compelled by stormy weather to make a forced landing yesterday at Prescott, Ariz., where he stopped an hour, and this disqualified him automatically.

For a time it was believed that George Haldeman, who flew with Ruth Elder in her transatlantic attempt last season, might finish and win the race. But late last night word came from Albuquerque, N. M., through The Associated Press, that Haldeman, who was flying with Shirley Short in a Bellanca plane, had landed there.

Of the seven others Clifford McMillin, flying a Stinson-Detroiter, was forced down near Wilkes-Barre Wednesday afternoon. Randolph Page, in a Stinson Junior, landed near Allentown, Pa., a few hours after leaving Roosevelt Field. Mrs. James A. Stillman's entry, the North Star, a Bellanca plane, piloted by Oliver C. Le Boutellier, returned to the field soon after the take-off. Le Boutellier reported that the compass was vibrating so he was unable to read it.

Other Fliers Forced Down.

The Associated Press reported other fliers had landed as follows:

Nick Mamer in his Buhl Air Sedan was forced down at Rawlins, Wyo., at 9:38 this morning. Pacific time. Emil Burgin lived up to his nickname, "Hard Luck Emil" when he was forced down in his Bellanca at Willard, N. M.

Lieut. Commander Jack Iseman, commandant of the Rockaway Naval Reserve Flying Field, who was piloting the Columbia in which Levine and Chamberlin flew to Germany, came down at Amarillo, Texas, at 4:30 P. M. Mountain time.

John P. Morris, who, with Colonel William Thaw as passenger, was flying a Lockheed-Vega plane with a Pratt & Whitney Wasp engine, was compelled to land in a field fifteen miles south of Indianapolis because of a broken oil line.

Morris and Thaw were both badly injured when in trying to land in the dark, with the light of a flare they had dropped as their only beacon, they crashed into a fence. The plane was demolished and they were imprisoned in the wreckage for six hours before farmhands found them and brought medical assistance.

Colonel Thaw suffered a dislocated hip and Morris a dislocated shoulder and fractured pelvis. It will be several days before either is able to leave for home.

MINES FIELD, Los Angeles, Sept. 13.—Some fifty thousand Californians roared a welcome to the white winged Yankee Doodle and the State's greatest flying hero, Art Goebel, as he shot across the finish line at the national air races here this afternoon, apparently the winner in the transcontinental non-stop race. Reporters rushed to the telephones and in a few minutes extras were on the street announcing that he had won the greatest feature race of the nine days' meeting.

Dudley Steele, Chairman of the Contest Committee, and Frank Tichenor, publisher of Aero Digest, who was the first to greet Goebel when he made his record breaking west to east flight a month ago, were the first to greet the fliers here. No one apparently thought to ask Goebel at first if he chanced he had made a landing anywhere on the way and the fliers themselves did not have a chance to say a word for many minutes. Finally he recognized a friend in the cheering crowds pressing around him, and in answer to the question which no one else had thought to ask he said that he had landed at Prescott, Ariz., this morning because his gas was very low and a carburetor was acting badly. This of course disqualified him for the non-stop race but he is likely to get sweepstakes prize for the fastest time in crossing the country.

Fliers Exhausted by Long Grind.

Goebel, his face drawn and bloodless under the dark weatherbeaten skin, and his companion and backer, Harry Tucker, who rode as passenger in the race, as he did in the non-stop flight a month ago, were completely done up by their experiences of the last twenty-three hours.

They believe that all the others in the race were forced down either by the failure of fuel or by the sheer inability of the ships equipped with motors of half the horsepower of Goebel's Wasp to battle their way through the storms. When Goebel landed it was thought that three others might still be in the air. All of them were Bellancas and one was the old Columbia. Hours after Goebel and Tucker had left the field it was announced that George Haldeman and Shirley Short, flying the Brock and Schlee entry, and Emil Burgin in another Bellanca were down, leaving only the Columbia not then reported out of the non-stop race. Goebel and Tucker had found, as others before them had found, that the east to west flight was different from that of west to east. "I thanked God many times during the night," Tucker said, "that Goebel was at the controls. It was my most awful experience in the air, and I firmly believe that no other flier in the world could do what Art did."

There seemed to be no place in a disturbed atmosphere that spread itself for the 2,500 miles between the oceans last night for the Yankee Doodle to slip through.

Met Storms Over Mountains.

Darkness came soon after they left Roosevelt Field hours behind most of the other contestants, and then they met intermittent storms at low altitudes and gale winds higher up. Across Pennsylvania, over the Alleghenies in blackness and storms Goebel flew blind. Across Ohio, Indiana and Missouri and into Oklahoma he flew blind, and up the long grade to the Rockies the pilot still flew blind, except when he climbed sometimes 10,000 feet to get over the clouds, only to meet the gales that ate up the precious fuel and tossed the ship about on thousand-foot waves of turbulent air.

How he held to his course he does not know. The air line distance is only 2,477 miles and Goebel clung to that as closely as he could. He knows that he passed over Pittsburgh, Terre Haute and Wichita, and then veering south crossed the bad lands to Albuquerque.

Winds Cut Speed Down.

There were no storms here but the winds still clutched at the frail wing, cutting the speed of his 150 mile an hour craft to a little better than a hundred miles. Across the desert he found again the bumps that drove the ship down sometimes twenty-five hundred feet, making it necessary for him to burn more fuel in climbing.

This morning the plane lost part of a door. Tucker in throwing out empty gas tins struck it and the broken door caught by the rushing wind was wrenched away. This left a hole in the side of the ship that cut the speed five miles more an hour.

Goebel took his failure philosophically.

"After all, this is just part of the pioneer work that goes into advancing aviation," he said. "It shows what conditions we have got to overcome and I am glad to be able to contribute something to that."

Lindbergh Flies Again for Army.

After Goebel and Tucker left the field the crowd settled down to watch the other races scheduled for today and the Army and Navy pilots go through their stunts. Again today Colonel Lindbergh took his place at the head of the three musketeers. He and his comrades Woodring and Cornelius spent the morning in rehearsals and today they added formation loops and other intricate manoeuvres to their performance. They have not yet attempted the startling stunts which Williams, Woodring and Cornelius put on and they make no attempt to compete with the Navy's "three seahawks."

Yet in spite of the evolutions of the great navy trio the crowd's interest was plainly in Lindbergh and they watched him with a silent intentness that was impressive. Following his performance with the "Three Musketeers" Lindbergh took his place at one end of a formation of nine pursuit ships and took part in the evolutions which included flying in echelon, strafing imaginary ground troops and numerous loops, rolls and spins. He plans to be here through the remainder of the races.

The navy put on its greatest performance after Lindbergh and his comrades were through for the day, headed by Lieutenant D. W. Tomlinson of the "Sea Hawks." A formation of nine took the air in a great V. Diving past the stands they went up into a formation loop keeping their alignment throughout, straightened into level flight, climbed, turned on their backs and came out 1,000 feet higher again in a perfect V. Then again they looped and once again. They finished their great exhibition by diving at a circle from three directions at 250 miles an hour.

"Let the army tie that one," said a navy man, whose plane, damaged earlier in the day by a runaway motorcycle, had kept him on the ground.

Lieutenant L. J. Kane won the sixty-mile Liberty engine trophy race limited to navy fliers in 25 minutes and 18 seconds.

Two heats for the first civilian race on the program were run off and the final of this event, limited to planes with motors of 510 cubic inch displacement, will be run tomorrow.

Although it was announced that this closed the day's program, thousands still remained to await the possible arrival of more of the transcontinental non-stop fliers.

Goebel Showed Racing Flair.

Art Goebel carried tactics of the race tracks into the air in his preparation for the transcontinental race, says The Associated Press.

When Goebel, already famous as winner of the Dole Hawaiian race last Summer, flew his Yankee Doodle here from the West Coast last month his ostensible purpose was to set a new non-stop cross-country record, but the primary purpose was to find out exactly what speed the plane was capable of making on an extended flight, so that he might make use of that knowledge in the non-stop race.

Goebel found out what the plane was capable of, what he might reasonably expect it to do in the Derby, but he decided against revealing what he had discovered. He played the old race track trick of holding down his mount so that the clockers and his competitors would be left in the dark.

When he reached Chicago on that west-east flight, close friends revealed yesterday, he computed that he had made an average speed of 180 miles an hour from the West coast. It was then he made up his mind to act like a jockey instructed to hold a horse in on the time trials.

From Chicago to New York he loafed along, most of the time at about 80 miles an hour, though he put on a burst of speed at the end for a whirlwind finish and shot out of the sky at Curtiss Field like a meteor. His average from California was about 150 miles an hour, and the previous transcontinental record was shattered by almost eight hours.

Even with his slowing down his feat was enough to make him the favorite in the east-west marathon, but most experts believed the other entries had a chance, not knowing that Goebel had some 30 miles an hour tucked up his sleeve where he could get them when they would do the most good.

Friends who knew of Goebel's ruse explained the fact that the pilot of the Yankee Doodle did not make as good time on his westward flight, when he must have been pushing his plane to the limit, as he did on the flight he "eased off" on by suggesting that he must have encountered head winds that absorbed the extra speed.

THAW AND MORRIS INJURED.

Found Hours After Crash in Darkness on Indiana Farm.

DECATUR, Ind., Sept. 13 (AP).—Colonel William Thaw of Pittsburgh and Captain John P. Morris, also of Pittsburgh, piloting a Lockheed-Vega plane in the non-stop air race, were forced down an a farm fifteen miles south of Decatur at 12:30 o'clock this morning by a broken oil line.

Colonel Thaw suffered a dislocated hip and Captain Morris received a dislocated shoulder and a fracture of the pelvis. They were unable to summon aid and lay in the wreckage of their plane until found by a farmer at 6 o'clock this morning. They were brought to a hospital here.

When the aviators discovered their oil line was broken they dropped a flare in an effort to locate a field for landing. The flare was extinguished, however, before the plane reached the ground and it struck a fence. The plane was demolished.

When the plane, owned by Colonel Thaw, left Roosevelt Field yesterday, others referred to it as a "death trap." The great monoplane was so constructed that Thaw had no chance to jump in case of accident.

Captain Morris was at the controls when the accident occurred. The two fliers took off from Roosevelt Field at 5 P. M., Eastern Daylight Saving Time, last night.

Special to The New York Times.

ROOSEVELT FIELD, L. I., Sept. 13.—Word was received here this afternoon from Mrs. Zelma J. Morris, wife of John P. Morris, pilot of the Lockheed Vega plane, who had with him as passenger Major William Thaw of Pittsburgh, that her husband's plane had been forced down at Decatur, Ind. Both men were injured, she said, and were taken to the hospital there.

"Although the hospital authorities said that there was nothing serious in their injuries," she said, "they added that it might be three days before they could tell the full extent of my husband's fractures. He received a broken collar bone and a fractured pelvis, from the fall, while Major Thaw had a dislocated hip. I shall leave here for Decatur tonight."

AIR TAXI SERVICE ORDERS 150 PLANES

Directors of New Curtiss Company Takes First Step in Flying School Organization.

The first official step in connection with the inauguration of the Curtiss Flying Service, Inc., was taken by the directors yesterday, when they authorized the placing of a contract with the Curtiss Aeroplane & Motor Company for 150 planes of various types for commercial aviation. The new organization of which C. M. Keys, head of Curtiss Aeroplane and Motor Company, is Chairman and Charles S. "Casey" Jones is President, will operate a flying and training service extending from coast to coast.

More than twenty-five schools for training aviators will be established. The company will also establish three so-called universities of the air for the advanced training of aviators who contemplate taking up commercial aviation as a profession.

As an adjunct to these services, Curtiss Flying Service, Inc., also will operate a taxi-flying service, under which arrangements can be made to employ the service of an airplane to jump from one city to another just as taxicabs are now engaged for short rides. Among the sponsors of the new organization are the National Aviation Corporation and their associates, also banking interests including Blair & Co., Inc. and J. C. Willson & Co.

The banking group and their associates announce that of the authorized capital of 2,000,000 shares of no par value, a total of only 750,000 shares will be presently outstanding. No public offering will be made, as the entire issue, other than the substantial interest which will be held by Curtiss Aeroplane and Motor Company, has been placed privately.

START WORLD FLIGHT AS A PLEASURE TRIP

Selfridge's Daughter and Husband, Vicomte de Sibour, Off Today in a Moth Plane.

WILL COVER 25,000 MILES

Couple Will Go From England Via Spain to India and Shanghai and There Sail for America.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Sept. 13.—A tiny Moth plane carrying two passengers will take off at Hendon tomorrow on a flight that is to take it in short stages more than 25,000 miles. Its passengers will be Vicomte Jacques de Sibour, a French aviator and sportsman, and his American wife, the daughter of H. Gordon Selfridge, the London merchant.

They are attempting neither a record nor a stunt flight. They are taking with them just the clothes that they would take along on any pleasure trip, evening dress included. They are making the trip because they feel that flying is the most pleasant way of visiting the far corners of the earth.

"We are flying because we think it is the most agreeable and sensible way to travel," said the young Vicomte at the flying field yesterday, after testing his little blue and silver machine. "My wife and I haven't been inside a train all year. Whenever we have wanted to travel we have taken our little plane.

"Really, it costs less than a high-powered automobile. The plane cost $3,250; that's all. It uses only 4½ gallons of gas per hour and three-quarters of a pint of oil. The running expensese come to $15 per week as a maximum. We couldn't take our trip in any more delightful way."

The first landing will be at Paris. The next will be at Perpignan in the Pyrenees, and then at Barcelona. From Spain the little Moth will wing its way to the East, crossing the deserts on its way to India. The first stage of the flight is to end at Shanghai some time in late Winter.

Both Are Experienced Pilots.

The plane will then be stowed away on a liner and the two passengers will take ship across the Pacific to San Francisco, where they plan to arrive in February or March. Then they are to fly south through California and across the southern transcontinental route by short stages, dropping down into New York some time eary in the Spring.

Both the Vicomte and his wife are pilots who know the ins and out of airplanes and engines. The Vicomte was a flying instructor in the French army during the war, training many young Americans who came to the aid of France in the very first days of the struggle, before even the Lafayette Escadrille was organized.

He was shot in aerial combat over the lines in France, but recovered after a long illness. Last year he taught his wife to fly and now she is as enthusiastic a pilot as her husband.

"We are not going to fly in bad weather," the Vicomte explained. "We won't make long distance hops, either. This flight of ours is purely for our pleasure and so we aren't in any hurry.

"One of the beauties of flying is that if you see an interesting castle or tower on the horizon, even if it is twenty or thirty miles away, you can go over and have a look at it. If you are flying over the seashore you can fly low and watch people bathing. That is the kind of thing we propose doing. It doesn't matter if it takes us off our course. We will find it right away again."

Will Hunt Big Game in India.

The Vicomte has often flown without maps, relying chiefly on a compass and on his knowledge of geography to keep him on the right route. His plane is so light and small that if he is ever lost he can land and simply ask his way.

Once in Germany last Spring he and his wife lost their way while flying to Munster, but they got out of the difficulty by landing and asking a peasant which way to go.

"He seemed a little surprised to see us in his field but told us which roads and railway tracks to follow," the Vicomte said. "It wasn't any trouble to find the way then."

As to the safety of the trip, the Vicomte and Vicomtesse are not worrying the slightest as they set out on their adventure. They have chosen a light De Havilland Moth plane and they have the utmost confidence in it. They have sent tropical clothing and rifles on to Cairo, Bombay and Penang for use on those stages of the flight.

The Vicomtesse will wear sport costumes with trousers, as she considers a skirt of "no use" in a plane.

The fliers will stay in India several weeks hunting big game in the jungle, a sport that the Vicomte and Vicomtesse learned on an African expedition several years ago.

As to the flying itself, the Vicomte is convinced that it is safer than driving an automobile on a busy road. From his experience during the war he believes that most accidents are the pilot's fault, not the plane's. He often takes his six-year-old son, Jean Jacques, along in his plane, until now the child, his father says, "adores" flying.

Canada Ends Ban on Schiller For Rescue Flight With Food

OTTAWA, Sept. 13 (AP).—The suspension of C. A. (Duke) Schiller's pilot license has been lifted by the Department of National Defense to enable him to fly with food to Hudson Bay prospectors.

The suspension was raised at the request of an aerial prospecting and transporting company of Toronto and Sioux Lookout, Ontario, which said Schiller was needed to take food to its field forces, now in danger unless relief were rushed to them.

Schiller's license was suspended for six months after an accident at St. Hubert, Quebec, and another month was added when he flew after the suspension had been ordered.

Schiller was the aviator who landed at Greeneley Island to relieve the Bremen fliers.

TO JOIN BYRD EXPEDITION.

Staff Sergeant Roth Is Chosen by the Army Air Corps.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 13.—Staff Sergeant Benjamin Roth of the Sixty-first Service Squadron, stationed at Mitchel Field, L. I., was designated by the Army Air Corps today to accompany the Byrd expedition to the Antarctic.

This was done at the request of Commander Richard E. Byrd for the services of an experienced airplane mechanic from the army, so that the expedition might be "a truly representative group." A fourth plane was recently added to the aviation equipment of the expedition and another skilled mechanic, it was pointed out, was needed to cope with the unusual conditions expected to be encountered in the Antarctic.

Sergeant Roth is a resident of Brooklyn and enlisted in the Army Air Corps on Nov. 30, 1921. He served through various non-commissioned grades and was appointed staff sergeant in September, 1924. He served two years in the Philippines and recently received an intensive course of instruction in air-cooled engines at the Wright aircraft factory. He will report to headquarters of the expedition in New York City Saturday.

Airplane Debris Not Amundsen's.

TROMSOE, Norway, Sept. 13 (AP).—Two pieces of airplane wreckage, which at first were thought to be relics of the Latham seaplane in which Roald Amundsen and five companions were lost, were found today south of this port. An examination by experts proved, however, that instead of being from the Amundsen plane, the wreckage was from a German machine.

E. B. KELLY DRUGGED AT ASHEVILLE, N. C.

Husband of S. R. Rosoff's Adopted Daughter Had Been Missing Since Tuesday.

Police Back Clues as to Apparent Attack and Robbery—His Condition Reported Serious.

Special to The New York Times.

ASHEVILLE, N. C., Sept. 13.—In a critical condition from an overdose of drugs believed to have been administered by some one who robbed him of several hundred dollars in cash and jewelry valued at $2,000, Edward B. Kelly, son-in-law of Samuel R. Rosoff, a New York contractor, was found at 10 o'clock tonight near the Southern Railway Station here by a taxi driver, who said he recognized the man from a photograph published in local newspapers today.

Mr. Kelly was dazed when found and a few minutes later lapsed into unconsciousness. Physicians summoned announced that his condition was serious. Restoratives were applied, but he had not regained consciousness at midnight.

Police said Mr. Kelly evidently had been robbed, as jewelry and cash which he was known to have had with him was missing. His clothing muddy and torn and his shoes almost in strings, Mr. Kelly apparently had walked many miles since he disappeared Tuesday morning.

Mr. Kelly was carried directly to his home in Forest Hill, an Asheville suburb, after being identified by an officer who was called by the taxi driver at the station. Officers said Mr. Kelly bore no visible marks of having been beaten.

Wife Feared Foul Play.

Fearing that her husband had met foul play, Mrs. Kelly, adopted daughter of Samuel R. Rosoff, had sought the aid of the police and the Sheriff of Buncombe County.

Mr. Kelly and his wife planned to return to New York in two weeks and when the former left home Tuesday morning it was with the announced intention of visiting a broker's office here to attend to business matters. He carried considerable money, his wife told the police, and also had a platinum watch, a number of diamonds and other jewelry on his person when he vanished.

Taking up the trail at the Kelly home, the police learned that he went to the offices of Clyde H. Smith, an Asheville insurance broker. Mr. Smith was out, so Mr. Kelly left his card and walked through the business district of the city to the Central Bank and Trust Company, where he cashed a check for $250, with which to buy two tickets for New York.

Mr. Kelly walked out of the bank after placing the $250 in bills in his pocket, and from that moment his movements cannot be traced. So far as the police can learn, Mr. Kelly met no one outside the bank. No one who knew him has been found who remembers having seen him on the street after he left the bank.

His Description Broadcast.

A description of Edward B. Kelly, whose disappearance had been reported from Asheville, N. C., was broadcast last night from WNYC, the Municipal Radio Station, by the Missing Persons Bureau of the New York Police Department.

This was done at the request of Samuel R. Rosoff, head of the Rosoff Subway Construction Company of 461 Eighth Avenue, Mr. Kelly's father-in-law, who has put into service his resources and influence to find the young man.

RAGING HURRICANE RAVAGES SAN JUAN

havoc in San Juan has had results over the continent. Eight persons, and possibly more, were killed and scores were injured in a tornado which swept a narrow path through the northeastern section of Nebraska yesterday, leaving death and destruction in its wake.

Other points in Nebraska, The Associated Press relates, suffered severely from the tornado, and though no other deaths had been reported late last night, many persons are known to have been injured and the property damage is known to have reached many thousands of dollars.

In the East the heaviest damage is reported from Keene, N. H., where an electrical storm broke in the early evening and within a few minutes attained tornado velocity.

In New York the electrical storm broke between 5 and 6 o'clock in the afternoon as the millions of workers were homeward bound. Heavy thunder claps, accompanied by vivid flashes of lightning with overcast skies, were heard in every section of the city.

The rainfall here was slight, only .22 of an inch being registered, but it cooled the air and turned what had been a particularly oppressive day into a comfortable evening.

Lightning struck the twenty-six-story building at 80 John Street and dislodged some bricks on the sill of a window on the twenty-fourth floor about 7:30 last night. The building is in the centre of the insurance district, and few pedestrians were on the street at the time. The damage was slight and no one was injured.

In Bayonne, N. J., lightning struck electric wires near the First Street Amusement Park and set fire to five one-story frame buildings occupied by concessionaires. The buildings were badly damaged, the loss being estimated at about $20,000.

Fears Fell for Steamers.

Grave fears for the safety of vessels in the path of the West Indies hurricane were expressed by shipping men last night. The Government warning sent out by the local Weather Bureau yesterday said:

"Advisory storm warning: hurricane central about 17 degrees north and 65 degrees west, moving northwestward. This is a dangerous storm. Great caution should be exercised. Advise vessels in its path."

An early message received at the office of the French Cable Company a little before noon said that Porto Rico was in the grip of an eighty-mile an-hour cyclone. All commercial and banking houses on the island were closed.

The New York and Porto Rico Steamship Company received reports on the hurricane, but had no definite news of the extent of the damage.

Grave fears that the hurricane would extend to Havana and other places in Cuba were expressed by Dr. Carlos Millas of the Cuban National Observatory, The Associated Press reported last night.

Weather Bureau's Report.

The Weather Bureau's report yesterday on conditions during the preceding twenty-four hours was:

"The tropical hurricane moving west-northwestward entered the Eastern Caribbean Wednesday afternoon. The storm is directed toward Haiti.

"The area of storm activity that has prevailed from Missouri northeastward across the Upper Lake Region since the beginning of the week resulted in additional rains during the last twenty-four hours. Since yesterday afternoon a series of thunderstorms developed eastward across Missouri, Illinois and Indiana.

"Storm activity has also developed over the Central Rocky Mountains and slope, lowest barometer 29.60 at Rapid City and North Platte, and a pronounced area of high pressure has settled over the plateau region (Boise) 30.30.

"The temperature has risen generally over the eastern half of the country, except for a pronounced change to cooler in the western Lake Region. Along and off the coast north of Hatteras the winds are moderate southwest with overcast skies and passing showers. South of Hatteras light variable winds and clear skies prevail."

Eight Killed in Nebraska.

DAKOTA CITY, Neb., Sept. 13 (AP).—Eight persons, and perhaps more, were killed, scores were injured, and thousands of dollars' worth of property was ruined by a tornado which swept across Northeastern Nebraska late today.

The known dead are: Andrew Larsen, a school boy, killed when twister hit school near Walthill; Miss Belt, another pupil; Miss Phillis Stuart, a teacher, near Winnebago, the Indian reservation; Miss Helen Graham, a teacher, near Homer; Raymond Reem, at Winnebago; an unidentified farmer; a son of Ralph Norris, at Winnebago, and the 3-months-old daughter of D. Kunsize, a farmer, near Winnebago.

Nebraska villages reported in the path of the storm were Dakota City, Pender, Fordyce, Winnebago, Homer, Bancroft and Walthill.

Destruction of telegraph and telephone lines and of roads has made an accurate check of conditions difficult.

Three Killed in South Dakota.

YANKTON, S. D., Sept. 13 (AP).—Three persons were killed and several were injured late today when a tornado swept through an area about twelve miles long and one mile wide in the north central portion of Yankton County.

The dead are James Foley, 56 years old, of Yankton; Oscar Haugen, 36, a farmer, and Mildred Sylliaasen, 11.

Several hundred head of livestock were killed and many buildings were wrecked.

Western Areas Laid Waste.

Special to The New York Times.

SIOUX CITY, Iowa, Sept. 13.—A series of cyclones late this afternoon laid waste widely separated sections of Northeast Nebraska, Northwest Iowa and Southeast South Dakota.

Walthill, East Winnebago and Homer, Neb., were struck by one twister. Near Walthill two school children are known to have been killed. Damage to property in these towns and in the surrounding country is said to be appalling, but no definite news has come out of the towns, as all wire communications are down. Doctors and nurses have been sent from Sioux City.

At Fordyce, Neb., another storm wrecked many buildings and seriously injured three men, the depot agent being one of them. The same storm at Newcastle, Neb., did little damage to buildings except that done by hail.

This storm is believed to have crossed the Missouri River into South Dakota, striking the town of Davis, seventy-five miles northwest of Sioux City.

At Davis one woman, Mrs. John Kramer, was killed. Other persons are believed dead in the wreckage of buildings, while scores are thought to have been injured. It is said that the storm swept a path 500 feet wide through the business section of the town.

All doctors from the territory surrounding Davis have been called and are hurrying to the stricken city.

The town of Ireton, Iowa, fifty miles north of Sioux City, is believed to have been struck by the same storm that hit Davis. At Ireton the opera house and hotel and numerous other buildings were unroofed, but no loss of life is reported.

Terror in New Hampshire.

KEENE, N. H., Sept. 13 (AP).—A terrific wind, arising during the height of an electric storm late this afternoon, swept the town of Rindge, twenty-two miles east of here, causing heavy property damage and terrifying the population. No deaths or injuries were reported.

The wind, which was of tornado velocity, swept an area about four miles in length and half a mile wide. It uprooted trees, felled chimneys, swept shingles from roofs and caused houses to sway on their foundations.

Telephone and telegraph poles were felled and communication was almost entirely disrupted.

SMITH FORCES SEEK NEW YORK CITY MAN

feeling, although pains were taken to impress that it was not hard-fixed, that the candidate should be a Protestant.

The opinion was heard that in case a person of Jewish descent should be selected Colonel Herbert H. Lehman, New York City banker, Democratic National Director of Finance and manager of one of Governor Smith's State campaigns, should have preference.

Believe Smith Will Decide.

Whether any definite decision on a particular candidate was made remained unknown, but it was the prevailing belief that the discussion narrowed the field to a few candidates and final word was left to the Governor. Factors, such as the Republican slate which is still to be chosen and the availability of potential Democratic candidates, would influence the ultimate selection, it was said.

One definite agreement reached by the leaders was that the Governor should be fully supported in an effort to effect non-partisan judiciary elections, although grave doubt was expressed that any working basis could be arranged with the Republicans.

To the assembled party chiefs the Governor made known that he had already made overtures to the Republicans on this subject through Joseph A. McGinnies, Speaker of the Assembly, who, he was confident, had already brought the matter to the attention of H. Edmund Machold, Republican State Chairman. As yet there had been not the slightest indication of a reply, he stated.

A few hours earlier the Governor had announced to interviewers his determination to support a non-partisan judiciary.

"I believe in lifting all judicial fights out of the campaign altogether," he stated. "I don't know how the others feel about it, but I am committed to non-partisan judicial elections. What we want on the bench are men fit, able and competent."

Another subject discussed at tonight's conference was the organization for the State campaign. Optimistic pictures of conditions in certain sections were given, but it was admitted that renewed activity was required in some up-State regions. Mr. Bray told of plans for the meeting tomorrow in Utica of County Chairmen and State committeemen from outside New York City and promised an intensive campaign.

Besides Mr. Bray and the Governor those present included Mrs. Caroline O'Day of Rye, State Vice Chairman; James A. Farley of Rockland, Secretary; John W. Henry of Buffalo; Norman E. Mack of Buffalo, National Committeeman; Harlan W. Rippey of Rochester, William P. Kelley of Syracuse, Joseph J. Murphy of Troy, Representative Parker Corning of Albany, Edward J. Flynn of the Bronx, George W. Olvany, Tammany Chief; John H. McCooey of Brooklyn, David Lee of Binghamton and Benjamin W. Moore of Westchester.

At the end of the conference Mr. Bray announced that William H. Kelley, Syracuse leader, had been appointed a committee of one to negotiate with the Republicans on judiciary endorsements. He was authorized to offer Democratic endorsement for a Republican candidate for Court of Appeals and for Sanford Smith, Republican appointee of the Governor as a Supreme Court Justice in the Third Judicial District, in return for Republican endorsement of the three up-State Democratic Supreme Court Justices who will be up for election.

Maintaining silence on the State ticket, Mr. Bray said of possible Gubernatorial nominees that "no one was out in front. The Governor has indicated no preference and neither have we. Nothing is settled."

It was the prediction of the gathering, he said, that Governor Smith and the State candidates would carry the State but their victory would require "much work and organization" in the weeks remaining before election day.

It was learned that candidates for every State office had been discussed.

"There has been a lot of discussion, some eliminations, but no decisions," one leader said.

The Governor commented caustically on an account of the latest word from Clarence A. Barnes, candidate for the Republican nomination for Attorney General in Massachusetts, who was reported to have said that he would save for a speech in Boston on Saturday the naming of the Albany baseball pool headquarters and those connected with it.

"That confirms what I thought," the Governor said, referring to the fact that Mr. Barnes was not coming to him with the evidence. He isn't so interested in the railroad and textile workers. He's talking politics."

Gift Suspenders for Governor.

In the midst of his interview today the Governor pulled from a drawer of his desk, along with a box of cigars, a package he did not recognize. He opened it and four pair of gift suspenders dropped upon his desk. One was in black and white with gold chains at the ends of the straps.

"Judging from their formidable character, there is one thing I won't lose on the campaign trip," he said. "I had my picture taken with some other men watching the animals in my zoo the other day. It was hot and we had our coats off, but they wore belts. Three or four days later these came with the note: 'See you wear suspenders. Use the enclosed. They are latest and best make.' So if you want a pair of suspenders, get your picture taken with your coat off."

DR. WORK CONFIDENT IN CONFERENCE HERE

Reiterates That Hoover Will Carry State and Win by Vote as Big as Coolidge's in 1924.

CALLS MAINE AN 'OMEN'

He Expresses Doubt of Democratic Gain in Philadelphia—Talks With Leaders and Goes to Capital.

Dr. Hubert Work, Chairman of the Republican National Committee, arrived yesterday from Washington and reiterated his prediction of an earlier visit that Herbert Hoover would receive as many electoral votes as President Coolidge did in 1924 and that he would carry New York State against Governor Smith.

Dr. Work conferred with most of the party leaders here, including National Committeeman Charles D. Hilles, State Chairman H. Edmund Machold, William H. Hill, Chairman of the Hoover-Curtis Campaign Committee; Daniel E. Pomeroy of New Jersey, Vice Chairman of the National Committee; Jeremiah Milbank, Eastern Campaign Treasurer, and Representative John Q. Tilson of Connecticut, director of the Eastern Speakers' Bureau. Dr. Work expressed satisfaction with the conduct of the Hoover campaign in New York and the rest of the East and returned to Washington on an evening train.

Dr. Work conceded that Governor Smith "might" get as many electoral votes as John W. Davis did in 1924. "He ought to, with the efforts they are putting forth," he added.

Work's View of Maine Election.

Dr. Work expressed satisfaction with the 79,000 Republican majority in the Maine State election last Monday and characterized it as an "omen" of the November result. "The result in Maine indicated that a considerable percentage of Democrats voted for the Republican candidates and that a considerable percentage didn't vote," he said. "The principal value of the Maine election is that it expressed a sentiment that is prevalent all over the country."

When informed that John J. Raskob, Democratic National Chairman, had said that the Maine vote was not significant and that the Democratic National Committee had not thought the contest of sufficient importance to make a real campaign there, Dr. Work smiled and said:

"Well, it was an open field. I am wondering why Chairman Raskob did not make a campaign there."

Further discussing the inferences that might be made from the Maine result, Dr. Work said:

"It does not seem probable that the country, prosperous as it is, will vote to change the administration of government and replace the Administration employes, perhaps aggregating 50,000, with entirely new human machinery. Such a change would disturb economic conditions before the new Administration could prove its efficiency. The vote in Maine on Monday indicates that the voters are determined to continue the Republicans in control."

The opinion of Dr. Work on the so-called "whispering campaign" was asked, with particular reference to the Governor's making public a denial by State Senator George R. Fearon, a Republican, of a charge, said to have been made by a woman, that the Governor was intoxicated at the State Fair.

Dr. Work replied that his statement of last Sunday denouncing the attacks on the Governor fully covered that point, but added:

"Why is it necessary for a man's friends to deny that he was intoxicated?"

The Republican National Chairman said that similar tactics had been used against Mr. Hoover.

"There was a whispering campaign for a year or more against Mr. Hoover prior to the holding of the Kansas City convention," he added, "but it didn't seem to be very effective."

Sees Victory as Big as 1924's.

Dr. Work said reports he had received indicated that the popular vote for Hoover and Curtis would equal that for the Republican national ticket four years ago. His attention then was called to a newspaper statement that the Democrats were gaining in the registration in Philadelphia because of the investigation of the so-called liquor ring there.

"That's pure conjecture," he said. "The last Philadelphia registration figures I looked at showed 215,000 Republicans and 34,000 Democrats. So far as I am able to judge, the registration all over the country shows a very large increase over previous Presidential years, and there is a notable increase in the registration of women voters. In many localities, more women than men have registered."

Referring to the routine work of the Hoover campaign, Dr. Work said:

"The campaign now under way is a campaign of education. It costs about $3,000,000 to send a letter to every voter in the United States. If you include 'literature' in the letters it will run to about $5,000,000. The money we are spending goes almost entirely in that way, sending out pamphlets and literature for educational purposes."

Senator George H. Moses, Vice Chairman of the Advisory Committee of the Republican National Committee, who has had frequent differences with Dr. Work, was not in the city during Dr. Work's visit, although he had been expected to return during the day from his home at Concord, N. H. At Senator Moses's suite at the Waldorf it was said that he had gone to Washington, but would be here today. According to some of the local Republican leaders, Senator Moses, who was slated originally for Eastern campaign manager, will make his headquarters in Washington instead of in New York during the rest of the campaign.

State Chairman Machold had a conference with the New York City county leaders to arrange plans for getting out the registration and vote and fixing dates for important meetings. Those present included Samuel S. Koenig of Manhattan, Albert D. Bunner of the Bronx, Jacob A. Livingston of Brooklyn, Joseph H. De Bragga of Queens and Clinton J. Sharrett of Richmond.

SAYS UPSHAW'S UPSET SHOWS SOUTH IS SMITH'S

Senator Harrison Terms the Defeat of Georgian in Congress Race a Real Test.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 13.—The defeat in Georgia of former Representative William D. Upshaw by Representative Leslie J. Steel for the nomination for Congress in the Fifth District is viewed by Senator Harrison of Mississippi as a real test of the anti-Smith sentiment in the South. Mr. Upshaw has been a bitter opponent of Governor Smith and while a member of the House worked closely with the Anti-Saloon League.

Senator Harrison characterized the fight for Mr. Upshaw as the "strongest" that the opposition to Governor Smith would have made and drew a contrast between the Georgia and Maine results.

"I am curious to know what the Republican Committee that has been saying so much about the election in Maine is saying today about the election yesterday in Atlanta," Senator Harrison asserted.

"Every one ought to know that the National Democratic Committee made no fight in Maine, while the Republican National Committee sent practically every speaker of prominence into that State and poured money into it.

"Maine is a good deal like Mississippi. Republican majorities in Maine are a good deal like Democratic majorities in Mississippi. We can give Democratic majorities in Mississippi of 40,000, as formerly, or 200,000. It just depends on the efforts of the organization to get the vote out. The Republican vote in Maine is so large that Republican majorities depend largely upon the efforts of the Republican organization in that State.

"No one will be deceived by the Maine returns. But in Atlanta, Ga., the Republicans have been laying great claims to carrying that district through the nomination of William D. Upshaw, who bolted the Democratic ticket and was making a strong appeal.

"He received every assistance from those who were opposing Democratic leadership in that district. Democratic opposition chose their strongest men, selected the most strategic point and made their strongest fight. They suffered, yesterday, a most overwhelming defeat. It portends a sweeping Democratic victory in the South in November."

Special to The New York Times.

ATLANTA, Ga., Sept. 13.—Almost swamped in Wednesday's primary when he was defeated in his race for the nomination for Congress by Representative Leslie Steele by a vote of 14,270 to 9,333, William D. Upshaw, former Congressman, tonight blamed the result on Tammany Hall.

He charged that after it was "freely admitted" that he would carry Fulton, DeKalb and Douglas by large majorities leaders were "fixed" in each district "through Tammany manipulation."

The Upshaw-Steele contest was the only one in the primary in which the strength of the Hoover Democrats could be tested, and supporters of Governor Smith see in the outcome an assurance of Democratic victory in November.

REED SAYS HOOVER FIXED GRAIN PRICES

Charges Nominee Rigged War Market Against Farmer in Favor of Britain.

DENIES WILSON DID IT

Predicts Missouri Will Go for Smith—Starts Speaking Tour in Kansas Next Week.

Herbert Hoover used his power with the Wilson Administration to rig the grain market in this country against the American farmer and in favor of Great Britain and France, according to Senator James A. Reed of Missouri, erstwhile aspirant for the Democratic nomination for President, who will take the warpath in the Corn Belt against the Republican nominee and in aid of his successful rival, Governor Smith.

Senator Reed, who conferred with the leaders at Democratic national headquarters yesterday relating to his forthcoming speaking tour, turned his guns on Mr. Hoover before reporters who questioned him regarding the outlook for Governor Smith and the effect upon the campaign of the unrest among the farmers in the agrarian belt.

Farmer Suffered, He Says.

"I think that it is true," he said, "that the farmer of the United States—I am speaking of that great territory that lies west of the Mississippi River and some States in the East—realizes today the fact that during the war when everybody else—almost everybody else—was making money at war prices, Mr. Hoover closed the market on him and compelled him to sell at prices that Mr. Hoover set and then gave the benefit of that price to Great Britain. As a result the farmer came out of the war without the amount of money that he would otherwise have had at the bank. Subsequently he was confronted with the proposition that he had to sell his surplus on the broken markets of the world.

"It has not generally been known that Mr. Hoover advocated and helped to create a single purchasing agency for the Allies before we entered the war, the object being to forestall the market by holding all of the Allies out of the market until the price would be broken. That he did, and that I can prove from his own sworn testimony before a committee of the Senate. He then advocated that Congress should fix the price and that there should be an American organization to constitute a single selling agency, and that the single American selling agency would articulate itself with the single buying agency in Europe, and thus create an absolutely fixed price. But Congress did not give him that authority.

"He used the power to issue and revoke licenses, to compel all the domestic grain dealers to pay a single price, organized the Export Grain Corporation, which fixed the same price, and the Export Grain Corporation, which was dominant, then contracted with the foreign purchasing agency to deliver to it American grain at the price he had fixed. All that is a matter of record he cannot escape from.

"In other words, he came over here for Great Britain, having previously been the consulting agency of Great Britain in the matter of controlling prices, and having gained the control of our market through the power to license, he fixed the price and he did give the benefit of that price to Great Britain and to France.

Denies Wilson Fixed Price.

"Here is his excuse, his alibi, if you please—that Wilson fixed the price. Wilson never did anything of the kind. Wilson called a commission to recommend to Congress a price which Congress would guarantee. They would guarantee the farmer he would get at least so much and so much, and they recommended $2.20 for the highest grade of wheat delivered at Chicago, with a diminution for hauls and qualities of grain.

"That had no force, bound nobody, was a mere recommendation to Congress which Congress did not accept, and Mr. Hoover got the power to license the grain dealers, and said to them: 'I can take your licenses away from you any minute. You pay $2.20 and if you pay more I will take away your license.' He said the same thing to the miller and he organized this export company.

"So he fixed the price of American farm products for the benefit of Great Britain, the country in which he had lived for twenty-three years, and fixed it against the country which he had remained out of for twenty-three years and in which he had never cast a vote. That is all a record of fact, and I think our farmers are beginning to understand that. If any of them can be fooled, I don't know."

Senator Reed, who expects to open his campaign in Kansas next week, said the situation in his own State was clearing and that he believed Smith would carry Missouri.

DR. WORK DEFENDS HOOVER WAR RECORD

Declares Robinson Misstates Facts in Letters by Former Food Administrator.

Dr. Hubert Work, Chairman of the Republican National Committee, issued last night before returning to Washington a statement charging Senator Joseph T. Robinson, Democratic nominee for Vice-President, with having distorted correspondence of Mr. Hoover to make it appear that the Republican nominee for President desired to reduce the prices of farm products while he was Food Administrator during the World War. The statement follows:

"Senator Robinson, in his acceptance address and again in his speech at Charlotte, N. C., last night, quoted single sentences from correspondence of Mr. Hoover over the past ten years, deliberately removing them from the context and distorting their entire meaning.

"Particularly in the Charlotte address published this morning, the Democratic Vice Presidential candidate quotes part of the memorandum written during the armistice, purporting to show a desire on Mr. Hoover's part to reduce prices of farm products, when as a matter of fact the entire correspondence was a protest from Mr. Hoover against attempts of George Peek and the Democratic Cabinet in Washington to reduce prices at the very time when Mr. Hoover was making his single-handed fight in Europe to market the American agricultural surplus and sustain prices.

"If Senator Robinson will publish the entire correspondence, it will show that he is flagrantly misleading his hearers. The same tactics are being used by other Democratic speakers, such as T. F. Reed of Minnesota, for example.

"What we want is an honest presentation of the issues and the records of the candidate, not a perversion of facts or subterfuges intended to mislead.

"Whispering campaigns on the part of irresponsible individuals are evils from which both sides always suffer in political campaigns. They are bad enough, but the wilful distortion of facts by leading men in authority is an unpardonable sin. It is unfair and unworthy of a campaign of national scope."

CITES HOOVER'S FAITH IN COMPARING SMITH'S

Senator Caraway, Deploring Attacks on Governor, Says Rival's Creed Should Be No Bar.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Sept. 13.—Senator Caraway, addressing the Democratic State Convention here today, denounced what he termed the Republican failure to effect farm relief and prohibition enforcement.

Declaring his resentment over attacks on Governor Smith because of his religious faith, Senator Caraway said:

"In the whirligig of time, if this creed be prescribed, another force may come into power and prescribe your child, and his creed, and make him deny your faith or else suffer likewise, but as much as I decry the effort to drag into political discussion the sacred things of one's belief and hope of heaven, if the creed of the Governor of New York is to be a test, it seems to me not to be an impropriety to inquire as to the teachings of that church in which Mr. Hoover worships.

"When the last great war came and the selective draft act was written, it asked and obtained permission to have exempted from military duty its members, because they were conscientious objectors. I do not urge this as a reason that Mr. Hoover should be denied his ambition, but at least, when he declared for an adequate navy and army, he might candidly have said that he expected your sons to man the navy and fill up the ranks of the army.

"It does seem to me that membership in that church, who supplied signers to the Declaration of Independence, whose members left the imprint of their bare feet on the frozen ground at Valley Forge, and furnished its fair proportion of all of the men who laid down their lives on every battlefield where American honor was at stake, is not less worthy of confidence than one who adhered to a church whose members were quick to accept all of the blessings incident to citizenship in this free republic of ours, but declined to assume any of the burdens incurred by the founders and the dangers of preserving it."

PARTY DRYS FORM ANTI-SMITH BOARD

17 States Are Represented as Committee of Democrats Organizes at Memphis.

GOVERNOR CALLED BOLTER

Defeat Is Urged as a Rebuke to Tammany Hall—Raskob Termed 'Wet Republican.'

Special to The New York Times.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Sept. 13.—An organization of anti-Smith Democrats, with plans to conduct a nation-wide campaign against the election of the New York Governor, was formed in Memphis at a closed meeting today. Party insurgents from seventeen States were present.

The organization will be known as the National Constitutional Democratic Committee, according to a statement issued after the session at Hotel Chisca.

N. D. Lightfoot of Springfield, Mo., was selected as temporary chairman, and R. Hugh Jarvis of Morgantown, W. Va., secretary, of the meeting.

George Fort Milton, publisher of The Chattanooga News, and an ardent Democrat in previous campaigns, acted as spokesman for the self-styled "dry Democrats."

"It is the purpose of this organization," he told reporters, "to coordinate the activities of dry Southern Democrats and plan for co-operation of our forces throughout the nation.

"We are not bolters of the party. We feel that Governor Smith is the bolter—having defied the platform he made for the party in the Houston convention.

"We believe in the principles of the Democratic Party, and it is primarily because of our devotion to them that we are determined to do all in our power to take the party out of the hands of Tammany Hall.

"We believe that Governor Smith's defeat by an outstanding majority will serve to rebuke the unauthorized attempt he has made to make ours a wet party, and will contribute significantly to the rededication of the party of Andrew Jackson to battle for the preservation of the Constitution and the maintenance of the integrity of Federal laws.

"His personal selection of John J. Raskob, wet Republican, who became a temporary Democrat to aid Governor Smith in ridding the country of the 'damnable affliction of prohibition' is indicative of Governor Smith's contempt for the party as a whole."

HOOVERS WILL STAY AT EDISON'S HOME

Candidate and Wife Will Go to Llewellyn Park After Meeting at Newark Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas A. Edison will entertain Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Hoover after the Republican candidate for President speaks in Newark on Monday night. The inventor will take the Hoovers to his Llewellyn Park home immediately after the meeting in Sussex Avenue Armory.

Many acceptances of invitations to serve on the Hoover Reception Committee reached former Senator Joseph S. Frelinghuysen, Chairman of the committee, yesterday. These include:

Senator Walter E. Edge, Edward D. Duffield, President of the Prudential Insurance Company; J. P. Dorrance, President of the Campell Soup Company of Camden; Henry W. Leeds, Sidney M. Colgate, Russell Colgate, John M. Thomas, President of Rutgers; Percival Christie and John R. Todd.

The rift in Republican ranks in New Jersey, caused by accusations that Republican office seekers connived with Democrats for votes in the primaries in Hudson County last June, has closed, according to an exchange of correspondence made public yesterday. The correspondence was between Mr. Frelinghuysen and Morgan F. Larson, the successful Republican primary candidate for Governor.

In his letter Mr. Larson assured the former Senator that he had no share in the alleged plot to turn Democratic votes to him so that he would carry Hudson County. Not being responsible for the unhappy impression, Mr. Larson argued, it would be too bad if the impression militated against him.

He informed Mr. Frelinghuysen that, as a candidate, he favored several of Mr. Frelinghuysen's political policies. These included a recommendation for scientific State-wide study of taxes with a view to lowering them, the appointment of a non-partisan commission to learn the cause of increased governmental costs in the State, and the necessity to choose men of "character and fitness" in his appointments as Governor.

He promised the former Senator to "seek the advice and counsel of all the prominent leaders" in the party in making appointments and promised to shun the Democratic machine in making recommendation.

Mr. Frelinghuysen assured the candidate in reply that he would support him unqualifiedly and would call upon his friends in the Republican Party to do likewise.

after his nomination that, in my judgment, New York was as certain for him as was his own State of California," Mr. Snyder said, "and that impression is stronger with me now than it was then."

Hoover and Kellogg Confer.

Secretary Kellogg conferred with Mr. Hoover today, but would not reveal the nature of their conversation. Mr. Kellogg disclaimed, however, that he talked about the anti-war treaty, which Mr. Hoover has heralded as a prime achievement of the Coolige régime, but which the Secretary of State has said certainly should not be forced as a political issue.

For the first time in weeks, Mr. Hoover and Senator Curtis will participate in a joint meeting tomorrow morning. Mr. Hoover will see representatives of the press at 11 A. M. and Senator Curtis, who starts for Lexington, Ky., tomorrow, will be present to answer questions by the newspaper men.

Calling upon President Coolidge at the White House today, Senator Curtis reported on the Republican campaign in Massachusetts and other States. He said that Massachusetts and Rhode Island would be enrolled in the Republican column in November.

"My observations in New England convince me that the tariff issue is still paramount there," he said. "The people of that area recall only too well what happened to them under the Underwood Tariff act of 1913 and they do not want to take a chance on a repetition of it. I believe that it is on the tariff issue that the Republicans will carry the New England States. The principle of the protective tariff appeals in New England, as elsewhere, to manufacturers, working men and women and the farmers."

David B. Robertson of Cleveland, President of the Brotherhood of Railway Firemen and Enginemen and Chairman of the Railway Labor Executives' Association, conferred with Mr. Hoover this afternoon.

"I hope that some one during this campaign will dispel the fallacious idea that the wet stand of the Democratic candidate for President has an appeal for laboring men," Mr. Robertson said after his call.

"It is annoying to be confronted with Democratic claims that they expect to carry such and such a State with the support of labor, accompanied by the inference that their candidate's demand for modification will win that support.

"They may as well understand that the support of the railway brotherhoods cannot be bought with liquor. Our organization has as one of its mottoes, 'Sobriety, Charity and Industry.' The railroad worker who drinks to excess loses not only his job but his membership in the union as well. Why, then, should any of them support a Presidential candidate on the illusory 'wet issue?'"

Mr. Robertson announced his support of Mr. Hoover for President and pledged himself to work actively for his election. He said today that most of the brotherhood men with whom he had talked were actively supporting Hoover and Curtis in Pennsylvania as well as Ohio.

Vermonters Call on Nominee.

Headed by Attorney General John G. Sargent, a group of native Vermonters called on Mr. Hoover today to assure him their State would be "loyal" to the Republican ticket this year. The visitors included Earl S. Hinsley of the Republican National Committee, assistant to Chairman Hubert Work; Leonard F. Wing of Rutland, Vt., Republican State chairman; Assistant Secretary of Labor W. W. Husband, and John Thayer Cushing, publisher of The Washington Times.

"Vermont will be in the Republican column as usual, but by an increased majority," Chairman Wing predicted. "I have never seen as much interest manifested as in this election. The Democrats are trying to make some headway with their candidate, but are having no success."

Mr. Wing expressed the conviction that Hoover and Curtis would carry New York State as a result of what he described as the almost unanimous sentiment for the Republican ticket in the Northeastern section, which lies close to Vermont. Sentiment there is just as strongly pro-Hoover as in Vermont, he said.

Mr. Sargent predicted that the party ticket would be elected. Herbert Hoover, he said, is the "right man for the right place."

Salesmen Form Hoover League.

Forty sales executives met today at Republican national headquarters after a conference with Mr. Hoover and organized the Hoover-Curtis Salesmen's Prosperity League, elected officers and arranged to open headquarters in the Transportation Building in this city.

The organizers announced that they would promote a nation-wide campaign to "line up the 912,000 traveling salesmen of the country," and through them "reach the millions more in the profession who are engaged in the retail end of selling." Headquarters also will be established in New York City and Chicago.

E. St. Elmo Lewis of Detroit, who was elected Chairman of the league, said:

"Mr. Hoover's many conferences with leaders from every branch of business, his constantly revealed policy of Government cooperation with business without regulation, his undying endeavors to develop new markets at home and abroad for American products, his adherence to the time-honored and time-proved policy of adequate tariff protection for American business enterprise and maintenance of high labor standards, have contributed in no small measure to the present condition of prosperity in this country. For this reason, if for no other, Mr. Hoover deserves the whole-hearted support of the selling profession."

CALLED TO HELP IN FLORIDA.

Senator Fletcher Going to Combat Anti-Smith Sentiment.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 13.—Senator Duncan U. Fletcher of Florida, who, prior to the National Convention supported Senator Walsh for President, left today for his home State to direct the work of a State committee in behalf of Governor Smith.

Senator Fletcher received a telegram Sunday from Jacksonville stating that his presence was desired immediately. He is to be Chairman of a committee of prominent men to combat the Anti-Smith movement in the State.

The recent tour of Florida by the Rev. Dr. John Roach Straton, who made anti-Smith speeches, is understood to have been one cause of the request for Fletcher's presence. Letters have been received by the Senator from supporters in former campaigns who stated that they would vote for Hoover.

Make the Streets Safe for Children

Knickerbocker Icemen are taking a leading part in the drive to make the streets safe for children to play. Long before such a drive was under consideration our men imposed upon themselves the obligation of looking out for the children on their routes.

If all motorists and drivers of trucks would remember that children are thoughtless—that oftentimes they do not hear the warning horn, so intent are they on their play—many serious accidents would be avoided. It is not the children's fault that they are sometimes in the way of traffic. Many of them have no other place to go.

GRAM BACKS SMITH AS BIGOTRY PROTEST

'OUTRAGED BY INTOLERANCE'

Episcopalian Condemns 'Cowardly Attacks,' but Declares They Swing Votes to Governor.

Ralph Adams Cram, architect of the Cathedral of St. John the Divine and one of the most prominent Episcopal laymen in this country, has come out for Governor Smith because of resentment fostered by attacks upon the Governor on account of his religious faith. Mr. Cram made his announcement in a letter to Michael Williams, editor of The Commonweal. Mr. Williams made public yesterday the letter which is to be printed in a forthcoming issue of The Commonweal.

Moreover, it was announced that the Calvert Associates, under whose auspices The Commonweal is being published, are forming a special committee to promote a campaign of publicity in answer to attacks upon Roman Catholics nominated for public office. The letter of Mr. Cram was in answer to a communication asking him to accept membership on this committee.

Text of His Letter.

Mr. Cram's letter follows:

Sept. 10, 1928.

My dear Mr. Williams:

I am very glad to accept membership on the committee that is being organized to counteract the vicious propaganda now operating against Governor Smith on the ground of his religion. I do this, however, chiefly to express my own disgust at the ignorance and superstition now rampant and in order that I may go on record as another of those who, though not Roman Catholics, are nevertheless Americans and are outraged by this recrudescence of blatant bigotry, operating through the most cowardly and contemptible methods.

It is my firm conviction that every word uttered by Heflin, Straton, Dieffenbach et al. works in Mr. Smith's favor, and that instead of trying to suppress these persons and counteract their influence the Democratic Party should further in every way their activities. During the last two generations intelligence and culture have been increasingly submerged by a rising tide of that ignorance, bigotry and otiose superstition that is one of the penalties of our present social system; but I believe these qualities are inherent and congenital; they are not engendered by argument and propaganda and no one not already predisposed toward these opinions is induced to accept them by extraneous means; on the other hand, I know from personal experience that many who would otherwise have voted for Mr. Hoover are so sickened by the present agitation and appalled by its implications, that they will vote for Mr. Smith even though they may be unsympathetic with certain of his views.

As you know, I am absolutely opposed to the Eighteenth Amendment and the Volstead act (emanations from the same source that is responsible for the present vicious assault on Catholicism) and at first I was inclined to hold that this was the major issue in the present campaign.

I no longer believe that this is so and I am persuaded that, apart from any other merits of the case, it is necessary to elect Governor Smith in order to strike at least one blow against the sinister and ominous influence that, cloaking itself under the name of certain forms of Protestant religion, is the most perfectly organized agency in the United States, and the one which most immediately threatens whatever we have left of civil and religious liberty, strikes most deeply at the very roots of constitutional government, and if successful would result in the dominence of illiterate vulgarity and the worst sort of mob-psychology over those qualities of intelligence, rectitude and sound judgment that alone can guarantee the safety and continuance of popular government.

Finds Mass Ignorance Powerful.

During the past forty years, I have had the privilege not only of traveling but of living for considerable periods of time in many Catholic countries, notably in Spain, the most Catholic of all, not even excepting Ireland, Belgium and Mexico. In Spain I found the most democratic society, the greatest liberty of action and the most evangelical religion of all the countries I know. I believe my experience will be endorsed by others who have had the same opportunities. The campaign against Catholicism emanates from those who know little or nothing through personal experience, either of Catholic countries or of Catholics.

They inherit a body of gross superstitions from a long line of equally ill-informed ancestors and these are fortified by partisan "histories" and the irresponsible lucubrations of "reformed" priests and escaped nuns" operating "for revenue only." A very small group of really educated people have, for one reason or another, given their support to this body of invincible ignorance, but they are not sufficient in number to control the vote in one ward of a third-rate city. The working force is the great mass of ignorance, prejudice and illiteracy that weighs down the Republic like a stone and is primarily responsible, because of its inertia on the one hand and its crude mental processes and violent, unintelligent action on the other, for most of the ills we suffer from today both socially and politically.

The greatest danger to the Republic is neither capitalism nor the trades unions; neither party tyranny nor communism; not even materialism nor the license and the wildness of the "younger generation." It is quite simply the threatened and complete control of government and society by the body of ignorance, prejudice and superstition, already so powerful that it has Congress and most of the "practical politicians" in leash, and is itself responsible not only for Constitutional prohibition, and many other coercive and anti-social acts, but also for the latest assault not only on religious liberty, but on the fundamentals of culture, intelligence and honor.

Very truly yours,
RALPH ADAMS CRAM.

THREE MORE SHIFT SUPPORT TO SMITH

Spruille Braden, Mining Man; T. G. Condon, Railroad Builder, and E. W. Gray, Publisher.

Governor Smith has won over another prominent Republican from the world of industry and finance by his stand on the prohibition issue. Spruille Braden, prominently identified with copper mining and promotion of such enterprises, has come out for the Governor in a letter sent to Franklin D. Roosevelt, which was made public yesterday by Chairman John J. Raskob of the Democratic National Committee.

Mr. Braden is the son of William Braden, prominent mining man. He has an office at 111 Broadway. Formerly with the Anaconda Copper Company as general manager he is now associated with his father in mining in this country and in South America and identified with the Andes Exploration Company and the Santiago Mining Company. He is a director in the American Ship and Commerce Corporation, the Chile-American Association and a number of realty corporations.

He gives the following ten reasons for supporting Governor Smith:

"I have steadily become more convinced that prohibition with its accompanying hypocrisy, graft and crime constitutes a grave menace to this country.

"Governor Smith undertakes to lead the people in their fight against this evil.

"Governor Smith's election would tend to relieve enough politicians from their fears of political reprisals of the Anti-Saloon League and like organizations so that the Constitution could be changed and constructive steps be taken to attain real temperance.

"A vote for Smith will be regarded as a vote against prohibition, and I wish to avail myself of this excellent opportunity to go on record against this evil.

"All other issues dwindle into insignificance, even if prosperity were temporarily at stake. To accept prohibition as the price of it would be immoral and shortsighted.

"I do not believe that prosperity would suffer under the leadership of a sound, practical man who can surround himself with such men as yourself, Young, Rascob, Woodin and Pierre du Pont.

"Governor Smith has proven his administrative and executive ability under adverse political conditions. I doubt Hoover's ability showing to such advantage in political surroundings.

"The Presidency requires the ability to give and take able advice. This Governor Smith does, whereas Hoover is, I believe, too inclined to be self-sufficient.

"Governor Smith's election will show the intolerant that there is to be real freedom of belief in this country.

"Governor Smith's courage and personality appeal to me—Hoover's do not.

"To epitomize, I am against prohibition, for temperance, and like Governor Smith's courageous integrity."

Earlier in the day Mr. Roosevelt announced that Thomas Gerald Condon of 815 Park Avenue, railroad builder with vast holdings in coal and iron, now retired, while a lifelong Republican who had voted for only one Democratic candidate for President—Woodrow Wilson—this year would support Governor Smith.

"I have always considered myself a Republican, voting once for Mr. Wilson and twice for Governor Smith," Mr. Condon wrote. "I will vote for the Governor in November because of his administration as Governor, his honesty and his courage in facing the prohibition question and because I believe him to possess those characteristics that will make him a President of the people and for the people."

Mr. Condon is the builder of the Silver City & Northern Railway, later purchased by the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fé. After engaging in ranching in New Mexico, he organized the Portland Mining Company of Cripple Creek, Col., in 1895.

Word also came from New Jersey that Edward W. Gray, who succeeded the late Colonel George Harvey as publisher of the Newark Daily Advertiser, oldest Republican newspaper in New Jersey, had come out for Governor Smith on the prohibition issue. Mr. Gray is a former Republican Congressman from the Eighth New Jersey District.

DENIES WHISPERS IN WEST.

Capper Tells Hoover-Curtis Club Tammany Is Kansas Issue.

There is no "whispering campaign" against Governor Smith in the mid-West, Senator Capper of Kansas declared yesterday at rededication ceremonies of the Hoover-Curtis Club at 233 West Fifty-second Street.

"In my part of the country," Mr. Capper said, "we fight our battles openly. In Kansas and near-by States the conviction was never stronger that the welfare of the country requires a Republican Administration. The voters in the agricultural sections are against Governor Smith chiefly because of his Tammany affiliations.

"He is a child of Tammany, which the West connects with all the known forms of political trickery and corruption. The word Tammany there is associated with saloon rule, booze, and with the social vices as well as with political graft."

The Hoover-Curtis Club was originally formed in 1927 as the Curtis-for-President Club. It was renamed yesterday. Other speakers were United States Attorney Charles H. Tuttle and Assemblyman Phelps Phelps. Mr. Tuttle said the final question for the voters will be, "Why change when the Republican policies have been so successful?"

Actresses Here Form Smith Club.

A group of actresses, including Haidee Wright, Marilyn Miller, Hilda Spong, Arline Fredericks, Winnie Lightner, Jennie Moscowitz and Claiborne Foster have organized a Smith-for-President Club, according to an announcement yesterday from the Democratic National Committee. Peggy Allenby of "He Understood Women" has been elected temporary chairman. She is a granddaughter of John Fox, for many years President of the National Democratic Club. The club, according to the announcement, is planning a party at the Ritz-Carlton on Oct. 6 with speakers furnished by the National Committee.

PROGRESSIVES OPEN MOVE TO AID SMITH

Group That Backed La Follette for President in 1924 Plans to Reorganize.

HEADQUARTERS SET UP HERE

Frank P. Walsh, to Be Chairman of League, Says Work Already Has Started in West.

The Progressive organization which four years ago backed the late Senator La Follette of Wisconsin for President is to be reorganized and placed on war footing to aid the campaign of Governor Smith for the Presidency. The move, it was announced, is being made in response to a demand from Progressives throughout the country who in 1924, with the aid of the Socialist Party, polled about 5,000,000 votes for their ticket.

Frank P. Walsh, labor lawyer, who during the World War was Chairman of the Joint War Labor Board and in 1924 was Senator La Follette's representative on the Committee of Seven which ran the La Follette-Wheeler campaign, will be Chairman of the Progressive League, which is being organized under authority from the Democratic National Committee.

The league opened headquarters yesterday in two rooms on the ninth floor of the General Motors Building, in which the National Committee has its headquarters. Mr. Walsh announced that David K. Niles of the Ford Hall Forum of Boston would be director of the league and Fred O. Howe, Commissioner of Immigration at Ellis Island during the Wilson regime, would be its Executive Secretary.

Says Progressives Ask Move.

"We are organizing the Progressives as officers of the former La Follette organization and at the request of Progressives throughout the country," Mr. Walsh said. "I wouldn't say that we will be able to corral all the votes that were cast for Mr. La Follette for Governor Smith but, on the other hand, it has already been demonstrated that many progressives who couldn't see their way clear to support Senator La Follette because of the alliance of his organization with the Socialists will support Governor Smith. At that, La Follette in this State got more individual votes than he got under the Socialist emblem. That is significant. We expect to get a great majority of the Progressives who were for La Follette."

In reply to a question, Mr. Walsh said that the Progressive movement for Smith would enable him to carry Wisconsin, La Follette's State. He said he was in no position to say what attitude Senator Robert M. La Follette would take toward Governor Smith. Mr. La Follette is a candidate for a full term in the Senate on the Republican ticket. He expressed an opinion that Senator John J. Blaine of Wisconsin, de facto Republican leader of that State, would be willing to cooperate.

"Governor Smith's ten-year fight on behalf of the people for the protection of our natural resources, his vigorous championship of free speech and liberty of the press, his ceaseless battle for the legitimate rights of industrial workers and protection of women and children have made a strong appeal to all who voted for Bob La Follette in 1924," Mr. Walsh said. "His whole humane program is in accord with the Progressive effort."

Work Already Started.

Mr. Walsh announced that organization work was already in progress in Minnesota and Wisconsin as well as in the two Dakotas and that when the work had been completed in those States similar work would be taken up in Ohio and in every State where the Progressives had any strength in the last Presidential election. Within a week he said there would be the nucleus in every one of the Progressive States of the West and the Northwest. The East would receive attention later, he added.

Mr. Walsh pointed to the following States where he thought the Progressives held a balance of power that would mean victory to the candidate to whom they could be swung; and gave the vote for La Follette and Davis in 1924.

California, La Follette 424,000, Davis 105,000; Illinois, La Follette 432,000, Davis 576,000; Minnesota, La Follette 339,000, Davis 55,000; Nebraska, La Follette 106,000, Davis 137,000; New Jersey, La Follette 109,000, Davis 298,000; Washington, La Follette 150,000, Davis 42,000.

"We want the Progressives of this country to know that they have an established place of business and that if Smith is elected, he is going to carry on the traditions of our party," Mr. Walsh said. "If he isn't, we are going to be ready to carry on. We believe that if the movement of the Progressive voters—those who stand behind the fundamentals Smith has already announced that he stands for—continues, the Progressive vote will absolutely cinch his election."

BACK CRAIN FOR GOVERNOR.

Friends of Justice Adopt Resolution Favoring His Nomination.

Friends of Justice Thomas C. T. Crain of the Supreme Court met last night at 122 William Street and adopted a resolution urging his nomination for Governor on the Democratic ticket. A copy of the resolution was sent by wire to the Executive Mansion at Albany, where Democratic leaders last night were in conference with Governor Smith to discuss prospective candidates for places on the State ticket.

N. Taylor Phillips, former Deputy Controller, John Jerome Rooney, Samuel Weintraub, Jonah Goldstein and Edward W. Stitt Jr. were among some hundred persons in attendance whose names were made public.

According to an announcement made after the meeting, a committee which was formed will conduct an aggressive pre-convention campaign in the interest of Justice Crain.

Smith Radio Announcer Named.

Norman Sweetser, radio announcer of the National Broadcasting Company, has been assigned to accompany Governor Smith on his Western tour he begins Sunday night, according to an announcement yesterday from the Radio Bureau of the Democratic National Committee. Sweetser will be the official announcer at every point at which the Governor is scheduled to speak over the radio. The announcement said that it was the first time that an announcer had been assigned to accompany a presidential candidate on a speaking tour of the country.

Seeks 500,000 Contributors.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Sept. 13.—Half a million contributors to the Republican campaign fund was the goal set today by J. R. Nutt, Treasurer of the Republican National Committee, who came to Western Republican Headquarters today to organize the drive for small subscriptions.

"Because it was not done in the past is no reason why it could not be done now," Mr. Nutt said. "As that activity gets more thoroughly organized, the smaller subscriptions will be secured in greater numbers.

"The man or woman who gives $10 or $1 in a spirit of helpfulness and loyalty has created a valuable unit of good-will, and the aggregate is a tremendous asset, measured in good-will and service.

"I am urging all State Financial Chairmen and all National and State Committeemen to assist wherever possible in this very useful department of our campaign for Hoover. At least 500,000 smaller subscriptions is our goal, and 1,000,000 is not without the range of possibility."

SIMMONS ADVISES DEFEAT OF SMITH

Senator Talks Bluntly to First Voters of North Carolina Who Call on Him.

Special to The New York Times

WILMINGTON, N. C., Sept. 13.—"If I had a son I would advise him not to vote for Governor Smith, Democratic nominee for President," Senator Furnifold M. Simmons told first voters from Wilmington this afternoon in an interview given on the porch of his residence.

"The best way to perpetuate the Democratic Party and free it from the mill stones that have held it down so many years, is to beat Smith," the Senator went on. "I am not going to vote for Smith. I have offered my support to the anti-Smith movement and will assist them to the extent of my power."

The Senator went on:

"Boys, that as far as my position will let me go. You know I am situated different than you. I would not try to tell you how to vote, but from the various delegations which have gathered on my porch and from the some 1,500 letters I have received, I would feel safe in saying that the majority of North Carolina Democrats are going to vote for Hoover. That is the impression I have as prevailing in North Carolina, Kentucky, Tennessee, Oklahoma, West Virginia and Virginia."

SCORES ANTI-SMITH GOSSIP

McCooey Calls Intoxication Charge "Slanderous and Outrageous."

Branding as slanderous and outrageous the report emanating from the South that Governor Smith was intoxicated at the Syracuse State Fair, Democratic Leader John H. McCooey of Brooklyn said yesterday that he was with the Governor all day at the fair and that Governor Smith did not take a drink.

"Such tactics in a Presidential campaign are outrageous," Mr. McCooey said. "I was with the Governor all day. I sat near him during the meeting of the State Democratic Committee at the Hotel Onondaga and went to the fair in his party. He did not take a drink.

"Of course some persons will lie in this campaign and we can't stop them. But I will say right now that any intimation that Governor Smith is anything but what he ought to be so far as morals are concerned is a slander. I think the Governor has done an excellent thing in forcing this whispering campaign into the open. That sort of talk should be denied at all times."

MADDOCK OUT FOR SMITH.

North Dakota Governor, a Non-Partisan Leaguer, Shifts.

BISMARCK, N. D., Sept. 13 (AP).—Governor Walter Maddock, a Non-Partisan Leaguer, heretofore allied with the Republican Party, announced today he would file for re-election as a Democrat.

Governor Maddock, who became Chief Executive recently upon the death of Governor A. G. Sorlie, was elected Lieutenant Governor two years ago on the Republican ticket.

'WHISPERS' HELD DUE TO FEAR OF DEFEAT

Robinson Asserts Republicans Use "Poison Gas and Snipe-Shooters" in Campaign.

HITS IMMIGRATION "TALES"

Senator Tells South Carolinians That Smith and Hoover Both Favor Restricting Alien Inflow.

COLUMBIA, S. C., Sept. 13 (AP).—Speaking over a radio hook-up second only in size to that he used at the time of accepting the Democratic Vice Presidential nomination, Senator Robinson declared tonight that "fear of defeat" if the campaign were conducted in the open had led the opposition "to employ methods which violated accepted standards of ethics."

Carrying his campaign into South Carolina, the Senator said it was "unfair and prejudicial for representatives of the Republican Party, or others, to seek secretly or openly to lead organized labor or the public generally to believe that the success of the Democratic Party means the repeal or impairment of laws for limiting immigration.

"Why are they apparently willing to accept," he asked, "the advantages of a 'whispering campaign' designed to asperse the character of the able and patriotic gentleman chosen on the first ballot at the Houston Convention? There can be but one answer.

"Poison Gas and Snipe-Shooters."

"They fear defeat if the battle is conducted in the open. They, therefore, employ poisoning gas and engage snipe-shooters. Such methods cannot prevail. The people of the United States are fair-minded and just. They will resent an organized effort to win a national election through prejudice and falsehood."

Explaining he taken advantage of the extensive radio hook-up to discuss immigration, Mr. Robinson argued it was apparent from reading the texts of the Republican and Democratic platforms that "there is not the slightest difference between them in meaning."

"Both candidates recognize the contribution which foreigners have made to the development of the United States. Both support restricted immigration. Neither advocates any change that will impair it.

"Governor Smith suggests that a 38-year-old census as the standard can be improved, while Mr. Hoover urges repeal of the provision of law for basing quotas on national origin."

The proposed change of Governor Smith, he said, "would leave the total number of immigrants at 150,000, but take a more recent census as the basis, which would have the effect of increasing the immigrants from some countries and of decreasing those entitled to admission from some others."

CHURCH OPPOSES ALL WETS

Missouri Southern Methodists Insist on Dry Law Support.

SHELBINA, Mo., Sept. 13 (AP).—The Missouri Conference, Methodist Episcopal Church South, including churches of that denomination in the State north of the Missouri River, yesterday pledged itself to "support no one for President or any legislative office regardless of political party who is opposed to the Eighteenth Amendment and the Volstead act."

The conference in a resolution adopted, added that "we will not be intimidated byt he false cry of religious tolerance, which is but a smoke screen to hide the deformity of the enemies of prohibition of the liquor traffic."

SPIKES JOHNSON STORY.

Raskob Informs Glass Boxer Is Not Democratic Organizer.

United States Senator Carter Glass of Virginia yesterday sent a telegram to Chairman John J. Raskob of the Democratic National Committee, asking if the committee had authorized Jack Johnson, a negro boxer, to organize the negro vote in the South for Smith. The following was sent in reply:

"The story of Jack Johnson being authorized to speak on behalf of the Democratic National Committee is cheap Republican propaganda. Johnson has no connection with this committee in any capacity."

CAMPAIGN BOOK HITS PROSPERITY 'MYTH'

Most of Depression Since Civil War in Republican Regime, Says Democratic Publication.

SERIOUS FLAWS NOW SEEN

Farm Depression Held to Indicate Centring of Interest Solely on Industrial Population.

Most of the business depression in this country since the beginning of the Civil War has occurred in periods in which the Republican Party has been in control of the nation, according to the second section of the Democratic campaign textbook made public yesterday.

This section is devoted to an examination of economic conditions and it directs a vigorous attack on the so-called "myth" of Republican prosperity. The book also asserts that our present prosperity is marked by serious flaws which the Administration has failed to recognize or attempt to remedy.

"Whenever prosperity occurs under a Republican President," says the book, "the Republicans take credit for it; whenever a depression occurs under a Republican President, Republican politicians argue that it is due solely to fear of political change."

To bolster the allegation that most of the country's depression has been under Republican administrations, the book cites statistics of the National Bureau of Economic Research to indicate the years of greatest depression since 1861 with the politics of the current President. They follow:

1861	Republican
1866	Republican
1870	Republican
1873	Republican
1874	Republican
1875	Republican
1876	Republican
1877	Republican
1878	Republican
1885	Republican, Democratic
1891	Republican
1893	Republican
1894	Democratic
1895	Democratic
1897	Democratic, Republican
1904	Republican
1907	Republican
1908	Republican
1911	Republican
1914	Democratic
1919	Democratic
1921	Democratic, Republican
1924	Republican

The textbook points to the agricultural depression as the "most noteworthy flaw" in our present prosperity and adds:

"To boast of prosperity while this depression exists is to reveal that one's interest is centred on the industrial population alone and that one believes the interest of the farmers to be secondary."

While admitting that corporate profits have been very large under the Coolidge and Harding Administrations, the book quotes reports to the Bureau of Internal Revenue to show that in that period between 41 and 51 per cent. of the corporations reporting had no profit at all, but deficits. The increasing number of business failures is also cited.

The book charges the present administration with at least some of the responsibility for current "speculative inflation," which, it alleges, has been stimulated by the rapid redemption of the national debt.

"By the purchase of bonds in the open market, the Treasury Department is held responsible for the release of large funds with resultant speculation," it asserts.

N. D. BAKER PRAISES SMITH.

Former War Secretary Says He Has Character and Executive Talent.

Governor Smith's character, ability and executive talent were praised by Newton D. Baker, Secretary of War in the Wilson Administration, in a statement issued yesterday through the Democratic National Committee.

"Governor Smith has, in a long official career, demonstrated that he has character, ability and great executive talent," he said. "In addition to that he has shown that he has a social conscience, understanding the problems of the poor and the unprivileged. He never runs amuck and merely breaks china, but he does see that justice comes to the cottage as well as to the mansion, and that boys in the city streets and from lonely roadways shall have an equal chance to rise to places of public usefulness if they deserve it. As President, Governor Smith would bring a robust common sense and an informed conscience into the public service."

Sickbed Candidate Leaves Hospital.

William Rannenberg, Democratic candidate for Mayor of Union City, N. J., was able to leave the hospital yesterday and will conduct his campaign from his home at Forty-fourth Street, Union City. Mr. Rannenberg's right arm was amputated above the elbow some weeks ago. He is running in opposition to the present Mayor, Charles A. Mohn, a Republican.

ROOSEVELT TO BATTLE FOR HOOVER OUT WEST

Starting Sept. 30, Colonel Will Campaign Against Smith in Rocky Mountain Region.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Sept. 13.—Colonel Theodore Roosevelt, who later will come West to campaign against Governor Smith, declared upon his arrival this morning from Ithaca, N. Y., that Herbert Hoover is 25 per cent. stronger in the East than he was on the day of his nomination and that the Republican national ticket will carry Governor Smith's home State.

Colonel Roosevelt, who was accompanied by his younger brother, Kermit, spent an hour in conference with Walter H. Newton, director of the Republican National Committee speakers bureau, mapping out a probable itinerary for a Middle West and Mountain States speaking tour.

Colonel Roosevelt will leave New York City on Sept. 30 for Chicago and will devote his attention to the campaign in the Middle West and Rocky Mountain States, it was determined.

Mrs. Nicholson Refuses Nomination.

BALTIMORE, Sept. 13.—Mrs. Jessie Nicholson of Chevy Chase, President of the National Women's Democratic Law Enforcement League, has declined to run for the Vice Presidency on the American Home Party ticket.

C. S. MOTT OUT FOR HOOVER

Vice President of General Motors Also Wants Republican Congress.

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., Sept. 13 (AP).—Charles S. Mott, Vice President of the General Motors Corporation, in a letter made public here tonight, endorsed the candidacy of Herbert Hoover, Republican nominee for President.

Mr. Mott urged the election of Mr. Hoover, together with a Republican Congress "for the country's best economic and spiritual welfare." The statement was contained in a letter to Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg of Michigan.

"It would be a grave mistake to interrupt existing stabilities and trade our present tremendous advantages for doubtful experiments under different auspices," Mr. Mott said. "There is much to be lost by changing and nothing to be gained."

Mount Vernon Club Holds Clambake

About 1,000 members of the Mount Vernon Republican Club attended the annual clambake of the organization, held at Colonial Inn, City Island, yesterday. Among those present were County Clerk Charles J. F. Decker, who is running for reelection; Henry Drummond Brown of Mount Vernon, candidate for Judge of the Children's Court; former Representative Ben L. Fairchild of Pelham, running for reelection; Frederick P. Close of Tuckahoe, candidate for County Court, and Assistant District Attorney Frank Coyne, candidate for District Attorney.

One More Suit for the School Wardrobe

The Saks-Fifth Avenue tradition regarding boys' apparel is briefly, "since the modern boy can be faultlessly outfitted at sensibly moderate cost, quality should never be sacrificed to price." Our new collection for school boys holds fast to these standards in tailoring, materials and design.

Suit with two pairs of knickers in tweeds, cheviots or cashmeres.

DEMOCRATS ATTACK RADIO BOARD ORDER

CITE MONOPOLY CHARGES

Some Station Owners Quoted as Linking Republican Party With So-Called Trust.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 13.—The Democratic National Committee asserted in a statement today that "the vigorous protests that have been made by independent radio broadcasting station owners, particularly in the Middle West, "over the new allocation of wave lengths, "threaten to find their way into the political campaign."

"The charge is made by some of these owners," it was declared, "that the community of interests between the Administration and the Republican Party with the so-called radio trust is clearly demonstrated by these new allocations announced by the Federal Radio Commission, to become effective Nov. 11, or less than a week after election day."

The statement authorized by the committee declared that the situation is further intensified, so far as the Republican National Committee is concerned, by the fact that Major Gen. James G. Harbord recently obtained leave of absence from the Radio Corporation of America to devote his entire time to helping raise the Republican campaign fund.

"Directly on the heels of that," the statement added, "came the announcement of the Federal Radio Commission which even Ira Robinson, Chairman of the commission and a West Virginia Republican, is credited with having characterized as so unfair that he could not and would not vote for it.

The Federal Radio Commission, although a pseudo independent organization, has been operating until recently under the protecting wing of the Commerce Department and, since the former head of that department is now the Republican candidate for the Presidency, he too, is coming in for a share of the criticism. In fact the report is current here that one large Eastern newspaper, located in Massachusetts, and whose broadcasting rights will suffer seriously under the new allocation, threatens to make it a political matter.

"It is in the Middle West, however, where the protests are loudest and most vehement. The charge is made that four of the eight wavelengths allotted to that entire section have been allocated to Chicago stations, several of which are reported to be members of the radio combine. Such a State as Iowa, for instance, has but seven-tenths of a wavelength allotted to it, while the largest station in Des Moines will be compelled, under the new order, to divide its time with one of the stations on the Pacific Coast."

Constitution Week Begins Sunday.

To commemorate Constitution week, which begins Sunday, two wreaths will be laid at 2:30 in the afternoon on Alexander Hamilton's grave in Trinity Churchyard, it was announced yesterday by the National Republican and New York Young Republican Clubs. The statement says that "these floral tributes are in part to answer the keynote speech attack on Hamilton's memory made at the Democratic National Convention."

REPUBLICANS TO REACH HOUSEWIVES BY RADIO

Will Appeal to Farmers at Meals in Campaign National Committee Will Open Tonight.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 13.—Plans of the Republican National Committee, which will open its radio campaign tomorrow night, to reach the public at hours convenient to various groups were announced today by O. P. Gascoigne, director of radio activities for the committee.

Mr. Gascoigne said the radio drive will be continued "aggressively, right up to election time."

"The campaign is being aimed at large groups of our population and so timed that Republican speakers can catch the interest of those we want to reach at hours which are convenient for them and when they are not otherwise occupied," Mr. Gascoigne said.

"For instance, the campaign will include a housewives' hour. It will come in the morning, when mothers have sent their children to school and they can turn on the loud speakers and hear Republican discussions of the issues vital to their welfare and to the welfare of the children.

"For the farmers, there will be regional broadcasts in mid-day, while they are at their meals. Speakers during these hours will talk of agricultural matters. We also are planning to put on a farm program in the early hours of the evening when the work in the fields has been finished.

"Regional hook-ups in industrial centres will be treated similarly."

URGES FISH FOR SENATOR.

Capt. Brundage Says Party Needs the Vote of Veterans.

Special to The New York Times.

NEWBURGH, N. Y., Sept. 13.—Captain Arthur E. Brundage, former Republican Assemblyman and past State Commander of the American Legion, suggested today the nomination of Representative Hamilton Fish Jr. as Republican candidate for United States Senator.

In a statement he argued that the party required the support of veterans of the World War, which he holds Mr. Fish would command.

In part he said:

"The Republican Party in New York State is entitled to have at least one United States Senator. Why not nominate a man who can be elected and who will receive not only the support of the 500,000 veterans in the State but their families and their friends. Major Fish is a man who has many qualities which appeal not only to the veterans but to the people of all classes and creeds in this great State. He has served eight years in Congress, being returned each time with increasing majorities and in spite of active opposition at the polls. He is serving on important committees in Congress, including the important Foreign Relations Committee. Major Fish has a large personal following, not only in his district but throughout the State, and especially in New York City."

COOLIDGE PROGRAM WAITS.

Extent of Speaking in Campaign Not Yet Settled.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 13.—While it has been reported that President Coolidge would make three or four speeches for Mr. Hoover, it was learned tonight that no program of this kind has been decided upon.

It has been believed for some time that on his coming trip to Vermont Mr. Coolidge would make a speech outlining his record as a Republican President and that this would indirectly benefit Mr. Hoover.

If the President proposes to make other speeches, he has not communicated this intent to his staff.

CHICAGO CHURCHMEN TO ASSAIL 'WHISPERS'

Commission Representing 350,000 Members Plans Blow at Campaign 'Scandals.'

METHODIST JOINS IN ATTACK

Pastor Prepares Resolution Denouncing Religion in Politics—Presbyterians Also to Act.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Sept. 13.—The religious forces of Chicago are preparing to strike a blow at the "whispering campaign" involving the religious convictions of Herbert Hoover or Governor Smith.

Several denominations, spurred by reports of whisperings concerning Governor Smith's religion and personal conduct, have plans under way to stop such tactics.

One of these groups is the Commission on Political Action of the Chicago Church Federation, which is expected to adopt at its next meeting a condemnation of all who have introduced or would introduce the religious issue into the campaign. The attitude of the commission, representing nineteen denominations and 800 churches with a membership of 350,000, was outlined by its Chairman, the Rev. Philip Yarrow.

"This is a free country and a man's religious convictions are his own sacred right," said Mr. Yarrow today, "and the constitutional guaranty of religious freedom should be a sufficient hint to right-minded citizens not to carry doctrinal matters into their exercise of suffrage. Moral issues are legitimate subjects for consideration in voting, but religious creeds are not.

Sees Both Candidates Arraigned.

"I understand there have been these so-called 'whispering campaigns' started against both Governor Smith and Herbert Hoover, much more pronounced in the case of the former because he is a Roman Catholic. But there has been some agitation against Hoover because he is a Quaker, and Quakers are the original, Simon-pure pacifists.

"Governor Smith has declared that his private religious affiliations will not influence his Administration as President if elected, and Hoover has stated that the stands for adequate national defense. Both men are entitled to have their statements accepted and respected. Therefore, underhanded malicious attacks, generally anonymous in their source and false in content, should be smashed estly and in a clean, above-board manner on the basis of their records, and both candidates considered honabilities and platform. No one should vote either for or against a candidate because of his religion."

Methodist to Back Resolution.

The Rev. Dr. Fred D. Stone, pastor of Irving Park Methodist Episcopal Church, proposes to introduce a resolution at the next Methodist preachers' meeting which condemns "whispering" tactics in politics.

The Rev. Dr. Arthur F. Ewert, minister of Central Presbyterian Church, is back of a similar proposed action by the Presbyterian ministers of Chicago.

REAFFIRMS DRY STAND.

Baptists Remind Church Members of June Resolution.

It was announced last evening that the appointed agencies on temperance and law enforcement of the Northern Baptist Convention at a meeting here yesterday reminded Baptists of the country of the resolutions adopted at the annual convention held in Detroit, on June 21, which urged "its large constituency to support and vote for only such men for the Presidency and Vice Presidency and other high office who will unequivocally and openly commit themselves to an honest and effective enforcement of the prohibition laws of our country."

Those present at yesterday's session issued a new statement which said in part: "We regret that the Democratic Presidential nominee has repudiated the party declaration on prohibition and has declared his purpose to use his influence and the prestige of his high office, if elected, to bring about the modification of the prohibition laws, which we believe would result in the nullification of the Eighteenth Amendment. Failure to vote may contribute to disastrous defeat of the best interests of our country."

OPPOSES A 40-HOUR WEEK.

Typographical Union Convention Rejects Proposal.

CHARLESTON, S. C., Sept. 13 (AP).—The International Typographical Union at its annual convention here today voted down overwhelmingly a proposal of the New York delegation for a forty-hour working week.

A proposal to allow local unions to declare a strike without the sanction of the Executive Council of the International Union was defeated.

The convention also voted down a plan to permit a local union to strike without first notifying the International President in the event that a publisher or proprietor declines to arbitrate.

To Form Hoover Clubs for Actors.

Hoover-Curtis clubs are to be organized among the actors, artists and authors of New York, it was announced yesterday at a committee meeting of the Women's Republican Association at its headquarters at 40 Irving Place. Josephine W. Suppeman, Chairman of the Campaign Committee, said that the association had organized ten Hoover-Curtis clubs throughout the State and is now ready for a house to house canvass to get the voters out to register.

1,200 WOMEN ATTEND SMITH FETE IN JERSEY

Judge and Mrs. Elkus Hosts at Garden Party and Rally at Red Bank, N. J., Estate.

Special to The New York Times.

RED BANK, N. J., Sept. 13.—About 1,200 women members of the Democratic Party attended a garden party and Smith rally at the estate of former Supreme Court Judge Abram I. Elkus here this afternoon. Governor Smith was lauded in speeches by Governor A. Harry Moore of New Jersey, Mrs. Mary T. Norton, Representative from the Twelfth New Jersey District, and Mayor Frank Hague of Jersey City.

Judge Elkus, who was host for the rally, was United States Ambassador to Turkey during the Wilson Administration and is a close friend of Governor Smith.

A letter from Governor Smith received by Mrs. Elkus was read at the garden party.

It read as follows:

"Dear Mrs. Elkus:

"Preparations for my Western visit make it impossible for me to greet you and our friends in person. I regret this all the more because the gathering is at your home.

"Please tell the women of Monmouth County that I believe that the woman of this country study and comprehend the deep issues which underlie this campaign. It will be their sense of justice, their desire for equal opportunity for all, in education, in working conditions, in all that makes life worth while, and their ability to tell the truth as to which party best represents these ideals that will bring victory in November.

"Give my warm regards to Judge Elkus and be assured I appreciate your splendid work and that of Governor Moore, Congressman Norton and all who have helped to make today a success.

"Sincerely,

"ALFRED E. SMITH."

Voting Machine Custodians Named.

Twelve custodians of voting machines, which will be used for the first time throughout the city at the coming election, were appointed yesterday by the Board of Elections, it was announced yesterday after a meeting of the board, which fixed the salaries at $2,500 a year each. The twelve appointed, equally divided between Democrats and Republicans, are James Morrissey, Robert J. Mackey, Chris Holmes, George Blondheim and Emil Manzello of Manhattan; Joseph G. Mayo, Henry W. Jaques, Frank M. Grossman, User Marcus and James McCormack of Brooklyn; Stanley Bunner of the Bronx, and Henry Vogt of Queens.

DIGEST STARTS POLL OF 19,000,000 VOTERS

1924 PREDICTION ACCURATE

Breaking of Party Lines by Major Issues to Be Weighed in This Year's Forecast.

The Literary Digest will repeat its experiment of four years ago and attempt to tell in advance who will be the next President of the United States.

Four years ago The Digest predicted the result with accuracy. It came within 2 per cent. of being correct in its prediction of what percentage of the popular vote would be cast for President Coolidge and for John W. Davis, the Democratic nominee. It predicted correctly that Senator Robert M. La Follette, third party candidate for President, would carry only his own State, Wisconsin. It predicted that Mr. Coolidge would carry thirty-five States and Mr. Davis twelve, and in that prediction it was correct, the only error being that where The Literary Digest had placed Oklahoma in the Republican column and Kentucky in the Democratic, the allocation was reversed by the result of the election. This involved an increase of three electoral votes, to the advantage of Mr. Coolidge. In round numbers, 30,000,000 votes were involved in the decision at the polls.

In 1924 approximately 15,000,000 "straw votes" were included in the country-wide poll and tabulation of The Literary Digest. This year The Digest aims at collecting and tabulating 19,000,000 votes. This, said a statement from the publication, would be the largest enterprise of its kind ever undertaken. The cost of the poll this year is estimated at $600,000.

The result will be published in The Literary Digest in weekly instalments, beginning in the Sept. 22 issue. Nineteen million post cards, on which the returns will be made, are now being sent out. The post cards will bear the names of all the Presidential candidates in the running this year, and there will be spaces where a voter may indicate how he voted in the Presidential election four years ago.

The Literary Digest will make a particular effort to gauge the drift of erstwhile Republican voters to Governor Smith or of Democratic voters to Herbert Hoover. With the prohibition issue cutting across party lines, farm relief being an issue calculated to loosen party ties, and religious intolerance regarded as a considerable factor in the election, any poll omitting an estimate of the shift from one party to the candidate of another would have its barometric value impaired, it would be difficult to say to what extent.

"How far will the respective positions of the candidates on the question of prohibition militate for or against their election?" The Literary Digest will ask in an article that will lead its Sept. 15 issue. "Will the wets or the drys wield the greater influence? What is the best plan of farm relief, and which party can produce it and make it effective? Does the prosperity of the nation require a higher or lower tariff? Can the interests of agriculture and manufacturing be harmonized? How can the burden of taxes be lessened and the necessary great public obligations be met at the same time? Will the cost of living go up or down?

"Which great personality, Herbert Hoover's or Alfred E. Smith's, will attract the most voters? What undercurrents of religious passion or prejudice will sweep the largest groups of voters away from their political moorings? These are but a few of the subjects that will occupy the public mind in the months to come."

In order to safeguard the ballots against tampering, a post card made in a special way to make it proof against imitation has been manufactured for this poll. Each ballot is sent in a sealed envelope to the voter for whom it is intended. The Literary Digest in its prefatory article points out that any attempt to interfere with it is a serious criminal offense and that offenders will be vigorously prosecuted. A postage stamp is already affixed to each ballot, and all a prospective voter has to do is to mark his ballot and drop it in a mail box.

BISHOP TO TALK FOR HOOVER

Berry Tells Hill He Will Devote October to Aiding Republicans.

Bishop Joseph F. Berry, retired bishop of the Methodist Episcopal Church, sent word yesterday to William H. Hill, Chairman of the Hoover-Curtis Campaign Committee, that he would give all his time during October to speaking for Hoover.

"I have not the slightest idea where I shall be used by Mr. Hill, but I want to do my utmost for the man whom the country needs," Bishop Berry said. "I have been spending the past month vacationing in Western New York, and I have been alarmed, not by any pro-Smith sentiment, but by the apathy of the voters. Up-State Republicans seem to think that everything is over but the shouting. Their attitude is our greatest danger in the campaign. People must get out the vote, for Hoover has not won until the votes are counted. It will be an inexcusable disaster if every human effort is not made to get every voter, women as well as men, to the polls in this great crisis of our national existence."

DIVA TO SPEAK FOR SMITH.

Schumann-Heink Will Campaign for Governor on Concert Tour.

Mme. Ernestine Schumann-Heink made known yesterday at Democratic national headquarters that she intended to carry on a campaign in her own behalf for Governor Smith during a concert tour on which she embarks next week.

Mme. Schumann-Heink, who has rounded up fourteen votes in her family for the Democratic candidate and who crossed the continent from California to register and vote for Governor Smith, has been made Vice Chairman of the women war workers' division of the National Veterans Democratic Organization by General Henry T. Allen, the Chairman, according to an announcement yesterday after she had called there to get official approval of her plan.

SPAIN CELEBRATES AT DE RIVERA FETE

But Country Is Said to Be Seething With Discontent on Anniversary of His Coup.

MORE ARRESTS IN PLOT

Absence of King From Madrid Is Viewed as Sign He Wants End of Dictator's Rule.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MADRID, Sept. 13.—The celebration today of the fifth anniversary of the coup d'état by which General Primo de Rivera established his dictatorship was marked by the issuance of a Government communiqué detailing the measures taken this week to suppress the revolutionary plot which might have ended in still another coup d'état.

The communiqué stated that a plot to disturb the public peace had been discovered by the police and quashed by a number of arrests. The matter had been placed in the hands of the law, which would take its course, the statement said.

No names were mentioned, but apparently the plot was widespread, though badly organized. The Government hopes that what has happened will be a lesson and encourage citizens to come forward and perform their duty as such.

Rumor is busy with the names of persons supposed to be implicated, from archbishops to generals, but there appears to be no foundation for any belief that the movement, whatever it was, was of any greater importance than the other abortive attempts made on several previous occasions since General Primo de Rivera seized office.

The names of well-known Republicans are mentioned with greater verisimilitude as being implicated. There is no doubt that King Alfonso's absence on his trip to Sweden seemed to offer opponents of the present régime an exceptional opportunity for a demonstration.

Unprecedented Celebration.

Today's celebration in Madrid was the greatest popular pageant ever seen in this capital. Almost the entire population was in the streets, as well as thousands from the provinces. General de Rievera witnessed from the centre of the Calle Alcala a procession of representatives of the provinces who marched in alphabetical order.

Africa led the column with a group of Moors and Jews. Then came Alava with a carriage conveying girls in typical costume. They carried an ancient, carved chest as a present for the Dictator. From Badajoz came a group of herdsmen. Burgos sent its famous giants. Cáceres sent a company of soldiers in sixteenth century uniform. The Galicians bore four jars of honey.

Many of the provincial parties were accompanied by bands or dancers who executed jigs and jotas in front of the Dictator's balcony.

De Rivera Voices Thanks.

General de Rivera spoke from the balcony, and the radio broadcast his speech to all parts of Spain. His address was one of "thanksgiving," acknowledging the loyal support and efficient cooperation of his countrymen.

More than fifty special trains from all parts of Spain brought to the capital the representatives of the patriotic societies and others who participated in today's festivities. The celebration will continue until Sunday.

Reports of Serious Disorders.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Sept. 13.—Although dispatches direct from Madrid state that the celebration there today passed off without any untoward incident, reports received indirectly from Spain declare that the occasion was marked by serious disorders.

From Hendaye, France, it is reported that the most drastic censorship is being employed by the Spanish authorities, but that news which has filtered across the frontier is to the effect that despite the concentration of masses of Government supporters in Madrid, the situation is serious.

"The seriousness of the crisis," says this Hendaye dispatch, "arises from the fact that not only is King Alfonso not present to exercise his moderating authority but a large section of the army and also of the police is reported hostile to Primo de Rivera."

Against this statement is quoted the one from General de Rivera himself that the public order is excellent and that not a single soldier has been arrested. Nevertheless, according to indirect messages from Spain, the arrests continued today and now total between 3,000 and 4,000.

Arrests Near Gibraltar.

The hostility to the Dictator in the army and police is said to be most marked in Catalonia and the Northern Provinces. Among those reported arrested is the Republican lawyer, Señor Layret. One of the prominent army officers said to have been imprisoned is General Aguilera, who was implicated in an attempted rising in June of last year. The arrests are spread over all classes of the community.

Many of those implicated sought safety by fleeing to Gibraltar, but some were captured before they could cross the border. A Gibraltar dispatch says that seventy prominent merchants and a doctor and a lawyer were arrested today at La Linea just inside the Spanish frontier, most of them being Freemasons.

More than 100 suspected of being conspirators were taken into custody at Algeciras and San Roque, and there is very great excitement in the district.

From St. Jean de Luz it is reported that the Spanish Government has made a clean sweep of a large number of revolutionaries at Valencia and Saragossa, who are under suspicion of being connected with the plot.

King's Absence Stressed.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Sept. 13.—Official dispatches received here today indicate that calm has been once more established in Spain following an abortive revolutionary attempt, but in the opinion of well-informed observers, the calm is purely superficial.

While the masses of the Spanish people are displaying their characteristic indifference to the political situation, those elements of the population which influence events are said to be seething with discontent, and it is asserted that General Primo de Rivera, the Dictator, will soon be forced to take definite steps toward the return of constitutional methods.

Considerable significance is attached here to the fact that King Alfonso should have chosen the present moment for his visit to Sweden, especially since the Dictator is celebrating today the fifth anniversary of the advent of his régime to power.

One rumor from the Spanish border printed in this afternoon's newspapers has it that the King was not unaware of the Spanish plot when he left for the north, but official circles are very much inclined to doubt the accuracy of this in the absence of more substantial evidence.

Several Thousand Arrests.

That the conspiracy had ramifications throughout the country and in three active parties, the Republican, Liberal and Communist, cannot be denied. Had the plans carried, the members of the Government would have been tried and banished and a general strike carried out tomorrow. The police, however, had ample warning of the movement and were in a position to lay hands on the leaders. Altogether, there were several thousand arrests.

Even a Spanish Cardinal is said to be implicated, while within the ranks of the army, in which General Rivera counts many supporters, numerous officers are reported to have backed the revolutionaries.

Those who follow the course of Spanish affairs emphasize how difficult it is for the outside world to gain an accurate idea of the conditions within Spain. With the press under the strong hand of the Dictator and constitutional representation suspended, these observers assert, it is necessary to go far below the surface for the truth.

It is recalled by the Journal des Débats and other well-informed organs that only recently some faithful backers of the Dictator among the Spanish newspapers have had the temerity to say that General Primo de Rivera has not proved "the man of providence" many thought he was.

Attention is also drawn to a speech made by King Alfonso on the occasion of the opening of the Transpyrenean Railroad on July 18, when the ruler declared:

"Spain, having temporarily suspended the principles of a parliamentary constitution, is now seeking ways and means of re-establishing these principles."

The King is just as eager as many of Primo de Rivera's political adversaries for the return of a constitutional form of government, according to the same commentators, and Alfonso's absence during the elaborate festivities attending the fifth anniversary of the dictatorship is considered ample support of this contention.

Despite the rigid Spanish censorship the Journal des Débats says that it is known that Primo de Rivera forced the arrest of 1,700 persons within the last few weeks—all suspected of political conspiracy. The paper concludes:

POPE IN NEW PLEA FOR CHRISTIAN UNITY

Encyclical Calls on Bishops to Aid in Bringing Eastern Churches Back Into Fold.

PROGRESS SO FAR PRAISED

In This, He Implies, Near East Association Has Done Much—Blesses Generous American.

ROME, Sept. 13 (AP).—Pope Pius issued an encyclical today urging all bishops of the Catholic Church to forward by every means in their power the work of bringing back to the Roman fold the Christians who adhere to the Greek, Syrian and other churches of the Near East.

This, the third encyclical of the year, entitled "Rerum Orientalium," paralleled in theme the first one, which was devoted also to Christian unity under the paternal direction of the Vatican.

The Pontiff implied that the Catholic Near East Welfare Association had been responsible for much of the progress in that section of the world. He gave credit to support which had been given to the movement in various countries and especially referred to the generosity of "a pious gentleman of the United States of America, for whom we desire and ask the highest recompense of celestial awards."

The name of this benefactor was not given. He was mentioned when the Pope was speaking of the installation of the Pontifical Institute for Oriental Study.

The encyclical also brought out that the chief contributions for the Near East Welfare Association, of which the Jesuit Father Edmund A. Walsh is President, had come from the United States.

Glad of Capable Clergy.

While the first encyclical of the year was directed to all non-Roman Christians, notably those Anglicans who were thought by the Vatican to be veering toward a union with Rome, this new papal plea is especially directed toward the communicants of the Oriental churches which Rome considers schismatic. Many Popes have worked ardently for centuries for the reincorporation of those Eastern churches in the body of the Roman Church.

The Pontiff praised the work already accomplished in this direction and rejoiced that there was a large force of clergy especially well equipped to deal now with the problem of the Oriental churches. He approved highly the institutes of Oriental studies already functioning at Paris, Louvain and Lille.

The encyclical said that all these efforts "will serve to enlighten the dissidents and make them see how much the Roman Church appreciates, conserves and defends true orthodoxy. It will make prejudices disappear and conduct them to the one flock of Christ under the one Shepherd."

All Bishops of the Church, to whom encyclicals are always addressed, were exhorted to aid in the return of the Oriental Christians "to the common mother, the Roman Church."

Missionaries' Work Is Cited.

In one section of the encyclical the Pope called upon the dissidents to consider carefully the advantages which Christianity in the Orient had received from the Roman Church. He mentioned especially the Franciscan and Dominican missionaries and he praised his predecessor, Benedict XV, for institution of the Congregation for Oriental Rites and Affairs.

Particular praise was given also for the results obtained by the Jesuits, to whom has been particularly entrusted the problem of reuniting the eastern churches with Rome.

Reunion of Near East churches with Rome has been one of the most cherished objects of Pope Pius ever since he ascended the papal throne in 1922. He has actively aided the work of the Catholic Near East Association, especially its gifts to sufferers from famine, epidemics and earthquakes.

Cots in hospitals bear the inscription "Endowed by the Holy Father," and every effort has been made to have tangible and generous charity coincide with the work of missionaries.

One branch of the activities of the Near East Association has been the caring for Russian refugees, finding them work and providing education for their more promising youth. This has been done without distinction of creed, and today's encyclical emphasized the significance of this whole movement.

NEW DEAL BY KRUPPS MADE WITH SOVIET

Agricultural Concession to Be Exploited in Partnership With Government.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MOSCOW, Sept. 13.—The German firm of Krupp has just concluded a new agreement with the Soviet Government for continuation of the Manich agricultural concession in Northern Caucasus, the largest agricultural concession in Russia.

Under the original treaty it was found unprofitable because of the character of the land, and though a second agreement last year allowed cattle and sheep raising it remained unsatisfactory. By the agreement just concluded the Russians will take over the financing end as well as the risk of losses, and the profits will be divided equally. Up to now the Russians shared the profits, while the concessionaire bore the losses and burden of financing.

Henceforth the Soviet and the Krupps will be equally represented on the board of directors. A new company will be formed, to be designated The German-Russian Krupp Manich Society. The Krupps will bring into the concern equipment and buildings amounting to 3,000,000 marks, while Russia will contribute 1,500,000 gold rubles in cash. If the enterprise needs more funds it will be entitled to receive them from the State Bank on the same conditions as similar Russian enterprises.

A guarantee has been given by the Soviet Government in gold to the amount of this new invested capital. In case the concession is found unprofitable this invested capital will be repaid by the Government in gold in 1937.

BRITAIN ASKS DELAY OF ARMS DISCUSSION

Would Put Off Preliminary Meeting Till New American President Takes Office.

SEEKS NAVAL ACCORD HERE

French Are Opposed, Fearing Germans Would Charge Delay to Double Dealing.

By WYTHE WILLIAMS.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

GENEVA, Sept. 13.—Striking new evidence of Europe's general dependence on the United States cropped up at the League meeting today apropos of the unpublished terms of the recent Franco-British naval accord.

Now in addition to the Rhineland evacuation pourparlers—which got a new lease of life at this morning's conference of the Big Six—reparations, and interallied debts, it is apparent that the League is having difficulties in calling even the next meeting of the Preparatory Disarmament Commission until the United States position is more clear.

Last evening during the session of the Third Commission which has the disarmament problem in hand, Lord Cushendun was insistent that there be no hurry about holding the meeting in November as planned.

This did not suit the notions of Paul Boncour, the French member, so the pair foregathered this afternoon after M. Briand's departure for Paris, when, to Boncour's amazement, Lord Cushendun insisted that Britain did not want the preliminary meeting before February, or preferably even March.

It then became known that Lord Cushendun's preference was based largely upon the date of American inauguration day and for the following reasons:

1—That the British delegation is in possession of certain hints that the present American Government will refuse the Franco-British agreement as a basis of discussion—or at least Lord Cushendun fears so.

2—That the British Government does not care to enter the Preparatory Commission without the possibility of some form of naval accord with the United States.

In other words, the fiasco of the tri-power conference a year ago must not be repeated, and the British think it would be courting this danger to hold the meeting in November.

M. Boncour's position is that not only the Anglo-American viewpoint must be considered but that of other powers, especially France. Count von Bernstorff, the German member of the commission, is openly demanding speedy action. The French delegate fears that any delay will be seized upon by Germany as evidence of intrigue and double dealing. Therefore it now seems likely that he will present the case before the plenary session of the Assembly, when, according to information this afternoon, he may point out that a great nation not a member of the League might become an obstacle to the progress of essentially League activities.

In view of this turn in events here—with the strong possibility of an open debate in the Assembly—both the French and British delegations maintain that it is scarcely possible now to publish the terms of the naval accord.

Meanwhile the French say that much diplomatic argument is necessary at Washington to pursuade America to accept a speedy preparatory conference, especially in view of the present delicate state of the Rhineland negotiations.

WOMEN WIN AT GENEVA.

Will Sit in Conference for Codifying International Law.

GENEVA, Sept. 13 (AP).—A proposal that women be included in delegations to the Conference for the Codification of International Law was approved today by the legal committee of the League of Nations Assembly.

Doris Stevens, American feminist leader, had prevailed upon Colonel Orestes Ferrara, Cuban delegate, to introduce the proposal.

The conference will meet at the Hague in 1929.

Miss Stevens was jubilant over the success of her manoeuvres and said: "This means that for the first time women will go to an international meeting as plenipotentiaries."

When the subject came up in the committee an attempt was made to have the representation limited, but Spain intervened and insisted that the question be left open.

The Chinese delegate, in supporting the resolution, said that the new Nationalist Government in his country favored the legal equality of women and was giving them many important posts.

CHAMBERLAIN NOT TO QUIT.

Says He Will Resume Office—Derides Naval Accord Suspicions.

LONDON, Sept. 13 (AP).—Sir Austen Chamberlain, British Foreign Minister, was quoted in an interview cabled from Bermuda yesterday as saying that he fully expected to resume his office when he returned home in November from his present sea voyage in search of health. He is on the liner Orcoma, which stopped at Hamilton, Bermuda, for several hours yesterday.

Sir Austen thought that owing to his illness his speech in the House of Commons on the Franco-British naval accord was too brief. He ascribed misunderstandings that have arisen respecting that accord to this circumstance.

He was quoted further as declaring that the idea of the understanding was to find something that could be submitted to the Disarmament Commission. He laughed at the talk of "secret clauses" and said that people at home easily found "mare's nests." The fact that the understanding had been communicated fully to all other Governments concerned was given in the interview as proof that there was nothing secret about it.

BRIAND PROPOSES FREEDOM AT ONCE

sion will be created on the day the last allied soldier quits German soil and that it will cease to have any power after 1935, the date set for evacuation under the Treaty of Versailles.

A possible hitch in the proceedings is seen in what is understood to be the desire of the Allies that the proposed commission begin its functioning as soon as the second Rhineland zone is evacuated.

As the right of investigation of whether or not the Germans are fulfilling their disarmament pledges already exists under the Treaty of Versailles, German circles say they cannot perceive the necessity of any additional commission. They, however, appear disposed in spirit to meet the Allies half way.

The exact functions of the proposed commission are still unsettled but it is learned that Germany is to have representation.

In the French language the commission is termed "Committee of Conciliation and Constation," constation implying the determination or establishment of truth of something which has been alleged. Therefore it might appear that the purpose of the commission would be to inspect the Rhine region to discover whether any forbidden military equipment or fortifications still exist.

The Locarno Commission.

The so-called Locarno Commission whose powers M. Briand would appear to wish to extend to control the Rhineland was authorized under the treaties drawn up at Locarno in 1925. Four such commissions were provided for under arbitration conventions with Germany to be signed by France, Belgium, Poland and Czechoslovakia.

The purpose of the conventions was to create a method of arbitrating disputes among the contracting parties. The method was to be by the appointment of five members as judges, one drawn from each country in dispute, the other three to be members of three different nations, and they were to elect their own President.

The proposition to float German bonds in Europe would appear to be designed to help France out of a financial dilemma with which she will be faced next year. Should her Parliament refuse to ratify the Mellon-Berenger debt agreement, France will be under the obligation of paying Washington $400,000,000, which then will be due the United States on the purchase of war stocks. Provisions for this payment has not been made in the budget.

So far Premier Poincaré has failed to gain any extension of time, although ratification of the Mellon-Berenger agreement would put the war stocks debt in the same category as war loans, payable over a period of sixty-two years.

As matters stand now, the French Government, without consulting Parliament, has been making payments to America yearly in full accord with the Berenger plan.

The French Parliament's disinclination to ratify the proposed settlement is due to its desire to make the settlement depend upon Germany's payments to France under the Dawes Plan. America has refused to agree to this.

AWAITS MUELLER'S REPORT.

German Cabinet Then Will Send Instructions to Chancellor.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, Sept. 13.—Chancellor Mueller will not return to Berlin from Geneva to give first-hand information to the Cabinet as at first intended, but will send an envoy, probably State Secretary von Schubert or Herr Gause, in his stead, it is learned tonight. A meeting of the Cabinet has been called for Saturday and after hearing Chancellor Mueller's report it will send him further instructions.

It is believed the Chancellor is sending a copy of the reply he intends making to M. Briand's speech and desires the approval of his Ministers before its delivery. The time has come for plain talk and Germany must emphasize her position, liberals hesitatingly admit, and therefore it is expected that Herr Mueller's oration will lack none of the fire of M. Briand's, though it is intimated that he will not resort to the use of personal references or play up party politics, as the Foreign Minister is charged with doing.

WILSON QUOTED BY GERMANS.

Document Presented to Allies Not Known to State Department.

GENEVA, Sept. 13 (AP).—In the mass of material which the Germans have presented to the Allies as justifying evacuation is a memorandum which David Lloyd George read in the House of Commons several years ago. It was signed by himself, Woodrow Wilson and Georges Clemenceau at Paris and it indicated a belief that the Allies should withdraw their troops from the Rhineland before the date specified in the Versailles Treaty, provided Germany had fulfilled her obligations.

It is understood that this memorandum is only one of many historic documents submitted by Chancellor Hermann Mueller in support of the German position.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 13.—The so-called Rhineland declaration purporting to have been signed by Woodrow Wilson, Georges Clemenceau and David Lloyd George at Paris in 1919, interpreting occupation clauses of the Versailles Treaty, is unknown to State Department officials, who would, in ordinary course, be familiar with such a document, they asserted this evening.

Reports of the presentation of such a declaration by the Germans yesterday at Geneva in support of their plea for evacuation were read with interest, but officials here said they had never heard of it before.

While it is possible that a copy may be in the State Department files, none was found today and doubts were expressed that a paper of such importance would be here and some officials not be aware of it. Should it be found, it was stated, there would be no hesitation about giving it out for publication.

The State Department refused to comment on the matter, officials manifesting reluctance to make any statement on a question of such importance without explicit knowledge and also hesitancy about being drawn into the Rhineland debate.

Informally, it was pointed out that, after all, the United States had not ratified the Versailles Treaty and therefore, its provisions and collateral understandings did not directly involve this country.

Pneumatic Control . . in motor car manufacture

Quietness, smoothness, silence—Cadillac engineers conceive these to be essential requisites in the perfection of motoring. Hence, they have conformed with the principles of pneumatic control in the construction of both body and chassis in the new Cadillacs and LaSalles, with the result that maximum quietness has been attained.

This, however, represents but one of the extraordinary major advances. There are, in addition: (1) New Cadillac-LaSalle Syncro-Mesh Silent-Shift Transmission. (2) New Cadillac-LaSalle Duplex Mechanical System of Effortless Four Wheel Brakes. (3) Security-Plate Glass that cannot fly into fragments in case of a collision. (4) New adjustable front seats. (5) Chromium Plating, the new metallurgical treatment of exposed nickel parts. (6) Quieter, smoother and more powerful 90-degree, V-type, 8-cylinder engines.

You really must take the wheel of a new Cadillac and LaSalle to understand how vastly superior they are to any ordinary motoring. Telephone the nearest Cadillac-LaSalle dealer for a demonstrator.

La Salle $2295

The new LaSalle is priced from $2295 to $2875, the new Cadillac from $3295 to $7000, all prices f. o. b. Detroit. The General Motors time payment plan is a convenient way for you to enjoy all that Cadillac and LaSalle offer, while you pay for the cars out of income.

SOUTHERN CHINESE PUT FOES TO FLIGHT

Remnants of Northern Armies Are Falling Back in Haste Upon the Great Wall.

CROSSING WILL BE OPPOSED

Mukdenites Are on Guard There to Keep Them Out of Manchuria—Peking Hopes of Coal Brighten.

By HALLETT ABEND.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

TIENTSIN, Sept. 13.—Rapid dispersal of the remnants of the Chihli and Shantung armies is continuing north and east of Tientsin with such speed that the Nationalist forces under General Pai Chung-hsi are scarcely able to establish contact with them.

Aerial observers report that although the forces of Generals Chang Tsung-chang and Chu-Yupu will soon be disposed of, resumption of rail traffic between Peking and Mukden, which was interrupted in the first part of June, is unlikely because three large bridges north of Tongshan have been destroyed by the fleeing Northerners.

The capture of Tongshan by the Nationalists may relieve the menacing coal shortages in Peking and Tientsin. The Kailan mines have 1,000,000 tons ready for shipment and own eighteen locomotives and 500 cars, but the management will not let these engines and cars leave their own spurs without a satisfactory guarantee from the militarists of their immediate return.

Northerners in Tight Place.

PEKING, Sept. 13 (AP).—The troops of Chang Tsung-chang, the former Dictator of Shantung Province, who is trying to maintain a semblance of power against the Nationalists, have their backs against the great wall of China.

They find themselves between the devil and the deep sea, for Nationalist soldiers under Pai Chung-shi are pounding them from the south and west, while the Mukdenite garrison at Shanhaikwan is on guard to prevent a retreat into Manchuria.

Dispatches received here today said that General Pai had occupied Luanchow this morning. That city is at the crossing of the Luan River on the Tientsin-Mukden Railway.

Say Our Marines Will Remain.

LONDON, Sept. 13 (AP).—Dispatches to Reuter's News Agency from Shanghai state that the Fourth Battalion of United States Marines will not leave that city until November or December. The advices relate that the American authorities had planned to withdraw the battalion, which constitutes the American garrison at Shanghai, some time this month, but that "representations" were made which resulted in the postponement. When the battalion leaves, it will go to Manila, according to this dispatch.

66 PILGRIMS PERISH IN BLIZZARD IN INDIA

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LAHORE, India, Sept. 13.—Sixty-six pilgrims from Lahore lost their lives in a blizzard while on a visit to the Amarnarth sacred cave, according to an announcement today.

The pilgrims, members of a Hindu Puritan sect known as Sadhus, carried the Silver Trident of Shivaji to the cave despite the emphatic warning of the Kashmir State officials.

They reached the cave and were returning when overcome by an exceptionally severe blizzard following 136 hours of continuous rain.

Those who survived suffered terrible misery and hardship, passing several days and nights in the snow without food, shelter or warm clothing.

Many more lives would have been lost had it not been for a relief party led by a Kashmir State Minister.

The Amarnarth sacred cave is located in mountainous Northwestern India, in Kashmin, and not in the vicinity of the City of Amarnarth, which is far to the south, near the west coast, and in the province of Bombay.

The silver trident carried by the Sadhus in their pilgrimage is one of the symbols of the great Hindu God, of whom it is said that "He who loves not Shivda's lotus feet, can never dream of pleasing Vishnu." Shiva, who has under his various aspects been named with upward of 1,000 titles, is one of the Gods of the Supreme Hindu triad. He represents the principle of destruction and of reproduction. He is also regarded as the great ascetic, the worker of miracles through penance and mediation, and is the God of the arts, especially dancing.

NICARAGUAN OUTLAWS FIGHTING THEMSELVES

Civil War Breaks Out Among the Sandinistas—American Ordered to Pay $1,000.

By Tropical Radio.

MANAGUA, Sept. 13.—Civil war has broken out among the outlaw bands near the Honduran border, according to information received by officials at Managua. General Ortez, alias Ferrara, former Sandino chief, has quarreled with another outlaw leader and is heading a small independent band which is levying tributs upon the inhabitants of Nueva Segovia Province.

Ferrara is being pursued by Carlos Salgado, another subleader.

W. G. Mosher, a prosperous American farmer living in Somoto, has written a letter to Major J. B. Pate, electoral supervisor of the Department of Estell, saying:

"You might be interested in the fact that I have just received a demand from Ferrara ordering me to pay $1,000 as my contingent help to his band. If a patrol of the Guardia National can be sent into these hills I think they would do much toward cleaning them up."

"Many of the shops carry only Timid Ties"

HEYWOOD BROUN
in The New York Telegram

AND he further complains that "No cravat is much good unless it displays some hint of revolt." As for himself, he has two of which he speaks wistfully thus, "They have more beauty than utility. I have not worn either in the streets for years because they frighten horses."

We hope Mr. Broun will stop in some time and see our collection, for though we do carry timid ones to satisfy the very conventional, we never forget that there are free spirits too. For them we have designs and color combinations that give their wearers a dangerous air, but are tempered with sufficient restraint to keep within the law. As for us, our ceilings are high and acoustics such, that there is practically no limit to the harmonies we can house.

We have thousands of ties and are confident that among the lot are models that will please the highly inhibited, the frankly rebellious, as well as the super-conventional soul.

RUSSIA DEDICATES TOLSTOY SCHOOL

Many Foreign Guests Attend Picturesque Exercises at Yasnaya Polyana.

HIS STATUE IS UNVEILED

Children Sing His Favorite Songs and Peasants Relate Anecdotes of Great Writer.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MOSCOW, Sept. 13.—Yasnaya Polyana, the ancient Russian village made illustrious in the last half century by Tolstoy's residence there, yesterday received four sleeping car loads of foreign and Russian guests, the occasion being the dedication on Tolstoy's 100th anniversary of a memorial school.

Stephen Zweig, Austrian writer; Mr. Daniell, English publisher of Tolstoy's works; Professor Logato, Italian student of Tolstoy; M. Lunscharsky, Commissar of Education; Kameneva, Trotsky's sister, chief of the Society for Cultural Relations Abroad; Alexandra Lvovna Tolstoy, the great writer's youngest daughter; Olga Constantinovna, his daughter-in-law; Sophia Andreyevna Yessenina, his granddaughter, and Mme. Chekhov, wife of the writer, as well as students of Tolstoy from Sweden, Esthonia, Germany, Persia, Japan and other countries were present.

The building of the memorial, including a hospital not yet finished, and the local jubilee celebrations were managed by Alexandra Lvovna, of all his children the closest to Tolstoy's philosophy and who spent her whole youth as her father's secretary.

This is the first time that such a school or hospital has been given to a country district, and the great newly painted white buildings with their jade-green roofs shone out among the huddled, weather-worn log cabins and drab thatch as unexpectedly as a diamond ring in a mud pie.

At the dedication Lunacharsky unveiled a statue of Tolstoy and delivered an impassioned laudatory speech of him as a writer, passing over in silence the ideological differences between the Communist Party and the great non-resister.

Alexandra Lvovna announced with satisfaction that the Government had agreed to honor Tolstov's memory by suspending here points of their program that contradicted his ideas. Therefore the Tolstoy school alone in Russia would have no military club, and no atheist club.

In the afternoon the guests and local peasants visited the tomb, a simple grassy mound covered with flowers set in a circle of trees without a cross or inscription. This is the spot where during Tolstoy's childhood his elder brother told him he should seek a magic wand which would make all the world happy and where when older he used to come to think out his problems.

Later the group visited the Museum House, where Tolstoy's effects are carefully conserved just as he used them.

The house is a spacious hut with furnishings as simple as the barest farm, there being no curtains, rugs, electricity, nor running water. Tolstoy slept all his life on a springless couch. The walls of the three rooms are lined with books in all languages.

In the evening the whole village under the direction of Alexandra Lvovna gave the guests a program of recollections of Tolstoy. School children sang his favorite songs while Alexandra Lvovna and friends in the audience joined in the choruses.

Peasants, some of whom worked side by side with Tolstoy in the fields or studied in his own experimental school, told anecdotes. Alexandra Lvovna herself described how she had to copy his carefully rewritten work sometimes five or six times, but how she enjoyed trying to figure out his thoughts.

TWO BRITISH PRINCES WELCOMED IN CAIRO

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

CAIRO, Sept. 13.—The British Princes, in Cairo upon their arrival at noon today, received a great welcome not only from the British, large numbers of whom assembled at the station, but also from the Egyptians. Many houses and shops were decorated with British and Egyptian flags and passersby stopped and cheered as the royal cars with the Princes passed.

The Prince of Wales went straight from the station to the barracks of the Twelfth Lancers, which is his own regiment, and greeted the officers and inspected the troops. Then he joined the Duke of Gloucester at the Residence for lunch. Both Princes went in two Rolls-Royce cars lent them by King Fuad to the Cairo Museum, where they were shown around by the director, the Princes taking a deep interest, especially in the gold coffin and the other marvelous relics of Tut-ankh-Amen.

The Duke of Gloucester went from the Museum to the famous Bazaar Od Muski, while the Prince of Wales, after returning to the Residency, went to the Gezira Sporting Club. There he was met by the Duke and the brothers took tea and played a round of golf on the links, which are noted throughout the East for their beauty. The South Club was lavishly decorated for the dinner offered by the British community tonight at which several hundred guests were present. The Princes are starting at 7 tomorrow morning to visit the Pyramids and the Sphinx at Giza, nearly twenty miles away, before leaving Cairo to catch their steamer for Mombassa.

sinking Nakuak between two rocks, where she rested.

But as she settled down astern I feared she would slip off and we made both anchors fast on the rocky shore before attempting to salvage our cargo. We found a ledge on which we could land our stores from the dinghy. In another hour in the gathering daylight we were huddled about our primus stove, surrounded by our chaotic accumulation of wreckage and with a mug of hot soup, congratulating ourselves that we were not so badly off with tents, bedding and food sufficient for a number of days at least, and fresh water doubtless to be found somewhere near.

Eskimos Sent for Relief.

As soon as it was light enough, I climbed up to obtain a view and was able to fix our position as approximately twenty miles up the fjord from its mouth. We knew that about twenty-five miles down the Greenland coast was Kangamiut, a small Eskimo fishing settlement.

It was decided to send two of our Eskimo who knew the coast in the little dinghy with a request to the master of the settlement that he send a motor boat to our rescue. The sea was at the time heavy and we had some concern lest our messenger should be held up until better weather. We then settled down to dry our clothing, find a place for our tents and make ourselves as comfortable as possible.

The second day passed and the morning of the third without relief. I had just sent one of our Eskimos out with his rifle after Arctic hare and Stewart with his fishing rod after cod, and had decided to strictly ration our little party, when a motor boat was seen coming up the fjord. It was the Nipisak from Sukkertoppen, sent by Bestyrer Essermann with Kiakemester Nielsen, the teacher Nielstroem and the sturdy Bestyrer of Kangamiut, Alexander Goettebensen, with both solid and liquid refreshment in abundance. Needless to say, they were warmly and gratefully welcomed by our marooned party.

Start Again in New Boat.

An examination of the wreck indicated that it can probably be salvaged, especially as the Nipisak brought empty steel drums. With the others aboard we reached Kangamiut before dark of the 7th and were royally feasted and housed there by the jovial Bestyrer Goettebensen, to whom we are under great obligations.

By daylight of the 8th we were off Sukkertoppen, where we arrived at noon, and were again honored guests, this time of Bestyrer Essermann and his wife. We hoped to connect at Godthaab with the motor ship Disko, for Essermann let us have the Nipisak, this time with a new Eskimo skipper familiar with the 120 miles of reef-lined coast yet to be covered.

Little did we realize that we had ahead of us an experience beside which that of the Soendre Stromfjord was commonplace, though our good luck was with us and we came through unscathed. All the afternoon the motor gave trouble and finally it was necessary to anchor behind some reefs and overhaul extensively, so that we could not get off again till late afternoon.

Night Spent Dodging Reefs.

I understood the skipper's pantomime request to me to mean that he would go out from the coast and later find a harbor to anchor and sleep. But once we were out beyond the line of reefs the sea rose and all night we were tossed about just off the line of reefs, with the motor at full speed to keep steerageway.

The skipper in the darkness was trying to lay his course by chart and compass, intermittently illumined by flashlight. Just before dawn we ran into white water above a reef, but the heavy sea carried us over. It was a nightmare which we all hoped not to have repeated at Godthaab, where on the 10th we arrived at 7 in the morning.

There we found the Disko about to sail, and in the harbor the freighter Fulton of 800 tons under Captain Almsted, who was about to sail to Ivigtut for a cargo of cryolite and thence to Copenhagen. The genial captain invited us to go with him to Copenhagen if we could feed and bed ourselves. We gratefully accepted his kind offer and have been most comfortable. This should bring us to Copenhagen about the 26th and to New York about Oct. 10.

"Tailwind," Dog Mascot, Is Lost.

"Tailwind," the Sealyham terrier, which was the mascot of the recent 'round-the-world trip by John Henry Mears, is lost. Its master, one of the two men who make the trip, is awaiting the dog's return at the Lambs clubhouse. Mears was visiting friends on Wednesday at 1,661 East Eighth Street, near Ocean Parkway, Brooklyn, when the dog ran from the house and disappeared. The dog is almost entirely white. It wore a harness and collar when lost, the license bearing the number 18375.

POLITICAL ATTACKS BAR SCHOOL FORUM

Dr. O'Shea Asserts P. S. 15 Body Permitted Scurrilous Talk Against Smith and Walker.

LEADER IGNORES HEARING

Board of Education Forbids All Partisanship at Meetings, Superintendent Declares.

The Board of Education revoked the permit of the Public Forum of Brooklyn Heights to use P. S. 15, State Street and Third Avenue, Brooklyn, because of scurrilous attacks made at some of the meetings on Governor Smith, Mayor Walker and other public officials, Dr. William J. O'Shea, Superintendent of Schools, said yesterday afternoon after William J. Dilthey, Chairman of the Forum, failed to attend a hearing in the rooms of the Board of Superintendents, 560 Park Avenue, Manhattan.

Dr. O'Shea said that he had received a letter yesterday morning from Mr. Dilthey informing him that he would not attend the hearing on the Forum's appeal from the decision of Eugene C. Gibney, Director of Extension Activities, preventing the Forum from making further use of the school, which it has used for three years as a meeting place.

Mr. Gibney said he had revoked the Forum's privilege to use the school hall after reading reports from his supervisors on the character of the meetings conducted by the Dilthey organization. On Aug. 29 one of the supervisors, Herman Brown, attended a meeting and wrote a report which prompted Mr. Gibney to notify the Chairman of the Forum on Sept. 5 that no further meetings would be permitted. One of the abusive attacks on Governor Smith's character and parentage was read to the reporters by Mr. Brown.

"Their permit was revoked because they abused the privilege granted them," Dr. O'Shea said. "A forum is not supposed to be turned into a partisan meeting. It is to be used to discuss questions of an educational or social character without resorting to personal abuse of public officials or using the abusive language attributed to various persons who addressed the meetings."

Dr. O'Shea said that the opening of schools to discussion groups was left to the discretion of the Board of Education and was not a right granted by an act of the Legislature, as was maintained last Wednesday night by Mr. Dilthey at the indignation meeting held in Heffley's Business School, 537 Fulton Street, Brooklyn. At that meeting Mr. Dilthey said that he would not attend the hearing granted by Dr. O'Shea because the latter had ignored his request to hold Wednesday night's meeting at the school, and a resolution was drawn up protesting the revocation of the permit and calling on city, State and Federal officials to correct the "injustice."

COOLIDGE RECOGNIZES ALBANIAN KINGDOM

Messages Sent to Zogu by President and Kellogg Laud His Government.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 13.—Announcement that the United States had extended diplomatic recognition to the Kingdom of Albania was made by the State Department today.

It is understood President Coolidge considered that the change from a republic to a monarchy was accomplished by constitutional means and therefore no obstacle existed to the extending of recognition.

This was done with the understanding that commercial relations, as determined by an exchange of notes on June 22, 1922, are safeguarded as between the United States and Albania.

Secretary Kellogg yesterday instructed Charles C. Hart, American Minister at Tirana, to hand the Minister of Foreign Affairs of Albania a note reading:

My Government has taken note of the action of the Constituent Assembly of Albania in changing the form of the Government of Albania to that of a constitutional monarchy and in proclaiming President Ahmed Zogu, "Zogu I, King of the Albanians."

I now take pleasure in informing your Excellency under instructions from my Government that the Government of the United States extends recognition to the Kingdom of Albania, it being understood that the exchange of notes of June 22, 1922, between the United States and Albania and the provisions of Albanian law enacted in pursuance therewith will continue in force.

At the same time President Coolidge addressed the following telegram to his Majesty Zogu I, King of the Albanians, at Tirana:

It is with pleasure that I extend to your Majesty and to the people of Albania congratulations on the occasion of your accession to the throne. The American people join with me in expressing best wishes for your Majesty's good health and happiness and for the prosperity of Albania. CALVIN COOLIDGE.

CHRISTIANS GREET JEWS ON NEW YEAR

5689 BEGINS THIS SUNDOWN

Dr. Cyrus Adler, in Rosh ha-Shanah Message, Says Every Jew Should Be a Member of a Synagogue.

A greeting to the Jews of the world, whose New Year, the year 5689, begins at sundown today, was issued yesterday by the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America through its Committee on Good-will between Jews and Christians. The President of the Council is the Rev. Dr. S. Parkes Cadman. This is the first time the council has recognized their Jewish fellow citizens in such manner.

"We Christians extend our sincere well wishes to the Jews," said the statement issued from the headquarters at 105 East Twenty-second Street. "As your 5689th year opens this evening we hope that Christians and Jews may make this a year of increased mutual understanding. Joined in a common enterprise—the progress of mankind—we believe we may find our unity as we realize our interdependence. Christians appreciate your achievements in the arts, the sciences, philosophy and in religion. In a very real sense you enrich humanity."

The committee includes the Rev. Alfred W. Anthony, the Rev. Henry A. Atkinson, the Rev. Dr. Samuel M. Cavert, Dr. John H. Finley, Raymond B. Fosdick, Dr. Robert L. Kelly, Bishop Arthur S. Lloyd, the Rev. Dr. Charles S. Macfarland, the Rev. Dr. John A. Marquis, the Very Rev. Howard Chandler Robbins, William H. Short, the Rev. Dr. Stanley White and Everett R. Clinchy. Mr. Clinchy is Secretary.

Dr. Cyrus Adler, President of the Jewish Theological Seminary of America and President of Dropsie College of Hebrew and Cognate Learning, Philadelphia, yesterday, in a Rosh ha-Shanah message, declared that every Jew in America should be affiliated with a synagogue. Yesterday happened to be the sixty-fifth birthday of Dr. Adler.

Rabbi Stephen S. Wise of the Free Synagogue issued a Rosh ha-Shanah message yesterday. He declared that two things were needful in Rumania, "the unity of Jewish forces with a view to safeguarding the life and property of Jews wherever these may be endangered or violated, and again the bringing to bear of public opinion upon the League of Nations and other international instrumentalities which are to insure the fulfillment of the minorities' rights under the treaties of Versailles."

Dr. Wise pleaded for united action. "If Jews cannot unite for this exigent purpose, then we are cursed by cureless division and incapacity for concerted effort," he declared.

Gustav A. Rogers issued a New Year's statement yesterday saying he had retired as President of the Jewish Centre, 131 West Eighty-sixth Street, because it is his intention "to engage actively and as a partisan in the coming presidential election." He said he resigned "lest the institution seemingly be drawn into the political contest." Mr. Rogers made a plea of some length for religious tolerance. He does not mention whom he will support, but it was learned this will be Governor Smith.

The Postal Telegraph Company is offering for the first time in history through its new photogram service an opportunity to send Jewish New Year greetings in actual Hebraic characters. The company is also prepared to transmit photographs with greeting messages inscribed thereon at the regular rates for picture transmission.

For what is said to be the first time in the history of the Jew in America a hotel will help the Jews to observe their high holidays. Beginning at sunset today the grand ballroom of Libby's Hotel, Delancey and Chrystie Streets, will be used as a synagogue for the out-of-town guests who are spending the holiday season in New York. The Rev. Dr. Jacob Cohen, assisted by a choir of eighteen, will usher in Rosh Ha-Shanah. Services will also be held here tomorrow and Sunday mornings.

Charles M. Schwab, writing as "a proverbial optimist" in today's New Year issue of the American Hebrew Magazine, which is devoted to the principle of better understanding between Christian and Jew, declared he believes that international business is restoring economic equilibrium throughout the world and effecting better understanding among men.

HOOVER GREETS JEWS FOR ROSH HA-SHANAH

A message for the Jewish New Year, which begins this evening, was received yesterday from Herbert Hoover by Herman Bernstein, a friend of the candidate.

Mr. Hoover extolled the cooperation of the United States with his American Relief Association and praised their work of redeeming the Holy Land. His message reads:

"On the occasion of Rosh ha-Shanah, the Jewish New Year, I wish to express my profound admiration for the fine public spirit and high ideals of my fellow-citizens of the Jewish faith. I have had numerous opportunities to observe their wholehearted devotion to American ideals and institutions and their extraordinary generosity in all charitable, humanitarian, relief and reconstruction efforts. Their cooperation with the American Relief Association, individually and especially through the Joint Distribution Committee, constitutes a contribution of which any nation may justly be proud.

"I have also watched with keen interest and sympathy the splendid work for the upbuilding of Palestine, in which so many American Jews take an important part, in behalf of their less fortunate brethren abroad. It is a historic task that the Jewish people is meeting with unexampled perseverance, sacrifice and hard work. The Holy Land, desolate and neglected for centuries, is being rebuilt not only as an inspiring spiritual centre but also as a habitable and peaceful land that will in the near future harbor a larger population, with increased opportunities for prosperity among the farmers, the industrialists, the laborers and the scholars.

"The reports of my representatives in the Department of Commerce indicate that unmistakable progress has already been made in a very short time and that, notwithstanding all hardships and handicaps, the task of regenerating the Holy Land will be successfully fulfilled, for the good of all the inhabitants of the land of the Bible."

TEACHER WINS FIGHT TO PROVE FITNESS

HER SANITY ESTABLISHED

Dr. Altman Had Declared That She Was Suffering From a "Paranoid Form of Psychosis."

Efforts of school officials to have Mary B. C. Byrne, a teacher in the Model School of the New York Training School for Teachers, retired because of "mental incapacity" came to nothing yesterday when the Medical Board of the Board of Retirement reported her "not incapacitated." Two of the three physicians of the board, Edward S. McSweeney and Mary Dunning Rose, examined Miss Byrne on July 5, after she had appeared several times before the Retirement Board to protest that she was sane.

On Oct. 11, 1927, when the Board of Education, at the recommendation of Superintendent William J. O'Shea, asked the Retirement Board to retire her, Miss Byrne had been on the payroll of the school for eighteen months without being allowed to enter a classromm. Dr. Hugo Newman, the principal of the training school, had brought charges of "inefficiency" against her. She had been in the school system for twenty-two years.

The case was brought before the Law Committee of the Board of Education, which held hearings in March and June, 1927. Dr. Emil Altman, Chief Medical Examiner of the school system, declared that she was suffering from a "paranoid form of psychosis" and urged her retirement. He said a leave of absence would not do "much good, because the case is too far gone." "Her protestations of sanity are a feature of the disease," Dr. Altman said then.

Dr. Altman's position was supported by Dr. O'Shea. The Teachers' Union, however, urged that Miss Byrne should not have been "deprived of her rights as a teacher on the mere dictum of Dr. Altman." Later in the year the union brought charges of "intimidation and mistreatment of teachers" against the chief medical examiner, but the Byrne case was not used in its arguments.

In her appearance before the Board of Retirement Miss Byrne apparently made a good impression and one member of the board was heard to remark that "if that woman is suffering from a psychosis, so am I." After various conferences at which Miss Byrne was understood to have insisted to have her physician present at the examination, an appointment was fixed and the examination finally was made on July 5. The laconic report of the two physicians said: "Not incapacitated, therefore not recommended for retirement."

The Medical Board of the Retirement Board has the final word in matters of retirement. The Retirement Board has no discretion in such cases after receiving the report of its physicians.

Miss Byrne's friends have been urging, during the last few years since her trouble began, that she was an exceptionally able teacher and was the victim of "personal" or "official" prejudice. Although she was barred from her classroom in the model school of the training school, Miss Byrne continued to teach in various evening schools without interruption. Dr. O'Shea said she had been "an unusually capable teacher in the past."

CODE DISPUTE SPLITS TELEGRAPHIC CONGRESS

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BRUSSELS, Sept. 13.—A dispute over regulations for code messages may break up tomorrow the congress of the International Telegraphic Union here.

France, supported by a majority of the fifty nations represented, advocated a reduction of code words from ten to five letters, and other changes which involve increased rates.

Great Britain, the United States, Italy and the International Chamber of Commerce oppose those suggestions and will quit the conference if adopted.

The United States sent delegates, although not a member of the Congress, because the Government owns no telegraph or cable. The International Chamber of Commerce is represented by Robert E. Olds, the former American Under Secretary of State, who does not object to the code changes, but insists that the rates should not be increased.

Britain disapproves of code alteration because this would necessitate complete revision of the code books, which would be too expensive.

A compromise proposition would divide the existing ten-letter code words into two five-letter code words with the rates reduced 50 per cent. It is estimated that the increase in rates originally proposed would augment the cost of telegraphing and cabling $50,000,000 annually.

B. M. T. IS EXPECTED TO RE-ELECT BOARD

Choice of Directors Following Termination of Voting Trust Comes Up Tuesday.

SALE PLAN MAY BE WEIGHED

Officials Likely to Receive Power to Deal With the City on Unification Program.

At their first meeting, which will be held following the termination of the voting trust, which was in existence for five years and ended on July 1, 1928, the stockholders of the Brooklyn-Manhattan Transit Corporation are expected to reelect as directors those whose terms of office expire this year, it was learned authoritatively yesterday. It was said, however, that the release of stock formerly held under the voting trust agreement of July 2, 1923, would allow some changes to be made in the constitution of the board of directors.

The annual meeting of stockholders will be held next Tuesday at the Brooklyn offices of the company. The announcement of the meeting simply stated as its purpose the election of directors and the transaction of current business. It is considered in Wall Street, however, that the matter of sale of the B. M. T. lines to the city may be introduced at the meeting.

The Untermyer plan for the unification of recapturable transit lines with those of the city's independent system is reported to have the approval in principle of the Brooklyn-Manhattan Transit Corporation. The plan provides for the payment of the recapture price for the city-owned B. M. T. subway lines, the matter of price being the chief difficulty confronting the city, due to the high figure which the B. M. T. has placed on its elevated lines, particularly the Sea Beach and Brighton Beach divisions, which are considered vital to unified operation.

The Untermyer plan is now in the hands of the Board of Estimate. Although the next regular meeting of the Board of Estimate will be held on Sept. 22, it will at that time begin preparation of the city's budget, which will require the whole of October. Early in November it is expected that the board will adopt a resolution rejecting or approving in whole or in part the Untermyer plan, possibly suggesting some amendments thereto.

Meanwhile, Mr. Untermyer and his assistants are understood to have continued negotiations on behalf of the Transit Commission with officials of the Brooklyn-Manhattan Transit Corporation, so that it is readily conceivable the stockholders may be made acquainted with the status of negotiations at their meeting. It is also possible that the directors of the company will ask the stockholders to pass resolutions indicating the company's policy as regards the unification plan as a whole or as regards the matter of price, thereby arming the directors with increased authority in the negotiations with the city.

room, evidently leaving the third outside while they surveyed the situation. One man exposed a hand smeared with iodine and asked about having it dressed. Marrin at a glance saw that the hand did not need attention and promptly told the man so.

Apparently satisfied, he and his companion walked away and were heard on the stairway. In a moment they returned and insisted that a dressing be put on the hand. Marrin stepped to the front of the room to call a nurse on the telephone. The booth is on the opposite side of the doorway from where Brosnan was seated. While Marrin was in the booth the third man entered, and from a position at one side and slightly behind, which gave him a profile view, discharged a sawed-off shotgun point blank at Brosnan's head. The gun was partly in his sleeve and strapped to his left hand, so that he had to reach across and pull the trigger with his right hand.

The roar of the gun echoed and re-echoed in the empty corridors. The three men leisurely walked to the stairway and went out. They made no attempt to get drugs and no attempt to liberate James Ward of 565 West 148th Street, who was the only prisoner in the prison ward. He was sound asleep and was still dazed from sleep eight minutes later when District Attorney McGeehan arrived to question him.

Gives Chase in Taxicab.

Marrin ran from the ambulance entrance and hailed a passing cab, which he commanded to chase the dirt-encrusted gray sedan in which the murderers were speeding down Southern Boulevard to East Fordham Road. At the intersection brightly lighted signs gave Marrin a chance to see the last three numbers of a New Jersey license, which he said were 126.

The taxicab driver, in his eagerness to catch the car, fed too much gas and choked his engine, which gave the thugs a chance to escape.

Mr. McGeehan, Inspector George Liebers and Inspector John Duane, in charge of Bronx detectives, were soon at the hospital and started an investigation of the murder. All the police resources of New York City were thrown into motion to find the murderers, but they started and stopped at the insurmountable wall of "what was the motive."

News of the crime was flashed into every police station in the city and from there relayed to every patrolman on a beat in the routine process of sealing the exits from the city. During the course of this procedure John O'Sullivan, a patrolman attached to the High Bridge Station in the Bronx, stationed at a booth at Tremont and University Avenue, first learned of the murder of his uncle.

The first thought of the fifty or more detectives at work on the case was that the murder was for revenge, but a close check-up on the life and work of the dead patrolman furnished no support to this idea. He had been at the hospital for seven years and in the department twenty-four years and was noted for his kindliness and gentle ways.

"He had not made an arrest in twenty years," District Attorney McGeehan said. His personal life was above reproach.

Resembled None Who Replaced Him.

Brosnan returned from vacation on Monday. Of the five or six men who filled in while he was away none bears the slightest physical resemblance to him. He had never, as far as could be learned, made any enemies among the prisoners who had been under his care.

Mr. McGeehan questioned at length yesterday afternoon as many prisoners who had been in the hospital under Brosnan as could be found and also employes of the hospital.

The investigation disclosed that the gunmen had not spoken a word either to or about Brosnan. An early report had it that one said, "That's him, give it to him." It later transpired that this suggestion had been supplied for Marrin by a detective in his eagerness to find a motive. Marrin denied this statement and stuck to his original story that there was no remark, simply the deliberate killing of a man dozing against the wall and paying no attention to what was going on.

Another false lead run down during the day was that an automobile with a New Jersey license found abandoned at Fort Hamilton Parkway and Sixty-first Street, Brooklyn, was the car used by the gunmen. Marrin viewed the car and said it was not the one. It had been stolen Wednesday night at Coney Island from Joseph Standinger of 91 East Lee Street, East Paterson, N. J.

Marrin was taken to headquarters, where he made the identification of the picture of McLaughlin. McLaughlin, known as a desperate criminal who faces life imprisonment if caught, has been at liberty since his escape from Sing Sing July 15 with James Nannery. He had been wounded when arrested on Nov. 20, 1927, in a battle with Detectives Frank Hogan and Edward Schnaible in an unlighted room at 394 West Ninety-second Street and had been sentenced to twelve and a half to twenty-five years for robbery.

After Marrin had left, Inspector Coughlin denied any identification had been made, but later at the hospital the orderly said he had told the police he thought the picture of McLaughlin "looked like" one of the gunmen.

"No one has been identified," Inspector Coughlin said. "We are at a loss as to why Brosnan was shot and killed. So far as our investigation shows, he had no enemies."

A theory considered for a time and later discarded was that the men came to the hospital to wreak gang vengeance on James Ward, alias James Wood, the only prisoner in the hospital. However, after questioning him and his relatives this theory was abandoned. He was arrested three weeks ago after an attempted hold-up. He broke his legs and an arm during an attempt to escape by jumping from the fifth floor of an apartment to a second floor extension roof. But, though he has served a previous prison term, he was notoriously tight-lipped and could not be classed as a "squealer."

Leaves Family of Eight.

Brosnan leaves a wife, Bridget, and seven grown children; Mrs. Catherine O'Brien, Mrs. Anna Ward and Mrs. Helen Ahearn, Cornelius, John, Daniel and Joseph.

Mrs. Brosnan was told of the death of her husband over the telephone, but not of the manner in which he died. She went to the hospital immediately with two of her sons, but collapsed and had to be taken home when she learned that he had been murdered.

It was announced at Police Headquarters that she will receive $500 from the police relief fund immediately and $5,000 in monthly instalments of $50, and also will be privileged to apply for his retirement pay, amounting to $1,250 a year, for the rest of her life.

An Inspector's funeral will be given to Patrolman Brosnan at 11 o'clock tomorrow morning. A requiem mass will be celebrated in Our Lady of Mercy Church, 2,414 Marion Avenue, the Bronx. Burial will be at Calvary Cemetery.

Sentenced as Drunken Driver.

Anthony R. Lobianco, 28 years old, a salesman of 1,698 Third Avenue, was sentenced to thirty days in the workhouse and had his license revoked yesterday by Chief Magistrate McAdoo for driving while intoxicated at Sixtieth Street and Second Avenue, Wednesday. Adam Kettner, 32 years old, a chauffeur of 856 Davidson Avenue, the Bronx, was held without bail pending sentence Monday on charges of driving while intoxicated, reckless driving and driving without a license. Kettner was arrested Wednesday following a collision between the automobile he was driving and a car owned by Herman F. Jaeger of 702 West End Avenue.

LIMIT OPERA SINGERS' PAY.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

VIENNA, Sept. 13.—At a special conference held in Vienna among the opera directors of Austria and Germany an agreement was entered into that henceforth no singer, with only three exceptions, shall receive more than $250 [roughly] a night. The exceptions are Mme. Jeritza, Alfred Piccaver, the American, whose reputation has long been established here, and the young Polish tenor, Jan Kiepura, who has created something of a sensation in Europe during the past two seasons.

Whether the directors will be able to make the new "wage scale" stand is open to question. Announcement of the agreement caused indignation among the singers and a movement is expected which may result in a close organization, which ultimately may resort to the usual methods of strikes.

MINISTER IS UNFROCKED.

D. A. Hipps Ousted at Memphis by the Cumberland Presbyterians.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Sept. 13 (AP).—The Rev. D. A. Hipps was unfrocked and excommunicated from fellowship of the Church by the Memphis Presbytery of the Cumberland Presbyterian Church here today. He was charged with unbecoming conduct for making the remark "that if a man should stand up for the right in the Memphis Presbytery he would have his head cut off."

After unfrocking the minister, the Presbytery voted down a resolution "deploring and condemning the effort being made by politicians and newspapers to humiliate and discredit ministers of the churches for taking part in the moral questions pertaining to the national political campaign."

"WE are young; still, we decide to get married. We manage to join a country club, even to buy a little plot of ground in a charming village on the edge of the city. We are people of good taste with a young pocketbook. We must build a proper little house on our little plot of ground. We must surround it with an alluring garden. We must fill it with fine but uncostly furniture and drape it with stuffs that are as beautiful as they are reasonably priced. We need advice.

D'OLIER BELIEVED HE WAS WATCHED

Oil Man Tells Newcombe of Fear Expressed by Slain Sanitation Engineer.

D'Olier's Sister Says Prosecutor Showed Disposition to Conceal Evidence From Widow.

William L. D'Olier, sanitation engineer, whose body with a bullet through the right temple was found a week ago last Sunday outside a cemetery in Maspeth, Queens, feared that he was being pursued by somebody, so District Attorney Newcombe was told. Edgar C. Wallace, who is in the oil business in Tulsa, Okla., and is stopping at the Biltmore Hotel, informed the prosecutor yesterday that Mr. D'Olier told him of this fear a month before his death.

It transpired yesterday that Mrs. E. S. Hopkins of Rutherford, N. J., a sister of the dead man, and George Voss, counsel for the widow, are not in agreement on the seriousness of Mr. Newcombe in his investigation. Mrs. Hopkins, at the D'Olier home in Pelham Heights, Westchester, accused the prosecutor of suppressing facts indicating that her brother was murdered, while Mr. Voss, in a statement issued at the prosecutor's office, insisted that he was not aware of any criticism by the family of Mr. Newcombe's handling of the case.

Sister Criticizes Newcombe.

Mrs. Hopkins later told a reporter for THE TIMES that a published interview with an unidentified member of the family was correct in every detail. This interview described District Attorney Newcombe and a detective who accompanied him to the D'Olier home last Friday evening as evincing reluctance to show the widow the clothes worn by her husband at the time of his death and endeavoring to make light of dirt stains on one of the knees of the trousers, which, it was contended, was evidence that the engineer had been in a struggle.

It also charged that there was a disposition on the part of the visitors to minimize the importance of tears on the lapel of the coat and the neck of the vest by saying that the garments were torn when the body was handled.

Complaint also was made in the interview that Mr. Newcombe had refused the request of the D'Olier family for the attendance of the family physician at the autopsy.

It also was charged that Mr. Newcombe was concealing the fact that in his talk with Mrs. D'Olier she told him that on the morning before his death her husband had taken from the attic of their home papers which, he said, had bearing on the Queens sewer investigation of the Extraordinary Grand Jury.

Mr. Newcombe indignantly denied that he was suppressing evidence in the case. He declared that from the start of the investigation, at the request of Francis D'Olier, a brother of the dead man, he had laid before Mr. Voss, in the brother's presence, every bit of evidence which had come into his possession.

He also declared that he had shown Mr. D'Olier's suit to both men in his office, had commented on the fact that there were dirt marks on the trousers, and discussed the torn garments. He said that he arranged for the lawyer and Mr. D'Olier to call on Dr. Thomas F. Gonzales, Chief Deputy Medical Examiner, who participated in the autopsy, and that Dr. Gonzales spent two or three hours with them, discussing every phase of the findings of the autopsy.

"Not a single word was said to me about papers in the attic," declared the prosecutor.

Wallace Supplements Statement.

Mr. Wallace called on Mr. Newcombe to supplement a statement he had made of meeting with Mr. D'Olier before his death. Mr. Wallace had quoted Mr. D'Olier as having said that before the Grand Jury investigation of the Queens sewer scandal was over "somebody would be bumped off."

Gilbert C. Waldrop, lawyer and business associate of Mr. D'Olier, was with the oil man in the latter's suite in the Biltmore on the afternoon of Aug. 30. Mr. Wallace told the prosecutor, when Mr. D'Olier entered.

"Don't say to anybody that you saw me here," Mr. Wallace quoted the engineer as having said.

"I said to him: 'What's the matter, is the Sheriff after you?'" Mr. Wallace went on, "and he replied: 'I don't know who's after me.'"

Mr. Newcombe said that last Friday Mrs. D'Olier told of a telephone call from her husband on the afternoon before his death.

"Mrs. D'Olier told me that her husband called her about 3 P. M.," the prosecutor continued, "and said that he was going to Queens to meet some people. He said that he expected that he might be late, in fact so late that he might not be home that night. Mrs. D'Olier said that her husband did not mention the names of the persons he expected to meet or where the meeting was to take place."

Fifteen minutes before this telephone call Mr. D'Olier had left Mr. Waldrop at the Plaza Hotel, where they had lunch. When they were parting, the lawyer has told the prosecutor, Mr. D'Olier remarked that he had a dinner engagement with a friend in Queens that night, after which he was to attend a conference of contractors in connection with the Queens sewer investigation. Mr. Waldrop also has said that he believed from another remark by the engineer that the conference was in connection with efforts to raise a sum to bribe somebody in connection with his testimony in the sewer investigation. Mr. Waldrop also said that Mr. D'Olier did not mention the names of those he was to meet or where he was to meet them, Mr. Newcombe stated.

Mr. Newcombe said that he had not been informed officially of a report that Robert Moore, an electrical contractor in Long Island City and a friend of the dead man, had said that Mr. D'Olier last year had made payments of $50,000 to Mr. Waldrop, his lawyer.

"Nothing like that has come to my attention," Mr. Newcombe said. "Before I heard it, Mr. Waldrop had promised to show me his books on his business relations with Mr. D'Olier."

Assistant District Attorney Thornton of Mr. Newcombe's staff is expected to return from Louisville today to report on his questioning of business associates of Mr. D'Olier and others in connection with this contract.

Child Who Sold Liquor Freed; Obeyed Mother, Court Finds

Federal Judge Clayton of Brooklyn dismissed a charge of selling liquor against an eleven-year-old girl yesterday, with the remark that she had done nothing more than to obey the commandment "Honor thy father and mother."

Olga Rebecca and her mother Anna, who conducts a stationery store at 1,155 Washington Avenue, Mariners Harbor, S. I., were arrested after police of the Ninth Division bought a bottle of home brew from the girl. She was alone in the store under orders to mind it until her mother's return. When Mrs. Rebracca returned the police seized a small quantity of whisky in the store. The mother was charged with possessing liquor and corrupting the morals of a minor. She was fined $10.

"I shall dismiss the charge against you," Judge Clayton said to Olga. "The United States Government is not anxious to persecute little girls. You carried out the commandment 'Honor thy father and mother,' by staying in the store as your mother told you. That is your only offense."

KING REUNITES RIVALS IN BULGARIAN CABINET

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

SOFIA, Sept. 13.—King Boris today emerged as a temporary victor in the Bulgarian Government crisis. How long he will retain the dominant position is uncertain, but it is certain that he has had his own way so far. As a result of his strong hand the opposing factions led by War Minister Wolkoff and Foreign Buroff are once more included in the Cabinet, with M. Liapcheff Premier again.

The new Ministry is almost the same as that which resigned ten days ago. One addition was the appointment of a new Minister of Transportation. Both Messrs. Buroff and Wolkoff, after being lectured by the King on their duties as responsible leaders, consented to rejoin the Government so that the impression might not gain ground abroad that Bulgaria was a land of turmoil and hence should not be trusted with loans it sorely desires.

No one believes that the Government will remain long in power. The animosities, personal and political, between Messrs. Wolkoff and Buroff are too deep to be removed or even to remain dormant long.

The basis on which these two men resume their posts is not known. There is little likilihood, however, that the War Minister has agreed that the Government should carry out the Franco-British demand to dissolve the Macedonian revolutionary organization headed by his supporter, Ivan Mihailoff. Possibly, however, some arrangement will be made with Mihailoff so that assassinations cease temporarily.

That Premier Liapcheff realizes that only a thin thread binds the new Cabinet together was revealed tonight when the Government made its debut in Parliament. The opposition proposed that the first thing on the Agenda should be the debate on the Government program. Premier Liapcheff replied that such a debate was unnecessary because the Government was the same as before.

Had the debate been allowed it is probable that it would have made it necessary for the more prominent leaders to make statements which would either allenate their own followers or else offend their opponents.

PHILADELPHIA 'RING' GENEROUS TO POLICE

Hoff Gave Lavish Christmas Presents, Taking Receipts, Prosecutor Says.

JURY HEARS BUREAU CHIEFS

Some Officers Are Said to Have Admitted Getting Gifts—Mayor Plans to 'Weed Out' Force.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 13.—Evidence that Christmas gifts had been distributed on a grand scale to members of the Police Bureau by Max ("Boo Boo") Hoff, reputed "bootlegger king," and "the boys" of his organization resulted in high officials of the bureau being called today before the special Grand Jury under District Attorney John Monaghan.

Theodore C. Wood, Assistant Director of Public Safety; Caleb J. Brinton, Assistant Superintendent of Police, and William Connelly, Inspector of Detectives, were among those questioned on the subject of the presents by the body investigating charges that organized bootlegging, vice and crime exist here on a large scale.

A second high light in the investigation during the day was a Grand Jury call issued to members of Police Unit 1, the liquor raiding squad, organized by Brig. Gen. Smedley D. Butler when he was Philadelphia's Director of Public Safety and disbanded with the incoming of Mayor Harry A. Mackey's administration.

Other developments were:

Charges were filed with the Civil Service Commission against Charles C. Beckman, captain of detectives, suspended upon the Grand Jury's recommendation and branded as "unfit to hold public office." Beckman will be brought to trial before the commission on Sept. 28. He is cited for "conduct unbecoming an officer" in that he "cooperated in the commission of certain unlawful acts."

Mayor Mackey announced that "a number of police" would be brought to trial and that "undesirables will be weeded out of the force." Coupled with this was his statement that he believed the majority of Philadelphia's policemen were above suspicion of corruption.

Messrs. Wood, Brinton and Connelly were called to testify before the jury as a result of the discovery made by investigators that Hoff kept a record of the largess he distributed at the Christmas season. The gifts to police officials in 1926 totaled in value nearly $250,000, Mr. Monaghan said, and were in addition to alleged bribe money.

Portions of the list made public show that except for Harry C. Davis, the Director of Public Safety, andley-Carteret. William B. Mills, Superintendent of Police, virtually every Police Bureau official was included. On the list were five police captains, James Barry, John Clay, Charles Cohen, Richard Farley and W. Fetters; also James Heran, Assistant Superintendent of Police; George Bens, Lieutenant of Detectives; City Hall Detectives Farrell, Peacock and Ryan and Sergeant Schinzle.

"The gifts marked from Hoff and the boys were sent to the police at their homes, and it was necessary for them to sign receipts," Mr. Monaghan asserted. "We have the receipts, and they form an important element in the evidence."

After the examinations had been concluded, it was said that some of the police officers had frankly admitted the gifts, while others had entered general denials.

While the investigation was in progress, Hoff strolled up and down the corridors outside the jury room. He exchanged cheerful greetings with many of the gold-braided policemen summoned to appear and received friendly hails in return. Hoff was called before the Grand Jury, but it was only for three minutes.

DUPES SAXON MERCHANTS.

Private Poses as Imperial Army Officer and Gets Rich Quickly.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, Sept. 13.—Medals, imperial uniforms, monocles and titles still hold their prewar sway over the populace of the Saxon Mountains as was shown by the recent escapade of a pseudo officer of the ex-Kaisers bodyguard.

Guido Behrens, a rear rank private, found money making an elusive game by honest methods. He assumed all the titles, habits and habiliments of an officer of the imperial army, whereupon he found tradesmen and manufacturers eager to sell him goods at wholesale on his promissory notes.

To get money he disposed of his purchases at a low cash price, bought larger quantities and with this money met payments when the first notes fell due.

Behrens managed to live on a grand scale and his scheme worked well for a year before his house of cards tumbled. It was learned that the names of the witnesses summoned before the Grand Jury had been written on the back of bills of indictment filed in the office of the Clerk of Court. United States Attorney George W. Coles had previously resorted to other many means to keep secret the identities of these witnesses.

No Warrant Here for Norris.

At the residence of Alfred E. Norris, 55 East Seventy-second Street, it was said last night that Mr. Norris was out of the city. Whether or not he had gone to Philadelphia, either in response to a request from the authorities or in order to satisfy himself as to the circumstances of his reported indictment, could not be learned, as it was said at his home that no one knew where he had gone or when he would return, save that he would not return before today.

It was definitely learned that no warrant for Mr. Norris's arrest, or request from the Philadelphia authorities for his removal to the Philadelphia district, had been issued or received here. At the United States Attorney's office, it was explained that, in the event of Mr. Norris's removal to Philadelphia, the authorities there would first place the matter in the hands of the United States Attorney here, and this up to yesterday evening had not been done.

At the time of a raid at Mr. Norris's apartment much criticism was leveled at Maurice Campbell, Prohibition Administrator here, and Major Campbell was finally required by the State Department to make a personal apology to Mr. Norris's son-in-law, Raoul d'Alevra, a Rumanian diplomatic courier.

According to the circumstances as told by Mr. Morris and Mr. d'Alevra, several prohibition agents forced their way into the rear entrance to the apartment just after an express package had been delivered. Mrs. d'Alevra and the cook were in the apartment at the time, and they were said to have been threatened and abused by the agents. An employe of the apartment house who saw the agents said that they appeared to be intoxicated. As a result of the treatment accorded her by the agents, who placed her under temporary arrest, Mrs. d'Alevra was said to have been confined to her bed suffering from nervous shock for several days.

The matter was finally settled when the Rumanian Minister presented a complaint from Mr. d'Alevra to the State Department. Even after this was done Major Campbell insisted that the published accounts of the affair were without foundation in truth. It was some time afterward when it was learned from Washington that he had been required to apologize for the raid.

PUPILS TO DO THE TALKING.

St. Louis School Head Plans to Try Out New System.

Children in the St. Louis schools this year will be expected to do 80 per cent. of the talking. Teachers are to be confined theoretically to 20 per cent. of the class hour for audible instruction.

While no orders have actually gone forth to this effect, it is reported by the St. Louis New Service, sponsored by business and civic groups of that city, that it is the ideal of public school educators as outlined by District Superintendent F. M. Underwood of that city, and in the southern half of St. Louis at least, a determined effort will be made to place it in effect.

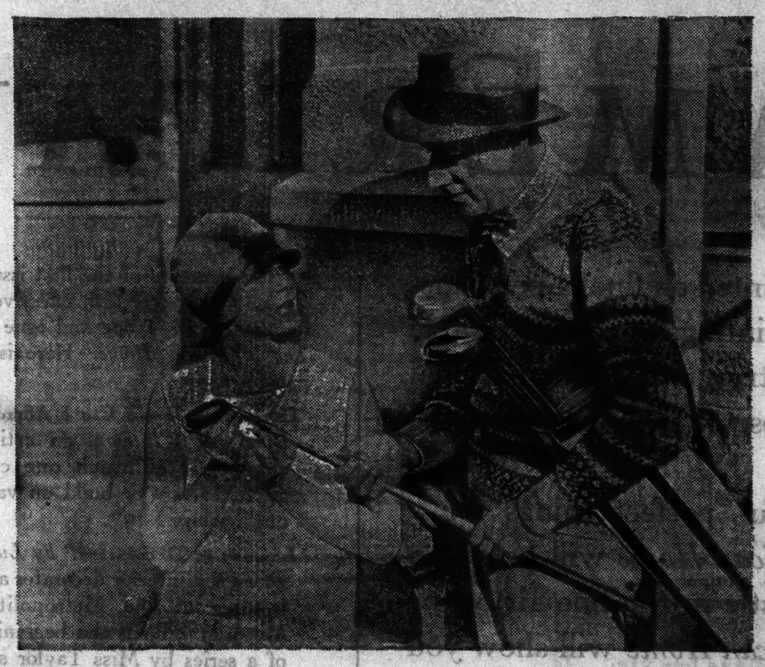
Need a new golf stick?
Let your tooth paste pay for it

There are a number of articles you can buy with the money you save by using Listerine Tooth Paste at 25¢ instead of 50¢ dentifrices that accomplish no more. A golf stick for example, or hosiery or razor blades. The average saving is $3 per year per person. Think how that multiplies when the family is large!



A dentifrice as good as its name—and costing but 25¢

THERE are many excellent dentifrices on the market selling at a trifle above or below 50¢—but is it necessary to pay that much? Why not a first class dentifrice at 25¢—scientifically correct for all types of teeth?

Believing this to be a sound price, we created Listerine Tooth Paste at 25¢ for a large tube. It is the result of more than fifty years' study of tooth and mouth troubles. Now it is sweeping the country. Everywhere it is supplanting older and costlier dentifrices that accomplish no more.

Due to the presence of an amazing new and gentle polishing agent, it keeps teeth gleaming white with almost no brushing. Included in it are certain ingredients we have found most ideal in keeping the mouth and gums fresh and healthy.

We ask you to try this paste not only for the marked saving (quite substantial in a large family) but for its delightful and speedy cleansing. Get a tube at your druggist today. Try it for a month. See how it makes teeth gleam. Note how good your mouth feels after using it. Compare it with any paste you have ever used and judge by results alone. And then reflect that these results are costing you about half of what you would ordinarily pay. Lambert Pharmacal Company, St. Louis, Mo., U. S. A.

By WILLIAM D. RICHARDSON.

Special to The New York Times.

WEST NEWTON, Mass., Sept. 13.—A bespectacled British youth, T. Phillips Perkins by name, now looms ominously as a real foreign threat in the amateur golf championship play at Brae Burn.

When Perkins, holder of the British amateur title, defeated Donald Moe, brilliant young Oregon golfer, and Arthur Yates, Von Elm's conqueror, yesterday, no one had paid a great deal of attention to it, but today when he beat Johnny Dawson, who is regarded as one of the best young golfers we have in this country, he assumed in a rôle of importance that no British golfer has held since Willie Hunter's visit here in 1921.

Perkins is one of the four left in the championship, and, although he will have to face George Voigt of North Hills, the medalist, tomorrow, and if he wins play the winner of the other semi-final match between Bobby Jones, the defending champion and Phillips Finlay, former intercollegiate champion and now a Harvard sophomore, he is expected to acquit himself honorably.

Voigt, continuing to play the kind of golf that stamps him as one of the first four or five amateurs in the country, advanced to the semi-finals by defeating Dr. O. F. Willing of Portland, 4 and 3, while Finlay, easily the surprise of the tournament, conquered Harrison Johnston of St. Paul, 2 and 1, in the most thrilling match of the day.

Jones's Score Ties Record.

As was expected Bobby romped away with his match against John B. Beck, the English cotton merchant, the match ending on the fifth hole in the afternoon round. Bobby's winning margin, 14 and 13, tied a thirteen-year record for long-margin victories in 1915, when the championship was played at Detroit, Jerry Travers equaled Jones's score and defeated the late George Crump of Philadelphia.

After the many thrilling events that took place here yesterday when one ex-champion after another was catapulted out of the tournament, and when even Bobby Jones came a cropper, today's proceedings were comparatively tame, the only real spice to whet the appetites of those who relish soul-gripping golf matches being the battle between Finlay and Johnston.

The Perkins-Dawson match, while hard-fought throughout and well-played, failed to grip one. Somehow Perkins always appeared to have the upper hand after the first nine holes in the morning round. The same was true of the match between Voigt and Dr. Willing and the outcome of the match between Bobby and Beck was known even before they drove off.

Finlay Match a Thriller.

But the Finlay-Johnston match was a thriller of the first order and the suspense kept up until Jimmy flubbed a shot in the rough at the seventeenth hole in the afternoon. Johnston held the whip in his hand practically all the way until he dropped two holes to Finlay in succession on the last nine, putting the young Harvard player 1 up. Prior to that Phillips had been up only once, that being when he won the third hole in the afternoon.

Unfortunately for Beck, Jones seemed to have recovered from his apathetic slump of yesterday and, rid of his eighteen-hole match complex, gave one of his best exhibitions. He took all the starch out of Beck by shooting a 70 against him in the morning round to become 12 up at that time, and his figures for the five holes played in the afternoon were even 4s.

Although it cannot be accredited as a record, the 70 is the best that any one has made here thus far, the previous best mark being the 71s of Voigt and Johnston in the qualifying rounds.

After having made an exceptionally good showing in both the qualifying rounds and in the two eighteen-hole match play rounds in which he defeated Rudy Knepper and Ross Somerville, Beck's game left him flat today and he was a very mediocre golfer indeed.

The knowledge that he had to face Jones today must have taken all the pleasure out of his victories of yesterday. It was reported that he had his reservations all engaged for tonight anyway, indicating that he didn't regard his chances of winning very highly.

Not a single hole did Beck win from Bobby the whole day long, his score on the first eighteen holes being fifteen strokes above that of the golf wizard. Jones might easily have halted the match before he did, but he halted it at the nearest point to the clubhouse.

Perkins and Dawson were the first pair to go out this morning and for the first few holes it looked as if the brilliant young Chicagoan intended to smother the British player. He won the first hole with a birdie 3, and came out of the rough to win when Perkins three-putted the second hole.

Perkins Finally Squares It.

No one could have played the two holes much better than Perkins did, and so the outlook must have been a bit discouraging. Phil, however, wasn't disturbed in the least by the fact that he was 2 down after the first two holes, but stuck manfully by his guns and, although still 2 down at the end of the sixth hole, squared the match by winning the seventh and eighth and was never out of the lead from then on.

It was not Dawson's bad golf that enabled Perkins to overcome the two-hole lead and then build up a two-hole lead of his own so much as it was Perkins's fine golf. His driving was generally straighter than Dawson's, though not quite so long, and his pitching was just as good as Johnny's and his putting far superior.

If Perkins had only got his just deserts he would have quit the field 2 up at noon instead of one, for after having played a fine iron shot close to the pin on the home green he was disturbed after he had sighted the putt for the first time and then missed. Further discouragement was in store for him when he pushed his drive into the trees playing the first hole in the afternoon. It wiped out his hard-earned lead completely and he had to begin the struggle all over again.

But he went at the job in lionhearted fashion and, taking advantage of a few slips on Dawson's part, ran his lead up to three holes by winning the tenth.

Mishap Vexes British Player.

Still he wasn't safe, for the fates dealt him another hard knock when he played a fine second shot to the No. 13 hole, only to find his ball in such a bad lie that he had to dig it out with a spade mashie and, overplaying, lost the hole. Probably nettled a trifle inwardly over that incident, Perkins played two bad shots, one after another, on the way to the fourteenth, lost it and faced the prospect of losing a match that he practically had won.

Then came the test and Perkins stood it nobly and, on the deciding hole, the sixteenth, restored his lead of two holes and then clinched his victory on the seventeenth, 3 and 1.

It was a fine golf match all the way through and one that might as easily have gone one way as the other. Dawson had many chances to win it, which he failed to take, and Perkins had just as many chances to lose it and refused to let it get out of his grasp.

The factors that enabled Voigt to come out on top in his match against Dr. Willing was the Long Island player's superiority in chipping and putting. Usually one of the best golfers in the country in work around the greens, the Portland dentist was outdone by his rival today. Voigt wasn't quite the same engine of golf destruction that he was on the day before, but he was never bad and always able to rise to any occasion that it demanded.

Voigt Leads Most of the Way.

George was never down to Willing after the fourth hole in the morning round, and although his score was not the equal of the one that won the medal, the chief reason for his 75 today was mistakes on some of the short holes, which were harder because of the different wind condition. Three up at noon, Voigt managed to run his lead up to five holes, with seven left to play, and clinched his victory on the fifteenth.

If the match had a turning point at all, which it probably didn't because Voigt always looked like a winner, it was in the first nine holes in the afternoon. Twice Willing took three putts when two would have cut George's lead down to a point where it would have been nip and tuck. His first chance came on the third hole when, by getting down in two putts he could have cut his rival's lead down to two holes. He wasted his opportunity by taking three.

Three holes later on, with Voigt's ball in the water and his own on the green, Dr. Willing gave George a gratuitous half by three-putting the green. With the North Hills star playing the kind of golf he has been since the tourney started, no one, not even Dr. Willing, can afford to do that sort of thing, and after that Voigt won handily.

Willing Puts Up Brave Fight.

From the start to the final putt Voight and Dr. Willing fought a great fight. The Portland dentist gave evidence of what sort of match he was going to make it by winning the first hole on a twelve-foot putt for a birdie 3. He didn't give George a chance over the next two holes, which were halved, but he was short of the bunkers with his second at the fourth and then Voight chipped up to within five feet and sank the putt. It was the start of Voigt's great exhibition of a short game that could not be beaten. Time after time he was able to save shots because of its perfection.

Voight became 2 up as Willing played from one trap into another at the long fifth, while Voigt was conceded the hole as he had a putt for a birdie.

At the water hole sixth, which also gave him trouble in the afternoon, Voigt's tee shot caught in the heavy grass of the bank and as Willing was on the green the dentist won the hole in par.

That squared the match. Although neither was home at the seventh, Voigt chipped up and was down in a single putt. Dr. Willing, having to play from the rough of the hill enclosing the green, did not hole this three-footer for a half. Both failed to get 3s at the short eighth, but Willing got the ninth with a par 4 when Voigt pitched beyond the flag into the grass of the green and then missed a putt of five feet.

Voigt Holes 20-foot Putt.

Following the tenth, where each took a 5 after pushing their drives into the rough, Voigt holed a 20-foot putt for a 3, as his iron had left him high of the hole. Willing was short with his shot with a wood to the green.

That was the first of the three birdies that put Voigt ahead. It made him one up, and after the twelfth was halved in 4s Voigt got the second of them at the thirteenth, pitching up to ten feet and holing the putt, Willing being bunkered on his second.

Both tried for birdie fours at the fourteenth and each putt stopped six inches shy of the cup. Voigt dropped his approach a yard from the flag at the fifteenth and holed his birdie 3 to be three up. He missed a pitched shot, however, at the next hole, sending it over the green and Willing took the opportunity, putting up dead for his 4 which won the hole.

Then at the down hill seventeenth, Voigt's iron shot did not quite reach the green, so that he had to chip from the top of a knoll. But the chip brought him to five feet of the cup and he holed in 3, while Willing, using a wooden club from the tee, was trapped and then played out too strongly. Voigt was blocked on his try to hole his 4 at the home hole and halved it with a 5.

Willing Fails to Grasp Chance.

Starting out in the afternoon with a lead of 3 up, Voigt narrowly missed having the match squared, but Willing did not grasp his chances. They halved the first six holes, but Willing did not get close enough to win the second, and at the third, he had three putts for his half. Voigt had one putt at the sixth and he saved the seventh by two spectacular shots, the first an iron from a bad lie in the rough that trickled over the green and the second a chip back over a mound that hit the cup and left him only a short putt for half, which he got.

At the water hole sixth, Voigt's tee shot dropped into the creek and after taking the penalty stroke he had a 4 to half, as Willing three-putted again. After that there was no question as to the outcome, for Voigt won the next with a 4, and though he lost the short 5 on a weak tee shot, he holed a birdie 3 at the ninth to the 4 up.

They halved the 9 with birdie 4s, and Willing conceded the eleventh after playing four shots in the rough. He holed a putt of six feet for a deuce at the twelfth, but the following three holes were halved, the thirteenth, in birdie 4s.

The fourth match, while not as well played as those involving Voigt and Willing and Perkins and Dawson, was the most interesting of all. Both Johnston and Finlay were addicted to fits of wildness and Finlay was the wilder of the two. As a matter of fact, he struggled all day long to keep his long shots somewhere near the fairway and scarcely ever succeeded.

Finlay Electrifies Crowd.

But, although his wildness got him into all sorts of trouble, he proved himself a hero in rescuing himself. Time and again the Harvard youngster electrified the crowd by making what appeared to be impossible shots out of the wayward places his erratic hitting had gotten him into. And it was by making perhaps the most miraculous shot of all day—his recovery on the fourteenth hole—that he turned the tide of the match.

Prior to then Johnston had been in the lead nearly all the way, twice by as many as two holes. He was still leading Finlay by one hole playing the fourteenth, when Phillips hooked his second shot far off line. It looked like a certain hole for Johnston until Finlay pitched up over a wire netting, the heads of the spectators and knoll, landing his ball four feet from the hole and getting a birdie 4 to square the match.

No wonder Jimmy lost the fifteenth to become 1 down. And likewise no wonder that he sliced his drive far off line and into trouble playing the sixteenth when he saw Finlay's drive go miles up the fairway.

Johnston made a great recovery there, saving himself the half, but the finish came when, with Finlay's ball on the green, he pushed a spoon shot to the right of the bunkers guarding the sevteenth green, and, knowing that he had to get his next one close to keep the match going, flubbed it into a bunker and so lost the hole and the match.

Finlay Holds Johnston.

Finlay did not let Johnston get more than two holes ahead of him at any time during the match. Finlay was struggling with his game for the early part of the rounds, and when he did get going, he putted poorly. They halved the first five holes of the match in par, but Finlay lost the short sixth by taking three putts, after chipping out of the bunk. Johnston played out of the creek at the seventh, getting a beautiful shot that almost carried onto the green. He chipped up close, however, and sank the putt as Finlay was short with his second.

Finlay played the short hole well, as Johnston was off with his tee shot, Finlay taking the hole with a 3. At the ninth the Harvard student pitched brilliantly from the trap at the base of the hill onto the green, winning the hole, as Johnston was in the rough from the tee and did not recover well. That made the match all even, but Johnston holed a birdie as a result of a fine third shot, after being in trouble on his drive. They each played the eleventh badly, Finlay having one out of bounds, and Johnston missing shots to halve with a 7.

However, at the next hole, Finlay pushed his tee shot into trouble, and then did not get out of the bunker well, so that he conceded the hole after playing another.

With this lead of two holes Johnston kept the advantage around the next six holes, getting a birdie with Finlay to halve the fourteenth and then having pars at the next three. Finlay missed a putt of less than a foot to take the seventeenth, where both had three putts. But at the eighteenth Finlay won the hole when Johnston hooked his drive and could do no better than a 5.

The spectacular was predominant in the afternoon. Finlay took the second and then jumped a stymie to win the third. But at the fourth Finlay hooked into trouble from the tee, and at the fifth he topped a spoon shot into the woods. That made him 1 down once more, but by struggling he halved the next four holes.

Grand total—6,643 yards, 72 par.

He pitched from the sixteenth fairway at the short eighth close to the hole and he came out of the rough well at the ninth. Finlay three-putted the tenth, after being on in two, but he won the next on a good chip shot. Johnston had a birdie at the sixteenth, as Finlay sliced from the tee. Then came the remarkable recovery over the screen onto the green at the fourteenth and the putt of four feet for the birdie that squared the match.

Finlay's powerful drive went 311 yards at the fifteenth, but it was well in the rough and he had to pitch out to the green. Johnston dropped his approach into a bunker and came out too strongly. At the sixteenth Finlay saved a half by chipping from the back edge of the green for his 4 and then at the seventeenth Johnston pushed his drive into the grass, scuffed his next into the trap ahead of him and overran the green on his third. Finlay putted up and just missed his 3, though he didn't need it.

Jones's Game Clicks Smoothly.

No sooner had his match got under way with Beck, than Jones's swing began to click and the rhythm of his game settled into a mellow smoothness.

The result was a crushing defeat for the Briton, who incidentally accepted his fate as gracefully as one could under the conditions. The defending champion played the first nine holes in 35, which is the par total, and only twice did his clubs betray him in even the slightest degree. He was in the ditch short of the green on the sixth hole, but won it with a 4, when his opponent drove wide of the green and then dumped his second into a trap. Again on the eighth, his second was badly hit, leaving him short and to the left of the green and he needed a 5, but that was good enough for a half.

Jones won six of the first nine holes and halved the rest. And the second nine was quite as disastrous for his opponent. The champion clicked off seven of these holes in par and was a stroke better at the remaining two. This pace yielded another half dozen winning holes, so that he finished the round in twelve holes to the good, doubtless a record margin for a single round of eighteen holes in the history of the championship.

Beck had to shoot par golf to get halves on two of the three holes that he managed to divide, and the third was split in birdie 4s. That was the thirteenth, where Jones stopped his third six feet from the cup, after the Briton had rolled his third up to within three feet. They both holed their putts.

Beck Cracks Under Strain.

Under the strain of the stiff pace which he was being called on to keep, it was not surprising that Beck cracked. But he contributed a few heroic efforts. A wonderful second shot on the sixteenth, after a badly skied drive, put him in position to still get his half, but his putter failed him. Then on the home hole he pulled off another remarkable fine second, following another weak drive that left the ball ten feet from the cup and enabled him to get a half.

With this overwhelming lead at the end of the morning round it was merely a question of how many more holes would be required to close the struggle. The answer was five. The first two were halved in par figures, and then Jones dropped a fifteen foot putt for a birdie 3 at the third. The fourth was halved in 5s, and Jones registered another birdie on the long fifteenth where, with the wind behind him, he was almost to the edge of the green in two strokes—the hole measures 577 yards—chipped two feet away and dropped his putt for his fifth birdie in the twenty-three holes played.

By way of comparison with the three remaining semi-finalists, it may be interesting to observe that on the basis of matching cards for twenty-three holes, the limit of Jones's march, he would have been four up on Perkins, seven up on Voigt and nine up on Finlay. He was four under even fours for the twenty-three holes, decidedly the swiftest pace yet set by any man in the big field over so extended a period.

Dawson Gets Jump on Perkins.

Dawson got the jump on Perkins when he won the first two holes in the match, a deadly pitch giving him an easy birdie 3 on the first. Par was good enough to win the second for, although in the rough on his drive, Johnny put his second home and got down in two putts while the British champion took three, running his first past the hole down hill and hitting the cup on his next.

A fine chip from the edge of the green enabled Perkins to win the third, 4 to 5, Dawson pushing his drive into the rough and then missing a four-foot side-hiller after playing a beautiful pitch. Neither one played the fourth hole well, Perkins hooking his drive against the slope of a mound and pulling his second when he attempted to get home.

It looked as if Johnny had wasted a nice opportunity when he too hooked his second shot into the rough to the left of the green. But he was lucky and holed a fifteen-footer for a 4, while Perkins only reached the edge of the green on his third and took two putts for a 5.

There followed four beautifully-played holes, two of which Perkins won to square the match. Both dropped five-yard down-hill putts for birdie 4s on the long fifth, Perkins sinking his after Johnny. They halved the short sixth in 3s and then Perkins reduced Dawson's lead to one hole by running down a four-yarder for a birdie 3 on the seventh after Johnny had played his second into the rough on the bank of the green and failed to chip his next close.

Phil played the short eighth perfectly, almost sinking a good-sized putt for a 2, which was not necessary, for Dawson hooked his drive to the No. 16 fairway, pitched over the green and took a 5. That put them all square, and after the second shots to the ninth Perkins had a chance to go into the lead, until he took three putts for a second time.

From there on Perkins generally outplayed Dawson, although he finished the second nine only 1 up. He got a slightly better break than did Johnny, playing the tenth, for both hooked second shots into a gully near the green, but Perkins had a good lie and Johnny one that was unplayable. All he could do was nudge the ball out and the hole cost him a 6 and put Perkins in the lead for the first time.

Perkins Earns Victory on Eleventh.

Having got that one by an act of Providence, Perkins earned his victory on the eleventh by playing one of the finest iron shots of the tournament up to within a few feet of the pin on the No. 11, while Dawson bungled the hole badly and finally conceded after playing four strokes.

Phil then saved the half by holding an eight-foot putt on the twelfth. The thirteenth was halved on 5, Perkins being in the rough after his drive and second shot and Johnny in a bunker near the green. Dawson had holeable putts for victories on the next two holes and then the sixteenth was halved in birdie 3s, Perkins getting down a hard ten-footer and Johnny a five-footer. They then halved the seventeenth, leaving the British star 1 up playing the last hole, but he lost that one to a birdie 3.

Both played wonderful second iron shots to the hole, Perkins to five feet and Dawson to four. Just as Phillips was sighting his putt, a photographer moved in his line and he missed it after lining it up again.

Perkins's lead of one hole disappeared when he pushed his drive far into the woods playing the first hole in the afternoon and then pitched out into the brook. Dawson was close to the hole on his second and probably would have won it anyway. He recovered, however, by pitching from the bank of a mound to within eight inches of the flag after Dawson had put one five feet from the pin, but immediately lost the lead again when he took three to get in from just off the edge of the green on the third hole.

Back on even terms again, Dawson opened the doors wide by pulling his drive into a bunker on the fourth fairway and taking two strokes before he got out of the rough. He was four on the green and Perkins won the hole with a 5. From then on the lead was always his.

After halving the fifth in 5s Perkins became 2 up by winning the sixth where he almost holed a putt from the edge of the green. Dawson took three putts, missing a three-footer for the half. The next three were halved, the seventh in 5s, Perkins hooking into the trees and taking three to reach the green while Dawson, left with an opening, pulled his iron second down near a tree below the green; the short eighth in par 3s, Johnny getting a good break when his ball, headed for the rough, struck a spectator and dropped onto the fairway, leaving him as well off as Perkins who had hit a fine iron to the green; and the ninth in 4s.

British Star Increases Lead.

Perkins was still 2 up and made it 3 up when Dawson took four to reach the tenth green, hooking his drive into the rough, failing to get out and then hitting a weak approach to wind up with a 6. Perkins was home with a superb iron and putted up for an easy birdie 4.

The next two were halved in pars, but then Perkins stepped into a bit of hard luck when his second shot to the thirteenth stopped in a divot to get out of which he had to use a spade mashie and went far past the hole to take a 6. Dawson, in the rough off the tee, got near the green on his second and then chipped his third four feet from the hole for a birdie 4.

That seemed to nettle Perkins who pushed his second shot into the rough playing the fourteenth and hooked his next down below the green. After taking two shots and failing to get up the bank, he conceded the hole and so it was 1 up, and four holes to play, the fifteenth was halved in 4s. Dawson overran the sixteenth green and took a 4 to lose the hole, making him 2 down, and the match ended when Perkins drove the seventeenth green with an iron and Dawson pulled his drive, placed his second into a bunker and his next far over the hole.

GALLERY OF 3,500 STORMS BRAE BURN

Crowd Dodges Shots of Players, but Is Rewarded With a Succession of Thrills.

FINLAY PLAYS BRILLIANTLY

Drives Once Over Heads of Throng and Over a Screen to Within Four Feet of Cup.

Special to The New York Times.

WEST NEWTON, MASS., Sept. 13.—This was the first day that the marshals had any real work to do. There were 3,500 persons who climbed the hills, surrounded the greens, dodged shots and did all of the things the golf gallery does in an effort to see everything that every player is doing.

And when the Jones match was over in the early part of the afternoon, the crowd swarmed after the Finlay and Voigt matches and they were rewarded with a succession of thrills that made the afternoon the most interesting session of the championship so far.

Unlike the easy time Bobby Jones had in winning from John B. Beck of Great Britain, Phillips Finlay and Dr. O. F. Willing fought hammer and tongs against their opponents, Harrison Johnston and George Voigt, and John Dawson almost went ahead of T. Phillip Perkins.

The photographers and gallery as well were all posed at the short sixth, with its moated green, in anticipation of seeing Voigt go into the water and play a shot. The ball was lying in the creek, close to the bank, and Dr. Willing sat on the bridge, resting, waiting for Voigt to decide what to do. Voigt surveyed the shot carefully, from both banks, but finally picked the ball out and took the penalty stroke. Voigt methodically then chipped up and then when Dr. Willing used three putts the hole that seemed to be lost to the Pacific Coast dentist was halved.

Finlay Plays Sparkling Game.

It was Finlay, however, who supplied the golf fans with a series of spectacular shots. His long game was wild and he was continually off the fairway, but he offset this with recoveries that would have done credit to Walter Hagen.

At the 556-yard fourteenth he tried to put a spoon shot on the green, but he hooked it fifty yards off the fairway and it landed at the foot of the fifteenth tee. A high screen guards the tee, and it was between Finlay's ball and the fourteenth green. Besides this the gallery had selected a spot on a knoll back of the screen and evidently having confidence that Finlay would make the shot would not budge an inch.

Finlay took a niblick and sent the ball into the air, up over the screen and crowd onto the green, four feet from the cup. What a yell those people made! Finlay sank the putt for a birdie to square the match with Johnston.

That wasn't all. Finlay hooked his drive badly at the 311-yard fifteenth, but he was home high. Finlay said later he was trying to drive the green. Had the ball gone straight he would have done it. Instead he was close to the refreshment stand, sixty yards to the left, but he pitched perfectly again and won the hole. In other words, he did it with his little niblick.

The men in the gallery were just as comfortable as if they were at a baseball game, for they checked their coats and rolled up their shirt sleeves.

Jim Johnston must have given Finlay the idea of making brilliant recoveries, for this morning he had one to his credit when he played out of the paralleling creek, at the seventh, and almost reached the green on the shot.

Mrs. Johnston forgot her guest's tag and had to buy another to watch her husband play.

There are some 150 bunkers on the course, but Voigt was not in a single one of them this morning.

No one believes more in the adage "practice makes perfect" than a champion. Jones, Voigt, Dawson and Willing were all out before their matches started, working over shots.

Bobby Jones won six holes of the first nine from Beck and six of the second. He's not a bad partner to have in a four-ball match.

Marshals Have Bamboo Poles.

The Chief Marshals have bamboo poles with blue flags and their subordinates bamboo poles and red flags with which to direct the crowd.

Willing had the greater part of the press in back of him when he sliced his second shot at the eighteenth green a few yards from the entrance of the press building. The newspaper men were lined up behind him, watching him make the shot.

Some Harvard sophomores formed a guard about their class-mate Finlay after he won at the seventeenth and marched him back to the clubhouse.

Dawson finished his round this morning with three's and only won one hole at that, the eighteenth.

Dr. Willing wasn't pleased the way his wooden shots were going. He kept swinging his driver and brassie in between strokes.

Joe Kirkwood joined the golfing celebrities in the gallery. He appeared with a contestant's badge on the lapel of his coat.

Perkins smokes as many cigarettes as General Grant is said to have smoked cigars. The British champion even keeps one in his mouth when he is putting.

Voigt putted his way into the semi-final. Finlay got there through his recoveries. Jones's triumph was more or less of a formality, while Perkins won with his short pitch.

Drake Considers Plan to Play Its Football Games at Night

DES MOINES, Iowa, Sept. 13 (AP).—Drake University officials announced today that a system of flood lights making possible night football games might be used in intercollegiate games this Fall. With larger attendance expected to patronize evening games, the plan is considered for all home contests.

Simpson College yesterday approved the plan to open the home schedule on the night of Oct. 6.

RYAN TURNS BACK TOLEDO FOR YANKS

BROWNS TO BE MET NEXT

Yankees Showing More Fight Than on Previous Trip—Pennock May Hurl Again Soon.

By RICHARDS VIDMER.

Special to The New York Times.

TOLEDO, Ohio, Sept. 13.—The Yankees paid a debt here today; they brought their league leading champions into Toledo for an exhibition game, and now they're all square with the Mudhens for letting them have Rosy Bill Ryan at a critical moment not so long ago.

It seems that part of the sale agreement on Ryan was that the Yankees would come here and play the Mudhens. Well, that's over with and everybody is satisfied, according to a lot of Toledo citizens who turned out this afternoon to see how Mr. Ryan looked in a Yankee uniform.

He pitched against his old teammates and beat them, 8 to 6, but the exhibition game doesn't count in the American League averages, and that's what the Yankees have on their minds right now. With a lead that isn't as large as it might be, not even as large as it was not so very long ago, they start their last invasion of the West on Saturday. As a matter of fact, it is their last league invasion of any section of the country for this season. When this trip is over the schedule will be over and, we hope, the Yanks will be over too—over the top.

Fresh from their triumphs over the Athletics, the Yanks will invade St. Louis tomorrow, where they open on Saturday. After that they will visit Chicago, Cleveland and Detroit in the order named. The last time they made such a swing it proved almost disastrous, but this is a different Yankee team from the one the West saw a month ago. They may not be hitting much better, but they're fighting much harder, and that's what is going to count down the stretch.

A lot of the Yanks didn't stop off here but continued on to St. Louis; those who didn't accompany the team were Zachary, Dugan, Pipgras, Pennock, Hoyt, Johnson, Grabowski, Bengough, Lazzeri, Heimach and Manager Huggins. Whether Lazzeri will continue in the line-up is problematical. Probably he will be benched again in order to rest his ailing arm and pressed back into service only if he is badly needed.

Pennock is still nursing a wounded wing, but may get back into pitching form during the present trip. If not, he ought to be ready to work in the world's series anyway providing, of course, that the Yanks get into the world's series. From this observer's viewpoint they will.

Braves Beaten Twice by Giants, Who Advance to Within 1½ Games of Cardinals

GIANTS WIN TWICE AND GAIN ON CARDS

Take Third Straight Double-Header From Braves, Triumphing by 12 to 2 and 7 to 6.

2D FRAY DECIDED IN NINTH

McGrawmen Tie in 8th, 4-4, Then Score Thrice in 9th — Braves' Rally Checked at 2 Tallies.

By JAMES R. HARRISON.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, Sept. 13.—You simply can't beat these Giants. In fact, you can't even tie them. When a team gets stubborn about the matter and refuses to be licked, what, in the words of Will Roper, the football coach, are you going to do about it?

The Braves are asking themselves that question this evening. The Cardinals are also aiming the same query at themselves tonight as they speed eastward and read in the papers that the men of McGraw had grabbed their third straight double-header from the Bostonians, 12-2 and 7-6.

Get out your pencil and paper and do a little figuring. The Giants won two today and the self-same Cardinals lost one. That represents, unless we err greatly, a net gain of a game and a half. It leaves the Giants a game and a half out of first place, with their travels almost over, and a nice, long home stay stretching before their eager eyes.

Are the Giants still in the pennant race? Well, can a duck swim?

The ayes seem to have it. It takes courage to win three double-headers in a row from any team. It takes the same commodity to do what the Giants did in the second game today—to overcome a three-run lead, then a one-run lead, to tie the score in the eighth, and then pile up three runs in the ninth.

Giants Quell Braves in 9th.

And on top of that came a magnificent display of pluck and gameness to throw back the resurgent and militant Braves in the same ninth chukker. They scored two runs and had the tying tally on third with two out.

In this dire crisis Karl Hubbell, not so long ago only a minor leaguer, was summoned to relieve Jim Faulkner. Eddie Brown, dangerous hitter against a left-hander, was waiting for him at the plate, but Karl didn't keep him waiting long. A called strike, a foul strike and then a curve that broke toward Brown, who swung and missed and was tagged out by O'Farrell.

The Giants scored their three runs in the ninth thusly: With one out Welsh beat out a hit to Hornsby, and O'Doul and Ott smacked hard singles to right, scoring Jimmy. Lindstrom hit through Bell and Terry dropped a single to left, and there you were.

In the first game Larry Benton fell into a soft spot. The Giants hammered Eddie Brandt and three other throwers for twelve runs and sixteen hits. It was Benton's twenty-fourth victory.

Joe Genewich was knocked out in the first inning of the next affair, but Faulkner was a worthy relief pitcher. The Giants plastered Virgil Barnes for a long count in the fourth. After that it was a hot battle.

Mann Hits Home Run.

The Giants got a break at the start of the proceedings when, after Reese had walked, Mann drilled a homer to left field, the ball rolling coyly through a hole at the base of the wooden fence. Judge Fuchs immediately rushed a corps of artisans out to plug up the crevice.

Jackson, in the next inning, smashed one into the left field bleachers to make the arithmetic, 3-0. The Giants whaled Mr. Brandt for a pair in the fifth and gathered up four more in the sixth, meanwhile effectively disposing of the southpaw and showing scant respect for his successor, Kent Greenfield.

Clarkson toiled the eighth and Edwards the ninth, and neither one would have brought tears to your eyes through the sheer artistry of their efforts.

The second game was vastly more interesting. Genewich took a fearful lacing from the bell. Richbourg tripled, Brown doubled and Sisler and Hornsby singled. Mr. McGraw made Genewich a present of the air and fetched Faulkner from the bull pen. Two runs already were in and Faulkner gave them one more before his powerful pitching swept the Braves back.

Giants Tie Score in Fourth.

Bad base-running damaged our cause in the first three innings, but the Giants tied it up in the fourth with two out and none on. Terry doubled and Jackson walked and Hogan singled to centre, scoring Terry. Jack Smith's throw went through to the New York dugout and Jackson came home. Reese's single admitted Hogan from second.

Three singles were translated into one Boston run in the fifth and it looked as big as the Equitable Building, particularly when Mr. Delaney baffled our boys grievously for the next few innings. The situation was fast growing serious, but Lindstrom started the eighth with a single to centre.

Terry and Jackson popped out, but in our hour of need J. Francis Hogan leaned enthusiastically against a choice pitch and lammed a double against the left field fence. Lindy had leg and all, swept around the bases like the wind and scored standing up with the tying run. Good boy.

Lindstrom Gets 200th Hit.

Lindstrom's 200th hit of the year was a single too hot for Farrell to handle in round four of the first game. The child wonder is in a small and exclusive circle of 200 hitters.

Jackson sweetened the kitty with a homer, triple and single in the first contest, so-called.

The Giants have looked at all the Boston twirlers in this series and there isn't a pitcher in a carload of them.

The Giants have got to leave Boston tomorrow night and gosh, how they hate it. They consider this the ideal spot for a September vacation.

Still, all good things have an ending. Another double-header tomorrow and then the McGraw troupe goes back to Broadway to face the hated Dodgers on Saturday.

BROWNS BEAT WHITE SOX.

Manush Stars at Bat as St. Louis Club Wins, 6 to 4.

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 13 (AP).—The hitting of Manush, who cracked out a homer, a double and a pair of singles in four times up, featured the 6 to 4 victory of the St. Louis Browns over the Chicago White Sox here today.

Lu Blue, Browns' first baseman, resurrected the ancient hidden ball trick to touch out Shires, Sox rookie first baseman, in the seventh.

CUBS UPSET CARDS AS 45,000 LOOK ON Record Week-Day Crowd Sees Blake Pitch 4-Hit Game, Chicago Winning, 6-1.

Victors Hammer Mitchell and Johnson, English and Cuyler Each Garnering Three Hits.

CHICAGO, Sept. 13 (AP).—The Cubs advanced to within two games of the first-place Cardinals by defeating the St. Louis club, 6 to 1, here today before a record National League weekday crowd of 45,000. The game was started at 1:30 to permit the Cardinals to make connections by special train for Philadelphia, where they play tomorrow. The Cubs departed with the Cardinals and will open their final Eastern invasion with a double-header at Boston Saturday.

Paced by Kiki Cuyler, Gabby Hartnett and Woody English, the Cubs drove the veteran Clarence Mitchell from the box, and maltreated his successor, Sylvester Johnson. Fred Frankhouse pitched to the last batter in the Chicago eighth after singles by Beck and Blake and a triple by English had given the Cubs two runs with two out.

Blake Allows Four Hits.

While his mates were pounding the opposition for fourteen hits, including two triples and two doubles, Sheriff Blake was holding the Cardinals to four hits, two each in the fourth and the fifth innings.

After letting up in the fourth long enough to permit the Cards to score once and tie the score, Blake tightened and set the league leaders down in one-two-three order with the exception of the fifth, when they got their other two hits, and the sixth, when Hafey walked, only to die stealing. Blake himself got two hits and scored two runs. The first was in the third when he started the opening Chicago rally and the second in the eighth.

English and Cuyler Star at Bat.

English and Cuyler shared the hitting honors, with Hartnett a close second. Cuyler pounded out a double and two singles in four trips to the plate, driving in two runs and scoring one. English's work with the stick included a triple, a double, a single and a sacrifice in five attempts.

Hartnett's three-base hit to the centre field fence in the fourth scored Grimm and sent the Cubs into the lead for good after the Cards had tied the score in their half.

ELLIOTT OF ROBINS BLANKS PHILS, 10-0

Holds Losers to Six Hits as Flock Captures Fourth Contest of Six-Game Series.

Robins Pound Caldwell and Sweetland for 15 Blows—Bissonette Gets 23d Homer.

By JOHN DREBINGER.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 13.—Giving off a sigh of relief such as one would expect of a man who had just extricated himself from a fall down a coal hole, the Robins drew abreast of the .500 mark here this afternoon by giving the Phillies a jolly trouncing as their final act of the year in this city. The score was 10 to 0 and with this victory the Dodgers captured the six-game series, four games to two.

Big Jim Elliott pitched, and for the second successive day the Phils went down before a left-hander who had only a single day's rest.

Elliott demonstrated that this is all the rest any pitcher needs to beat the Phils by shutting them out on six hits.

Earl Caldwell, a young right-hander, opposed Elliott and went along quite well for three rounds, but came to grief in the fourth when the Dodgers rattled him for five hits and three runs.

Herman bounced a single over his head, and Bissonette, who had hit a long double off the centrefield wall in the second, repeated with the same kind of blow and Flowers scored both runners with a single. Jake, after advancing on a throw-in then counted on a single by Bancroft, and the Robins almost came up with another run when Gooch also singled, but Danny was tossed out at the plate.

The Dodgers, however, had no occasion to miss that run, for in the sixth Bissonette blasted his twenty-third homer of the season out of the park and another run followed on a single by Flowers and a triple by Gooch.

In the seventh Herman tripled and this was followed by three passes that forced in one run. Hits by Bancroft and Gooch drove in three more, and after that even the umpires lost interest. In all, the Robins battered Caldwell and Sweetland for fifteen hits, Gooch getting four of these and Bissonette three.

FRANK SHIELDS,
Who Triumphed Over Jacques Brugnon at Forest Hills Yesterday.

By ALLISON DANZIG.

With the Stadium ringing to the cheers and frenzied applause of more than 4,500 spectators thrown into an uproar by the electrifying play of young Gregory Mangin of Newark, N. J., against Henri Cochet, rain and darkness descended upon the scene at the West Side Tennis Club at Forest Hills yesterday to bring to a premature end another day of success for America's protagonists in the national singles championship.

A day that saw Jacques Brugnon go down in overwhelming defeat before Frank Shields, the national junior champion, at 7—5, 6—1, 6—0, Cochet lose the first set to another young home-bred gone berserk and Francis T. Hunter leading Jack Crawford of Australia, the remaining foreign contender, two sets to one—such a day was one to be set down along with Wednesday as belonging to the United States and to send the gallery home with whetted appetites for tomorrow's play.

Once more it was not until late in the afternoon that Cochet's match started and even had the rain held off it was obvious the fading light would make it impossible to play to a finish. The spectators, however, gave no thought to the dark clouds gathering overhead, so enthralled were they by the incredible magnificence of Mangin's shot-making, which made them forget all about the Hunter-Crawford match on the adjoining court.

Crawford Distracted.

So stormy were the outbursts of shrieks and cheers evoked by the Jersey youth's miraculous backhand line drives that both Hunter and Crawford were badly distracted. The Australian was so disconcerted he could not concentrate on play and suffered a relapse just when he was beginning to hit his best stride, his errors contributing largely to his loss of the third set at 6—3. He had won the second by the same score, after yielding the first at 7—5.

The third set ended simultaneously with the finish of the first set of the Cochet-Mangin match, which the latter won at 6—4. As Hunter and Crawford left the enclosure for the rest period, Cochet was seen to expostulate with the umpire, Major A. P. Simmons, protesting that it was too dark to go on. After a conference with the officials, however, it was decided to continue and the spectators who had started for the exits returned to their seats.

The second set was begun and Cochet was having a struggle to win the first game when a corps of groundsmen came into the enclosure and started to pull out the tarpaulin covers behind the court on which Hunter and Crawford had been playing. Cochet stopped play and requested that they be sent out.

After twenty-two points had been contested he finally won the opening game and then rain brought hostilities to an end. Reluctantly the spectators left the stadium, many hurling their cushions down upon the turf.

Both interrupted matches will be continued today from where play left off. Hunter and Crawford will resume in the fourth set at 3 o'clock and upon the conclusion of this engagement Cochet and Mangin will go on the courts. A special exhibition, in which Miss Helen Wills, the women's national champion, will play a male opponent to be selected, will be staged as an added attraction.

The semi-finals of the tournament will be held tomorrow and the final on Monday. Holders of fourth day ticket stubs and rain checks will be admitted to the stadium without charge today and reserved seats will be on sale for others at $1.50. Fifth day tickets will be honored tomorrow.

Shields's victory over Brugnon placed him in the semi-finals and George Lott of Chicago also advanced to this round by defeating John Doeg of Santa Monica, Cal., 6—2, 6—2, 7—5. The former will meet the winner of the match between Cochet and Mangin and Lott will play either Hunter or Crawford.

No better tennis has been played in the championship than was put forth by Shields in crushing Brugnon. The junior champion started at crescendo with three service aces in rapid succession and never slackened pace for a moment, carrying the attack to his opponent in so furious an onslaught as to overpower all opposition.

By the end of the first set the French veteran was hoisting signals of distress and play turned into a rout, with Shields winning game after game as he pleased, as the tired Brugnon declined the issue. From 4— in the opening set the young New Yorker took fifteen of the following sixteen games and in the third chapter Brugnon, whose right shoulder appeared to be bothering him, got only ten points.

There is no player on the courts blessed with greater physical attributes than Shields or a finer assortment of strokes and many have looked upon him as the potentially greatest of all the upcoming young Americans. Certainly his performance yesterday lent substance to that belief, as has his work throughout the tournament. In four matches against Harry Popman of Australia, E. W. Feibleman of New York, Harry Coggeshall of Grinnell College and Brugnon, Shields has not lost a set.

Well over six feet in height, broad of shoulder and tapering down trimly, Shields has a physique comparable to Tilden's and like the former champion is equally efficacious from all parts of the court. His whole game is of the soundest development, without a single weakness, and is characterized by an acceleration and dash of striking appeal.

There are not many better services than Shields's in this country, his backhand invites comparison with the best, his forehands is never tentative and up forward the volleys and smashes with a finality to evoke cheers from the gallery.

Lott Defeats Partner.

Lott did not relish eliminating Doeg. There is a strong bond of friendship between the two and they have teamed in doubles, but the Chicagoan put sentiment out of his heart and got the business over with as soon as possible.

Doeg's ground strokes were totally inadequate to make any impression against a two-fisted driver and volleyer and his only hope lay in service and volleys. In the first two sets the young California giant was not putting his first service in and Lott had the situation entirely in hand, gaining a 5-1 lead in the first chapter and a 4-1 advantage in the second.

The third set was different. Lott, who had been playing tennis worthy of the third ranking player of the country, slowed down on attack and faltered in control, while Doeg found himself for the first time and made tremendous capital of his service, his forehand chop and backhand slice were serving him better and he broke up Lott's volley excursions repeatedly.

The Californian broke through to lead at 3—1, and carried his advantage to 5—3, service aces pulling him out of a 0—30 hole in the sixth. Then Lott tightened on defense and varied his attack with a variety of lobs, volleys and drives to take the play away from his opponent.

Doeg's Service in Vain.

He won the ninth game on service, broke through in the tenth with two lobs, won the eleventh in orthodox fashion and broke through again in the twelfth for his fourth successive game and the match after Doeg had pulled up from 0—40 to deuce with three battering serves.

Impressive as was Shields's play, the junior champion yielded the palm to young Mangin when it came to pyrotechnics. Not since Tilden was in all his majesty has such a dazzling exhibition of backhand shooting been seen at Forest Hills as the Newark lad, twenty-sixth in the national ranking, put on.

Time and again Mangin dashed across court to turn back Cochet's forcing shot with a rifle drive down the side lines that passed the Frenchman clean as a whistle. Not only with his backhand was the American making these stupefying drives; his forehand until this season merely a defensive chop, was equally stunning, confounding Cochet again and again as he sought to gain the net.

The French champion was not as indifferent as in the first set against Fritz Mercur, Wednesday, for he learned quickly enough that he faced a young fire-eater. But even though putting on pressure, Cochet could not dominate play with Mangin tearing at break-neck speed, bringing off incredible recoveries and converting apparent winners for Cochet into points.

Mangin broke through in the third game, led at 3—2, fell behind at 3—4, and then took three games in a row, breaking through at love in the ninth, with two stunning backhand drives.

Cochet, in desperation, fought to get to the net in the tenth. Mangin even brought him up with two short returns and then routed him with scorching drives that Cochet stabbed at wildly, volleying both times into the net. When the Jersey youth won the game and set the demonstration could have been heard a block away.

U. S. BEATS BERMUDA IN LARCHMONT RACE

Interclub Yachts Triumph by 25½ to 11 in Opener of International Series.

Wee Betty, Aileen and Blue Streak Finish in Order—Atlantis, Invader, Is Fourth.

Special to The New York Times.

LARCHMONT, N. Y., Sept. 13.—Heeled over in a brisk wind entirely to their liking, the Sound interclub sloops, representing the United States, scored handsomely over the Bermuda one-designs in the first of a series of four international yacht races this afternoon.

With four boats on each team, the home quartet opened a gap of 25½ points to 11 for the visitors.

The interclubs, which previously had shown themselves to be better in good weather than the Bermuda boats, monopolized the first three places. The other United States entry was fifth and the three remaining Bermuda yachts brought up the rear.

The race today was conducted by the Larchmont Yacht Club Regatta Committee, which established the starting and finishing lines just north of Scotch Caps. The boats sailed a windward and leeward course, with the Prospect Point bell buoy as the other mark, and they covered it twice, amounting to a distance of twelve miles.

The Manhasset Bay Yacht Club will hold the second of the series tomorrow and the two final races will take place Sunday off the American Yacht Club at Rye.

Yachts Sail in Brisk Wind.

The breeze was about south-southwest, and blowing at the lively rate of approximately fifteen knots. Being lighter craft, the Bermuda sloops constantly had their lee rails under and shipped more water than they cared for throughout the course of the race. Light weather may tell a different story, but in two former races between the teams good wind prevailed.

The first to finish was George M. L. Labranche's Wee Betty, which was sailed to victory by Bill Swan.

Corny Shields at the tiller of his Aileen placed second, less than two minutes astern, after a battle all through the course in warding off the threats of the visitors.

Ralph Manny in his Blue Streak was third, almost a minute later than Shields, and the first of the invading boats to finish was Atlantis, sailed by E. H. and K. F. Trimmingham, 80 seconds to the stern of Blue Streak.

Atlantis in Stiff Struggle.

Atlantis, which showed more speed running before the wind than a few of her rivals, gained fourth place only after a hard fight with Sam Wetherill in Bandit. Bandit led Atlantis at the windward mark on the second trip around by ten seconds, but lost by six at the finish. In the meantime they had engaged in a luffing match, and good handling of the Bandit served to prevent Atlantis from winning by a greater margin.

Sea Witch, Starling and Flirt finished after Wetherill, hopelessly out of the running. Flirt was especially late after becoming tangled between a few tows just before turning the windward mark the second time.

It wasn't until on the windward leg for the second time that Swan got into his lead. At Prospect Bell the first time, Wee Betty was second, 20 seconds behind Blue Streak. Going down with the wind, Atlantis worked out a lead, trailed by Aileen, Bandit and Wee Betty in that order at the Leeward mark.

Swan's calculations carried him well off shore and proved to be miscalculations. Turning into the wind, however, Wee Betty soon overhauled Atlantis and got into the best position.

Atlantis was first to start with Wee Betty right on her wind. The two stayed together, short tacking, with Swan always keeping to windward of Trimmingham, and Trimmingham constantly trying to shake him off. Bandit was taking care of Starling, while on the starboard tack off to the westward Shields was watching Sea Witch and Manny was holding more than his own with Flirt.

Schooner Blocks Boats.

As the boats were coming down the final leg, Herman Oelrich's topsail schooner, Cressida, cut into the course and interfered with several of the boats. Sam Wetherill was chiefly affected as the big schooner blanketed him and flattened his spinnaker. The wind had dropped slightly as the race drew to an end.

A dinner to the skippers and crews of the competing boats was given tonight at the Larchmont Yacht Club by George Labranche.

Paid Attendance for U. S. Title Tennis Drops 6,000 Compared with 1927 Total

The paid attendance for the first four days of the National Tennis Championship Tournament is more than 6,000 behind the attendance for the same period last year when Big Bill Tilden was eligible for play and René Lacoste, present champion, competed.

A check made yesterday by The Associated Press showed a total of 14,368 paid admissions since play began on Monday, while the figure was 20,475 at a similar stage in the tourney of 1927. The daily average figures out to approximately 3,500 as against 5,000. Sales at the gate have been greater this year than last, but less than one-third as many season tickets were sold, 866 to 2,745.

United States Lawn Tennis Association representatives see in the heavier spot sales of tickets this year an indication that the tournament, even minus these two great stars, is proving more attractive than fans had expected.

Monday	3,126	3,687
Tuesday	2,986	3,550
Wednesday	3,756	3,453
Thursday	*4,500	7,835

COLLEEN CAPTURES STAR CLASS LEAD

MACKEREL OUSTED FROM 1ST

BALTIMORE, Sept. 13.—F. T. Bedford's start yacht Colleen went into the lead today for the Atlantic Coast championship when the central Long Island Sound entry easily captured the second race of the coast series.

By finishing third, Mackerel, Harold Wharton Smith's Chesapeake Bay entry, which is defending its championship, slipped down a notch from first to second position, Colleen is credited with 17 points in the standing and Mackerel with one less, John R. Robinson sailed Little Bear, the champion of the Western Long Island Sound fleet, well to take second honors in today's race.

Colleen also is leading in the series for the Sir Thomas Lipton Chesapeake Trophy, the third and final race of which will be sailed tomorrow afternoon.

While the Bedford yacht was winning today, his daughters, the Misses Lucie and Helen, were doing likewise in the special race for all star yachts. The girls are tied for second place in the Lipton series.

Confers With Capt. French on Harvard Football Prospects—Coaches Meet Today.

Special to The New York Times.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Sept. 13.—Arnold Horween, who will coach the Harvard varsity team for the third successive season, arrived from Chicago today.

He has not been in Cambridge since the Spring practice and spent the afternoon with Captain Art French checking up the season's material and learning the details of the ineligibility of Quarterback Westmore and Centre Rush Bell, two players of whom much had been expected this year. Neither, however, will be able to play.

Tomorrow afternoon Horween and some of the assistants will go to the field to do a little work on formations and tomorrow night the first regular meeting of the coaches will be held at the Harvard Club in Boston.

Saturday morning the squad will be called out, but real practice on the Soldiers' Field Stadium will not be started until the first of the week.

Mayor and Sir Thomas Lipton to Put Up Trophy for Legion Tournament.

Mayor James J. Walker greeted members of the Eddie All-Stars, the team representing East Side Post in the American Legion junior baseball tournament, at City Hall yesterday. In an informal talk to the youngsters he told them that he looked with favor on the movement to encourage ball-playing among boys and that he hoped there would be 20,000 playing in the city Legion competition next year, instead of the 12,000 that competed this season.

The Mayor's greetings were seconded by Sir Thomas Lipton and they decided to present to the winner of the metropolitan championship this year and ensuing years, a permanent trophy to be known as the Walker-Lipton Trophy. Others present were Jack Hollander, commander of East Side Post; Abe Rosenberg, past-commander; Lieutenant Dan Edwards, Frank Beal and C. T. Mains. The Eddie All-Stars have won fifty games this season and have practically clinched the metropolitan title.

England and Canada Trail U. S. Senior Golfers in Triangular Team Match

U. S. GOLFERS LEAD IN TRIANGULAR PLAY

Score 22 in First Day's Senior Matches to Canada's 10 and Great Britain's 8.

Great Britain Starts In Front When 3 Rival Captains Clash, but Soon Bows.

Special to The New York Times.

PORT CHESTER, N. Y., Sept. 13.—The United States senior golf team engaging in the second annual triangular international tournament with the seniors of Great Britain and Canada emerged from the first day's play with a score of twenty-two points, to lead Canada, which was second, by twelve points, and England, which took third, by fourteen points. The matches were played on the course of the Blindbrook Country Club here today.

Of the seven three-ball sixsomes played America won four double victories, netting a total of sixteen points. Canada and Great Britain each captured one double victory, while one match was halved. The United States team completed the total of twenty-two points by gaining three single victories.

Scoring was decided on the basis of two points for the country gaining a single victory. The double victories were obtained by representatives of one country defeating each of the other two in a match. As between the two defeated countries the one showing the better score obtained a single victory.

Great Britain went into the lead at the start when it won the opening match, which brought the captains of the three teams, accompanied by partners, into play. J. W. B. Pease, captain of Great Britain's representatives, teamed with Douglas Clayton, defeated Fred Snare, the United States captain, and Joshua Crane. The United States triumphed over the Canadian combination of George S. Lyons, captain, and George L. Robinson.

The United States discounted this British double victory in the second match when Dr. C. H. Walter and Fred H. Hoyt defeated H. M. Hepworth and Admiral St. John Farquhar of Great Britain. Canada again remained scoreless.

The Dominion players made their first score in the third match when George Heintzman and J. Dix Frasier, after losing to Hugh Halsall and David Tallman of the United States, defeated F. W. Ashe and G. C. Cassels of Great Britain.

The third and fourth matches were won by the United States players, with the Canadians superior to the Britons. Canada and the United States halved the fifth, but F. S. Wheeler and F. H. Ecker gave the United States team another victory when they defeated James Baker and Sir Milton Reese of England in the sixth. Canada scored its double victory in the last match, J. E. Wilson and C. P. Wilson collaborating to vanquish A. E. Ashe and R. C. Mitchell of the United States.

MRS. DUBOIS BEATEN IN RYE SEMI-FINAL

Miss Broadwell Conquers Medalist 1 Up, 19 Holes, at Westchester Biltmore.

Special to The New York Times.

RYE, N. Y., Sept. 13.—Playing a strong game that seemed to improve as the match progressed, Miss Jane Broadwell today eliminated Mrs. F. E. Dubois, medalist, from the sixth annual women's golf championship of the Westchester Biltmore Country Club, winning 1 up on the nineteenth hole.

Mrs. Dubois had difficulty with her putts and got into difficulties almost at the start of the match, taking three on the second and losing the hole. Miss Broadwell also won the fourth and the sixth holes, the latter through another bad putt by Mrs. Dubois.

Mrs. Dubois then settled down and took the seventh and eighth holes and was 1 down at the turn. The next five holes were halved, and then Miss Broadwell took the fifteenth, 5 to 6, to become 2 up.

Mrs. Dubois flashed to the front to win the sixteenth and holed a very long putt to capture the seventeenth, squaring the match. Mrs. Dubois looked like a sure winner at the eighteenth when she was on in four, laying her ball about ten feet from the cup. Miss Broadwell saved herself by chipping on to within a few inches of the cup, the hole being halved in par 5s.

The match ended when Miss Broadwell won the nineteenth, 4 to 5.

Miss Emily Rockwood easily defeated Mrs. C. C. Houck, 6 and 5. Miss Rockwood will meet Miss Broadwell tomorrow in the final round.

CONDON, 70, LEADS SENIOR GOLF FIELD

Scores 44-37-81 for 1st Day's Play in Second Division of U. S. Championship.

COLE ONE STROKE BEHIND

Goes Out in 40, but Takes Sixes on 10th and 11th—Luke 3d With an 84 at Apawamis.

Special to The New York Times.

RYE, N. Y., Sept. 13.—Martin J. Condon, seventy-year-old golfer from Memphis, Tenn., led the field at the end of the first day's play in the second division of the twenty-fourth annual championship tournament of the United States Seniors' Golf Association at the Apawamis Club here today.

The Memphis veteran, who at one time represented Wykagyl, turned in a card of 44—37—81 to finish ahead of Henry Tiffany Cole of Detroit by one stroke. Cole had 40—42—82. David L. Luke of Sleepy Hollow was third for the day with an 84. A hundred golfers started out in the second group.

Condon, by his excellent playing in today's round, placed himself in a good position to overtake Dr. Charles H. Walter of Minikahda, the winner of the first half of the tourney and the general choice for the 1928 senior champion. Dr. Walter's score for the two days he played was 158. He made 79 on Tuesday and followed with 82 yesterday.

Condon, after encountering rough going on the first nine holes, steadied remarkably on the return journey, which he negotiated in one stroke over par. After taking a 5 on the par 4 first hole, he played the next two in par. He went one over par on the fourth, but got a par 3 on the fifth. The next four holes proved to be stumbling blocks and he failed to make par figures on any of them.

Coming in, the Memphis golfer showed a surprising form reversal. He played the tenth and eleventh in par, and then scored a birdie 2 on the difficult twelfth. With the exception of the thirteenth and the fifteenth holes, he played the rest of the course even with par.

Difficulties encountered at the start of the return journey after he had scored 40 for the first nine holes prevented Cole from bettering the mark turned in by Condon. The Detroit entry, in the fifty-fourth to fifty-nine year class, took six strokes on the tenth and eleventh holes respectively, and had little opportunity to balance these figures on the succeeding holes.

The cards:

MISS PAYSON BEATEN IN CANADIAN GOLF

Defending Champion Bows to Mrs. Mida, 5 and 4—Victor Gains Semi-Finals.

MISS PAGET IS WINNER

Only Surviving Canadian Meets Miss Wattles Today, While Mrs. Mida Plays Miss Wilson.

MONTREAL, Sept. 13 (AP).—With the defending champion, Miss Helen Payson of Portland, Me., eliminated this morning, two Chicagoans, a Buffalo player and a lone Canadian reached the semi-finals of the Canadian women's golf championship today.

Lee Mida and Miss Virginia Wilson of Chicago will meet tomorrow, while in the lower half Miss Peggy Wattles of Buffalo plays Canada's one survivor, Miss Helen Paget of the Royal Ottawa Club, for the right to enter the thirty-six hole final on Saturday.

Two rounds of eighteen holes were played today because of the rain which halted proceedings yesterday. In the first of these Mrs. Mida conquered last year's winner, 5 and 4; then went on to an even easier victory in the afternoon match, defeating another Chicagoan, Mrs. John Arends, 6 and 5. Mrs. Mida played almost unbeatable golf in the morning. She went out in 38, reaching the turn one up; then won four of the next five holes to take the match.

Miss Wilson also scored two decisive victories, winning from Mrs. Dalton Reymond of Baton Rouge, La., 6 and 5, in the quarter finals, after defeating Marjorie Hayden of Schenectady, N. Y., 5 and 3, in the morning. The seventeen-year-old New York girl gave Miss Wilson a stiff battle on the first nine holes, but weakened coming in.

Miss Wattles, who has been somewhat off her game since shooting a 78 in the qualifying round Monday, tightened up today and gave two fine exhibitions of match play. In the second round she eliminated Mrs. S. T. Blaiklock of Montreal, 6 and 5. The afternoon round saw her slip a little on the first nine, being only one down to Jane Brooks of Nyack, N. Y., at the turn, but she recovered quickly, to take the match at 5 and 4.

The sole survivor of the Canadians, Miss Paget, captured the all-Canadian quarter-final match from Miss Dora Virtue of Montreal, 3 and 2, after taking a close morning battle from Mrs. Norman K. Toerge of New York, 2 and 1. Coming from behind, Miss Virtue staged a magnificent rally on the last five holes, but lost out when her putter failed her on the sixteenth hole. Miss Paget was in trouble with her second shot, but recovered brilliantly and holed a ten-foot putt to take the match.

In the other morning matches Mrs. Reymond took a nineteen-hole match from Mrs. F. J. Mulqueen of Montreal; Mrs. Arends beat Mrs. Maude Ross of Ottawa, 2 and 1; Miss Virtue defeated Edith Quier of Reading, Pa., 2 and 1, and Miss Brooks beat Mrs. R. W. Gouinlock one up.

Fastest Mile of Eastern Season Run by Sun Edwin at Belmont

SUN EDWIN SCORES IN SPARKLING TIME

Wins the Jerome at Belmont in 1:36 4-5, Running Fastest Mile of Eastern Season.

ROYAL STRANGER IS SECOND

Favorite, With 122 Pounds Up, 4 More Than Victor, Trails by 5 Lengths—Double for E. Watters.

By BRYAN FIELD.

J. P. Smith's Royal Stranger was beaten at Belmont Park yesterday afternoon in the fifty-ninth running of the Jerome Handicap, but the horse that did it had to run the fastest mile of the season on any Eastern track. In his nine previous starts, Royal Stranger had won eight times and was second by a nose on the other occasion, but yesterday W. Averell Harriman's Sun Edwin showed him the way by the decisive margin of five lengths, and in the sparkling time of 1:36 4-5.

Sun Edwin is the $75,000 beauty at which many a horseman has taken a sly grin because he did not sustain extravagant advance reports of his ability. Whatever has gone before, this three-year-old son of Sun Briar-Edwina stamped himself as of high quality when he met the best challenge Royal Stranger could offer and left him flat-footed as he went away to win in a gallop.

Royal Stranger's stretch bid is a gallant effort on any occasion, and yesterday it took all he had, but he was still far short of the leader and only a length in front of Mrs. K. E. Hitt's Sublevado, which surprised by getting the short end of the purse.

Royal Stranger Choice at 7-5.

Royal Stranger was the 7-to-5 favorite and in carrying 122 pounds was conceding four pounds to Sun Edwin, which was held at 17 to 10. Sublevado was the extreme outsider at 20 to 1, and the other starters, in the order of their finish, were the Audley Farm's Princess Tina, the Wheatley Stable's Nixie and L. Waterbury's Penalo. The victory was worth $3,600 to the Arden Farm of Harriman.

Sun Edwin quickly raced to the front after the break, with Sublevado second, Princess Tina third and Royal Stranger next, perhaps four lengths off the pace. It was this margin which Royal Stranger could never make up. In the run through the backstretch Princess Tina was displaced and they started around the turn in this order: Sun Edwin, Sublevado, Royal Stranger.

Before the rush around the bend was completed, Royal Stranger started to run in earnest and passed Sublevado, but never came within striking distance of Sun Edwin. Sublevado held on gamely and easily defeated Princess Tina for the short end of the purse, as that one weakened in the last furlong. Nixie and Penalo were never contenders.

Making the winning ride was Linus "Pony" McAtee, and upon Royal Stranger was Jimmy Burke. It was McAtee's first winner since he was thrown from Bystander and broke his collarbone at Saratoga the first week of the meeting there, and Burke was the jockey who rode Darkness, which bolted through the fence on Wednesday, unseating Burke and badly bruising him.

The Third Best Time.

The time was the third best in the long history of the stake. The only faster times were made when August Belmont's Stromboli won in 1:36 3-5 in 1914 and when the Greentree Stable's Cherry Pie set the present American mile record of 1:35 2-5 in 1923. Both these horses carried less weight than Sun Edwin.

Jockey Edward Watters scored a double at the end of the program when he rode George M. Sidenberg's Calwick to victory in the fifth race and then came right back to bring home J. P. White's Sun Clover first in the nightcap.

Calwick's victory was a surprise, as he paid 8 to 1 and scored over the hot favorite, the Rancocas Stable's Donnay. At the end Calwick had three lengths on Donnay, the 11-to-10 choice in a field of twelve. Watters left little doubt of his intention, for he rushed Calwick into a long lead right after the start and kept him going to the end. Donnay came with a rush in the last furlong, with Laverne Fator flogging away for all he was worth, but Calwick was safely home. Third place went to R. L. Gerry's Prairie Fire.

Bugle and Barrier.

It was believed yesterday at Belmont Park that there was a good chance for a record field going to the post in the Futurity. In 1924, when Mother Goose won, the record field of twenty-nine ran. It is believed that thirty may go this year. If this materializes it will mean that the race will gross about $130,000, which will be the greatest purse in the history of the American turf.

Following are some strong Futurity candidates, with their time for seven furlong workouts: Blue Larkspur, 1:25 2-5; High Strung, 1:27 2-5; Jean Valjean, 1:28 2-5; Bravery, 1:27 3-5; Bargello, 1:28; Zoom, 1:27 1-5; Beacon Hill, 1:27 1-5; Jack High, 1:28 3-5; Curate, 1:28; The Nut, 1:27 1-5.

Benjamin Block, owner of the Kentucky Derby winner Morvich, was highly pleased with the showing of Morsun in winning the last race on Wednesday. As a result he intends to start this son of Morvich in the Futurity.

Jockey C. Smoot had a stroll of almost a mile through the green grass to the jockey house when he was unseated from Captain Careless at the extreme end of the oval. Smoot's fall was a heavy one, but evidently not serious.

The opening of the infield at Aqueduct has been taken advantage of by trainers wishing to school their jumpers. Several candidates for Harbor Hill, the big three-year-old stake, were put over the jumps.

An artificial hedge has been placed along the mouth of the Widener chute to camouflage it for the benefit of horses running on the main track. This will reduce the chances of an accident such as that on Wednesday when Darkness, a 1 to 2 favorite, bolted through the fence, mistaking it for the proper course.

Jockey Frank Coltiletti will ride the Western horse Roguish Eye in the Futurity.

Mantonian was rated along back of the pace and at the final fence rushed into the lead and held on gamely. Byron had plenty of speed, but ran out after clearing the last jump. Lighthouse was much the best, but suffered a lot of interference. He was shut off at the far turn and attempted to go up on the inside. Byers then went up on the outside and tried to save ground by going between Byron and Endicott. He recovered quickly and finished fast.

COWDIN IS ASSURED OF U. S. POLO BERTH

Defense Committee Announces Team Picked for International Play Will Stand.

ENDS PROSPECT OF CHANGE

Remaining Practice Matches to Be Merely for Conditioning Purposes, Statement Says.

By ROBERT F. KELLEY.

There will be no change, after all, in the make-up of the United States polo team selected to face Argentina for the championship of the Americans.

The match at Piping Rock this afternoon, which had been expected to be a test in which J. Cheever Cowdin and Winston Guest were to battle for the back position, will be only a practice game. The period for test matches has been formally closed with the selection of the official team for the series with the South Americans.

The Defense Committee, after another meeting yesterday, called following the publication of reports that Cowdin was to be superseded by Guest at back, issued the following statement:

Statement Is Issued.

"The Defense Committee of the United States Polo Association, in response to rumors of a change in the makeup of the team selected for the international series with Argentina, wishes to state that the team has been picked and that the test matches for the selection of the team are at an end. That team, as previously announced, consists of the following: W. A. Harriman, No. 1; Thomas Hitchcock Jr., No. 2; Malcolm Stevenson, No. 3, and J. Cheever Cowdin, back. This is the team which will play Argentina.

"Any games played now by the United States team are to be regarded in the nature of practice matches, designed simply to prepare men and ponies for the coming games. If any of the team chooses to rest for a game and remain out of the lineup, no significance is to be drawn from this other than that the team member is resting. The sides for tomorrow's game at Piping Rock, if the weather permits it to be played, have not been chosen, but this game is not in any sense a trial or test match, this period having been ended with the picking of the team."

This statement from the Defense Committee puts at an end the discussion of changes in the team. It has been learned from reliable sources that Cowdin will not play in today's match, but this is not to be considered as having any bearing on the general situation at all. If today's weather permits, the game will start at 4 o'clock. There can be no more definite statement made than that issued by the Defense Committee.

Team Under Discussion.

From other sources it has been learned that some discussion of changes in the team had been taken up by the Defense Committee, but it is pretty certain that no action had been taken by the Committee toward replacing Cowdin with Guest. So far as could be ascertained, the discussion was a general one on the question of strengthening the United States side in any position where it might seem weak.

The statement from the Defense Committee that the test period had definitely ended means that some one in authority has put an end to the long string of hard matches which the United States has been playing and which were threatening to make the whole team go stale. From now on, apparently, the team will play easy games and work on team play and the conditioning of ponies.

It is still indefinite when the Argentine team will play its next practice match, but the chances are that the four will ride again tomorrow against a fairly stiff side.

Ponies Not in Shape.

In this connection there is the fact that the South American ponies have not come around as rapidly as it had been hoped. Only about half of the string is regarded at present as being in shape for hard polo, and there is the possibility now that the series will have to be postponed again unless the Argentines borrow a few horses.

The association has announced the usual special train service for the games, with specials leaving the Long Island Railroad Station at frequent intervals on the days of the games, starting at 1:30 P. M., Daylight Saving Time, with the last train leaving at 3:30 P. M. The trains will stop at Jamaica coming and going, the returning trips being made immediately after the close of the games.

Star Blossom Takes Two Blues and Garvan Cup at Mineola

Hubbs Entry Victor in Saddle Classes and Annexes Classic Garvan Cup.

TROPHY FOR MARCH WIND

The Sturgis Goes to Mrs. Shotter's Filly—Rockingham Breaks Leg and Is Destroyed.

Special to The New York Times.

MINEOLA, L. I., Sept. 13.—Star Blossom, the eight-year-old chestnut mare owned by Charles P. Hubbs of Brookville, which on the opening day of the Mineola Horse Show captured three blue ribbons, won two more this afternoon, as well as annexing the Garvan Cup.

Three other Hubbs mounts gained first places, thus giving him a record of eleven blue ribbons in two days.

To gain the handsome silver trophy offered by Francis P. Garvan, Star Blossom was forced to beat eleven of the outstanding saddle horses in this section, all of which have been consistent ribbon winners at the various Summer exhibitions. Herbert L. Camp of Middletown, Conn., was in the middle of the ring and exercised the utmost care before making his selections. William H. Nicholl's bay mare Kiss in the Dark was second, William Boardman's Mistress Ann third and the Bell Ho Stable's Rio Rita fourth.

Earlier in the day Star Blossom scored an easy victory in the class for saddle horses over 14.2 and not exceeding 15 hands, winning the blue from Boardman's The Black Watch, the Bell Ho Stable's Sport Model and Colestin A. Durand Jr's Bob, which were second, third and fourth, respectively.

March Wind Gets Sturgis Cup.

The Sturgis Cup, an event which is one of the most popular and keenly contested in horse show circles, resulted in a victory for the splendid Mony d'Or bay filly March Wind, which is owned by Mrs. S. O. Shotter of Locust Valley. The trophy is presented by the Breeding Bureau of the Jockey Club for foals of 1928 sired by stallions of either the Jockey Club or United States Remount Service in service on Long Island. Shown with her dam, the filly made a striking picture in the ring.

D. S. Iglehart and Godfrey Preece, both of Westbury, scored heavily in the polo classes which were held in the morning, the former winning two blues, while the latter had four first-place ribbons.

Three Sisters Farms Scores.

The event for pony jumpers, which called for ponies not over 14.2 hands, to be ridden by children under fifteen years of age, proved one of the most popular of the afternoon and resulted in an overwhelming victory for the Three Sisters Farms, which won the blue, red and yellow ribbons, scoring with Joy. Frolic and Fun. W. Birling Cocks's Benbrook was fourth. Joy in winning gave a perfect performance, clearing all four jumps without a touch.

In the class for middleweight hunters, the Three Sisters Farms' six-year-old bay gelding, Rockingham, broke his leg and was destroyed. The gelding, which was valued at $5,000, cleared the first three barriers, but as he leaped over the last of the in and out jumps he fell heavily to the ground, throwing his groom. An examination by Dr. Harry S. Field, the veterinarian, revealed a triple fracture.

15,000 SEE TROTS AT FRANKLIN FAIR

Nose Finishes and Fast Times Mark Races in Green Mountain Circuit at Malone.

Special to The New York Times.

MALONE, N. Y., Sept. 13.—The Franklin County Fair, after being washed out for two days, put on a card of seven races today before a crowd of 15,000 and the Green Mountain Circuit steppers were sent away by Starter Frank Walker of Cleveland in rapid-fire order.

In spite of the fact that the track was heavy, some remarkably fast times were made and the finishes were so close that they brought the crowd in the grandstand to its feet time and again as the winner nosed under the wire with drivers using their whips.

Win, 14 to 4, in Third Game of 2d Corps Tourney—Husband Hurt in Fall.

Closing strongly in the last two periods, the Organized Reserves polo ists easily defeated the 104th Field Artillery team of the New York National Guard in the third game of the tournament for the Second Corps Area championship at Governors Island yesterday afternoon. The score was 14 to 4, with Lieutenant W. A. Sackman shooting eight and Captain D. McAuslin five.

The Organized Reserves scored two goals in the first period and two in the second, overcoming and passing the handicap of two held by the 104th Field Artillery. The score stood 5 to 4 in favor of the Organized Reserves at the start of the fifth and three goals by Sackman and two by McAuslin added five this period.

In the hard riding at the outset of the fifth period the mounts of Husband and Sackman collided and both men were thrown from their horses. Husband suffered a severe shock and was unable to continue in the play.

Sports of the Times

By JOHN KIERAN.

NOTES on recent operations. Howard Ehmke held the Yankees in check in the final game at the Stadium, and Howard hasn't been able to hold any other team in check for the past month or more. Bob Grove toys with six teams in the league, but the Huggins Heavy Artillery has flattened him half a dozen times this season.

By the same token, the Yankees looked like eccentric firemen against second-division opposition and like world's champions against Connie Mack's strong club.

Offhand, the four men who won the four games at the Stadium were Pipgras, Meusel, Ruth and Bishop, but Mark Koenig deserved more than a vote of thanks from his Yankee team-mates, and Mickey Cochrane played nobly for the short-enders in the series.

The major league magnates will meet Judge Landis in this city on Monday to "complete plans for the world's series." It is still the impression in this corner that the ball players are going to settle that little matter and not as early as next Monday, either.

New York gets a good break in the schedule this year. The Yankees, a good road team, finish on the road, and the Giants, who do much better work on home cooking, will put on their final dash along their own baselines below Coogan's Bluff.

Like the Giants, however, the Yankees hope to play the world's series at home. In fact, they expect it.

Over the Net.

Five of the eight quarter-finalists on the courts at Forest Hills yesterday were tennis representatives of this country, which wasn't so bad considering the forecast that after the third day there would be a sign on all courts: "Ici l'on parle français."

The tennis tournament furnished as many surprises as the golf championship up at Brae Burn. No one expected to see Johnny Hennessey erased in the first round. Wilmer Allison, who was having his best season back of the net, was cut off quickly and decisively in the second round by de Buzelet.

Frank Hunter, who experienced several setbacks earlier in the season, got into the quarter-finals by slamming his way past Dick Williams, Julius Seligson and Jean Borotra. It was quite a feat to bring down a former champion, a rising star and one of the French "Big Four" on successive days.

It took Johnny Doeg five sets to defeat "Bunny" Austin, the young English player. Given a year against top-class competition, Austin will hand any one of the leaders a brisk argument.

Jack Crawford of Australia is another visitor who put in some fast footwork at Forest Hills. Undoubtedly France has the edge at the moment, but other nations aren't exactly helpless on the courts. One great player, bobbing up here or in England or in Australia might be enough to start the tide running in a different direction.

One Tilden gave this country control of the courts for seven years. Another Tilden could do the same thing, but where is another to be found?

The United States has no outstanding star of the courts, but in Lott, Doeg, Allison, Van Ryn and half a dozen other youngsters we have a rising class that will do us honor in several championships and international matches to come. It will be noted that the United States youngsters went further than the French youngsters at Forest Hills this week.

From the Brae Burn Bunkers.

Jess Sweetser is still a great fighter on the links. The only time he smiled in his match with Voigt was when he stepped forward and shook hands with his conqueror on the sixteenth green.

Sweetser was "short," as they say at the race track. He hadn't been playing enough golf to work his way to top form. But he wasn't "short" through the fairway. He can still hit a long ball down the middle.

Ray Gorton might have won his famous match if he had been playing anybody but Bob Jones. The burden of leading the Atlanta wizard through practically all of the match was too much for the Brae Burn veteran. With the match in hand after Bobby had sliced to trouble from the eighteenth tee, Gorton hit a terrific hook into the hillside.

A remarkable putt saved Gorton on the home green, but his drive on the extra hole was a slice even wilder than his horrible hook from the previous tee. The ball disappeared into an oak grove and came to rest alongside Brae Burn's supply of cordwood for next Winter's fires.

Speaking of fighters, "Tip" Perkins belongs in the front rank. The British amateur champion was 3 down to Donald Moe in the first round and apparently headed for a lop-sided defeat. But he came through to beat Moe in four extra holes, and he carried on to defeat "Ducky" Yates the same afternoon.

Perkins has a peculiar style in hitting. He seems to fall away instead of going through after hitting the ball. He's the Al Simmons of the links, but he gets plenty of distance just the same. For that matter, nobody complains about the hitting of Simmons except the teams he plays against.

There's a rising class on the golf links as well as on the tennis courts. This includes George Voigt, the Dawson brothers, Tommy Taller, Phillips Finlay, Maurice McCarthy and John D. Ames, who, incidentally, is a son of the famous "Snake" Ames.

VOLAMA IS VICTOR IN MINEOLA TROT

Brusie Wins With Juvenile Colt and Also Triumphs With Azure Volo.

Special to The New York Times.

MINEOLA, L. I., Sept. 13.—Harry Brusie, the Hartford (Conn.) trainer, today took both the trots for colts at the Mineola Fair Grounds. In the two-year-old trot he won handily with Volama, owned by Joe Roberts of Boston. The Good Time Stable's Guy Fletcher was second in the opening heat, but a break in the second put him out of the running. Captain Tell took third place in each heat. In the second and final heat Miss Guy Morris, the chestnut mare owned by Benjamin Moore of Astoria, N. Y., took second place.

Brusie lost the first heat in the three-year-old trot with Azure Volo, owned by Charles Macomber of Taunton, Mass., but Azure Volo took the next two heats, as Grace Dickinson tired to finish second in each.

Bud Murray, the old-timer on the Long Island tracks, broke into the winning list with Guy Erda, a bay gelding by Guy Axworthy, to a straight-heat victory in the 2:25 trot over a fast field which included the New Jersey trotters, Maryland Girl and Peter Port.

The Orange County bred filly Jane Brooke, by Justice Brooke, was a winner in the 2:24 pace, with Harry Whitney driving.

CH. LITTLE RAJAH IS BEST IN SHOW

RUMSON FARM ENTRY WINS

Pointer Ridgeway Gamefeather Is Victor Among Sporting Dogs—Collie Laund Lucky Scores.

By HENRY R. ILSLEY.

Special to The New York Times.

MINEOLA, L. I., Sept. 13.—Fighting his way up through his own breed, meeting and beating the best of the toys and then courageously tackling dogs that would make a hundred of him in weight, tiny Champion Little Rajah came through victorious in the battle for the best dog in the first exhibition held in connection with the Mineola Fair.

Champion Little Rajah is a beautiful orange sable Pomeranian owned by Mrs. V. Matta of Astoria, L. I., and his victory this afternoon was the second of the kind he has gained in an all-breed show. In the final judgment when he came before George N. Owen of Great Neck he beat the winning pointer; the best of the working group, a collie; was placed over the star of the terriers, a Scottie, and the winning Boston terrier among the non-sporting dogs.

In addition to having been beat in the show at two all-breed events, Champion Little Rajah has three times been best in specialty shows. Twenty-three times he has been proclaimed best of his breed and eighteen times best toy dog. Best of all, he is American-bred—bred, in fact, in his owner's kennels.

Ten winners among the sporting dogs came into the ring to be judged by Theodore Offerman. After long consideration he dismissed all save the Rumson Farm Kennel's splendid pointer bitch Ridgeway Gamefeather; Mrs. Edward H. Miner's Irish setter Red Lights, Frederick A. Hartmann's fine little beagle bitch Tinker Bell II and Colonel and Mrs. M. R. Guggenheim's greyhound Double Chance of Firenze.

All four were put through their paces almost without end and were given the most careful judging on the block. It appeared to be a very close battle between the pointer and the setter, but the cup and the blue went to the former, with the other ribbons going in the order above mentioned.

There were fewer in the working group, in which the highest honors went to the noted collie Laund Lucky of Bellhaven. The terriers fought a good fight, from which emerged that great Scottie Champion Lauriston Lukeo of Firenze, owned by Colonel and Mrs. M. R. Guggenheim. A very fine little Boston terrier, Walker's Punch, topped the non-sporting group to go into the finals.

The weather was again almost unbearable under the canvas, and the dogs suffered severely. This was noticeable in the judging rings, where there was a marked absence of dash, especially among some of the larger breeds. Not long after the final awards were made a thunderstorm broke over the Fair Grounds, but most of the exhibitors and spectators were then well on their ways.

Takes 2:17 Trot in Straight Heats—Hal Bee Scores in the 2:08 Pace, Beating Hazel McKlyo.

Special to The New York Times.

READING, Pa., Sept. 13.—Exciting light harness racing, the fastest and best seen here in years, marked the Central Circuit meeting classes featuring the Big Thursday card of the Greater Reading Fair here this afternoon, furnishing sport for more than 65,000 spectatorrs. A thunderstorm, lasting about ten minutes late in the afternoon, caused a postponement of the 2:10 trot, owing to the heavy track.

The New England entry, Neil Brooke, owned by F. F. Henderson of Boston, won the 2:20 pace, after sensational whipping brushes to the wire with Peter Sellers in the first two heats, although he had the misfortune of being nosed out at the wire in the third heat by Melody Scott in a real blanket finish. This robbed Driver Art Martin of the $50 bonus for winning in straight heats. All three heats were stepped better than 2:10.

Sallie Dillon, owned and driven by Elmer S. Espenship of Norristown, captured the 2:17 trot, in one, two, three order, the fastest heat being clocked in 2:09 3-4.

In the 2:08 pace, Hal Bee of Herman Tyson's string, won with Hazel McKlyo, the contender, taking the third heat.

WET REPUBLICANS.

Some Republican newspapers and committeemen still make a great pother about Governor SMITH having repudiated the Democratic platform, so far as concerns the prohibition plank. Senator GLASS of Virginia, who wrote that plank, declares that SMITH is wholly within his rights in the position which he has taken. Waiving all that, what is to be said of the many Republicans who are renouncing their own platform, going square against the views of their own candidate, and yet proposing to call themselves "regular"? Perhaps, as President BUTLER appears to do, they make a nice distinction between "the ticket" and the party nominee for the Presidency. Yet some of them, even candidates for office, are publicly avowing their intention to vote for Mr. HOOVER because they believe that is the surest way to get rid of prohibition. The reasoning is a little tortuous, but the fact is undoubted.

Here in this city, for example, we have Mr. PHELPS PHELPS, who is seeking the Republican nomination for Congress in the Seventeenth District. He is an unblushing Wet. He does not even blush when he declares, in effect, that the way to get Governor SMITH'S plan respecting prohibition adopted is to elect Mr. HOOVER President, along with a Republican Congress. There is no question of Mr. PHELPS'S sincerity, though there may be a little justified doubt of his logic. He has been consistently in favor of modifying the prohibition law, and is not now admitting that he is simply for the sake of catching votes in the Republican primary next week. Yet we have not observed that any indignant Republicans in his district have risen to rebuke him for abandoning the Republican platform and challenging the good faith of Secretary HOOVER.

Another Republican candidate for Congress is going into the Massachusetts primary, as Wet as the shore line of the New Bedford district which he aspires to represent. This gentleman, Mr. JOHN D. W. BODFISH, has issued to the Republican voters a frank statement of "What BODFISH Stands For." It covers both local and national issues, and as regards one of the latter, makes the following declaration:

> Modification or, if necessary, the repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment and the enforcement act, and the adoption of measures authorizing the Federal Government to regulate and control the handling of liquor, permitting reasonable, proper and temperate use, forbidding and punishing intemperate abuse, and relying upon education and appeal to reason and conscience to promote habits of temperance among the people. He has always worked for temperance and against the saloon, and he believes that genuine temperance and the general welfare can be best promoted by such change.

Other examples could be given of the extraordinary mixture of motives and purposes which is making this campaign so confusing, and is confounding party managers. They do not know where they stand, because they cannot measure the silent but mighty shifting of opinion and threatened cross-voting which may throw out all political calculations. But if it is a matter of personal and party consistency, the honors appear to be easy as between Democrats and Republicans. Some of the latter who are Wet give the most astonishing explanations of why they propose to vote Dry in order to secure the Wetness which they desire. But doubtless they have among them Hegelian philosophers who are able to demonstrate that Not-Being is the same thing as Being.

MANOEUVRES AT GENEVA.

On the surface an anomalous situation exists at Geneva as a consequence of Germany's raising the question of evacuation of the Rhineland. The German Chancellor's plea brought from M. BRIAND a reply which, considering its source, was nothing less than sensational and which created a great commotion in the German press. The French statesman, who has been most ardent for a reconciliation with Germany, co-author of Locarno, the man who at the recent signing of the anti-war treaty dedicated the document to the war dead of all nations, spoke out at Geneva in the tone, as has been said, not of BRIAND but of POINCARE. The Germans were informed that their plea for disarmament was not wholly sincere, and were warned against flirting with the idea of a Russian alliance and nourishing the illusion of a union with Austria. If that was how BRIAND the peace-lover felt about things, there seemed little prospect of a meeting of minds on the Rhineland evacuation.

Nevertheless, the Rhineland question is making progress. A settlement probably will not be effected at Geneva, but negotiations are under way. Following upon the Briand speech there have been consultations between allied and German representatives, and in these BRIAND has stated that Germany's case is morally strong enough to demand consideration and that the time is ripe for open discussions. In Germany the first shock of the Briand cold douche is passing. The Nationalists continue to storm, but the moderate Vossische Zeitung advises Democrats and Socialists to "drop their aggressive manner" toward BRIAND and go back to their traditional policy of common sense and conciliation. The reason why progress instead of rupture has followed upon BRIAND'S strong words is not far to seek. That speech did serve to clear the air. It was a summons to the Germans to recognize realities, and a reminder that carried force, because it was, after all, BRIAND who addressed them and not POINCARE.

Nor was BRIAND thinking of the Germans solely. He was taking account of home opinion. Always under fire from a considerable section of French opinion as an idealist and too much the friend of the recent foe, it was good tactics for him to begin by cutting up a bit rough with the Germans. He could then go on to discuss concessions. He chose to stress the question of German-Austrian union because that is the very weakest point in Berlin's case and a very sensitive topic in France. For that matter, it is fairly certain that the German Chancellor brought forward the question for the purpose of having it knocked down. Whatever may be its hopes for the distant future, there are issues of much more immediate importance to Germany. Thus BRIAND and Herr MUELLER have been playing a rather subtle game at Geneva, but this time shrewdness is being employed for commendable ends.

JOB-HUNTERS SWINDLED.

Private employment agencies line many midtown avenues and streets. All day long men and women in search of work stand before the bulletin boards and read that cooks, garage men, gardeners, porters, waitresses and other workers are wanted. Usually one flight up is the office where the agents take an advance fee and give the job-hunters directions for getting to their new place. Too often the unlucky ones find that the situation has already been filled or that no one had been sent for. When they return to reclaim the fee they are sent out again. Many of them, after several futile trips, give up in disgust and leave the fee, about $10, with the agent. This and other practices equally reprehensible are now being scrutinized by the Industrial Survey Commission. The agencies have operated with little supervision, but now they are to be inspected and, if possible, cleaned up.

Unemployment is too general and too serious to fall into the hands of unscrupulous persons for adjustment. Before a man appeals to an agency for help in getting work, he has usually exhausted his own resources in job-hunting. His money is getting low, and he reluctantly parts with the fee necessary to interest the agent. Most receipts are closely printed on the back with a long statement of the conditions he accepts, and there are usually legal-sounding phrases and sometimes references to the law under which the agency is permitted to work. All job-hunters, and particularly aliens, are impressed by this show of legality. It is almost impossible for them to get their money back, and many of them are afraid to ask for it. One young Englishman who was convinced that he had been sent on wild-goose chases and whose education was better than that of the average agency clientele insisted on the return of his fee. He got it, but the manager was so infuriated, chiefly because a number of potential fee-payers witnessed the transaction, that he followed the young man to the door and kicked him down the stairs. A policeman stopped the resulting fight and arrested the participants, and the Englishman paid his fine with his fee money.

Other abuses, as brought out by witnesses before the commission, are fundamentally worse, though no more irritating. Bosses and superintendents employing large numbers are in league with certain agents. Men are fired so that others can be hired, the placement fees being split between the boss and the agent. Help in Summer hotels demand wages in vain at the end of the season. They are told that their keep has used up the money as fast as it was earned. Young girls sent out as waitresses or chambermaids testify that they are really wanted for immoral purposes. False advertising brings in many fees.

The remedy is not yet clear. Raising the license of such bureaus from $25, the present amount, to $1,000, as has been suggested, will merely concentrate the business in the hands of a few. Several of the women who are connected with public employment services have spoken in favor of the abolition of private agencies. Dr. ANDREWS of the American Association for Labor Legislation said that "nobody should pay for the privilege of working," and that present conditions will not be remedied until the State establishes employment bureaus.

CAMPAIGNING FROM THE AIR.

HAMILTON F. KEAN, the Republican candidate for United States Senator in New Jersey, has begun to campaign from the air. Mr. KEAN does not fly himself, but has hired aviators to fly for him and scatter handbills in his interest. One of his stanchest supporters, Mr. ALFRED G. BIRKENMEIER, President of the Alexander Hamilton League, has volunteered to cover the countryside from an airplane with 30,000 pieces of paper that look very much like ballots but make this printed announcement:

> We are campaigning in behalf of HAMILTON F. KEAN, a descendant of HAMILTON, and hope to have him the representative of New Jersey in the Senate of our country. The virtue of the ideals he possesses are like unto HAMILTON'S and the identical capacities. Will the City of Paterson stand by its founder?

Mr. KEAN would perhaps blush at the comparison with ALEXANDER HAMILTON. If he can persuade his fellow-citizens that he possesses the ideals of HAMILTON, and can write papers like those in The Federalist or prepare a report on the public credit as sound and illuminating as that made by his ancestor, which has been called "one of the great State papers of our history," Senator EDWARDS will be buried under an avalanche of votes in November. But if Mr. KEAN can lay claim to the 'identical capacities," his place is in the Cabinet, holding the Treasury portfolio.

Like Mr. KEAN, ALEXANDER HAMILTON once walked the streets of Elizabethtown, N. J. He prepared for college there, and lived in the house of ELIAS BOUDINOT, according to one of his biographers. This is interesting to delvers in the old records, and Mr. KEAN can get a reflected glory from it. It is true that ALEXANDER HAMILTON was identified with the founding of Paterson, for he helped to organize the first great industrial corporation in America, the Society for the Establishing of Useful Manufactures. It received a charter from the State of New Jersey and established the town site of Paterson at a point where the water power of Passaic Falls could be used. When Mr. KEAN speaks in Paterson he will have an opportunity to tell his hearers what that flourishing city owes to his ancestor.

A HOOVER RELIEF EXPEDITION.

One of the most positive, original and gratifying of Mr. HOOVER'S Republican principles is his devotion to "happy homes." Thought of that sharpens the pain with which we read day after day of so much wrangling within the Republican home and so many of the family getting out of it. Thank Heaven, a burst of sunshine once more illuminates the old homestead and in moist eyes shines that "the-mortgage-is-lifted" look of principals in the American domestic drama of forty years ago. For Mr. COOLIDGE, who found the trouting at Brule too active to give him time to express his passionate interest in that quest, save in his characteristically cordial "recommend" of his Secretary of Commerce about to seek new employment, now "wishes to take an active part in the struggle" and "Republican leaders are delighted at the decision."

Already he has been in conferences with Mr. MELLON and Mr. HOOVER. What further steps he may take to promote the good cause nobody knows; but the mere fact that he is churning with enthusiasm is bound to be "of material psychological benefit." It is even hoped that he may make a speech somewhere some time and tell the world the story the graylings kept him from uttering in Wisconsin. Massachusetts Republicanism needs him, cries for him. Will he go there? Will he comfort his sorely distressed party there? Will he repeat for Mr. HOOVER that earnest personal appeal which was so successful in the case of Senator BUTLER in 1926? Doubtless the President counts the two fares to Northampton and back on that occasion well lost in behalf of a friend.

The President may hold that the best aid he can give Mr. HOOVER is to stick to his post and attend to business. Yet a relief and rescue expedition to the Bay State seems imperative. The worst is not too bad for Mr. COOLIDGE to expect of Boston, but the sufferings of his own parishioners must touch him nearer. A political correspondent of The Baltimore Sun, viewing the New England landscape o'er, hears that "the switch of Republican "voters to SMITH in Western Mas-"sachusetts has been astonishing." He may be too easily astonished. One hates to believe that a malady so contagious on the wrong side of the Connecticut River has attacked the favored region to the west of it. And one would wish to know in which region lives that "influential Republican editor" whose case is thus recorded:

> For a long time he hesitated over what course to take. He admired Governor SMITH and would have found it easy to support him, but finally he decided to support the Republican ticket in his paper. To a friend he said he was supporting HOOVER and hoped he would be elected, because he believed HOOVER "would wreck the Republican Party." He wanted it wrecked because he wanted it reorganized and regenerated.

His guilt is personal, but "even "where Republicans hold fast to "their party allegiance, they are "evincing no enthusiasm for the "ticket." If this be the fact, all the stronger is the reason why Mr. COOLIDGE should go to his adopted heath and disengage his long-accumulating, pent-up ardor.

WE DON'T REALLY MEAN IT.

Americans have their share of homicidal impulses. But the Osservatore Romano takes our public imprecations too literally. This newspaper, which is the medium of publication for official Vatican news, but is otherwise not infallible, cites murderous cries uttered in this country at prizefights and baseball matches as proof that paganism is succeeding Christianity and "the religion of speed" and sports is becoming the faith of the youth of the world.

It is perfectly true that all over this broad land any Roman editor who might tarry by a village commons or sit in a box at the Yankee Stadium would probably hear from a thousand throats the bloody ejaculation: "Kill the umpire!" But this does not mean that any of the ejaculators really want the umpire to be assassinated. Some of them would perhaps like to see him slightly injured as reprisal for his manifest injustice against the home team. Others would be willing to have any other spectator launch his fist against the umpire's treacherous eyes. Still others are for various forms of punishment, but not one really desires that the umpire shall pass from the company of mortals.

"At Philadelphia," mourns the Roman editor, "when DEMPSEY was "knocked prostrate by the blows of "his adversary a hundred thousand "partisans of the winner jumped to "their feet yelling: 'Kill him! Kill him!'" While the general picture is accurate, and the exclamation was no doubt heard at Philadelphia that night, Mr. TUNNEY'S partisans never had a chance to turn down their thumbs in so Corinthian a manner. Mr. DEMPSEY was never knocked down that evening at all, although he was pounded rather steadily on every inch of his anatomy above the belt. One year later at Chicago Mr. DEMPSEY, after felling Mr. TUNNEY as a tenpin is felled by a bowling ball, was knocked to one knee for a brief space of time, but never in either fight did he measure his length upon the canvas. It might be added that Mr. DEMPSEY'S friends in the seventh round, as Mr. TUNNEY arose from temporary slumber, earnestly advised Mr. DEMPSEY to kill Mr. TUNNEY. But even then they didn't mean it. They didn't mean it any more than a Roman means it when he says to a lady: "Signora, your beauty kills me."

GRAIN PRICES AND POLITICS.

Among the various influences which contributed to the Coolidge pluralities in 1924 was one which does not exist today. Shortly before that year's nominating conventions, wheat sold at Chicago for $1.03 per bushel. With one of the largest American yields since the war foreshadowed, further decline in the price at harvest seemed inevitable. But long before election day there had occurred one of those windfalls of good fortune which at intervals come to American agriculture. While our own harvest turned out to be almost the largest since the Government guaranteed the price, the wheat crops of competing foreign producers encountered disaster. Production in Canada and Argentina fell off 270,000,000 bushels from the year before; Europe's decreased 200,000,000. The price at Chicago rose above $1.60, and the Coolidge ticket swept even the Northwestern farm States.

Last Monday's Government forecast indicated for 1928 a larger American wheat crop than in 1924, but it will have to compete with even more ample foreign crops. The Canadian Government this week estimates a yield 100,000,000 bushels above any year since 1923, and 76,000,000 greater than the "high-record crop" then harvested. For the most part, other foreign producers indicate larger harvests than in recent years. Wheat at Chicago, as a consequence, has fallen almost to the low price reached in the early months of 1924. At this week's price of $1.07, it is 20 cents a bushel below last September, 40 cents under 1925 and, except for the two or three "deflation years," is much the lowest Autumn price since the war ended.

What effect this will have on the November vote is not at all clear. The political result of a large wheat crop sold at relatively high prices has always favored the party in power at election time; the contented farmer will determine the action of wheat-producing States. A small crop, sold at unfavorable prices because of abundant foreign harvests, has almost invariably made the voice of the dissatisfied farmer heard emphatically in the Fall elections; but the political effect of low prices for an abundant American harvest has not been so evident. Perhaps cause and effect are usually too plainly indicated by the figures of home production, and a declining market for a large crop is too familiar an incident of the farmer's life.

On the other hand, the Republican Party will certainly not possess this year the exceptional advantage which it derived from the harvest accidents of 1924, and the probability is that, with wheat selling virtually at pre-war prices, the platform declarations on "farm relief" and the attitude of the candidates toward it will play an increasingly important part in the political drift of wheat-growing communities. Their outspoken dissatisfaction with the Republican Party's attitude and their gratification at the Houston platform indicate which side ought to be helped by that phase of the agricultural situation.

ROADS, GOOD AND BAD.

It is a far cry—or a long drive—from New York to California, yet both on the Pacific Coast and in the heart of the Mississippi Valley arises a plaint which is only too familiar to New Yorkers—that the roads must be improved. California's case is presented in The San Francisco Chronicle, which, while admitting the existence of "rough spots," takes pride in the rapidity with which they are being eliminated and points to the work being done to flatten corners and to widen the roads which are more heavily traveled. The case of Kansas is discussed in The Kansas City Star, and is viewed with perhaps understandable pessimism. The hope is expressed that the Presidential campaign will not obscure the necessity for voting in behalf of the proposed constitutional amendments authorizing Kansas to establish a State system of highways and to levy a gasoline tax. In other Kansas papers there have been many complaints that the State is remiss in its road work, and that the failure properly to pave even the through highway is turning people away from Kansas to other States.

The truth of the matter is that, with the exception of the long-suffering East, where people have until recently never known first-class roads and are accustomed to being jolted out of their seats even in city streets, the automobile-using public is becoming more and more particular. Having learned the comforts and advantages of good roads, their demand is for more of them. In fact, if some subtle potentate had wished to bring about a universal demand for good roads in this country, he could not have done better than to permit all automobile owners to drive on a bit of first-class pavement and then return to the old normal road full of holes and bumps.

New York is slow in bowing to the inevitable. It experiences the same inconveniences as Kansas and—in rare spots—California. It accepts too narrow roads as inevitable, and snaps springs and tempers on rough spots with little more than a curse. Always the plea is that the magnitude of the task of rebuilding the roads is such that rapid changes are impossible. In extenuation the authorities point—not without credit—to the splendid boulevard being completed near New York City. But the final step has not yet been taken—of levying a gasoline tax, as has been done almost everywhere else throughout the Union. If there is any doubt that it pays, it is only necessary to look to California, which has made her road system into a source of revenue for the entire State.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

A Real Social Worker.

A combination of sound theory, benevolent practice and literary ability made Miss MARY E. RICHMOND exceptional among social workers. Her death means the loss of a rich personality to the Charity Organization Department of the Russell Sage Foundation and many others with whom she worked. But her influence will not be lost for many years.

She was a firm believer in the individualized method of helping people in trouble. Treating human faults and ills as though they could be classified like so much machinery was abhorrent to her. The working out of problems case by case, as she did it, resulted in the now generally accepted term, "social case work." Her little book, "What Is Social Case Work?" published six years ago, has been reprinted and translated many times, and is in use as a text or reference book in numerous colleges.

Nearly twenty years ago she became the director of the Charity Organization Department. Since that time she has written a number of valuable papers, some of which are still to be published. The results of last October's conference of the American Association for Organizing Family Social Work, which she sponsored, will be out this week. Her last book, "Marriage and the State," will soon be published. It is a comprehensive study of marriage laws, child marriages and the responsibilities of State and family to each other.

Pity the Poor Pedestrian!

A nice point has been raised by the first citizen of New Jersey to be arrested for crossing a street in Newark against the traffic signals. He had just alighted from a trolley car, was his plea, and so, having come with the traffic, had not violated the law by crossing against it. The traffic policeman, nevertheless, obliged him to go to the curb opposite to the one he wished to reach.

Obviously, this situation of a pedestrian requires clearing up. If getting off a trolley when the "stop" signal is indicated, there can be no question of the pedestrian's right to make his way to either curb. But if the trolley moves on and the light remains green, what is the poor man to do? Unless he is at an "island" he is in the middle of the traffic.

The purpose of the new law is to keep pedestrians out of the streets when the signals are set against them. How, then, are they to reach the legal and physical sanctuary of the curb if a trolley deposits them in the middle?

It is to be hoped that the natural irritation about such incidents will not provoke Jerseyites into protesting against the enforcement of the new law. It has worked so well elsewhere that it is certain to be of ultimate benefit in New Jersey. Undoubtedly the police officers will be cautioned not to make arrests except for the most flagrant violations.

A Seafaring Cat Brings Luck.

Most of the superstitions in which sailors today put faith are of ancient origin. They are handed down unchanged through generations of seagoing men. But one such ancient tradition of both land and sea seems in a fair way to be discredited. A black cat has proved itself a harbinger of good luck.

When the fishing schooner Clifton had put out from Wildwood Gables it was found that there was a stowaway aboard, a stray black cat. The crew were all for throwing it overboard as an evil omen. But the captain, perhaps remembering another superstition that it is bad luck to kill a cat, gave it shelter in his cabin.

The cat came on deck and stood watch with the captain, but toward dawn, growing restive, sprang to the rigging and then up to the crow's nest. The captain climbed aloft to make a second rescue, and looking down saw a huge school of bluefish. All hands were called, dories were lowered, and three hours later the Clifton sailed into port with a record catch for the season—400 barrels, which brought $7,000. The crew gave due credit to the cat and took up a collection to buy it a silk cushion and an unlimited supply of condensed milk.

War on Home-Made Bobs.

Reports on the status of bobbed hair vary with every changing breeze. Now it is accepted as a permanent fashion and now as a fad doomed to pass. The barbers of Berlin have their own decided opinion in the matter, which is that the bob is so universal a style that German girls and women no longer trouble to have their hair clipped at the barber shop, but nonchalantly have it cut in their own homes by mothers or sisters.

Naturally, the first home-made bobs were not models of neatness and symmetry. But this troubled the shorn damsels not at all. Ragged and uneven locks became the mode. Such haircuts were doubtless called the German equivalent of the "wind-blown bob" or the "Raggedy Ann" cut. The fashion flourished, the fräuleins saved their money, and the 600 barbers of Berlin declared war on all bobbed hair.

They are now planning a desperate campaign for long hair. For the growing-out stage they recommend transformations. Curls, waves and elaborate hair-dressing will be generally worn if they have their way. If the barbers are not to have the pleasure and profit of cutting the ladies' hair, no one else shall.

It will probably take more than a head-on attack of 600 barbers to turn the trend of fashion. A subtler method would be to sponsor a new bob, so fantastic and complicated that only a master barber could apply it.

A REPUBLICAN TURNS.

Governor Smith's Straightforwardness Wins a Difficult Vote.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

A Republican, I voted for McKinley, Roosevelt, Taft, Hughes, Harding and Coolidge, and if I am physically able, as I expect to be, shall, on Nov. 6, vote for Governor Smith. A few years back, I should have expected it would be difficult for me, under any imaginable circumstances, to separate myself from my party and vote the Democratic Presidential ticket; but, except on prohibition, the party issues are so insignificant, that I have found the course upon which I have resolved not only easy but positively enjoyable. In this election the man is the dominating issue, and I am enthusiastically for the Governor of New York.

If there is one quality all men admire above all others in a man it is courage, a straightforward, open public standing by one's convictions, and it is so seldom that one observes such a quality in a public official whose tenure of office is dependent upon popular favor that one's attention is arrested and one's admiration excited by a striking display of it. I size Governor Smith up as every inch a man and cannot escape the conviction that Mr. Hoover has been so obsessed by ambition for the Presidential office that, for several years past, he has thought and uttered himself in terms of votes calculated to land him in the White House.

Not to mention the fact that it is not many years since Mr. Hoover apparently didn't know whether he was a Republican or a Democrat, from his acknowledged utterances it would not be difficult to show his vacillation and change of position on more than one public question. He has been for and against the League of Nations. He has been officially in favor of the so-called national origins test of immigration, while as a candidate for the Presidency he opposes it. He has said that we should become rich as a result of the war and has also declared that we made nothing out of the war. He has seemed to favor the use of non-intoxicating wines and beer; and by his action, so far as possible, converting the Republican Party into a prohibition party, declared in his speech of acceptance (if he can be understood) that proposed changes in the prohibition law would be nullification of the Constitution.

The Mr. Hoover of recent years, with the Presidential bee in his bonnet, has seemed to be quite unlike the Mr. Hoover of 1917. The humanitarian, the idealist, seems to have merged into the politician, equivocating, currying public favor in the struggle for votes.

Governor Smith, on the other hand, in all his years of public life, has been consistent throughout. We may not agree with him, but we know precisely where he stands. He doesn't equivocate to attract or conciliate irreconcilable elements in the electorate. He doesn't hedge or suppress or change, doesn't attempt the slightest deception of the public.

Governor Smith is a Catholic, a sincere, devout Christian, who knows there are many narrow-minded bigots of his own party who are fanatically opposed to him because his particular brand of Christianity is not in agreement with theirs. He wants the votes of these Democrats. Their action may be decisive, but does he, in any way, for the time being, suppress his complete loyalty to his faith? He does not. In the face of all men he continues his open devotion to his religion; he even seems to make it conspicuous. At a time when he might advance his political interest by some little concealment, he goes to his church regularly, as before, in the light of day.

I am not a Catholic and I have no agreement with its creed or its policies, but I take off my hat to a man of conscience, whatever his politics, whatever his religion, who will not compromise his convictions for the Presidency of the United States.

It is going to be really a great happiness for me, a Republican, a Protestant, to vote for such a man as Governor Smith.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

On my trip to New Hampshire on Aug. 1 and 2 my wife and I counted 102 Hoover and 22 Smith markers on automobiles.

On Smith Day at Seagirt, N. J., we went to Asbury Park and counted on the way 44 Smiths and 40 Hoovers and on Aug. 14 we counted 52 Hoovers and 21 Smiths. Another trip last Sunday in Middlesex, Somerset and Hunterdon Counties we lost track of the Hoovers, but we did see two Smiths on the trip.

They were betting four to one in the hotel in New Hampshire where we were staying that Governor Smith would not carry New York State. VERY MUCH INTERESTED.

CANAL-BOATS.

Mule bells tinkle very softly, eight hoofs pad to the refrain,
Red bows slip beneath the bridges on the long rope's slender strain,
Even as the level tow-path is the leader's steady pace,
And the limp black ears go bobbing up above his sleepy face.

By the crude, long-handled tiller
lazily the barges wit
Chaffs his friends and guides the barges through the locks, a narrow fit.
At the conch-shell's toot of warning waters rush out like a tide
As the drowsy lockmen open the great wooden sluices wide!

Gently as a sleeper sinking drop the barges with the flow;
Smooth as toy boats on a mirror,
dreamy, tranquilly they go Straight through pastures, round a mountain, rippling through an elmy glade,
Like a dream into the shadows, bells and barge and conch-shells fade!

SMITH AND THE DRY LAW.

State Enforcement Action Defeated by Supreme Court Reversal.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

How, when or where did Alfred E. Smith, as Governor of New York, violate his oath of office with respect to the enforcement of the Eighteenth Amendment or the National Prohibition act?

It will be hereinafter noted that, although the State of New York had repealed its Prohibition law, which it had a constitutional right to do, he officially aided in the enforcement of the Eighteenth Amendment and the National Prohibition act, through the State Troopers and other peace officers of the State of New York, doing something he was not required to do as Governor under his oath of office or by the laws of the State of New York or the Constitution and laws of the United States.

It appears from the opinion of the Supreme Court of the United States, in the case of Gambino and Lima vs. United States, decided Dec. 12, 1927, reversing a judgment of conviction against them upon an indictment for conspiracy to import and transport liquor in violation of the National Prohibition act, that on Aug. 1, 1924, Gambino and Lima were arrested by two New York State Troopers near the Canadian border. Their automobile, while occupied by Gambino and therefore within the protection accorded to his person, was searched without a warrant and intoxicating liquor found therein was seized. They, the liquor and other property taken were immediately turned over to a Federal Deputy Collector of Customs for prosecution in the Federal Court for Northern New York.

The Supreme Court in its opinion, set forth the following as facts:

> In the memorandum filed by the Governor (Alfred E. Smith), approving the act which repealed the Mullan-Gage law (the State Prohibition act), he declared that all peace officers, thus including State Troopers, are required to aid in the enforcement of the Federal law "with as much force and as much vigor as they would enforce any State law or local ordinance," and that the repeal of the Mullan-Gage law should make no difference in their action, except that thereafter the peace officers must take the offender to the Federal Court for prosecution.

It also appears that the Court reversed the decision of the lower court because State Troopers, seizing liquor without a warrant, held not "agents of the United States," within National Prohibition act, Title 2, Section 26, since the term "any officer of the law," used therein, refers only to Federal officers; and admission in evidence of liquor wrongfully seized by State Troopers without a warrant, and thereafter turned over to Federal officers for prosecution in Federal Court, held in violation of defendants' rights, guaranteed by the Fourth and Fifth Amendments to the Constitution, &c.

WILLIAM MEYERHOFF.

SOMETHING ELSE NEEDED.

Mr. Hoover's Relief Work Alone Not a Qualification for Office.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In a radio talk on "Why Women Will Vote for Hoover for President," Mrs. F. L. Slade is quoted as asserting that she finds many women throughout the country who say that "because Mr. Hoover proved a competent manager of the Belgian War Relief, therefore it is the clear duty and high privilege of American womanhood to elect him President of the United States."

Granting Mr. Hoover full credit for his competence and ability in that great piece of work, and also in the Mississippi Flood Relief, it seems rather a novel suggestion that successful social service is the one and only requisite for the high office of President of the United States. Mr. Hoover did not originate the Belgian relief work, but being a well-known business executive, and on the spot at the time a leader was needed, he was selected and entrusted with the task. Some others also did very high grade executive and humanitarian work during that very trying period, as, for instance, Henry P. Davison, who managed the Red Cross during the war, or even Clara Barton, whose services for so many years brought her world renown.

The one really striking fact about Mr. Hoover, in my opinion, is that although he had this vast experience, and during these years was in contact with the leading men and women of all nations, since the war closed and while the United States has been struggling year after year with the most desperately difficult problems in her efforts to adjust her relationships with European nations, allies and former enemies, there has never come from Mr. Hoover one single public suggestion which would throw any light on these difficulties. One would naturally have expected that from this close personal contact he would have acquired a knowledge of those people, their purposes and their needs, which would have made him a leader in the formation of public opinion and public action. His opinion, especially in the days immediately succeeding the armistice and the peace treaty, would have commanded the respectful attention of all parties, but apparently he had nothing to suggest.

If in the painful days of reconstruction his experience had not furnished him with knowledge available to heal the wounds left by the war and to help his country see her path through this difficult period, it does not seem to me that he is likely to prove a leader of insight or originality now.

ROCKEFELLER FUND AIDS WORLD HYGIENE

Foundation Report Shows Eight Foreign Schools Received Money Last Year.

Toronto, Sao Paulo, Prague, Oslo, Budapest, Warsaw and Zagreb Obtained Grants.

Assistance given to eight institutes and schools of hygiene in as many different countries is recounted among numerous other moves in a world-wide battle against disease outlined in the 1927 report of the Rockefeller Foundation, which has just been made public. Hygiene is emphasized as in line with the Foundation's policy of stressing prevention of disease as much as cure.

The institutions given aid were the School of Hygiene of the University of Toronto, Canada; the Institute of Hygiene of Sao Paulo, Brazil; the London School of Hygiene and Tropical Medicines; the State Institute of Public Health of Prague, Czechoslovakia; the State Hygiene Institute of Budapest, Hungary; the School of Hygiene of Warsaw, Poland; the School of Public Health of Zagreb, Yugoslavia; and the State Institute of Hygiene at Oslo, Norway.

The foundation contributed $250,000 to the Toronto school to be used as a part of its endowment. It pledged an unnamed amount for the construction of a building required at Sao Paulo. During 1927 it finished payment of a total pledge of $2,330,000 for land, building and equipment of the London school, which should be completed next Spring, according to the report.

The amount contributed to the school in Prague and not specified, but the report declared that success had been achieved in the distribution of sera and vaccines needed there in fighting disease. The report told of the opening of the institute in Prague, to which it had contributed funds, and recounted the growth of the school at Warsaw. It told of giving $180,000 to the school at Zagreb.

Another feature of the report, which is in the form of a 385-page book, is a detailed account of the fight against yellow fever in Africa, which Dr. George E. Vincent, President of the Foundation, described recently.

Thomas W. Strong Also Willed $10,000 to Lenox Clergyman.

Because he served Thomas W. Strong as a chauffeur for many years, Thomas Walsh of 256 Seaman Avenue, will receive $25,000 from his employer's estate. Mr. Strong's will was filed yesterday with Probate Clerk Killoran in the Surrogate's Court. It disposes of $51,000 in specific bequests and divides a residuary estate of undetermined value equally between three sisters and a brother. Mr. Strong, who lived at 575 Park Avenue, died on Sept. 7.

The Rev. Latta Griswold of Lenox, Mass., receives $10,000 from the estate, and his church, the Protestant Episcopal Church of the Trinity, in Lenox, gets another $10,000. Bequests of $2,000 each go to two nephews and a niece, Cyril K. dos Passos of 27 East Sixty-second Street; William H. Mote of 2 Grace Court, Brooklyn, and Mrs. Ada V. Borden of Sound Beach, Conn. The brother and sisters are Edward W. Strong of the Hotel Alcazar, 43 West Thirty-second Street; Mrs. Carrie L. Miller, 8 East Eighty-sixth Street; Mrs. Ada E. Mote, 12 East Eighty-sixth Street, and Mrs. Isabel K. dos Passos of East Sixtysecond Street.

Mr. Walsh was "worth every cent he got," according to Mrs. dos Passos, who said that the chauffeur had proved faithful and able.

W. C. FIELDS ARRESTED.

Comedian Is Accused of Cruelty to Canaries in Show.

W. C. Fields, the comedian, was arrested last night on a charge of cruelty to animals, the animals in question being canaries. Complain was made against him by Harry Moran and Jacob Jacobs of the Humane Society. Fields furnished $500 bail and is to be arraigned this morning in West Side Court.

The cruelty to canaries of which Fields is accused occurs when, in the revue of which he is the current star, he removes a songster from the fake beard of another comedian, Gordon Dooley. The Humane Society asserts that the birds when released bump their heads against scenery and that this has caused four of them to die.

Lieutenant John Collins arrested Fields last night and many friends accompanied the actor to the West Forty-seventh Street station. The proceedings against him were almost stopped by a dispute between the Humane Society representatives and a friend of Fields, who asserted the birds were not canaries but sparrows.

LILLIAN LORRAINE WORSE.

Actress Has a Slight Relapse After an Excellent Day.

After having had an excellent day, Lillian Lorraine, actress, who is in the Park West Hospital after an operation for a ruptured appendix, suffered a slight relapse early last night, according to Dr. Harry Gilbert.

Dr. Gilbert said that while Miss Lorraine was more than holding her own she was still in a critical condition. He will not resort to blood transfusion, he said, unless her condition demands it. He added that two chorus girls from "Good Boy" would provide the blood if transfusion proved necessary.

Colleen on New Irish Notes Is American Wife of Artist

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Sept. 13.—The Irish colleen on the new Free State bills is an American girl, Irish officials learned today with some dismay. Sir John Lavery, who was commissioned to design the new Irish currency notes, says that the maiden who looks out so wistfully from the bills is really his Chicago-born wife.

"I had to have a sitter," Sir John explained, "and I could not find any one more suitable to type than my wife."

MACKAY AT FUNERAL WITH MRS. BERLIN

Presence of Daughter at Rites for Grandmother Revives Reconciliation Reports.

BUT HUSBAND IS ABSENT

Family and a Few Friends Attend Services for Mrs. J. W. Mackay at Church in Roslyn.

Mrs. Ellin Mackay Berlin, wife of Irving Berlin, rode beside her father at the funeral of her grandmother Mrs. John W. Mackay, yesterday, giving rise to renewed reports that the estrangement which followed her marriage to the song writer was at an end and that a reconciliation had been effected. No confirmation of such reports were obtainable, however, and it was noted by persons at the funeral that Irving Berlin was not present.

According to one of these reports, emanating from Roslyn, L. I., Mrs. Berlin and her father had healed their differences before Mr. Mackay sailed for Europe. On these and all other intimations that the breach had been healed Mr. Mackay's representatives were silent yesterday, as they had been on previous days. The only word that has come from Mrs. Berlin was a denial of a story that a reconciliation had taken place at the Macksy home at Roslyn on the day her father returned from Europe for his mother's funeral. Mrs. Berlin's comment on this, through a spokesman, was to say that she had not left her own home at Port Washington that day.

Special to The New York Times.

ROSLYN, L. I., Sept. 13.—Funeral services for Mrs. John W. Mackay, mother of Clarence H. Mackay, President of the Postal Telegraph Company, were held at St. Mary's Roman Catholic Church here this morning. Mrs. Mackay died at her son's estate here on Sept. 5, but the funeral arrangements were not made until Mr. Mackay arrived from Europe on the Majestic last Tuesday.

In the little church were Mr. Mackay, his son, John W. Mackay, and his two daughters, Mrs. Kenneth O'Brien and Mrs. Irving Berlin. Mr. Berlin was not present. John Mackay brought Mrs. Berlin from her home at Sands Point, L. I., earlier in the morning.

The Rev. C. C. Clifford, S. J., Professor of Medieval History at Columbia University and pastor of the Roman Catholic Church at Whippany, N. J., celebrated the low mass of requiem. He had officiated at the wedding of Mr. and Mrs. O'Brien four years ago. In accordance with the wishes of Mrs. Mackay, the services were of the simplest character and were attended only by the immediate family, close friends and representatives of several of the companies with which Mr. Mackay is associated.

Yellow Roses on Coffin.

The church was beautifully decorated with flowers from Harbor Hill, the Mackay estate. A blanket of yellow roses on which rested a cross of violets completely covered the bronze coffin.

Admission to the church was by card. The front doors were apparently locked and the coffin was taken in through a rear entrance, which was reached by a private road leading from a near-by portion of the Mackay estate. Six patrolmen of the Nassau County police under Sergeant Heberer and four detectives under Captain Harold R. King kept traffic moving on the Roslyn Road. Parishioners of the church, as well as reporters and photographers, were barred from the service. Police were stationed in adjacent streets.

Mr. Mackay and his daughter, Mrs. O'Brien, arrived in the first automobile. In the second were John W. Mackay and Mrs. Berlin. The ushers were Charles H. Sabin, Frank L. Polk and Walter W. Price.

Officiating at the mass were the Rev. Louis N. Martel, rector of the church, the Rev. Joseph Kelly of Southampton, L. I.; the Rev. Raymond Meagher, the Rev. J. A. Pauze, the Rev. Patrick Ford and the Rev. W. Moran. During the service there was music by Professor Albert Monestao, church organist.

When the cortege left the church, Mr. Mackay sat between his two daughters in the first automobile. John W. Mackay sat beside the chauffeur on the front seat. Among the friends at the services were former Justice and Mrs. Morgan J. O'Brien, Mortimer L. Schiff, Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas Brad, Mrs. Graham Fair Vanderbilt and Miss Gwendolyn Rose, fiance of John W. Mackay.

Burial in Greenwood.

The body of Mrs. Mackay was placed in the family mausoleum on Ocean Hill in Greenwood Cemetery, Brooklyn, shortly before noon. Only the immediate family in three automobiles was present.

A large body of policemen under Captain Lawrence W. Patterson of the Twenty-ninth Precinct, Brooklyn, formed a cordon 500 feet from the mausoleum. As early as 11 o'clock on-lookers had began gathering at Boarder Avenue and Wistaria Walk in the cemetery, the nearest point of approach permitted by the police and cemetery employes.

The cortege arrived by the Twentieth Street and Prospect Park West gate under escort of four Nassau County motorcycle policemen. It was 1:30 P. M. before the mourners left, as the process of sealing the coffin in place took considerable time. Father Clifford said the burial service.

MARY E. RICHMOND, SOCIAL WORKER, DIES

Crusaded With Voice and Pen Against Child Marriages for Many Years.

WITH THE SAGE FOUNDATION

Was Director of Its Charity Organization Department for Nearly Two Decades.

Mary E. Richmond, who devoted her entire life to social welfare work and had been an authority on marriage customs and a crusader for the elimination of child marriages, died late Wednesday night at her home, 414 West 120th Street, at the age of 67. She had been ill for three months and her health had not been robust for two years.

Miss Richmond had been the director of the Charity Organization Department of the Russell Sage Foundation since the department was created in 1909. Much of her time was devoted to writing. She was the author of books on social problems and marriage reform. Her last book, "Marriage and the State," is to be published this Fall.

Began Career in Baltimore.

Miss Richmond was born in Belleville, Ill., in 1861. She started her career as a social worker in Baltimore more than forty years ago and did much work there and in Philadelphia before she made her headquarters here.

Besides the battle against child marriages, Miss Richmond's chief campaign was in the cause of child labor reform. When she was the General Secretary of the Society for Organizing Charity in Philadelphia in 1907 she devoted herself to that cause, and it was said she was largely responsible for making Pennsylvania law prohibiting child labor enforceable.

One of Miss Richmond's greatest contributions to social work, according to persons who knew her professionally, was her lifelong insistence that every social case must be treated as an individual problem rather than as an example of a classified type.

A Tribute to Her Creed.

Her creed in this respect is expressed in a tribute paid her yesterday by John M. Glenn, Director of the Russel Sage Foundation. He said:

"The death of Miss Richmond will be an incalculable loss to the whole field of social work and social reform, for in her we have lost a fearless pioneer. Since her entrance into the field of social work, she has untiringly blazed the trail in behalf of the individualized method of helping human beings out of trouble. Her insistence that solutions of people's problems can only be worked out case by case rather than by treating 'types' of poverty gave rise to the generally accepted term of 'social case work' as a description of this particularized method of procedure."

The funeral will be held at 10 A. M. on Saturday at All Souls Unitarian Church, Fourth Avenue and Twentieth Street.

STEUER SAYS PENALTY IS NOT DEDUCTIBLE

Agrees With Income Tax Experts That Only Duty He Paid Can Be Subtracted from Year's Gross.

Max D. Steuer, attorney, who paid $5,251 to Customs officials upon arrival of the Aquitania on Sept. 7, and in a statement issued on Wednesday said customs duties were deductible from income tax, declared last night that he and the officials were in agreement that while duties were deductible, penalties were not, and that seemingly his statement about deductibility of duties had been "misconceived" by some persons.

The sum paid by the lawyer included duties and penalty on merchandise not declared on the Customs form, which was signed by Mrs. Steuer only. When the payment became known on Wednesday, the lawyer issued a statement, in which he said:

"I would like to call attention to the fact that whatever is paid by way of customs duties is deductible from income tax. My income tax for the year 1928 will be (as it has for many years been and would be if I had no income for the balance of the year) very many times $900 and many times $5,251. Mrs. Steuer's income tax, separately payable by her upon her income, amounts to many times $900 and a number of times $5,251. I merely state that so as to demonstrate that there was no possibility for the Government to be wronger of a cent or that she or I would profit a cent."

Lawyers generally, after reading the statement, concluded that Mr. Steuer believed that penalties were deductible items, and they were quick to voice "exceptions" in conversations with friends. Frank K. Bowers, Collector of Internal Revenue, referred inquiries to J. F. Ross, technical expert of his office.

Mr. Ross said that in cases where all goods were declared and were not intended for sale the duty might be subtracted from the gross income but not from the income tax.

Major James T. Dortch, attorney for the Bureau of Internal Revenue, said:

"A customs duty is a deductible item from gross income. A fine or penalty is not deductible under any circumstances."

Mr. Steuer said that he agreed with these views, and said that there was nothing in his statement at conflict with them. He said that he had been aware that penalties were not deductible and had therefore used "customs duties" in his statement.

LINCOLN EYRE BURIED IN BERLIN CEMETERY

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, Sept. 13.—Lincoln Eyre, late Berlin correspondent of THE NEW YORK TIMES and President of the American Club of Berlin, who died on Monday following an appendicitis operation, was buried this morning at St. Matthew's Cemetery here.

The bulk of Berlin's American Colony, representatives of the foreign press and hundreds of other friends of the deceased, who was one of the most popular Americans in Europe, filled the chapel at the cemetery where the funeral services were held.

Services were conducted by the Rev. Dr. Lemuel H. Murlin, pastor of the American church in Berlin and former President of Boston University and until 1925 of Depauw University. A few feeling words in memory of the departed were spoken by Vice President Wincke of the Berlin Foreign Press Association and two songs were sung by William Simons, the well-known oratorio singer.

Then followed the sorrowful procession to the grave at which Dr. Murlin again spoke.

Floral tributes which were remarkable alike for their profusion and beauty spoke eloquently of the boundless popularity which Mr. Eyre had won from his fellow-countrymen and Europeans in many walks of life. Over the coffin was draped a beautiful blanket of violets sent by fellow-members of the American Club, Berlin. Those who sent wreaths included the German Foreign Minister, Dr. Stresemann, the German Foreign Office, the American Embassy and American Consulate and American Commercial Attachés, the Foreign Press Association of Berlin, the Anglo-American Correspondents' Association of Paris, the International Association of Correspondents accredited to the League of Nations—of which Mr. Eyre was one of the founders—several important German firm companies and other organizations and the deceased's American newspaper colleagues in Berlin, as well as colleagues on newspapers of other nationalities.

SLOCUM FIRE HERO, P. J. LYNCH, IS DEAD

Fireman Saved 41 Lives in His Rowboat Ferry as Excursion Boat Burned.

WON MANY DECORATIONS

He Rescued Two Children When He Had Been 11 Months in Department—Served 48 Years.

Patrick J. Lynch, outstanding hero in the burning of the steamboat General Slocum with the loss of 1,031 lives on June 15, 1904, and hero also of many other exploits in his forty-eight years of service with the Fire Department, died yesterday morning at his home, 407 East 134th Street, the Bronx. He was 75 years old, and succumbed after a long illness.

On the day of the Slocum disaster Lynch, on his day off, happened to stroll down to the East River at 134th Street. In the river, headed toward North Brother Island, was the Slocum, afire and loaded with women and children of the St. Mark's Lutheran Sunday School on a picnic.

Lynch ran out on a sand scow moored to a wharf and untied a rowboat. A deckhand tried to stop him, but Lynch displayed his badge and rowed to the burning steamboat. Many of the passengers now were leaping into the water to escape the flames. A tugboat was standing by, but could not get to the Slocum because of the shallowness of the water.

Lynch rowed up under the gunwale of the ship, dragged struggling women and children from the water and called to frantic women at the railing to throw their children to him. As fast as he filled his little craft he rowed to the tugboat with them. Then back he went to the Slocum for more. In all he saved forty-one persons.

For this he was decorated with the Congressional Medal for life-saving, by the American League of Honor and the United States Volunteer Life Saving Society.

He previously had been honored in 1879, eleven months after joining the department, for saving two children in a fire at the cost of injuries which kept him in the hospital for two months. For this the department decorated him and placed his name on the Roll of Merit.

ALIEN LAND RIGHTS IN MEXICO EXTENDED

FRONTIER DISTRICTS OPENED

Liberal View of Constitutional Clauses Is Contained in Statement to Chambers of Commerce.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 13.—"Mexican corporations devoted to any other purposes than those of agriculture, even if controlled partly or wholly by foreigners, may acquire lands within and without the prohibited zones in the terms of section 4 of Article XXVII of the Constitution of 1917, but always provided that the permission of the Ministry of Foreign Relations, according to Article VIII of the law regulating Section 1 of Article XXVII, is obtained, according to information obtained from the Confederation of the National Chambers of Commerce and given out for publication this morning.

From the viewpoint of foreign investors in Mexico the importance of this announcement which the confederation asserts is a direct communication from the Ministry of Foreign Affairs, cannot be overestimated. It would appear to be a drastic concession on the part of the Government to foreign holdings, and evidence that the authorities have begun to treat the much-discussed land legislation, as it regards foreigners, in that liberal spirit which Washington has sought all through the diplomatic exchanges on both the land and petroleum problems.

To appreciate its significance one must turn to Article XXVII of the Constitution of Mexico, which during recent years has caused an exchange of notes between Washington and Mexico City totaling upward of 40,000 words. From this point, thanks largely to the efforts of Ambassador Morrow and Reuben Clark during the latter's stay here, the Calles Administration and the foreign oil interests have been able to make great strides toward a final settlement of the petroleum issue.

Move Toward Ending Land Issue.

But landholding by foreigners still remained a stumbling block. Today's announcement indicates that here, too, such a favorable step has been taken as to presage a totally unexpected financial turn of thought in Mexico.

Section 1 of Article 27 of the Mexican Constitution says substantially:

"Only Mexicans by birth or naturalization, or Mexican corporations, have the right to acquire dominion over lands, waters, &c., or to obtain concessions to exploit mines, water power or combustibles within the republic. The State may concede the same rights to foreigners, providing that they agree before the Foreign Relations Department to consider themselves as Mexicans in all that has to do with the said properties and that they will not invoke the protection of their Governments regarding said properties, which, in failure thereof, are to pass to the ownership of the nation.

"Foreigners may not under any conditions acquire direct ownership of lands and waters which are not distance at least ten kilometers from a national boundary line of fifty kilometers from the coast line."

Section 4 of Article 27 says in effect:

"Commercial corporation or stock companies may not acquire, possess or administer agricultural lands. Corporations of this class formed to exploit any other industry, such as factories, mines, petroleum wells or for any other purpose not agricultural, may acquire, possess or administer only the lands necessary for the erection of buildings destined for the object indicated, which the executive of the Union or respective State will fix in each case."

Calls Interpretation Radical.

Commenting on the new situation the Excelsior says:

"The construction by the Government of Article 27 has been so radical that stock companies the shares of which were in the hands of foreigners, although the companies were organized in strict accordance with Mexican law, have been unable to acquire real estate within the frontier or maritime zones."

The newspaper then quotes the declaration from the Confederation's statement.

"This Confederation took into consideration a circular from the Ministry of the Interior dated March 28, last, in which was published a note from the Ministry of Foreign Affairs dated the 9th of the same month, from which it was learned that, in the opinion of the Foreign Relations Ministry, as regards Section 1 of Article 27, Mexican corporations having foreign shareholders could not own real estate within the frontier limits and advised notaries not to register any deeds giving such properties to Mexican corporations with foreign interests therein."

Asked for New Ruling.

Excelsior continues to quote the Confederation's statement:

"The confederation judged that this matter was of capital interest and clearly announced to the Minister of Foreign Relations that the note of his department was not according to the spirit of Article 27 of the Constitution nor to the organic law on Section 1 thereof. Article 27 ordains that in frontier lands and those along the coast foreigners may not obtain direct dominion, but the organic law, in addition to the foregoing, prohibits foreigners who are members of Mexican corporations from such domination. The Confederation also pointed out that the Foreign Ministry's view is in open contradiction to Section 5 of Article 27, which allows stock companies or commercial institutions to exploit any industry, mining, petroleum or otherwise, provided it is not agricultural.

"The Confederation also presented to the Ministry of Foreign Relations the point that it is impossible to know every moment the nationality of the shareholders in stock companies, emphasizing that stock companies have a distinct personality from the individuals composing them; that the companies are the owners while the shareholders merely have the right to receive profits."

The Confederation then requested rectification of the Foreign Ministry's view on the matter, obtaining the declaration already given.

Commercial circles here consider that the situation has been cleared by a demonstration of official Mexican spirit that augurs immensely well for the influx of foreign money. They hold that the Confederation's accomplishment is one of the first magnitude.

WOMAN IS DROWNED AS CAR FALLS IN CREEK

Four Companions Climb Out—Schoolgirl Killed by an Empty Auto.

Special to The New York Times.

SUFFERN, N. Y., Sept. 13.—One woman was drowned and four others were injured at noon today when a Packard sedan crashed through a wooden rail on a bridge over a creek on the Pompton Turnpike in Bergen County, N. J., near here, and dropped twenty feet into the water. The driver of the automobile, Mrs. John Mohenberg of 20 Sherman Avenue, Newark, N. J., apparently lost control of the wheel in making a sharp turn to cross the bridge. The dead woman is Mrs. Stella Saunders, 50 years old, of 76 West Sixty-ninth Street, Manhattan, Mrs. Mohenberg's sister.

When the machine plunged into the creek four of the women had little difficulty in getting out, but Mrs. Saunders, who was in the back seat, was unable to get out. When her absence was noted the women, aided by passing motorists, quickly got her to shore. With the other injured women Mrs. Saunders was rushed to Good Samaritan Hospital, Suffern. An hour's work with a pulmotor failed to resuscitate her.

Empty Auto Kills Girl.

An automobile parked on Alpine Street, near the South Side High School in Newark, plunged unmanned down the incline on which it had been parked and took the life of one high school pupil and seriously injured another. The dead girl is Ethel Sommer, 16 years old, of 830 South Thirteenth Street, Newark. Her companion, who is in Beth Israel Hospital, was Hannah Cohen of 781 South Twelfth Street, Newark.

Police said the car had been parked in Alpine Street near the school. It had hardly rolled 200 feet, they said, before it struck the girls, but because of the steepness of the grade it had gained considerable momentum. The girls were struck from the rear as they walked down the hill.

No charges were lodged against any one by the police, although an investigation of the accident has been started.

JAWORSKI, TRAPPED, KILLS ONE PURSUER

Daring Robber, Who Blew Up Express Truck in Pittsburgh, Caught in Cleveland.

BUCKSHOT LOAD DROPS HIM

Tear Gas Routs Payroll Slayer After He Shoots Second Policeman in Fight.

FLED JAIL 13 MONTHS AGO

Held for Sentence, Killer Also Wanted in Detroit, Escaped to Resume Death-Dealing Hold-Ups.

Special to The New York Times.

CLEVELAND, Sept. 13—After he had murdered one policeman and probably fatally shot another, Paul Jaworski, 27-year-old killer and prison-breaker of Detroit and Pittsburgh, was trapped, wounded and captured by the police this afternoon in an east side dwelling.

A half dozen tear-bombs hurled through windows dislodged him from his hiding place. A policeman's shotgun brought him down. Then the seventy-five police besiegers swarmed through the doors, dragged the killer to the front porch and Jaworski's latest adventure with the law was over.

Since his daring jail break of Aug. 13, 1927, Jaworski and John Vasbinder, for whom rewards totaling $10,000 have been offered, have gone from hold-up to hold-up, always beyond reach of the law.

But today, as the gangsters sat in a Fleet Avenue restaurant drinking their coffee, which they were forced to take despite their expressed preference for liquor, Jaworski was recognized by a Pittsburgher, who called the police and gave them the "tip-off." Things began happening in an incredibly short time.

Within three minutes a patrol car containing five policemen drove up in front of the eating place.

Five blue-coated policemen leaped from the car. They walked into a hail of bullets as the two-gun man, cornered at last, decided to make a last stand rather than flee with his weaker-willed comrade.

One of the policemen, Anthony Wieczorek, 32 years old, was shot and killed as he started inside the restaurant door. Jaworski, ever suspicious, had got his "rods" out and started shooting first.

Bystander Also Is Wounded.

An instant later Patrolman George E. Effinger fell with a bullet through his lung. A bystander, Benjamin Majstrek, 27, unable to get away from the leaden hail fast enough, fell with a bullet in his groin.

Jaworski, uninjured and with both guns still in his hands, leaped from the front doorway and fled across Fleet Avenue.

Seventeen-year-old Frank Domski was in a lumber yard when he saw the fugitive come through the rear gate and run into a side door of the three family, two story house.

Additional policemen had begun to arrive by that time. The boy called to them that the man sought had fled into the house at 6,704 Chambers Avenue. A half dozen pursuers rushed in after him.

Patrolman Yaro Koudela knelt at the side of the little porch fronting the doorway into which Jaworski had gone and from which the police expected him to emerge when forced out by the tear gas.

Suddenly, Jaworski threw open the inner door to the apartment and started to stagger from the room, one hand clutching his gun and the other wiping his eyes. Koudela pulled the trigger of the sawed-off shotgun which he had trained on the door. A slug from the powerful weapon struck Jaworski in the temple and another hit him in the shoulder.

He fell back into the room where he had been hiding. The policemen swarmed in and the fight was over. Still struggling, the killer was dragged to the front porch and finally subdued. He was rushed to St. Alexis Hospital, where the victims of his game had been taken before.

Known as a Vicious Killer.

Special to The New York Times.

DETROIT, Sept. 13.—Paul Jaworski is of the vicious killer type and is absolutely reckless. When captured in Pittsburgh in 1927 he asked to be permitted to plead guilty to murder instead of robbery so that he could be "electrocuted and get it over."

Jaworski at one time lived in Hamtramck, a Detroit suburb, and it is believed that his gang made its headquarters there between its raids on payrolls.

Jaworski first became known to the police when a gang of young men called the "Flathead Mob" committed a series of atrocities in the vicinity of Pittsburgh. Jaworski was the leader of the "Flathead Mob."

The gang's biggest "job" was the dynamiting and robbery of the payroar of the Pittsburgh Terminal Coal Company in March, 1927. A road near Pittsburgh was mined and when the car passed over it the mine was sprung. The bandits escaped with $104,000.

Sam Jaworski was returned to Pittsburgh, where he was sentenced to from eleven to twenty-two years for aiding in his brother's escape.

Jaworski was probably the first known criminal to be suspected in connection with the hold-up of the business offices of The News on June 6, last, in which six bandits escaped with $10,000 of The News's payroll after fatally wounding Patrolman George Barstad and slightly wounding Patrolman Guyot Craig.

Shortly before The News robbery there were underworld reports that Jaworski had returned to Detroit and was in hiding. Police pictures of Jaworski on which were painted glasses and a mustache were pronounced by witnesses as bearing a marked resemblance to one of the bandits, who apparently sought to disguise himself by wearing glasses and a false mustache.

Dog Facing Death Reprieved, Lower Court Ruling Upset

Special to The New York Times.

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., Sept. 13. A reprieve from sentence of execution was granted today to Queenie, a prize chow dog owned by Mrs. Angelina Comi of 308 Washington Avenue, New Rochelle, by County Judge Walter G. C. Otto, who on an appeal from the death sentence pronounced by Assistant City Judge Jacob Ruskin of New Rochelle reversed the lower court's decision. He held that Mrs. Comi had been on trial for allowing the dog to bite a neighbor's child, and that any penalty could not be inflicted upon the dog.

Queenie was sentedced to death by Judge Ruskin on June 21 last, when New Rochelle was under quarantine against dogs being allowed at large without muzzles. Testimony was introduced at the appeal hearing that the dog was on the property of its mistress and that the child was a trespasser. Judge Otto held that Judge Ruskin's verdict "is without authority in law. It was a person who was charged with a crime and the punishment could not be vicariously visited on the dog."

WOMAN FOUND SLAIN IN JERSEY STORE

Step-Daughter Returning From School Stumbles Over Body on Floor.

ROBBERY THOUGHT MOTIVE

Neighbors at First Seek Step-Son as Suspect, but He Protests His Innocence.

Special to The New York Times.

ROEBLING, N. J., Sept. 13.—Found murdered in a room in the rear of her store at Knickerbocker and Railroad Avenues late this afternoon, Mrs. Rose Uszkay, 48, is believed to have died in trying to thwart a thief bent on ransacking the store. Her head was split with a sharp instrument, probably a hatchet. Physicians say she had been killed instantly after a short struggle only a few feet from a busy street and almost directly opposite the Pennsylvan Railroad station.

Returning from her studies at the Bordentown High School, Elizabeth Uszkay, 17, entered the store to find the cash register open and the store in confusion. Rushing into the living room behind the store, the girl almost stumbled over the body of her stepmother.

As the frightened girl turned to call for help, her twin sister, Emma, entered the store. The girls rushed to a near-by home and telephoned the police. Hundreds of neighbors and excited townspeople rushed to the Uszkay house before the arrival of State police and county detectives. Working on a theory expounded by neighbors, the crowd hastily formed a posse to search for 19-year-old Joseph Uszkay, said to have quarreled frequently with his stepmother.

While the posse was seeking the youth in another part of the town, however, Joseph walked up Knickerbocker Avenue, saw the crowd around his house and asked what was the cause of the excitement. The next moment a detective spirited him away for questioning. Chief of Police Callery later said no charge had been brought against the youth, but that he would be held for further questionnig.

Young Uszkay has served several terms in Rahway Reformatory and was only recently released. According to the police, he admitted the quarrels with his stepmother, but protested his innocence of any part in her murder and said he would like to help capture her slayer.

Police late tonight were trying to locate Julius Uszkay, 53, husband of the slain woman. According to his daughters, the man left yesterday for a brief business trip to New York.

Dr. Paul B. Reisner examined the body of Mrs. Uszkay, and expressed the opinion she had been killed only a few minutes before being found by her daughter. Neighbors said they had been around the store less than an hour before the crime was discovered.

William Allen White Tells of Marvelous Changes.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Sept. 13.—William Allen White has just returned to Paris after a ten days' visit to Brittany, where he discovered amazing changes.

"Brittany, one of the last strongholds of ancient customs, has finally capitulated to the twentieth century," said Mr. White. "In several communal churches I saw loud speakers carrying sermons to the congregation—a revolutionary step in itself for Brittany—while the time-honored fertilizer piles in front of houses—formerly a matter of considerable pride to Bretons—have now been removed to backyards and in their place pleasing verandas have been built."

Mr. White is returning home on the 19th on the Ile de France.

Ontario Servant Uses Kerosene to Start Kitchen Stove.

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont., Sept. 13 (AP).—Six children of Mr. and Mrs. T. Peyeur of Mileage 279 on the Algoma Central Highway, about twenty miles south of Hearst, Ontario, were burned to death early today when the children's cousin, Maria Peyeur, employed in the house as a servant, tried to revive a smouldering fire in the kitchen stove by pouring kerosene on it. The woman suffered burns from which she may die.

The parents, with a baby and a daughter, 13, escaped from the burning house, which was destroyed. Only two of the bodies were recovered.

PRE-TRIAL PADLOCKS AVOIDED IN 13 SUITS

No Attempt Made to Obtain Temporary Injunctions That Have Been Held Illegal.

SUMMONSES FIRST STEP

Proprietors of Clubs and Bars Have 20 Days to Answer Before the Cases Are Put on Calendar.

Thirteen padlock proceedings were instituted by Assistant United States Atorney Robert B. Watts yesterday without any attempt being made to obtain temporary padlock injunctions which would have shut up the premises involved pending the outcome of the trials.

Such temporary injunctions were declared illegal last Tuesday by Federal Judge Thomas W. Thacher. They had been introduced here as an improvement in enforcement procedure by Assistant Atorney General Mabel Walker Willebrandt and it was understood that she intended to make the use of such injunctions the regular policy in padlock cases. Following Judge Thacher's decision, Mrs. Willebrandt, interviewed in Washington, refused to comment beyond saying that the Government would appeal.

The effect of such temporary padlocks was to shut clubs and speakeasies at the beginning of proceedings before their cases were argued in court. Without the temporary padlocks an accused club may remain in operation during the period intervening before trial, which may be several months.

The proceedings yesterday were begun with the issuance of summonses, calling club proprietors to court to show cause why their premises should not be padlocked for violation of the Volstead act. The proprietors are required to appear within twenty days. The cases will then be placed upon the calendar, and eventually will be tried in padlock court.

It was also pointed out yesterday that Norman J. Morrison, Mrs. Willebrandt's special assistant, who has been in the city for several months, took no part in instituting the new proceedings. Whatever Mrs. Willebrandt's own plans for the further use of temporary padlocks may be, she did not interfere with the ordinary functioning of United States Attorney Tuttle's prohibition staff. Officials at the Federal Building, however, refused to say whether the events of yesterday indicated that Mrs. Willebrandt was about to withdraw from her personal activity in the metropolitan district. It was pointed out that Mr. Morrison was sent here to work on special cases, and beycnd that statement comment was refused.

The defendants named in the summonses yesterday were:

Joe Rossi and others, 452 Greenwich Street; Pinkus Oland and others, 1618 Washington Avenue, the Bronx; La Sportiza Restaurant, 168 West Forty-fifth Street; Footlite Club, 121 West Forty-ninth Street; Steve Romani and others, club and dancehall, 562 West Broadway; Stella and Smithy Sorachet and others, 301 East Eighty-third Street; John J. SHOT BY A POLICEMAN.

Wounded Prisoner Aimed at Patrolman During Domestic Quarrel.

Patrolman Edward Swift of the Charles Street Station shot and critically wounded Edward Smith, 28 years old, of 782 Greenwich Street, early yesterday when the latter aimed a pistol at him as he ran into the hallway of 89 Christopher Street, where, according to the police, Smith was threatening to kill his wife, from whom he had been estranged. Smith was taken a prisoner to St. Vincent's Hospital, charged with felonious assault and violation of the Sullivan law.

Patrolman Swift was called to the house by a child who rushed up to him and cried: "My father is killing my mother." When Swift ran into the hallway where Smith was arguing with his wife, Margaret, who lives at the Christopher Street address, Smith pointed a pistol at him and threatened to shoot. The patrolman fired, hitting Smith in the abdomen.

At the hospital Smith was questioned by Captain Lahey, Lieutenant Harvey and Detective Devine. Smith at first gave his name as Charles O'Brien, but the police said they recognized him as Edward Smith. They also said that Smith is a friend of James Russel, known as "Jim the Ginn," now in the Tombs awaiting trial for the murder of "Linky" Mitchell, a gangster.

BARS UNVACCINATED BOY.

Mount Vernon School Head Refuses Parents' Christian Science Plea.

Robert Burtnett, 8 years old, of Mount Vernon, started off to school Monday morning, but when it was learned he had not been vaccinated the teacher sent him home again. This procedure was repeated Tuesday, Wednesday and yesterday, when the school authorities sent the boy home in company of a policeman.

The parents, who, it is said, are Christian Scientists, indicated when questioned that they would not have their son vaccinated and would seek other means to compel the school authorities to admit the boy. Later the Burtnett home was closed to all callers and the parents refused to answer the telephone.

Dr. W. H. Holmes, Superintendent of Schools, said that the boy would not be admitted until the parents had complied with the school law.

Club Contempt Case Heard.

Contempt proceedings against the proprietors of the temporarily padlocked Ferndale Club for the alleged removal of its furnishings to the Art Club were continued yesterday before Federal Judge Hutcheson of Texas. Moe Spiegel, bar fixture dealer, who moved the furnishings, and who was held with the proprietors, testified on his own behalf. Frank Fern and Bert Andrews, the proprietors, will have the opportunity to testify on Monday.

Stock Exchange Page, 21, Gets Uncle's Seat; Will Be Youngest Member When Elected

Should the Governors of the New York Stock Exchange confirm his application at their meeting two weeks hence Emil Jay Roth of Trenton, N. J., who recently passed his twenty-first birthday, will become the youngest member of the Exchange. The membership of his uncle, Samuel Ungerleider, head of Samuel Ungerleider & Co., was transferred to him yesterday for a nominal consideration.

Since Jan. 1 young Roth has been a page on the floor of the Stock Exchange. He reached his majority on July 4. He attended school in Allentown, Pa., and was graduated there in 1925. Later he went to Cleveland and was employed in a branch office of Underleider & Co. In October, 1927, he became associated with the New York office of the company, remaining there until he resigned to be a page on the Exchange and become familiar with practices there. It is expected that when he becomes a member of the Exchange he will go on the floor as a broker for Ungerleider & Co., augmenting their present force of floor members.

The seat on the Exchange recently sold by Harris K. Bird for the record price of $410,000 was bought by Adrian Ettinger, who will organize a brokerage house in Cleveland. Mr. Ettinger retired last February from a partnership in Ungerleider & Co.

FIRE AND EXPLOSION DAMAGE SHIP AT PIER

100 Lives Imperiled by Blaze on the Aconcagua Laid to Spontaneous Combustion.

HOLE TORN IN BOTTOM

Flames on Vessel at Brooklyn Dock Controlled After Fight of an Hour and a Half.

Shipping along the Brooklyn waterfront was threatened and the lives of about 100 seamen and dock laborers were imperiled when a fire, believed to have been caused by spontaneous combustion, started in the hold of the Aconcagua of the South American Steamship Line tied up at the foot of Kane Street, Brooklyn, early yesterday afternoon.

The cargo included about fifty tons of nitrate of soda, used in the manufacture of gun powder, and there was a series of explosions. It was nearly an hour and a half before the fire was under control.

Some of the crew were aboard in addition to the stevedores who were unloading the cargo, twelve of whom were below decks. When the first explosion was heard it was feared that these twelve might have been injured, but a check-up showed that all were safe.

The fire started in No. 5 hold, near the nitrate of soda shipment. The first explosion tore a hole through the bottom of the ship. This was followed by a series of minor explosions among the sacks of the chemical. Patrolman Frank J. Sullivan turned in the first alarm.

Four fire boats responded to a second alarm and poured tons of water into the ship. Several tugs of the Dalzell Towing Company stood by to pull the vessel out into midstream to prevent flames spreading to other ships and igniting thousands of dollars' worth of cargo along the piers.

The water which leaked through the hole in the bottom and that which was pumped from the fireboats caused the ship to list to port, which made it all the more difficult for the firemen in fighting the fire.

One of the stewardesses, Rebecca O'Shea, in her stateroom at the time the fire started, was knocked to the floor by the first blast. She staggered out on deck, with a pet canary named "Lindbergh" in one hand and a bag with valuables in the other, and was helped ashore by firemen.

There was only one casualty. James Pajavani, 50 years old, 550 Hicks Street, Brooklyn, a stevedore, struck his head against a hoist in getting off the ship when the fire started. He was treated for cuts of his head and left side and was taken to St. Peter's Hospital.

The boat will have to go to drydock before the extent of the damage is determined, and her next sailing will be delayed. The Aconcagua arrived here on Sunday, having sailed from Valparaiso, Chile, on Aug. 22. She is scheduled to sail to South America next Thursday. The ship carries both passengers and freight, having accommodations for 105 people.

Registered at Valparaiso, the ship sails under the Chilean flag. It was built in 1922 by the Scott Shipbuilding and Engineering Company, at Greenock, England, and is operated by twin-screw propellers driven by four steam turbines. The gross tonnage is 7,309.

TUBERCULOSIS GAINS HERE.

7,570 Cases Reported Thus Far This Year, an Increase of 601.

There are fewer vacancies in tuberculosis hospitals this year than there were a year ago, according to Godias J. Drolet, consulting statistician of the Tuberculosis Sanitorium Conference of Metropolitan New York, at a meeting yesterday at Breezy Point, Far Rockaway, in the country home of the Hospital for Joint Diseases. Dr. Walter H. Conley, General Medical Superintendent of the Department of Public Welfare, presided.

Mr. Drolet said that during the first eight months of 1928, 7,570 new cases of tuberculosis had been reported in New York City. This was 601, or 9 per cent. more than during the same period of a year ago.

Dr. Leo Mayer, member of the orthopedic staff of the Hospital for Joint Diseases, presented an address on the "Recent Developments in the treatment of Surgical Tuberculosis." Representatives of practically all tuberculosis sanitoria and hospitals caring for New York patients attended yesterday's bi-monthly session of the conference.

STOCK PRICES QUIET IN ACTIVE TRADING

Most Issues Move in Narrow Range, With Some Gains, Few Losses—Money at 7%.

BRITISH GOLD PURCHASED

Metal Coming Here Is First Since Big Export Movement—Brokers' Loans Up $96,000,000.

Although the turnover on the Stock Exchange yesterday exceeded the 4,000,000-share mark, and trading was active, the market was meek and docile. A handful of stocks advanced, a handful declined, but in the main the market merely marked time.

Two developments in which Wall Street is interested did not unfold until after the close, and it was probably in anticipation of such developments that fluctuations were on such a narrow scale, as speculators elected to stay close to shore. The first and most important of these was announcement that £500,000 in gold had been purchased of the Bank of England yesterday for American account, marking the first time gold has swung this way after the big export movement of the Spring and Summer; the other development was the expansion of $96,000,000 in brokers' loans. As market factors they should just about offset each other, but both were considered news of first importance marketwise.

Amusement stocks were under pressure from the market's start, evidently being sold on the theory that "the news is out" on the Warner-Stanley merger deal. On the other hand, such issues as Chrysler, Cerro de Pasco Copper, Barnsdall A, Texas Corporation and Brooklyn Union Gas forged ahead vigorously. The market leaders, United States Steel common and General Motors, finished the day just about where they left off at the close of previous trading.

Industrial stocks, as measured by the averages of THE NEW YORK TIMES, were off 84 cents, and the railroad shares, based on twenty-five of the most active stocks of the group, were up 7 cents. The combined average of fifty representative issues was down 89 cents. The tickers kept well up to the market all day, the greatest lag having been eleven minutes in late morning. The lowering of the money rate to 7 per cent. had the effect of providing the market with a firm to steady undertone most of the day, despite the lack of progress by most representative issues.

BARS CONCERN FROM MAIL.

Postal Inspector Charges Fraud to Liberty Industries.

Postoffice Inspector Chester L. Cain of Brooklyn revealed yesterday that the Liberty Industries, giving the address 70 Liberty Street, Brooklyn, had had its correspondence barred from the mails for alleged fraud through fictitious advertisements.

Advertising in country papers was handled by the Fulton Advertising Agency at 257 Fulton Street, according to Mr. Cain, who said the agency was operated by George W. Miller. His daughter Lillian, the postal authorities say, operated the Liberty Industries, creating its street address by placing a sign on the back fence of 237 Fulton Street. Both enterprises were conducted on the second floor of the Fulton Street address, Mr. Cain said. The advertisers solicited women to sew dresses from cloth sent by the concern, he added, and the profit came from withholding the initial deposit on cloth and rejecting the dresses as unsatisfactory.

Prosecution was planned by the postal authorities when their investigation was complete, Mr. Cain said, adding that the alleged fraud has been in operation about two months.

ACCUSE 1,127 VOTERS AT JERSEY INQUIRY

PROSECUTOR GETS RECORD

19 Admit Switch on May 15, but Deny Action Was Ordered by Hague in Hudson County.

Special to The New York Times.

TRENTON, N. J., Sept. 13.—The Case legislative investigating committee abandoned the subject of Jersey City sinecures today and turned its attention to charges of Democratic fraud in the Hudson County Republican primaries on May 15. Russell E. Watson, committee counsel, read into the record the names of 1,127 registered Democrats who were accused of illegal participation in the Republican primaries.

The names of these men and women, all of whom allegedly voted in the Republican primary at the behest of the organization of Mayor Frank Hague, Democratic boss of Jersey City, to defeat Republicans who were campaigning on the issue of "Crush Hagueism," were referred to Attorney General Edward L. Katzenbach for "such action as he sees fit."

The first witness of the day, George H. Shaw, gave figures which Mr. Watson said brought the "logical inference" that 22,000 organization Democrats had voted in the Republican primaries in Jersey City, Hoboken and Bayonne. Mr. Shaw is a clerk in the Hudson County Bureau of Elections, and a Republican.

Shows Republican Vote Rise.

In Jersey City, according to Mr. Shaw, the Republican vote was 12,303 in the 1924 primaries; in 1928 it had grown to 33,723. In Bayonne the 1928 vote of 3,861 contrasted with the 1924 vote of 3,490. In Hoboken the vote for this year was 2,190, against 1,622 in 1924.

"The figures," said Mr. Watson, "fortify the inference that many Democrats voted in the Republican primary."

Twenty registered Democrats, men and women, came to the State Building today in answer to the subpoenas. All were from Hudson County. One by one they faced the questions of Senator Clarence C. Case and Mr. Watson and all except one admitted switching to the Republican ranks for one day, May 15.

The reasons for the change were as varied as the witnesses. One man said he participated in the Republican primary because he was an engineer and wanted to vote for Morgan F. Larson, the Republican Gubernatorial candidate "because he is an engineer." Another said he went to the Republican polls because of his animosity for William L. Dill, the Democratic candidate for Governor. Senator Case said he did not see how voting in the Republican primary could hurt Mr. Dill. This reflection by the Chairman of the investigating committee went unchallenged.

Most of the organization Democrats declared they were unaware of the law that makes it a misdemeanor in New Jersey for a registered member of one political party to vote in the primary of another. Most of them denied having discussed the question of voting Republican with members of the Hague organization. A husband who was accused of illegal participation in the primary denied having any knowledge that his wife did the same thing, and a sister said that if she and her brother went to the Republican polls on May 15 they did it by coincidence and not through any planned cooperation.

Forgery on Affidavit Charged.

John Adams, who admitted being a Democrat and voting Republican in the primary, denied that his signature was attached to an affidavit accompanying a petition signed in favor of a Democratic office seeker named Frank Boyle. Mr. Watson insisted on comparing the signature written by Adams in the court room with that on the affidavit.

"No, I don't believe it is the same," he agreed.

Then, after a whispered conference with his assistants, Mr. Watson asked that the allegedly forged signature be forwarded to the Attorney General for his attention. A resolution to that effect was approved.

Two Jersey City patrolmen were among the witnesses. James McDonald, a policeman for three and a half years, announced loudly to Mr. Case that it was his privilege to "vote as I please." He said he was a Democrat in March, a Republican in May.

"And then you changed your mind again in July," said Senator Case. "How did that come about?"

"I was on my vacation," came the answer, "and I listened to an argument by two men about religion in politics. I saw a picture of Smith on a balloon, with some poetry written underneath."

"And that changed your mind. What are you in September?"

"September," said Patrolman McDonald, "finds me a strong Democrat."

Brandle in List of Accused.

Some of the witnesses said they entered the Republican primary only to vote for Mr. Larson because he was a "friend of the laboring man." The name of Theodore M. Brandle, President of the New Jersey Building Trades Council and so-called "Hague labor leader," was one of those listed as voting in the Republican primary. He was not present today, but is expected to testify later. Mr. Watson said Mr. Brandle had switched allegiance for a day after signing the nominating petition of Mr. Dill.

Reports that a petition had been forwarded to the Case Committee requesting that body to sift the conduct of the Department of Public Affairs of Newark, of which Mayor Thomas L. Raymond, a Republican, is the head, were denied today by Senator Case.

The investigation into the affairs of Hudson County will continue next Monday morning.

Third Patrolman Promoted.

For the third time this month a patrolman of the West Forty-seventh Street station was promoted to the rank of second grade detective when Captain Edward Lennon yesterday read the order appointing Patrolman Jeremiah Ahern to his new rank. The post carries a salary of $2,750 instead of the $2,100 as a second grade patrolman. Ahern earned his promotion through the capture of Canice, alleged mail robber, last Monday night.

Will Rogers Adds a Whisper To the Campaign Debate

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Our clever little movie star, Bebe Daniels, don't overlook many sporting events. On the eve of the international polo games here she has just denied that she is to marry Tommy Hitchcock. Just before the tennis match she denied an engagement to Tilden, and during the Olympics she publicly denied a betrothal to Charley Paddock. On Nov 6 I hope she has the good judgment to refuse both Smith and Hoover, and when Christmas rolls around, if she is going to marry Santa Claus, why keep it a whispering secret.

As Maine goes, so goes the opposite way Mississippi. Whisper that to your friends.

Yours, WILL ROGERS.

ASK L.I. ROAD TO OUST 10 MARRIED WOMEN

Clerks in Company Union Say These Work Only for Luxuries, Displacing Family Men.

OFFICIALS CONSIDER PLEA

Proposed Rule Would Bar Wives of All Except Disabled Men After Dec. 31.

Conferences over the adoption of a rule which would cause the dismissal after Dec. 31 of married women employed by the Long Island Railroad as clerks are being held between officials of the road and representatives of the company's Clerks' Association, J. F. Patterson, General Manager, announced yesterday. It was said that a final decision would probably be reached within a few days and that only ten married women would be affected. Most of them are employed in the freight offices in Long Island City. Published reports that notices of dismissal had already been sent to married women workers were denied.

"During the past few years various consolidations of departments have been effected on the Long Island Railroad for the purpose of increasing the efficiency of the company's operations," said Mr. Patterson. "Those consolidations have resulted in a reduction of the number of employes. This caused the representatives of the clerks to raise certain questions regarding the further employment by the company of married women and the retention of married women already in the service.

"Early this year representatives of the clerks suggested to the railroad management that the existing rules and regulations governing employment be amended by adding the following article:

"'Married women will not be employed or retained in the service. The only exception being a married woman now or who may be employed whose husband is permanently disabled through sickness or other causes. This rule becomes effective Jan. 1, 1929.'

"The management tentatively agreed to this suggestion on the part of its clerks, but some question having been raised as to the manner of bringing about the change, it is now being reconsidered with the different representatives of the clerks, and in the meantime any definite action on the part of the management is being held in abeyance. The company wishes it distinctly understood that no married woman employes have been dismissed from the service."

Russell Shults, General Chairman of the Committee of the Clerks' Association, which is a company organization and not affiliated with the American Federation of Labor, said:

"Most of the married women who worked for the road as clerks are being supported by their husbands and use the money they themselves earn to buy automobiles and clothes. We do not think it is fair for married men with families to take care of to be discharged while these women continue to work for the sake of providing themselves with luxuries."

3 WIVES HELD AS SLAYERS.

Brooklyn Court Denies Bail to Them in Husbands' Deaths.

Three women were held without bail by Magistrate Joseph Maguire in Brooklyn Homicide Court yesterday on charges of killing their husbands. They are Mrs. Bessie Lensky, 32 years old, of 17 Whipple Street; Mrs. Anna Bambara, 40, of 414 Hudson Avenue, and Mrs. Ludvise Mikushanskas, 38, of 615 Forty-first Street, all of Brooklyn.

Mrs. Lansky is accused of stabbing her husband, Samuel, in the chest with a bread knife in their home Sept. 4, when he admitted that he had been unfaithful.

Mrs. Bambara is charged with cutting the throat of her husband, Andrew, with a razor at Flatbush Avenue and Livingston Street, Brooklyn, on Aug. 21. The police say he owed her about $1,000 and some property and she had heard that he was about to leave her.

The husband of Mrs. Mikushanskas was shot Aug. 20. She is charged with acting in concert with her daughter by a previous marriage, Mary Milasumas, 15, in the shooting. The girl is in the custody of the Children's Society.

Blood Analyzed as Human's.

SUMMIT, N. J., Sept. 13 (AP).—A quantity of congealed blood in a two-quart basket found in a lonely spot along the Essex Road here was analyzed today as that of a human being by Dr. A. E. Edel of the Edel Laboratories, Newark. Police Captain Edward Nelson found the basket yesterday after a woman told Millburn police she saw a man scraping what appeared to be blood into a basket from his car. The woman is being sought to obtain a more detailed description from her.

NATION PROSPEROUS, MELLON DECLARES

TRADE GETS CHEAPER LOANS

Lower Interest Rate Than for Speculators Is Charged in Commercial Dealings.

FINDS DEPRESSION 'SPOTTY'

Secretary Says Coal and Textiles Suffer Adverse Conditions—Silent on Possible Deficit in Budget.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 13.—Secretary Mellon believes that business is in a satisfactory condition and on a sound basis. He has made a report to that effect to President Coolidge. The country as a whole, the Secretary feels, is prosperous and he does not see any indication of a depression or slump in activities.

The high money rates that have been quoted on security loans have not, in the opinion of Mr. Mellon, had any serious effect upon general business activities, although this may not continue to be the case if the rates are maintained over an extended period. In this connection the point was made that at present commercial interests do not have to pay the same rate for loans as that which is being asked for stock market operations.

In regard to agriculture, Mr. Mellon believes that the year will be a good one for the farmers in general.

The Secretary finds that while business as a whole is very prosperous, there are "spots," such as the coal and textiles industries, where adverse conditions have worked unfortunately.

Oil Also Affected Demand.

In connection with the coal industry, a combination of too many producing mines and economies in the use of coal as a fuel were found to be at the bottom of the trouble, and the increased use of oil as a fuel for heating purposes in homes and apartment houses, and by ships, also had contributed to the decrease in the demand for coal.

Mr. Mellon felt, however, that the worst stage of the slump had been reached and that the coal industry was on the upward trend, with the industry itself doing much to solve its own problem. Shipment and sale of better grades of coal and decrease in over-production and the more extensive use of by-products were among the reforms which were putting the industry on a sounder basis.

Over-stimulation during the World War was one of the reasons for the depression in the textile industry, in the opinion of Mr. Mellon. Expansion in the manufacture and use of artificial fabrics also had resulted in a restricted market for textiles, but Mr. Mellon felt that this industry was adjusting itself to the new conditions and that the situation gradually would become somewhat more satisfactory.

Sees No Cause to Worry Now.

Mr. Mellon felt that it was impossible to foresee the effect of the many economic laws of the world, but believed that at present there was no cause for worry.

The Secretary expressed no opinion about the forecast in the recent report of General Lord, Director of the Budget, that there would be a budget deficit of $94,000,000 at the end of the fiscal year, instead of a surplus of $252,000,000, as estimated by the Treasury. In Mr. Mellon's opinion, it would be futile to make more predictions at this time, as, until later figures are available, any forecast would be but a guess.

Other Treasury officials, however, have indicated with some emphasis that they do not believe there is any danger of a budget deficit, particularly in view of the fact that continuation of the present high level of business activity will assure income tax payments in March and June of next year, which will considerably exceed the estimates made by General Lord.

Mr. Mellon will make three speeches during the political campaign, it was said at the Treasury. The dates were not made public.

HAS SUSPICION OF THE 13TH

Policeman Ignores 2 Injuries on That Date, but Third Makes Him Wonder.

Patrolman James McCreary of Traffic A, is willing to concede that he is superstitious about the number 13.

McCreary, who has been directing traffic for two years at Grand and Chrystie Streets, laughed off contusions and lacerations received there Aug. 13, 1926, when he was struck by a surface car. By an effort of will, he also dismissed, as coincidence a broken nose suffered last Aug. 13, when he forcibly prevented a man from committing suicide following his wife's death.

But when a large brown dog attacked him suddenly yesterday morning, and tore his right arm, Patrolman McCreary wondered about the 13th.

The dog, which leaped on him from behind, as a passing truck driver shouted a warning, escaped before McCreary could draw his gun. This means that in the absence of proof that the dog was not rabid McCreary must take the Pasteur treatment. His wound was cauterized by Dr. Calsino, of Beekman Street Hospital in the Elisabeth Street Station.

McCreary is 30 years old and lives with his wife and child at 456 Grand Street. He has an excellent record, having made several spectacular captures, and having rescued five persons from death in fires.

Cancer Sufferer Ends Her Life.

Apparently depressed over the prospect of spending the rest of her life in a hospital suffering from cancer, Mrs. Hope Lindstrom, 38 years old, shot and killed herself yesterday morning at her apartment at 15 West 109th Street. Her eighteen-year-old daughter, Thais, discovered the body.

TUBERCULOSIS CLUE FOUND IN FATTY ACID

NEW DISCOVERY IN BIOLOGY

Dr. R. J. Anderson Tells American Society at Swampscott That an Immunizing Agent May Result.

Special to The New York Times.

SWAMPSCOTT, Mass., Sept. 13.—Chemists working in the Sterling Laboratory at Yale University have discovered that an inorganic substance may be the cause of tubercular growth, a fact which may open up an entirely new mode of approach in the search for an immunizing agent. If the problem now being worked out is realized, it is expected to lead to new developments in the treatment of tuberculosis.

The work at Yale was reported today by Professor R. J. Anderson at the meeting of the division of biological chemistry of the American Chemical Society, in annual session here this week.

"The experiments are only in the earliest stages of the process and no predictions can be made," Professor Anderson said. "But the first steps have been successful and they have been able to establish certain principles on which a series of experiments can be made.

"All we can say is that there are possibilities, with prospects of success in developing an immunizing principle, which is the objective of our experiments.

Fatty Acids New to Chemistry.

"To begin with, we have prepared from the living tubercle bacilli a series of fatty acids which is new to chemistry, and when these acids have been introduced into the bodies of rabbits, tubercles like those which exist wherever tuberculosis is present, whether in human beings or animals, are formed in the bodies of these rabbits, though the animals do not manifest any of the other symptoms of the disease.

"That is, for the first time in experimental biology it has been demonstrated that one of the outstanding signs of tuberculosis, the tubercle, has been generated in rabbits by a purely chemical product.

"Hitherto, the only way in which typical tubercular tissue, the nodules known as tubercles, could be produced was by inoculating them with the living bacillus of tuberculosis.

"This discovery, that a non-living substance may be the cause of tubercular growth, opens up an entirely new mode of approach in the search for an immunizing agent. In the past there has been no way of proving whether the growth of the tubercle in tubercular organisms was the result of direct action of the living bacillus.

No Proof of Tubercular Origin.

"Indeed, until these recent experiments were made there never had been any chemical proofs that peculiar fatty acids, such as we have been able to isolate, were produced by the tuberculosis bacillus.

"It would appear now that we have established, first, that the tuberculosis bacillus creates, by living action, these fatty acids, and second, that these fatty acids in turn cause the development of the tubercle. In other words science has an entirely new factor to consider in studying the cause and prevention of tuberculosis.

"It is a striking circumstance that the animals which have been inoculated with the fatty acids exhibit no other sign of tuberculosis. The presence of the tubercles within the bodies of these animals apparently causes no change in their habits.

"The animals, however, become very sensitive to infection by living tubercle bacilli, but they show no other morbid tendency.

Time Needed to Study Conditions.

"Time is needed in which to study fully all conditions produced in the rabbits that have received injections of active material, and at this stage of the work many questions present themselves to the biologist. The successful solution will depend upon the ability of the chemist and biologist to apply these newly discovered, biologically active fatty acids to the development of an immunizing principle that may be used in the preventive treatment of tuberculosis."

The work at Yale, which is purely chemical, is supplemental to work at the Rockefeller Institute, New York, and other institutions.

Commutes Minnesota Man's Sentence

WASHINGTON, Sept. 13 (AP).—President Coolidge today commuted the sentence of W. M. Barker, an official of the First National Bank of Gray Eagle, Minn., serving five years' imprisonment for defalcation of funds. The commutation, which was made upon the recommendation of Attorney General Sargent, goes into effect immediately. Barker was convicted on Aug. 20, 1927, after pleading guilty to the defalcation. He was eligible for parole on April 28, 1929.

ROUND-WORLD SKATER ROLLS TO CITY HALL

'Flying Shoemaker' Hopes to Do 300,000 Miles in Seven Years—Did 9,000 in 12 Weeks.

The "Flying Shoemaker" flew into town yesterday, but his wings were a pair of roller skates. He is John Balasz of Elyria, Ohio, who is roller-skating around the world, a jaunt he says is going to last seven years, and in which he expects to cover 300,000 miles. John started out on a wager that he would skate 1,100 miles without sleep. He did it in 231 hours. Then he decided to skate around the globe.

He has covered 9,000 miles in twelve weeks. He does 125 miles a day and says he could do 200, except that he needs the extra time to sell postcards, visit the mayors and replace wheels on his skates. He wears out nine wheels a day. He skates day and night, eats seven or eight times a day, and sleeps under the trees.

In Brantford, Ontario, he was hit by an automobile and was unconscious for half an hour. He was revived, and skated onward. Next May he hopes to tour Europe, visiting Debreczen, Hungary, where he was born in 1902. He has been in the United States fourteen years.

In his pack the Flying Shoemaker carries a notebook bearing the signatures of the Mayors he has visited, and in Albany on Tuesday he added two more, Governor Smith's and Mayor Thacher's.

He rolled downtown to the City Hall yesterday to see Mayor Walker, heading straight for Lieutenant Tom O'Connor, the Mayor's bodyguard. "I want to see Mayor Walker," he said.

"He's not in as yet," O'Connor replied. Balasz then told his saga to others waiting to see the Mayor. At about noon he put his skates into reverse and backed out of City Hall. Then he set off for Boston. From there he will go to Florida, then to Cuba and Mexico.

AUTO LUBRICATED BY WATER

Car Which Traveled 137,000 Miles Demonstrated Here.

Water lubrication for automobiles is being demonstrated again on the streets of New York by H. E. Linden, sales engineer of the Williams Alloy Products Company of Elyria, Ohio, who is driving the same 1919 model Essex he had here last September. The car has traveled more than 137,000 miles since August, 1923, using water as a crank case lubricant instead of oil.

Special equipment of the machine consists of Bearingoy bearings, insulated head pistons and Pistonoy piston rings. It has been from coast to coast on its travels, not to advocate water as a lubricant but better to demonstrate the improvement in metals for bearings, piston rings and pistons, Mr. Linden said.

The alloy used in the special bearings is the invention of E. M. Williams of Elyria, Ohio. No graphite or grease is used.

ELECTRIC SIGN FLIES OVER CITY AT NIGHT

NEON LIGHTS UNDER WING

C. G. Peterson, Promoter, Says Additional Aircraft Will Be Used in His Service.

New York's Great White Way was made brighter last night by the first flashing electric sign carried on the lower wing of an airplane. It was flown over the theatre and uptown business and residential districts in a demonstration of the newest form of advertising. A group of advertising and business men watched the tests from the roof of the Hotel Astor, while theatre-going crowds in the streets craned their necks as the plane passed and repassed at an altitude of about 2,000 feet.

Six-foot high bright red letters, flashing the name and address alternately of the company pioneering in this new advertising, were plainly seen from the street. The roar of the tri-motored plane drew the attention of the Broadway crowds, while rockets were sent off from the Astor roof each time the plane appeared over Times Square.

The project is the result of several years of study by C. G. Peterson, President of Aerial Advertising, Inc., of 353 Fifth Avenue. The sign was composed of eighteen letters which covered the plane's entire wing span of ninety feet, and was illuminated by high voltage current passing through tubes of Claude Neon gas. One set of letters was superimposed upon the other to permit change of wording. Because the sign was not visible to the pilot and electrician in the plane, each letter carried a light on the edge of the wing to indicate that it was showing.

The plane, which was especially constructed for Aerial Advertising by the Keystone Aircraft Corporation and is said to be the largest commercial plane in use in this country, took off from Roosevelt Field shortly after 3 o'clock last night. The pilot was Roland Rohlfs, former holder of the world's altitude record. It appeared over Times Square about 8:15, flew north along Broadway to Seventy-second Street and returned over Park Avenue. The demonstration continued for half an hour.

The power for the sign was generated by dynamos capable of producing 7,000 volts, the electrical equipment occupying most of the plane's cabin space. The plane was an L. B.-6 model bombing plane, equipped with two 225 horsepower Wright Whirlwind motors and a 425 horsepower air-cooled motor. It has a fuel capacity of 350 gallons.

Mr. Peterson said that his company plans to acquire additional planes to be used exclusively for this form of advertising. The cost of the advertising, he explained, would be based on the square miles of territory covered.

Among those who witnessed the demonstration from the Astor roof were Clyde Thompson of the J. Walter Thompson Advertising Company, George Dewey of the General Outdoor Advertising Company, E. J. Murnane, President of the Studebaker Corporation of New York; Murray Mitchell, Vice President of the New York Trust Company and Howard Sholley of the American Exchange National Bank.

Assures Films by Injunction.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Sept. 13 (AP).—The Lyric Amusement Company of Erie today obtained an injunction in Common Pleas Court here restraining motion picture distributing concerns from stopping the supply of films sought by the Erie Theatre. H. E. Hammond, owner, said that service to his theatre was suspended because he had refused to arbitrate a dispute with the Paramount Famous Lasky Corporation and had refused to file bond.

To Rehearse for "Olympia."

Fay Compton and Ian Hunter, two of the principal players in "Olympia," Ferenc Molnar's forthcoming comedy, will arrive today on the Berengaria, and rehearsals will begin immediately under the direction of Gilbert Miller. Laura Hope Crews will also be in the cast. "Olympia" will be presented here on Oct. 16 at a theatre yet unannounced.

THEATRICAL NOTES.

Ruth St. Denis is staging an Oriental ballet for Walter Hampden's forthcoming production, "The Light of Asia."

There will be a professional matinee of "Goin' Home" at the Hudson next Tuesday. Today's scheduled matinee of "Trapped," at the National, has been called off.

Bill Robinson, the dancer, is acting several roles in "Blackbirds" during the illness of another player.

Joseph Santley has finished his work for the picture theatres and will now proceed with his announced stage productions. These will be a musical comedy by Jack McGowan, with Mr. Santley and Ivy Sawyer in it, and "Nigger Rich," a comedy, also by Mr. McGowan. Theodore Barter will be Mr. Santley's partner.

The new McIntyre and Heath musical show, unnamed as yet, will open in Brooklyn on Oct. 1.

The Provincetown Playhouse will revive "In Abraham's Bosom" for two performances, instead of four, as recently announced. The first performance will be given on Saturday night of next week.

SCREEN NOTES.

At the Capitol Theatre the forthcoming attraction will be "The Cameraman," with Buster Keaton. The young players of "Our Gang" comedies will all be seen in person on the Capitol stage.

At the Cameo the next attraction will be "G Ships," a British picture of the submarine fighting.

"The Patriot," with Emil Jannings, remains at the Rialto.

John Barrymore in "Tempest" continues at the Rivoli.

"Man-Made Women" will be at the Hippodrome.

At the Fifth Avenue Playhouse the film offering next week will be "Germany's Side of the War," which is to be shown at midnight tonight for the first time.

The picturization of "Uncle Tom's Cabin" will be the next attraction at the St. George Playhouse.

"Four Sons," with Margaret Mann, will be at the William Fox Theatre.

GEN. DAWES IN MOVIETONE.

Vice President to See and Hear Himself at the Roxy.

Charles Francis Coe, author of the story of "The River Pirate," the new picture to be shown at the Roxy Theatre, has invited Vice President Charles G. Dawes, Maj. Gen. James G. Harbord, George Palmer Putnam, George Agnew Chamberlain and several others to be his guests at the Roxy tomorrow evening.

The party will be received by S. L. Rothafel before the performance, and will occupy a specially reserved section. A special feature of the evening will be a Movietone dialogue between Vice President Dawes and Mr. Coe. This is, incidentally, the Vice President's first appearance as a talker from the screen.

WILLIAM FARNUM COMING.

Will Play Banquo in "Macbeth" After Four Years' Absence.

William Farnum, who has not appeared on the New York stage since "The Buccaneer" four seasons ago, will play the part of Banquo in George C. Tyler's forthcoming production of "Macbeth," in which Lyn Harding, Margaret Anglin and Basil Gill will have other important rôles. This is the presentation for which Gordon Craig is designing the settings and costumes.

Mr. Farnum has agreed to play Banquo, according to the Tyler office, "on the understanding that he is to head the cast of another classic production next year." He is an experienced Shakespearean actor. Among his most recent Shakespearean rôles was his portrayal of Marc Antony in "Julius Caesar" in the Hollywood bowl.

HODGE IN MYSTERY PLAY.

To Appear Here in Own Comedy, "Straight Thru the Door."

"Straight Thru the Door," described as a "mystery comedy," by William Hodge, with the author in the star rôle, is scheduled to open at the Forty-ninth Street Theatre on Thursday night, Oct. 4. Mr. Hodge toured in the play during last season.

"The Phantom Lover," the present occupant of the Forty-ninth Street Theatre, will be withdrawn tomorrow night.

DETECTIVES SEE SLAYING.

Catch Man After Observing Shooting Just as Auto Turns Corner.

The flash and report of a fired pistol shattered Varick Street's calm at King Street last night. Two detectives, cruising in a department automobile, turned the corner at the same instant and saw a man fall and other start to run.

Detective Allen of the Charles Street station raced his car in pursuit. When they caught up, his mate, Detective Devine, jumped from the car and brought his pistol butt down on the head of the running man.

The policemen bundled both victims into their automobile and sped to St. Vincent's Hospital. There they found that the man who had been shot was dead. He was John Maher, believed to have resided in a West Eleventh Street furnished room. The other is Edward Burke of 255 West Tenth Street. Burke, his head badly battered, was semi-conscious and would not talk. He was charged with homicide. Both men are believed to have been bartenders.

TOOMBS HELD IN CHICAGO.

Surrenders on Missouri Insurance Charge, but Fights Extradition.

CHICAGO, Sept. 13 (AP).—Roy C. Toombs was held under $5,000 bond today following his arrest on Governor's warrants from Missouri charging him with embezzlement of assets belonging to the International Life Insurance Company of St. Louis, of which he was President.

Mr. Toombs submitted to arrest voluntarily, appearing at the Sheriff's office and giving himself up. His counsel accompanied him and they left immediately, going to court, where Toombs obtained a habeas corpus writ to prevent his extradition to St. Louis. A hearing on the writ was set for Oct. 8, and meanwhile Mr. Toombs remains under the jurisdiction of the Federal Referee in Bankruptcy here, who is inquiring into the receivership of Toombs & Dailey, the Chicago brokerage firm headed by the banker and insurance man, which failed recently.

E. G. Davison, Assistant Circuit Attorney of St. Louis, saying that a total of $3,500,000 was involved in the alleged criminal manipulations of the insurance company assets, argued that Toombs should be held under higher bonds, but the Court set $5,000.

ARE THERE TWO CONTINENTS in the Antarctic divided by an ice stream, or only one? This is one of the questions which have long puzzled scientists that Commander Byrd's expedition will endeavor to answer. Byrd's own account of what the expedition encounters will appear in New York exclusively in The New York Times.

CUT IN WGY PROGRAMS SEEN IN REALLOCATION

General Electric Broadcast Manager Says Regulations Deny Station Evening Hours in Winter.

SCHENECTADY, N. Y., Sept. 13 (AP).—Radio Station WGY of the General Electric Company will be prevented from broadcasting during the evening hours of the Winter months under the reallocation of broadcasting channels by the Department of Commerce, according to a preliminary interpretation of the new regulations by Martin P. Rice, manager of broadcasting for the company.

Mr. Rice also construed the regulations as placing restrictions on chain broadcasting, which will limit the broadcast of New York City programs by WGY to one hour each evening.

Company officials explained that under the new Department of Commerce regulations WGY must share its frequency of 790 kilocycles with the General Electric Station KGO at Oakland, Cal. To comply with this ruling, they said, WGY must be off the air at sunset on the Pacific Coast.

"I have not had the opportunity to study all the new regulations carefully," Mr. Rice said, "but from a preliminary reading, I should say that the commission's ruling prevents WGY from broadcasting during the evening hours in the Winter. WGY has many listeners who are almost entirely dependent upon its program service."

"General Order No. 43 (of the Commerce Department regulations) is apparently intended to restrict chain broadcasting," Mr. Rice's statement continued. "If interpreted literally it seems to me that WGY cannot broadcast more than one hour of the New York program during any one evening, and that no other station within 500 miles of any other chain station can use this program material more than one hour during the evening.

"This program therefore deprives many listeners of the chain programs, which admittedly are of a very high standard. The reliable service range of even high-powered stations is not over sixty miles, so it is difficult to understand why the commission decided on a 500-mile limitation."

WEVD ASKS MORE TIME TO EDUCATE WORKERS

Debs Memorial Station Plans a Series of Tuesday Evening Educational Courses.

The management of station WEVD, the Debs Memorial broadcaster, has appealed to the Federal Radio Commission for more time on the air so that an extensive campaign of workers' education can be radiated, according to Paul Blanchard, director of the station. It is desired to have the educational programs, furnished by cooperating colleges, on the air five nights a week.

"Arrangements have been completed for a series of Tuesday evening educational courses under direction of A. J. Muste, head of the Brookwood Labor College," said Mr. Blanchard. "The first of this series will be broadcast Tuesday, Oct. 2, and will be devoted to a discussion of economic problems.

"Another important feature, a series of Sunday afternoon forums, will be begun Sunday, Sept. 16, with a talk by Kirby Page on the subject 'The Kellogg Treaty and the Monroe Doctrine.'

"Among other well known public figures slated to speak at these radio forums are Walter Lippman, Rabbi Stephen S. Wise, Oswald Garrison Villard, Robert Morss Lovett and Roger Baldwin. The latter will speak Sept. 23 on 'Free Speech and the New Bedford Strike,' having recently returned from the scene of the strike. The following Sunday, Sept. 30, H. F. Raushenbush, author of 'Power Control,' will speak on 'The Power in This Campaign.'"

Norman Thomas, Socialist candidate for the Presidency, will broadcast on the Pacific Coast over the National Broadcasting Company's Western network on Saturday from 7:30 to 8 P. M., Pacific Standard Time. This will be the first of a series of broadcasts sponsored by the Socialist National Campaign Committee. Mr. Thomas will speak in the San Francisco studio and will be heard over KPO, San Francisco; KGO, Oakland; KFI, Los Angeles; KOMO, Seattle; KHQ, Spokane, and KGW, Portland, Ore.

FALL IS FATAL TO WOMAN.

Daughter of Retired Minister Dies After Plunge From Window.

Miss Alice Webster Clark, 50 years old, daughter of the Rev. William W. Clark, a retired minister of the Dutch Reformed Church, died in the Brooklyn Hospital yesterday afternoon from injuries suffered when she fell or jumped from the third story of the Clark home at 583 Clinton Avenue, Brooklyn, earlier in the day.

Miss Clark had recently suffered a nervous breakdown and for a time was a patient in the Brooklyn Hospital. Early yesterday morning she went to the room of her sister, Elizabeth, on the third floor and a short while later her body was found on the sidewalk.

She was attended by Dr. George L. Buist, who had her taken to the hospital.

Isn't this YOUR idea?

Your father's watch was called a "potato"; —the watch you'd pick for yourself is wafer-thin. ¶ The first automobile you ever saw looked like a Chinese puzzle under the hood; the kind of car you'd own is mechanically as accessible as the keys of a typewriter. ¶ Until very lately, radio engineers were busy filling radio receivers with extra devices and additional accessories. Now, Freshman comes along with the idea of simplification. ¶ Not only fewer parts but better parts—one part taking the place of dozens and getting results that dozens never gave. ¶ If you want simplicity, clarity, power and economy—your idea of modern radio and our idea of modern radio are the same.

Radio Commission Sends One of Its Attorneys to Aid in Chicago Case.

PRAISE FROM DE FOREST

Inventor Calls Reallocation the Best Permitted by the Existing Federal Law.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 13.—Donald D. Hughes of the legal section of the Federal Radio Commisson left Washington this afternoon for Chicago to assist the Federal District Attorney in combating the complaint filed in the Federal District Court against the Radio Commission by Clinton R. White, owner of station WCRW. Mr. White seeks to enjoin the board from enforcing its order reducing the power of his station.

In the absence today of Louis G. Caldwell, chief counsel, members of the commission refused to discuss the Chicago situation. Some surprise has been expressed that the case should have been filed in the Chicago court when the Radio act specifically provides that legal recourse is to be obtained through the Court of Appeals of the District of Columbia.

Lee DeForest, veteran radio inventor, has written to Commissioner O. H. Caldwell that he believes the commission's reallocation plan is about the best that can be arranged under the present Radio Act.

"While I have not yet had the opportunity to give the new plan very careful analysis," said Dr. DeForest, "and I shall await with great interest the results of their actual application and the public's reaction thereto, I am convinced that the Radio Commission, in these orders, has worked out the best possible solution under the circumstances. I have always been of the opinion that the last radio statute, embodying the Davis Amendment, is far from ideal legislation.

"The commission, I believe, has done the best possible for the radio public under the condition imposed upon it. I am still of the opinion, however, that there are too many broadcasting stations and a more general weeding out would be very beneficial to the public in general. I have always been for fewer and better programs."

James G. Hoey, Vice Chairman of the Executive Committee of the Democratic National Committee, has sent a communication to Senator Copeland of New York complaining against the broadcasting by Franklin Ford from Station WHAP, New York, of anti-Catholic and anti-Smith propaganda. The communication has been referred to the Radio Commission.

S. L. Rothafel (Roxy) will be master of ceremonies at the opening of New York's Fifth Annual Radio Show at Madison Square Garden on Monday night. He is scheduled to introduce Thomas A. Edison, who will speak over WJZ's chain from the Crystal Studio at the show, according to the management. Roxy's Gang will furnish the music.

The opening of Station WOV, formerly known as WGL, is scheduled to take place Sunday night. Beginning at 7 o'clock the concert will be started by an orchestra of philharmonic soloists under the direction of Frank Grey, composer. The concert will last one hour. Following this an operatic ensemble will give another hour's program, in which will be heard Pearl Barti, soprano, and Michael Hoffman, violinist.

Radio sets developed by the United States Army Signal Corps are to form part of the army's exhibit of radio apparatus at the Radio Show next week. The exhibit will include apparatus developed to withstand the strain of pack mule transportation over mountain trails and the bumps of airplane flights.

The power of Station WLTH of Brooklyn has been raised from 250 to 500 watts, effective until the new radio wave plan goes into effect on Nov. 11, according to S. J. Gellard, President. He said a telegram received yesterday from the Federal Radio Commission authorized the increase.

Republican National Committee speakers are to be heard tonight between 8:30 and 9 o'clock over WOR's network direct from Washington, D. C. Those scheduled to be on the air include Paul Gascoigne, Dr. Hubert Work, Mrs. Alvin T. Hert, Franklin Fort, J. R. Nutt and former Governor Henry Allen.

BRIDGES SHOW PROFIT.

Arthur Kill Spans Earn Upkeep for Year in First 76 Days.

The complete maintenance cost for one year of the two bridges over the Arthur Kill, between Staten Island and New Jersey, has been met by the receipts for the first seventy-six days of operation, it was announced yesterday by the Port of New York Authority in an informal report submitted to State Comptroller Newton A. K. Bugbee of New Jersey.

The Arthur Kill is spanned between Perth Amboy, N. J., and Tottenville, S. I., by the Outerbridge Crossing and between Elizabeth, N. J., and Howland Hook, S. I., by the Goethals Bridge. They were opened on June 29 last and from then until last Wednesday were used by 262,063 vehicles of all descriptions, while the ferryboats carried only 94,161 during the same period. The receipts were $195,057.56, while the upkeep for the whole twelve months will be less than $190,000, including payroll and maintenance charges, lighting, equipment and insurance.

GANNON'S SON QUESTIONED.

Among Witnesses Before Higgins in Payroll Graft Inquiry.

William Gannon, a son of Frank C. Gannon, suspended Borough Superintendent of the Department of Street Cleaning in Brooklyn, was questioned privately by Commissioner of Accounts Higgins yesterday in connection with the investigation of graft in the department which is being conducted by Mr. Higgins. It is understood that Mr. Higgins questioned young Gannon on what work he did for the city while on the department payroll last year. Commissioner Higgins, following the interview yesterday at his office in the Municipal Building, refused to comment on what he had learned during the day, which was also occupied with the questioning in private of other witnesses who were called, but whose names were not disclosed.

William Gannon, who is 19 and said to be a law student, was assigned for a time to Stable I in Brooklyn. His brother, Howard, was also employed by the department. William's appearance yesterday at Mr. Higgins's office was his second in two days. On Wednesday he waited some time to see Mr. Higgins, in answer to a summons, but the Commissioner was too busy then on other phases of the investigation.

KING AND QUEEN SEE "BRAEMAR GATHERING"

Arrive in State to Brilliant Scottish Festival—Kipling Is Royal Guest.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Sept. 13.—King George and Queen Mary today attended the most brilliant "Braemar gathering" since the war and thus afforded many American owners of Scottish shooting boxes an opportunity to see their Majesties and participate in one of Scotland's classic festivals.

Held in Princess Royal Park at Braemar, a heather-clad natural amphitheatre surrounded by mountains, the Braemar gathering is Scotland's royal Olympiad, mingling strength and skill in athletics and grace and nimbleness in dancing.

There was tumultuous cheering and a chorus of motor horns when the royal carriage, preceded by outriders and drawn by four gray horses, entered the arena. The royal party included Rudyard Kipling, who has been a guest of the court at Balmoral Castle, while among the guests of Lord Aberdeen, Lord Lieutenant of Aberdeen County, was Professor Tait Mackenzie of Philadelphia.

Earlier in the day the clansmen of the Balmoral Highlanders, Duff Highlanders and Invercauld had mustered near the historic Braes o' Mar, where the Jacobite standard was raised in 1715. They marched around the arena in full Highland dress, carrying weapons of bygone years.

King George and the Duke of York were in full Highland dress of the Stuart tartan.

INSURANCE CONCERN TO AID PALESTINE

New Company to Be Known as Mount Sinai Life—Capital of $5,000,000 Proposed.

SURPLUS TO HELP INDUSTRY

Jewish and Christian Philanthropists to Be on Board, With D. A. Brown of Detroit President.

A certificate of intention to form a new life insurance company, to be known as the Mount Sinai Life Insurance Company, under the insurance laws of New York State, was filed yesterday with the Superintendent of Insurance by Jenks & Rogers, of 32 Broadway, as attorneys for the subscribers.

The company will engage, when authorized by the Superintendent, in general, life, health and accident insurance in this country and in Palestine, and some of its surplus within the law will be used to help Palestinian industries, it was announced. It is understood that the subscribers will provide a capital as great as $5,000,000, if required.

The Board of Directors of the new insurance company will be chosen from among the subscribers and other Christian and Jewish philanthropists. David A. Brown of Detroit, President of the General Necessities Corporation and head of all the important drives to raise money for Jewish relief, is one of the subscribers and will be President of the company when formed.

Gustavus A. Rogers, of the law firm of Jenks & Rogers retiring President of the Jewish Centre and Chairman of the Yeshiva College Festival Fund, is also a subscriber. Mr. Rogers in discussing the plans of the company yesterday said that the work of the organization would not conflict with that of the Jewish Agency or the Palestine Economic Foundation, "two well-conducted organizations which are doing masterly work."

"Ours will be a purely business arrangement, conducted with the advice and consent of either or both of these agencies," Mr. Rogers said, "and our organization has the highest regard and respect for both of the others. The company is not to be in competition with any existing life insurance company operating in Palestine but rather as an aid and help to any such company or companies.

"It will be our endeavor so to regulate the conduct of this insurance company so that it will not only be conducted for commercial profit or benefit but to help in the upbuilding of Palestine, commercially and industrially. There seems to be need there for American financing, that, so far as we are permitted by law, will be undertaken and accomplished if possible."

COPPER SALES RECORD SET.

Past Week's Total Largest in Years —Price Holds at 14.75.

Sales of copper in the past week were the largest in recent years, and a new record was set by a considerable margin, according to the Engineering and Mining Journal. The price held at 14.75 cents a pound, delivered in Connecticut. An average volume of lead changed hands with prices virtually unchanged, and tin, following a midweek downward sag in prices, was somewhat stronger toward the end and closed the week without appreciable net change in price.

Zinc buying has been almost negligible though no tendency toward lower prices is observed. Silver was quiet and prices eased slightly during the week. Quicksilver and antimony prices are somewhat firmer. Cadium, arsenic and the platinum metals continue unchanged.

QUININE DEALERS AGREE TO BAN PRICE FIXING

Sign Consent Decree to Cease Attempts to Restrain Competition in the United States.

Importers and dealers in quinine in this country, named recently in an anti-trust suit, have signed a consent decree, thus agreeing to cease attempts to control prices and restrain competition in the United States, according to the Oil, Paint and Drug Reporter. Under the agreement, however, the restrictions do not apply outside this country.

The terms of the decree prevent a fixing or maintaining of resale prices, resale terms, resale allotments of territory, or any resale restrictions or conditions whatever with respect to quinine derivatives sold to persons in or held within the United States. It also prevents restraining or hindering in any way the shipment and sale in the United States and the shipment or sale to, into or from the United States of cinchona bark or quinine derivatives. This, however, does not restrain or prohibit any defendant from doing any act or entering into any agreement which is entirely completed outside the United States and which does not require any act or thing to be done within the United States.

Participation in any arrangement for the pooling or division of profits or territory with respect to or in consideration of any sales made within the United States is also banned. The decree prevents the discrimination in any way in sales made within the United States between purchasers of quinine derivatives located within the United States. However, no such discrimination shall be made for the purpose of restraining or destroying the trade of any competitor.

It also enjoins maintaining in force or carrying out with the United States any existing contracts or entering into or carrying out within the United States any new contracts or course of business on the conditions, agreement or understanding that purchasers of cinchona bark or quinine derivatives shall purchase such bark or derivatives only from the contracting party or parties, or shall not use or deal in the products sold by a competitor.

THE WEATHER.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 13.—No reports have been received tonight from the area east of longitude 71. However, the tropical storm, which is attended by winds of hurricane intensity, is probably central near the southwestern point of Porto Rico and moving west-northwestward at the rate of about 900 miles per day.

The disturbance that was over the upper lake region Wednesday night has moved eastward to the St. Lawrence Valley and the northern Rocky Mountains. This disturbance is now central over South Dakota and moving northeastward, with a trough extending southward to the Rio Grande. Pressure remains quite low from Alaska southeastward to Alberta. Pressure is high and rising from the Hudson Bay region southward to Michigan. It remains relatively high, but is falling, in the vicinity of Bermuda. An area of high pressure is advancing eastward over the plateau and Rocky Mountain region.

The indications are for mostly fair weather in the Washington forecast district Friday, but the eastward advance of the western disturbance will likely be attended by showers Saturday or Sunday night over most sections east of the Mississippi.

The temperature will be lower in the North Atlantic and Middle Atlantic States Friday, and in Ohio, Kentucky and Tennessee Saturday afternoon and night.

Odd Lots

By purchasing 10 shares of stock of the leading companies in 10 diversified industries, greater margin of safety is obtained than by purchasing 100 shares of any one issue.

Adverse conditions may arise in which any industry might be affected, but it is unlikely that the ten industries would be affected simultaneously.

Many advantages of trading in an Odd Lots are explained in an interesting booklet.

Movement of Stocks Again Confused; Money 7%; $2,500,000 Gold Import Announced.

Announcement of $2,500,000 gold engaged for import from London was the most interesting news of the day; it was not unexpected, and it left unsettled the question of the probable total movement. The Reserve bank's report on brokers' loans was in line with what might have been expected from the stock-market activities of the week; the $95,800,000 addition has been surpassed this year only in five weeks at the climax of speculative excitement last Spring. It marks an increase of $202,100,000 over the low point reached in the midsummer reduction of such loans, and it exceeds by $689,400,000 the year's low figure of March. The week's increase was again wholly in the field of demand loans; brokers' loans on time were reduced nearly $64,000,000 and are now actually less than a year ago, whereas loans on call have increased $1,194,000,000. Naturally, this has created a position more vulnerable either to any sudden shock or to the development of unexpected need for the money elsewhere.

At the Federal Reserve itself rediscounts have been reduced this past week, but only slightly; at New York they increased. Neither that change, nor a moderate increase of Government securities held by the Reserve banks, threw any light on the system's policies. Possibly of more significance was the fact that, despite some addition to their gold, the reserve ratio at the twelve banks declined again, while the New York bank's ratio, falling 2% per cent. for the week, stands nearly 9 per cent. below this date last year and far under the lowest figure reached in any of the preceding six years.

With the beginning of gold exports from London, the position of the European central banks becomes specially interesting. Yesterday's Bank of England statement showed a trifling gain in the gold reserve, which was brought to the highest recorded figure, $124,000,000 above this week in 1927 and nearly $100,000,000 greater than the holdings at the return to gold payments in 1925. The Bank's ratio of reserve to deposits rose to 55¼ per cent.; not only the highest since the early days of 1914, but actually above the average percentage in this week of the half-dozen years before the war. This would naturally indicate that the Bank of England can lose a considerable amount of gold to New York, this Autumn, with no great inconvenience to itself. In the older days of normal international exchange, London was apt to send to America in the Autumn about as much gold as it had taken from our market in the Spring; but the size of the Autumn shipments was apt to be regulated by the activities of trade and not primarily by the New York money market. In the seven months ending with last June we sent some $42,000,000 gold to England.

The return of the Bank of France showed apparently that the return of hoarded gold by domestic holders had not ceased. It lost gold a week ago on a special European operation, but yesterday's statement reports a gain of nearly $3,000,000, making $59,000,000 obtained from that source since gold payments were resumed in June. The bank's foreign exchange credits, which had decreased heavily in the last six weeks, were reduced again in the week now reported on, but still amount to upward of $700,000,000.

NEW LIFE INSURANCE SHOWS GAIN THIS YEAR

Production of new life insurance in the first eight months of this year was 5.8 per cent. greater than in the corresponding period last year, while in August it was 1.2 per cent. less this year than in 1927, according to the Association of Life Insurance Presidents in a statement forwarded yesterday to the United States Department of Commerce. The compilation includes the new business records, exclusive of revivals, increases and dividend additions, of forty-eight member companies having 82 per cent. of the total life insurance outstanding in all United States legal reserve companies.

In the first eight months of 1928 the total of all classes written was $8,035,772,000, against $7,593,452,000 in the same period in 1927, a gain of 5.8 per cent. New ordinary insurance amounted to $5,516,356,000, against $5,354,242,000, a gain of 3.0 per cent. New industrial insurance was $1,811,049,000, compared with $1,736,923,000, a gain of 4.3 per cent. New group insurance was $708,367,000, against $502,287,000, a gain of 41.0 per cent.

For the month of August the total of all classes was $870,511,000, against $880,644,000 in 1927, a decrease of 1.2 per cent. New ordinary insurance amounted to $620,220,000, against $625,510,000, a decrease of 8-10 of 1 per cent. New industrial insurance amounted to $193,365,000, against $211,157,000, a decrease of 8.4 per cent. New group insurance was $56,926,000, against $43,977,000, a gain of 29.4 per cent.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

News, Comment and Incident, On the Stock Exchange and In the Financial Markets.

Yesterday's stock market seemed to have a good deal of caution in it. Although the turnover approximated the 4,000,000-share mark, nevertheless a considerable amount of irregularity prevailed. There were moments of strength as well as periods of weakness and, while a few favored issues were able to make good progress, still the declines about offset the gains. The market was said to be awaiting the brokers' loans figures, to be announced after the close, and for once these figures were closely in line with Wall Street's expectations. On the other hand, the feeling at the close was that the market probably would pay more attention today to the announcement of imports of gold from England than to the large increase of brokers' loans.

Phases of the Stock Market.

One experienced Stock Exchange broker, who has made an extremely close study of the present swing in prices, said yesterday that the market now was in a stage of distribution. "Every major move of importance usually is divided into three periods," he said: "First, the major advances; second, general distribution, under cover of inordinately large volume and violent up-and-down fluctuations; finally, a general decline in the market, brought about by reason of an overbought long position, a weakened technical position, a gradual elimination of the short interest and the withdrawal of organized support. The first period in the current upswing seems to have reached its objective, and we now appear to be in the first stage of the second period. Usually each period lasts from ten days to five or six weeks."

Small-Lot Buying.

The odd-lot brokers are authority for the statement that the buying of stock in small lots, that is, less than 100 shares, has been on a large scale during the past week. It has hardly, however, reached the volume attained in the big markets of April, May and June, but it, nevertheless, shows an expansion in the last fortnight fully comparable with the expansion which has taken place in "full-lot" sales. Fortunately, the odd-lot houses learned a dear lesson in the big markets of May and June, when they fell far behind with their work. This has been rectified by holding together the staffs which were built up at that time to handle the big markets, and at the present time the odd-lot houses are keeping up with daily transactions in good shape. It was emphasized that most of the 10, 20 and 50-share traders, at the present time, are buying their stocks outright and are buying in the main, only the best of the dividend-paying issues.

Changes in Brokers' Loans.

The Federal Reserve report on brokers' loans, issued yesterday, showed an extraordinarily mixed movement in credit, but it was about in line with summaries of conditions made in Wall Street earlier in the week. The New York banks, acting for their own account, reduced their loan accounts $42,000,000 in carrying forward their policy of reducing their debt to the Federal Reserve Bank. With rediscounts at their current totals the New York banks are becoming more and more reluctant to place their funds in collateral loans, and this is particularly the case with regard to time loans. The prevailing rate levels have drawn funds here from the outside in such large quantities, however, that the local banks' withdrawals have been more than offset. It was the increased loans made for out-of-town banks and for "others," chiefly corporations, which were responsible for a net expansion of $95,982,000 for the week.

Buying Government Securities.

The Federal Reserve statements, both of the twelve regional banks combined and of the New York bank, bore out predictions of an increase in holdings of United States Government securities, but it was emphasized in banking circles that that did not represent any change in credit policies on the part of the Federal Reserve authorities. A large part of the increase of approximately $15,000,000 in the New York bank's holdings was said to have been due to transactions for the account of foreign correspondents and others, rather than direct purchasing by the Reserve Bank. Next week's statement is expected to show an even greater increase, but that will be due to the Treasury financing, which will take place Saturday and will be accompanied by an overdraft by the Treasury to be used to pay off maturing Third Liberty bonds in advance of the time when corresponding revenues are received.

Puts and Calls.

The width of the market in the last few days and the extraordinary advances made by some stocks have naturally widened the prices asked for puts and calls on the most prominent issues. The following were the average put-and-call prices asked yesterday by the New Street brokers: American Can, put 6 down, call 10 up; Anaconda, 3½, 6; Freeport Texas, 5, 8; General Motors, 15, 22; General Electric, 10, 18; International Nickel, 12, 15; Montgomery Ward, 30, 40; Mack Trucks, 5, 8; United States Steel, 7, 10; Sears-Roebuck, 12, 15. These are for thirty-day papers.

Politics and the Market.

Political considerations have cut no very large figure in the stock market in the past month, but in the last few days attempts have been made by brokers with Republican leanings to tie up the campaign of Mr. Hoover with the present big and broad market. A survey of the action of stocks in other Presidential election years has therefore attracted interest. According to the Standard Statistics Company, in three of the last seven Presidential election years the peak of the market was reached in December. On two occasions the top was attained in November and once in September. In 1930 the highest prices of the year were recorded in January.

MONEY.

Thursday, Sept. 13, 1928.

Strikingly opposite conditions continue to rule in the money market, a good supply and lower rates being noted for Stock Exchange demand loans, while there was virtually nothing doing in time money, due to scarcity of funds. Stock Exchange renewals went at 7½ per cent. and new money at 7, lowest in two weeks, with countertrading at 6¼. Maturity money was bid at 7 per cent. for the short dates and 6¾ for the distant periods. Business money was unchanged.

BUSINESS AND PROPERTIES: Central States Power & Light Corporation (organized under the laws of Delaware in 1925) furnishes electric light and power, and/or gas and/or other public utility services to 97 cities and communities located in the States of Iowa, Kentucky, Louisiana, Minnesota, Mississippi, Oklahoma and Texas. Through subsidiaries, controlled through ownership of more than 99% of all outstanding stocks, it also serves 92 communities in the States of Alabama, Arkansas, Michigan, Missouri, North Dakota and in New Brunswick, Canada. The total population of the territories served by the system is approximately 331,000 and the customers total more than 49,000. The combined annual electric output is about 26,000,000 k.w.h., the electric properties including 9 steam electric generating stations, 11 hydro-electric generating stations, and 1,397 miles of electric transmission lines. As a result of recent financing the Corporation has acquired directly and through a subsidiary a comprehensive system for the production, transportation and sale of natural gas at wholesale and retail to growing communities in the eastern and northeastern part of Oklahoma. Total sales of these properties for the 12 months ended on March 31, 1928, approximated 10,133,000,000 cubic feet.

EARNINGS: The following statement of consolidated earnings of the Corporation and its subsidiaries for the year ended March 31, 1928, has been prepared by Messrs. F. W. Lafrentz & Company, Certified Public Accountants, based upon their audits of the properties recently acquired, and, in respect of the property theretofore owned or controlled, upon audits of Messrs. Haskins and Sells, Certified Public Accountants, Messrs. Thulin & Company, Public Accountants, and the records of the Corporation:

Gross Earnings	$3,980,175.57

Net Earnings (before Interest, Reserves, etc.)	$1,760,052.33
Annual Interest Requirements on $10,500,000 First Mortgage and First Lien Gold Bonds, 5½% Series due 1953 (including this issue)	577,500.00

Net Earnings (before Interest, Reserves, etc.), as shown above, were equivalent to over 3 times annual interest requirements.

SECURITY: The First Mortgage and First Lien Gold Bonds are secured, in the opinion of counsel, by a direct first mortgage on all real estate, plants, transmission lines, distribution systems, and other fixed public utility properties of the Corporation now directly owned (located in Iowa, Kentucky, Louisiana, Minnesota, Mississippi, Oklahoma and Texas) or hereafter acquired (subject, as to after-acquired properties, to prior liens within limits permitted by the mortgage), and by the pledge of all outstanding bonds and more than 99% of all outstanding capital stocks of subsidiaries owning properties situated in Alabama, Arkansas, Michigan, Missouri, North Dakota, Oklahoma and in Canada. The properties heretofore owned have been examined by Messrs. Sanderson & Porter, who have estimated that the cost to reproduce new, less physical depreciation, plus an allowance for "going concern value" is substantially $13,900,000. Adding to this the appraised value of the properties recently acquired (as determined by independent engineers and geologists) the total is in excess of $18,000,000. The First Mortgage and First Lien Gold Bonds are issued on the basis of approximately 58% of the value of the properties.

PURPOSE OF ISSUE: The proceeds of the present financing were used to provide part of the funds with which to make payment for the properties lately acquired and for other corporate purposes.

MANAGEMENT: The Corporation has the benefit of the management of Utilities Power & Light Corporation, through that Corporation's control of its common stock. Utilities Power & Light Corporation has had an extensive and successful experience in the management of public utility properties.

This information, while not guaranteed, is taken from sources which we believe to be reliable.

All legal matters relating to the issuance of these Bonds have been passed upon by Messrs. Reinmore, Bixbe & Stern, and Messrs. Davison & Manice, New York City, for the Bankers, and by Messrs. New Bonds for $3,800,000 Offered to Investors Today

New offerings of securities totaling $3,800,000 are to be placed on the market today by New York banking houses and syndicates. This amount consists entirely of bonds.

MUNICIPAL LOANS

Awards and Offerings of Public Issues for Various Purposes Announced.

The City of Philadelphia School District announced yesterday that bids will be opened on Oct. 5 on a new issue of $5,000,000 4¼ per cent. school bonds, maturing serially from 1939 to 1958. This issue, and $4,000,000 City of San Francisco bonds, to be sold on Sept. 17, and $9,000,000 State of Illinois bonds, to be auctioned on Sept. 18, are the three largest municipal issues now scheduled for award.

Last June Philadelphia marketed an issue of $7,500,000 4s, $1,750,000 going to the City Sinking Fund at 100.05, and the balance to banks in Pennsylvania which bid individually. Owing to the low coupon rate no syndicate bids were received for the entire issue. On March 8, 1928, an issue of $7,500,000 4s was awarded to the City Sinking Fund on a 3.86 per cent. basis.

Since the new issue is an obligation of the Philadelphia School District, bids will be opened in the office of the Secretary of the Board of Education. Philadelphia School District 4½s are currently offered in the open market at prices to yield 4.10 per cent.

Coastal Highway District.

Award of an issue of $400,000 Coastal Highway District (S. C.) bonds, due serially on Feb. 1, 1931 to 1939, has been made to the National City Company at its bid of 101.2299 for the bonds as 5s. The bonds originally were put up for sale on Aug. 14 with the coupon rate limited to 4¾ per cent., which forced dealers to refrain from bidding. In the readvertising for bids the limit was raised to 5 per cent. The District, which includes Dillon, Beaufort, Jasper, Florence, Colleton and Williamsburg, reports for 1927 an assessed valuation of $36,274,545 and a net debt, excluding this issue, of $6,916,231. The bonds will be re-offered today at prices to yield 4.55 per cent. The second highest bid was 100.809, by Harris, Forbes & Co., and A. M. Law & Co. of Spartanburg, S. C.

West Haven, Conn.

Offering of a new issue of $600,000 West Haven (Conn.) FIRST BRITISH GOLD SENT HERE IN YEAR

MORE SHIPMENTS EXPECTED

Wall Street Sees Indication of Easier Money Conditions — Sterling Exchange Down.

Inauguration of a movement of gold from London to New York, an event for which Wall Street had been waiting expectantly for several days, was announced yesterday. The initial shipment, which is regarded here as the forerunner of others that may total $25,000,000 or more, consisted of $2,500,000 of gold bars, purchased from the Bank of England for the account of the New York banking house of Wertheim & Co. It constituted the first gold to be sent from London to New York in any important amount since June, 1927, and it is being forwarded on the Mauretania, which is due here on Sept. 21.

At the office of Wertheim & Co. it was said yesterday that the gold shipment was the natural and inevitable result of the anomalous banking situation which has witnessed rates of from 7 to 8 per cent. for demand loans in New York recently while similar loans were being made in London at 4½ per cent. and even lower. The rate of 7 per cent. for time money here compares with rates of from 4¼ to 4 5-16 per cent. for similar accommodation in London.

Flow of Money Here.

The result of these differences in rates has been a heavy flow of money from London to New York to take advantage of the larger banking profits available here. This was brought about by large sales of sterling funds in London and corresponding purchases of dollars. As a result the sterling exchange rate here has been steadily declining until it finally became profitable to purchase gold in London and send it here at prevailing exchange levels. The pound sterling was quoted yesterday at $4.85 for cables and $4.84⅝ for checks, the lowest rates here since February, 1927.

Although the amount now being shipped is small in comparison with the large stocks of gold in this country and also in comparison with the export movement of more than $500,000,000 earlier this year, the turning of the movement in the direction of this country had a powerful psychological effect in Wall Street as the news became known. It was regarded as a trend toward an easing in the credit situation here and as an important factor in stock market considerations.

Gold Shipping Point.

The downward trend in sterling exchange has concentrated banking calculations for some time on the question of the point at which it would become profitable to ship gold. Estimates on this point vary with different banks and banking houses owing to the multiplicity of charges involved, including cartage, freight, insurance and the loss of interest while the gold is at sea. Up to a short time ago it was calculated that $4.84¾ for cables was the point, but this figure has been revised upward in some quarters. Wertheim & Co. obviously have found a way to reduce the costs of such transactions in some direction, as officials said the deal was one based on exchange and would yield a profit. It is a private transaction, however, and the company would not divulge details.

In other banking offices here where a close study has been made of the situation it was said that sterling exchange would have to go fractionally lower to draw gold here in large bulk. Circumstances must work together perfectly to make the transaction feasible; that is, a fast steamship must be available to reduce the loss of interest and gold must be obtainable at a satisfactory price. In the present instance the gold was purchased from the Bank of England, presumably at its selling price, 77 shillings 10½ pence an ounce, and the Mauretania, one of the fastest ships afloat, solved the transit problem. The foreign exchange executive of one large bank said he could not figure how gold could be brought here profitably until sterling went to $4.84¾ for cables, but that he expected a heavy movement if that level was reached. According to his estimate, a shipment of $2,500,000 at the present level would involve a loss of about $1,000.

Shipment Made to Canada.

Shipments of gold to New York were foreshadowed on Wednesday by the announcement that £500,000 of the metal had been shipped from London for Canada. That shipment was the result of a depression in sterling exchange in Canada, where the rate for cables was quoted at $4.84¾.

Gold frequently moves from London to New York in the Autumn owing to the seasonal movement of commodities, but these influences were curbed last year by the Federal Reserve Board's policies in force at that time, which produced low money rates here and caused the bulk of international financing to be done in New York, preventing a drain on sterling. This was followed by a reversal this year, which was marked by shipments of more than $500,000,000 of gold abroad and efforts toward contraction of credit in this country. With a turn in the movement of gold back toward this country a new phase has developed.

The last movements of gold from London to New York in volume took place in 1927, shipments of $2,862,000 in February of that year being followed by $1,483,000 in March, $29,915,000 in May and $2,223,000 in June. A shipment of $6,000 came last June, but this was a private transaction which had nothing to do with exchange conditions.

$33,617,000 Sent to London.

The main question raised in Wall Street yesterday was whether the movement of gold in this direction would exceed the amount of the metal sent from New York to London early this year as part of the great outflow from this country. From March to June, when the movement ceased, a total of $33,617,000 of gold was shipped from New York to London, the largest being in May, when $20,035,000 was sent.

Bankers yesterday emphasized the possibility that New York was likely this Autumn to send as much gold to Canada as was received here from London. Canadian exchange has been held back by the transfer of large amounts of Canadian funds here for loans and investments, but it is still a trifle above par, and only a small advance, based on Canadian commodity exports, is needed to start gold moving from New York to Montreal.

LOOKS FOR FIRM MONEY.

B. M. Anderson Jr. Traces the Present Situation.

Benjamin M. Anderson Jr., economist of the Chase National Bank, spoke last night before the Northern Anthracite Bankers' Association in Scranton, Pa. He traced the reasons for the present tight money situation and expressed the opinion that the money market is not likely to relax before the end of the year. "The Autumn and early Winter make substantial additional demands for money and credit, because of crop movement, the Autumn revival of business, the Christmas trade and the year-end settlements," he said.

Mr. Anderson noted another increase in Autumn demand, namely, commercial borrowing, and showed how this is usually met. He declared that the main source from which the seasonal pressure will be met will have to be the Federal Reserve Banks

MARKETS IN LONDON, PARIS AND BERLIN

TRADING IN PARIS IS DULL

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Sept. 13.—Today was settlement day on the Stock Exchange and the volume of business showed a reduction. There was little doing in the gilt-edged market, although toward the close the tone hardened on professional covering. Home railroads were weak all day, with the heavier junior stocks losing about one point.

Reports of experiments on a new sort of crude-oil engine caused dullness among commercial motor shares and others of similar character. Business rallied in the oil market where the leaders took an upward course. The Royal Dutch rose ¾, Shell 1-16, Canadian Eagle 9 pence and Mexican Eagle 6 pence.

The price of rubber improved to 8¾ pence per pound and the market showed a rallying tendency.

Industrial shares generally were irregular with falls in the Swedish Match shares and in the Gramaphone group and rises on the British Match and the International Holding. South African mines were dull, De Beers dropping one-sixteenth and the Rand Mines one thirty-second.

The loan rates for new money in Lombard Street fluctuated from 3½ to 4 per cent. The Bank of England announced the sale of £124,000 of bar gold, which it is believed is going to Germany.

Dollar exchange moved slightly in favor of sterling, closing one thirty-second higher at 485 1-16. There appeared to be some French selling of dollars in exchange for sterling and francs and the Paris rate declined two centimes.

Trading in Paris Restrained.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Sept. 13.—Restraint and uncertainty are still predominating on the Bourse, although quotations are varying little, if altered at all. French rentes are firm, and the banks are slightly better, notably the Union Parisienne and the Crédit Lyonnais. Rails had an irregular tendency.

The curb market showed some activity, but today's session was mostly uninteresting. The rubber and petrol groups were exceptions, recording slight advances.

French three per cents. were quoted at 67.50, fours of 1917 at 80.65, 1918 at 80.95, fives at 94.40 and 111.75 and sixes at 104.40.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, Sept. 13.—The Boerse again opened active and confident today but reaction followed quickly, despite numerous purchasing orders from abroad and a much easier money market. Only a few specialties, such as Polyphone and Svenska, were able to gain from five to ten points. Most of the other stocks lost a few points. Bank stocks, which boomed the past few days, were hit sharply by the slump.

The principal reasons for the new downward tendency are the insolvency of the Bautzen Metal Company, unsatisfactory English comment on the Geneva conference, and the conviction that the Polish-German economic negotiations will not bring early and satisfactory results.

Business at the closing hour was very quiet, with the lowest quotations. Call money was plentiful at 4½ to 6.

The company paid all bank loans out of current funds and the regular annual payment of $375,000 on outstanding equipment trust certificates.

Cost of operation of cars increased $109,677 to $4,416,416, and this was attributed almost entirely to the 5 per cent. wage increase which became effective on April 15, 1927. A special provision of $45,500 from income credited to the reserve for legal expenses caused general and miscellaneous expenses to increase $43,852. Other items of operating expense decreased $158,160.

Results of Operation of Mackay System to Be Included in Subsequent Statements.

In a statement of earnings for the first half of 1928, issued at the close of a directors' meeting yesterday, the International Telephone and Telegraph Corporation reported a consolidated net income of $6,600,354, compared with $5,736,350 for the first half of 1927. This is equivalent to $5.02 a share earned on 1,314,998 shares outstanding on June 30, comparing with $5.93 a share earned on 962,966 shares outstanding on June 30, 1927.

The statement does not include the results of operations of the Mackay system, as the association of these properties with the International corporation became operative only on July 1. The stock issued in connection with this fusion is also not included in the amount reported as outstanding, but it will appear, together with earnings of the Mackay properties, in statements issued subsequent to July 1. The income account was compiled in part from preliminary and cabled reports and is subject to minor adjustments.

The increase of 352,031 1-3 shares in capitalization between June 30, 1927, and June 30, 1928, was due in part to the offering of 144,246 shares at par on or before Oct. 5, 1927, to stockholders of record of Sept. 6 in the proportion of one additional share for each eight shares held. The rights were exercised in full. The remainder was due to an issue of stock to employes of the International system during the twelve months ended on June 30 last.

The directors at yesterday's meeting declared the regular quarterly dividend of 1½ per cent. on the capital stock, payable on Oct. 15 to stockholders of record of Sept. 21. In view of the declaration of a regular 1¾ per cent. quarterly dividend on Wednesday on the Postal Telegraph and Cable Corporation's 7 per cent. preferred stock and the exchange of three shares of Postal 7 per cent. preferred and one share of International capital stock for each four shares of Mackay Companies common stock, former holders of the Mackay Companies common stock will receive $27 annually on stocks replacing four common shares on which $28 was paid. Improvement in International earnings as a result of the company's expansion in many fields would be attended by a greater return on the investment.

POLISH OIL OUTPUT RISES.

368,537 Tons Produced in Six Months, a Gain of 4 Per Cent.

Production of oil in Poland in the first six months of this year amounted to 368,537 tons, an increase of 4 per cent. above the corresponding period of 1927, according to the Financial Counselor of the Legation of Poland. It is now indicated that the year's output will exceed that of any year since the war. The growth in production was due to the greater domestic demand, since exports have been declining as a result of the low prices on the world market.

There was a proportionate increase in the activity of the refining industry which is now working at 70 per cent. of its capacity. Sales of gasoline in Poland increased 50 per cent. and of motor oils 20 per cent. The growing use of automobiles and tractors has been an important stimulus to this market.

The maximum output of petroleum in Poland was reached in 1919, when it amounted to 2,000,000 tons. The decline in production continuing through the war came to an end in 1921, three years after the restoration of Poland, and since then there has been a slight upward trend with the output reaching 824,000 tons in 1927. Poland and Rumania represent the only two countries in Europe which are important producers of oil.

German Government Bonds Drawn.

Holders of German Government external loan 7 per cent. gold bonds of 1924, due on Oct. 15, 1949, have been notified that $4,377,000 of the bonds has been drawn by lot for redemption on Oct. 15 at 105 out of moneys in the sinking fund. Bonds so drawn will be paid upon presentation at the office of J. P. Morgan & Co. on and after that date.

LOANS TO BROKERS RISE $95,982,000

Federal Reserve's Report of Amount Not Surprising to Wall Street.

LESS LENT BY CITY BANKS

Increase Due to Influx of Funds and Lending by Corporations —Money Market Easy.

A net increase of $95,982,000 in brokers' loans, caused entirely by an inflow of outside funds which offset withdrawals by New York banks, was announced yesterday by the Federal Reserve Board. The size of the increase came as no surprise in Wall Street in view of the pronounced activity and strength in the stock market which called larger amounts of credit into play. The present total of loans, $4,385,191,000, is the largest to be announced by the Federal Reserve authorities since the week of June 13, when it stood at $4,427,691,000. The high record was $4,563,240,000, on June 6.

Following are the detailed figures on stock and bond collateral loans made to brokers by the reporting Federal Reserve member banks in New York City:

	Sept. 12.	Sept. 5.
Loans for own account	$964,807,000	$906,779,000
For out-of-town banks	1,599,300,000	1,521,723,000
For others	1,921,084,000	1,860,707,000

Time Loans Reduced.

Of the total on Sept. 12, $3,641,656,000 consisted of demand loans and $743,535,000 of time loans, which compared with $3,481,887,000 of demand and $807,322,000 of time loans in the preceding week.

The reduction in time loans in the face of rapidly expanding demand loans marks a continuation of a trend that has been in progress for weeks. In a large majority of cases, maturing time loans are not being renewed, the proceeds being devoted either to reducing the banks' indebtedness to the Federal Reserve Bank or else being placed out on call. Under present conditions it is more profitable and more desirable from other angles to lend money on demand than for fixed maturities. This has been reflected in a firm rate of 7 per cent. for time loans, which has been in effect much of this week, while demand loans, at one time as high as 8 per cent., have receded to 7 per cent. and were available in the outside market at 6½ per cent. yesterday.

As in recent weeks, the New York banks withdrew funds from the collateral loan market, the figures for their own account showing a reduction of $41,972,000. Attracted by the firm rates of the early part of the week, however, funds lent for out-of-town banks showed an increase of $77,577,000, while those for "others" increased $60,377,000, a total expansion of $137,954,000 in credit put into the market from sources other than the New York banks. The group of "others" is made up largely of corporations, which have largely increased their funds in the loan market, attracted by the profitable rates. The report refuted the belief held recently that corporations were soon to begin withdrawing loans in order to care for enlarged business needs, and it proved the futility of the revised rules of the Clearing House Association intended to check the volume of loans made for the account of corporations.

Money Market Easy.

In the face of the large drafts on credit made by the advancing stock market, the tone in the money market remained easy yesterday, which caused the Wall Street trading element to receive news of the increase in brokers' loans without apprehension. The present is the third successive week in which the total has increased, the loans having amounted to $4,201,131,000 in the week of Aug. 22. The total now is $1,135,940,000 larger than it was in the corresponding week of last year.

Following are the brokers' loans figures since the first of this year, with comparisons for the corresponding weeks of last year:

ELECTRICAL EXPORTS RISE.

Increase of $1,459,484 in July—Record Medicinal Shipments.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 13.—Foreign sales of American electrical equipment continue to rise. Exports in July amounted to $9,920,208, an increase of $1,459,484 over July of last year, according to the Department of Commerce.

The value of the first seven months' shipments this year increased $5,443,891 to $63,176,840.

The value of medicinal and pharmaceutical exports to all countries reached the record of $10,273,000 during the first six months of 1928, as compared with $10,180,000 for the corresponding period of 1927, a net gain of $93,000.

The United Kingdom, Cuba, Canada, Argentina, Colombia and British India took practically one-half of total shipments. There were sharp increases in exports to Germany, Panama and British India and a falling off in shipments to Cuba, Argentina and Canada.

TURNOVER TOMORROW NEAR $2,000,000,000

Treasury Calls $20,882,000 From Banks Here in Connection With Its Financing.

A turnover of funds amounting to almost $2,000,000,000 will take place tomorrow, the date on which the Third Liberty Loan 4¼ per cent. bonds will mature and on which the Government will collect an estimated total of $450,000,000 of quarterly income taxes and will sell $550,000 of new 4½ per cent. nine-month certificates of indebtedness. There was, nevertheless, an easy tone in the money market yesterday, with the demand loan rate at 7 per cent., compared with 8 per cent. earlier in the week and with money plentiful at 6½ per cent. in the outside market.

It was announced at the Federal Reserve Bank that the Treasury would withdraw $20,882,000 tomorrow from its depositary banks in the New York district, representing the total which the Treasury had left from the sale of securities on July 16. The Treasury call for the entire country is $93,963,000. The withdrawals will be made in connection with the redemption of Third Liberty bonds. The bond redemptions are expected to cause an overdraft by the Treasury at the Federal Reserve Bank and to be reflected by largely increased holdings of Government securities by the Reserve Bank next week. The security holdings of the New York Reserve Bank increased about $15,000,000 this week, but it was said that this was due to special conditions and did not represent a change in policy affecting the money market.

BANK PLANS TO RAISE ITS FUNDS $1,000,000

First National of Brooklyn to Use Half of Sum to Form Investment Subsidiary.

An increase in the capital of the First National Bank of Brooklyn to $1,500,000 from $1,000,000 has been recommended by the directors of the institution and the stockholders have been called to vote on Oct. 15 on the plan. It is proposed to offer new stock to shareholders at $200 a share in the ratio of one new share for every two shares held, subscription rights to expire Nov. 15.

The offering will result in a $1,000,000 increase of funds, of which half will be added to the capital of the bank and the other half used for the formation of a subsidiary, to be known as the First National Investing Company, Inc. The plan provides for issuance of 15,000 shares of stock without par value to represent the $500,000 capital of the investment subsidiary, these shares to be sold and transferred only with an equal number of shares of bank stock.

Surplus and undivided profits of the First National Bank of Brooklyn amount to $1,500,000, so that its total capital and surplus will be $3,000,000 after the projected capital increase is completed. Deposits are $18,500,000. Joseph Huber is Chairman of the Board of Directors and William S. Irish is President of the bank, which is at 26 Court Street, Brooklyn.

Curtiss Flying Service, Inc.

(INCORPORATED UNDER THE LAWS OF DELAWARE)

The following is quoted from a letter dated September 12, 1928 from Mr. C. M. Keys, Chairman of the Board of Curtiss Flying Service, Inc. and President of the Curtiss Aeroplane & Motor Company, Inc.

Curtiss Flying Service, Inc. has been organized under the laws of Delaware. It has acquired the entire capital stock of Curtiss Flying Service, Inc., of New York, heretofore owned by Curtiss Aeroplane & Motor Company, Inc. Under its former name, Curtiss Exhibition Company, many of the early exhibition flights were given by the most noted of the pioneer pilots in many of the countries of the world.

After the War the business of the company was re-established at Curtiss Field, Mineola, New York. Most of the activities at Norfolk, Buffalo and Atlantic City, as well as at other points, became concentrated at this one field.

The Company has been successful and profitable since the resumption of its activities in 1919. It employs a fleet varying from 20 to 30 airplanes, carries on a successful training school and furnishes a general flying service, not including scheduled flights on organized lines, to New York City and vicinity.

The purposes of the present expansion are to expand and multiply the commercial market of the Curtiss Aeroplane & Motor Company by establishing well organized and well financed agencies at all the important cities of the country, to set up and operate schools for primary training at all these important cities and to equip these schools with the most modern and up-to-date equipment and man them with pilots experienced in training men, and controlled under the discipline of a well organized company. These established fields will also carry on the same type of flying that has been carried on for so many years successfully at Mineola.

The Company also has, under its charter, the right to enter into transportation by air for the carriage of mail, passengers and express and to contract with the United States Government, or Foreign Governments, for this service.

A survey of the country has been going on for more than a year looking to the establishment of these fields and agencies and all the officers of the Curtiss Company have become firmly convinced that there is a keen demand at all important centers for thoroughly up-to-date training schools and that in many centers flying is held back because of the lack of such schools.

There will also be established three advanced training schools; one on the West Coast, one on the East Coast and one in the Middle states. All the leaders of aviation, particularly the Guggenheim Foundation and Colonel Lindbergh, have publicly advocated the establishment of such advanced schools and at different times leaders of aviation have gone so far as to advocate the subsidizing of these schools by the Government for the sake of raising the standard of public flying in the United States and so furnish a large body of highly trained pilots as a measure of National Defense. From our survey of conditions, we do not consider that any subsidy is necessary but believe that these advanced schools, which will turn out highly trained pilots, will not only be self supporting but will be quite profitable over a period of time.

The establishment of exclusive nation-wide agencies for the distribution of the products of the Curtiss Aeroplane & Motor Company, of course, presupposes a complete line of such products to sell. The establishment of these agencies is, therefore, linked up definitely with the present expansion of the Curtiss Company's plants, for which purpose approximately $5,800,000 is to be spent by the Curtiss Company. The products of that company will be an almost complete line of planes and motors, ranging from the small low-priced sturdy airplane of low power to the largest transports capable of carrying 10 to 20 passengers and including also fast commercial planes of semi-military type, mail planes, etc. The commercial motors either already completed or in process range from a small motor, suitable for the individual pilot, to motors of 600 H.P. and upward and also include both water-cooled and air-cooled motors designed for the purposes for which they are respectively best suited.

This commercial output and also the organization, equipment and operation of the fields and agencies above described should be in full swing by the beginning of the flying season of 1929. At the outset the organization of the Flying Service will be manned largely from the experienced personnel of the Curtiss Company itself and its affiliated companies, as well as from a list of hundreds of men who have graduated from the Curtiss organization, located and carrying on aviation activities in practically all parts of the country.

Curtiss Flying Service, Inc. of Delaware has an authorized capitalization of 2,000,000 shares no par value capital stock of which 750,000 shares are to be presently outstanding and 250,000 reserved under option. Of the stock to be presently outstanding, 75,000 shares are to be issued in payment for all of the capital stock of Curtiss Flying Service, Inc. of New York and 675,000 shares have been sold privately.

F. J. FISHER INVITED TO RAILWAY BOARDS

New York Central Explains His Election by Big Four and Michigan Central.

PLACE NOT "REQUESTED"

Wall Street Understands Heavy Acquisition of Shares Preceded Representation of Interests.

The President's office of the New York Central Railroad issued yesterday a statement that Fred J. Fisher, Vice President of the General Motors Corporation, had been invited to join the boards of the Michigan Central and Big Four railroads, and that he had not suggested, nor requested this action. The two roads are subsidiaries of the New York Central.

The New York Central did not deny that Mr. Fisher would be elected to the board of that road at the meeting of directors scheduled to be held next month. Wall Street has understood that the Fisher brothers' interests have bought heavily of New York Central stock in order to gain representation on its directorate. Purchases of New York Central stock by these interests are believed to have been spread over at least a year.

The New York Central's statement on Mr. Fisher's election to the directorates of its subsidiaries follows:

"There is no foundation for the statement appearing in one of the morning papers today to the effect that 'the Fisher brothers of Detroit have bought their way into the New York Central directorate'. At the invitation of the management of the Michigan Central Railroad Company Mr. Fred J. Fisher of Detroit agreed to serve on the Board of Directors of that company, and was elected a member of that board at the annual meeting of stockholders held on May 8, 1928.

"Yesterday, at a meeting of the Board of Directors of the Cleveland, Cincinnati, Chicago & St. Louis Railway Company, Mr. Fisher was also elected a member of that company's board, to fill a vacancy. The action in this case, as in the case of Mr. Fisher's election to the Michigan Central Board, was not suggested or requested by Mr. Fisher."

$1,000,000 FLAT CAR ORDER.

Siems-Stembel to Build 500 for Great Northern Railway.

An order aggregating $1,000,000 for 500 steel flat cars, designed for movement of long poles from the forests of the Pacific Northwest and for shipments of structural steel, has been placed by the Great Northern Railway, C. O. Jenks, Vice President, announced yesterday.

The cars will be manufactured in the Twin Cities by the Siems-Stembel Company, a subsidiary of the Standard Steel Car Company of Chicago. In specifying that the cars are to be built at the Twin Cities plant, the Great Northern continues its policy of building and purchasing as much of its equipment as possible in the territory served by its lines.

MANY STOCKS GAIN IN COUNTER TRADING

Industrials and Communication Issues More Active—Bank Shares Decline After Rise.

Increased activity marked trading in the industrial group on the over-the-counter market yesterday. Bank and trust company stocks opened weak, sold up around noon and fell off again at the close. Insurance shares maintained a strong undertone although trading was quiet. Chain stores held steady, while communication issues were more active.

E. W. Bliss common featured the industrial group with a substantial gain. Strength was also shown by Columbia Baking common, Acoustic Products preferred, Phelps Dodge, Dictaphone preferred and Babcock & Wilson. A. O. Smith common, General Bond & Share preferred, Syracuse Washing Machine, Royal Baking Powder preferred and Manhattan Rubber were lower.

In the bank group, Traders National, New York Title & Mortgage, Harriman, First National of Brooklyn, Times Square and Liberty were higher. Minus signs appeared against Granite National, Municipal, Bankers, Chatham Phenix, City, Lawyers' Title & Guarantee and United States Mortgage & Trust.

Among the insurance shares Boston Insurance, Aetna Life, Travelers, Westchester Fire, Home and United States Fidelity ranged higher. Aetna Fire, Hartford Fire and Providence Washington declined slightly. Savannah Sugar common and preferred both eased. United Porto Rican preferred was also down.

A. G. Spalding common, in the chain store group, continued to move forward in a strong market. Great A. & P. Tea Company common, Neisner Brothers preferred and Piggly Wiggly Western States A were higher. On the down side were American Department Stores preferred, Federal Bake Shops common, J. C. Penney common and Southern Grocery A.

Calumet Merger Cost $32,000,000.

Approximately $32,000,000 was involved in absorption of the Calumet Baking Powder Company by the Postum Company, Inc., at the present market price for Postum stock to be taken in exchange, according to Warren Wright, President of the Calumet.

WARNER BROS. CALL FOR CLASS A STOCK

ONE MERGER DEAL DROPPED

But Negotiations for Keith-Albee-Orpheum Will Pass to Fox Film, Report Says.

The unusual procedure of calling a stock of which probably none will be presented for redemption was announced yesterday by Warner Brothers Pictures, Inc., which on Wednesday acquired the Stanley Company of America. Warner Brothers have called for redemption at $17 a share all its outstanding class A stock plus unpaid and accumulated or accrued dividends, making a total of $21.50 a share. Dividends will cease to accrue after the redemption date.

As Warner Brothers class A shares closed yesterday at $117, it appears certain that they all will be converted into common shares, which closed at $116. Conversion rights expire on Dec. 1, the redemption date. The New York Trust Company will act as agent for redemption or conversion of the class A stock.

It was disclosed by H. M. Warner, President of Warner Brothers Pictures, Inc., yesterday that negotiations for the acquisition of the Keith-Albee-Orpheum Corporation had been suspended. Last week Mr. Warner disclosed that the interests he heads desired the inclusion of this system in their merger. At the same time it was reported that the Fox Film Corporation had superceded the Warner interests in negotiating for a merger with the vaudeville circuit. Mr. Fox was asked to comment on this report, but he issued no statement last night.

Mr. Warner said that in respect to the Keith-Albee-Orpheum merger "at this time there is no immediate prospect of such a deal being consummated."

Amusement stocks were unsettled yesterday. Warner Brothers Class B stock closed at 116, off 9½ points, and the Class A at 117, off 12½ points. Stanley Company stock closed 4½ points off and Fox Film down 5¾ points.

A new record of earnings for a single week, doubling that of any previous week in the corporation's history, was announced yesterday by the Fox Film Corporation. This was last week's earnings, which amounted to $88,000 net, exclusive of the earnings of the recently acquired Poli theatre chain and also exclusive of the earnings of the Roxy Theatre, controlled by Fox. It was announced that the corporation will open a new theatre on Sept. 21 in Detroit, one on Oct. 15 in St. Louis and one on Jan. 15 in San Francisco.

PRICES ON CURB MIXED, TRADING SPECIALIZED

Utilities Erratic, Store Chains Strong, Amusements Lower, Industrials Up, Oils Dull.

Declines in the amusements, erratic movements in the utilities and strength in the chain store groups featured trading on the Curb Exchange yesterday, with some industrials making moderate gains and a few high records, while oils were dull and airplane issues sagged. There was no general trend apparent and much of the trading appeared to be of a specialized nature.

American Gas and Electric, Northeastern Power and Electric Investors were firm in the utility group, where Electric Bond and Share Securities, American Superpower A, International Utilities B, Southeastern Power and Light and Southern Ice and Utilities B declined.

In the amusement group Clumbia Graphophone, Consolidated Film Industries, De Forest Radio, Fox Theatres A, and Universal Pictures declined. In the chain store group Dominion Stores, Interstate Department Stores, Neve Drug Stores, Safeway Stores and Spalding Brothers gained, the latter reaching a high record, while Walgreen and Davega eased slightly.

Among the highs were Evans Loading, Marion Shovel, Melville Shoe, Wayne Pump, United Electric Coal and International Safety Razor B. Other strong issues included Crowley-Milner, E. W. Bliss, Niles-Bement-Pond, United States Freight, Royal Baking Powder, Gobel, Industrial Rayon and Aluminum of America. American Rolling Mills, Checker Cab, Bancitaly and General Baking were weak.

COTTON PRICES DROP IN WORLD MARKETS

Sharp Break Abroad Followed by Loss of About $2 a Bale on Exchange Here.

FINAL QUOTATIONS LOWEST

New Orleans Is Heavier Seller of Contracts—Spot Figures Fall Throughout the South.

A sharp break in foreign quotations for American, Egyptian and Indian cotton caused another decline on the Cotton Exchange here yesterday, and under a resumption of general selling new low records for the season were made for all deliveries. Covering operations of the two preceding days had been confined to a few speculative or professional quarters without attracting outside buying, and with a steady stream of hedging orders from the South prices turned downward and lost about $2 a bale. Selling operations increased in volume toward the close of the day, when blocks of October and January were thrown on the market, closing the list at the bottom and 35 to 47 points lower on the day.

Action of the market on Wednesday in failing to hold an extremely moderate rally and sagging as a result of the weight of hedge sales was very disappointing, and when Liverpool quotations went into new low territory before the local opening yesterday contracts appeared in increased volume. There had been sufficient covering on the preceding day to counteract selling pressure and maintain prices within a narrow range of fluctuations, but the quantity of contracts offered in the early trading yesterday broke prices substantially. October opened around 17% cents and distant deliveries close to the 17¼-cent level. As was the case at 18 cents and 17¾ cents earlier in the week, scale-buying orders for mill account operated as a sustaining factor at the lower basis but without causing any perceptible change in the situation.

After absorbing hedges for an hour the market rallied 10 points. Then a break in New Orleans below 17 cents for both October and December threw cotton on New York in the afternoon and prices made new low records for the day. Trade orders were supplied slowly by sales against spot purchases from the South without diminishing the weight of contracts on the market.

Yesterday's quotations follows:

RUBBER FUTURES DROP AFTER EARLY ADVANCE

Speculative Selling Cancels Gains of 40 Points Made in Earlier Trading.

After a brisk start in which the list was lifted to levels forty points above Wednesday's finals, the crude rubber market was subjected to a sudden reversal on heavy speculative selling, closing unchanged to ten points lower. The session was the most active in weeks, sales running to 731 contracts.

The initial spurt followed publication of the August consumption figures, commission houses and dealers being active in taking liberal weights while repurchases by "shorts" also aided. In the afternoon buying power subsided and trade factors were disinclined to follow up the advance after easier reports from London reached here. This accounted for the slide in prices to near the lows for the day.

London opened steady and quickly rose ¾d in all deliveries. Later the market turned easy and all gains were partially canceled. Spot and September were 1-16d higher at 8 11-16d, October unchanged at 8 11-16d, November 1-16d up at 8 13-16d, January-March up 1-16d at 9 1-16d. Singapore was steady with prices unchanged to 1-16d higher.

NEW RECORD FOR RUBBER.

August Crude Consumption 42,925 Tons—Imports Decrease.

A new high record in the consumption of crude rubber by United States manufacturers was set in August with a total of 42,925 tons, after previous records had already been exceeded in the two preceding months.

The report of weather conditions in the cotton and grain States will be found on page 35.

August consumption was more than 5,000 tons above that of July and was by far the largest consumption ever recorded by the industry.

The two chief factors making for greater consumption of crude rubber are considered to be the great activity in the motor industry with its concomitantly greater demand for tires, and the low price of crude rubber. With the commodity at low levels, manufacturers are putting more new rubber and less reclaimed rubber into tires. The consumption of reclaimed rubber in August amounted to 12,600 tons, against 16,700 tons in July, a decrease of more than 4,000 tons. This drop almost balances the increase in the use of crude rubber.

Consumption of crude rubber in the first eight months of this year amounted to 291,966 tons. This figure indicates, according to local authorities, that consumption for the full year will be upwards of 400,000 tons, making 1928 the biggest year in the history of the rubber manufacturing industry. Consumption last year totaled 370,915 tons, while the record was established in 1925, with total consumption of 389,000 tons.

Notwithstanding the increase in consumption, arrivals of crude rubber at United States ports in August registered a decrease. Total importations were 29,805 tons, according to the Rubber Association of America, Inc., this figure comparing with 33,600 tons for July and 33,068 tons for August last year.

Total importations for the first eight months of the year were about 22,000 tons less than for the corresponding period of 1927, when they amounted to 298,585 tons.

Traders in New York estimate that about 75,000 tons of crude rubber are held in stocks in Far Eastern countries, pending the lifting on Nov. 1 of the Stevenson Plan restrictions. Little if any of that rubber will reach this country before the end of the year, it is thought, as about two months is required to transport the rubber from Far Eastern shipping points to the United States.

DROP AT LIVERPOOL CARRIES WHEAT OFF

Rally Follows, but the Close Is at a Slight Loss—Winnipeg Is Lower.

EXPORT DEMAND IS SLOW

Short Covering Sends Corn Up, Offerings Are Not Large—Oats Are Higher.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Sept. 13.—Weakness in Liverpool led to local selling of wheat early with prices off 1⅛ to 1¼ cents from the finish of the previous day, but the surplus in the pit was absorbed on resting orders and by commission houses. Later there was free covering by shorts which lifted prices sharply. The top showed 1¼ to 2 cents over the early low, strength in corn and firmness in Winnipeg being a factor. The market reacted toward the last when some of the locals who covered on the way up started to reinstate their lines, and the close was at intermediate figures, with net losses of ⅛ to ⅞ cent. Winnipeg closed c cent lower.

Liverpool closed ⅝ to ¾ pence lower. Export demand from abroad was rather slow, with sales of 400,000 to 500,000 bushels in all positions largely Manitobas.

Primary arrivals today, 2,823,000 bushels; week ago, 2,555,000 bushels; last year, 2,710,000 bushels. Shipments, 1,797,000 bushels; week ago, 1,947,000 bushels; last year, 1,329,000 bushels.

Aggressive short covering, headed by a house with foreign connections, was on in September corn and that delivery advanced 3½ cents to $1.01½, the best figure in several weeks. Offerings were not large on the way up and stop loss orders were uncovered, but the finish was on a reaction of 2¼ cents from the top, with net gains of 1¼ to 1⅞ cents.

Deferred futures were firmer early, but reacted as the result of profit-taking selling against offers and on resting orders around 77 cents for December, and the finish was practically the same as the previous day. There has been a sharp reduction in the open interest in the near-by delivery during the past two days as the result of the covering by shorts, the decrease on Wednesday being about 1,100,000 bushels. Spot basis was 1 to 3 cents lower, with the leading holders making liberal sales and charters were for 200,000 bushels to Georgian Bay. The country sold 150,000 bushels new and 55,000 bushels old corn to arrive.

Primary arrivals today, 490,000 bushels; week ago, 1,005,000 bushels; last year, 874,000 bushels. Shipments, 416,000 bushels; week ago, 598,000 bushels; last year, 617,000 bushels.

Oats closed ⅛ cent higher to ⅛ cent lower, with September showing the most strength. Rye was dull and ¾ of a cent higher to ⅛ of a cent lower.

SUGAR, COFFEE, COCOA.

Sugar.

Trading in sugar futures on the New York Coffee and Sugar Exchange was active yesterday and prices held steady. Initial quotations were unchanged to 2 points higher. Scattered buying by interests with producing connections and trade houses offset selling, which was in part hedging. The refined market was unchanged. New business was improving. Sales totaled 54,750 tons. The market closed from 2 to 7 points higher.

Coffee.

Although trading was quiet, coffee futures were quite firm yesterday. The A contracts opened unchanged to 8 points higher, while the D contracts were from 4 to 8 points higher. Selling at the start was attributed to Brazilian and European account. There was little in the news to affect prices. Toward the close the market turned irregular and eased slightly. In the spot market Rio 7s were quoted at 17¼ cents, while Santos 4s ranged from 23¼ to 23¾ cents. The A contracts closed from 2 to 6 points lower, and the D contracts from 2 points higher to 6 points lower.

BUSINESS WORLD

COMMERCIAL PAPER.

Yesterday—5½ per cent. for the best names.

Wednesday—5½ per cent. for the best names.

The quotations are for 4 to 6 months' paper.

Retail Activity Now Gaining.

Activity in the garment and accessory trades here continues brisk and is deemed to indicate that many retailers are now meeting with good results in their offerings of the new merchandise. The belief is quite generally held that retail turn-over this month will show big improvement over August. The Federal Reserve figures showing a steep decline in sales for that month, as compared with last year, occasioned considerable surprise, and retail authorities here were somewhat at a loss to account satisfactorily for the size of the drop.

To Study Customs Airport Sites.

Locations for United States Customs airports at points where they will be of most service to the importers of the country will be studied by the National Council of American Importers and Traders, Inc., it was decided yesterday, at a meeting of the Board of Directors of the organization, held at the Hotel Astor. Recommendations will be made to the Customs Division at Washington. The board yesterday elected E. M. Baum of the Hickey-Freeman Company as a director, and he will head the group of clothing manufacturers interested in the importation of wool cloth.

Jade Demand Quite Heavy.

The continued expansion of the demand for jade is the outstanding feature of the business now being done in the local gem market. There is apparently no limit to the call for this stone, other than that imposed by the inability of dealers to get a sufficient supply of the fine qualities. It is seen in almost every form of jewelry, in both plain and carved effects, and its popularity is enhanced materially by the vogue for green in women's apparel. Next to jade in interest is the current movement of star sapphires and other stones of the star order. The vogue for green is also helping sales of emeralds somewhat, particularly those in the larger sizes suitable for ring and bracelet uses.

Dress Official Welcomed.

More than a hundred representative dress manufacturers and retail and banking executives yesterday attended a "welcome home" luncheon given Executive Chairman David N. Mosessohn of the Associated Dress Industries of America at the Hotel Astor by the Executive and Advisory Councils of that organization. Colonel Philip J. Reilly, executive manager of the Associated Merchandising Corporation and the Retail Research Association, presided. The speakers included M. J. Kane, Louis J. Mallas, Joseph Nemser, Max Mayer, J. J. Goldman, M. Mosessohn and Major Byres Gitchell. Mr. Mosessohn responded, thanking the speakers for their welcome and giving his impressions of European conditions in their relation to the American needle industries.

Disagree on Group Buying's Place.

The statement yesterday of a well-known resident buyer that group and resident buying conflict and should be conducted separately met with disagreement here. An executive of one of the leading resident and group buying concerns said that in his firm's experience one was the complement of the other. "Without the certain market prestige of the resident office," he said, "it is not feasible to buy alone for branded lines at a price. We have also found that the plan of having separate buyers for the group did not work."

Speculating on Fur Trend.

With the opening session of the Huth fur auction only a few days away and the New York Auction Company's sale closely following, there is quite a little speculation here as to the trend buying will take. In some quarters the belief is held that the better articles will be favored, this being based on the fact that many of the cheaper skins are now bringing prices proportionately higher than the finer furs. Against this view was cited yesterday the trend toward the lower grades of the pelts popular at present. Recently, it was said, the demand for badger was largely for the highest priced skins to be had, while the current call is for those well within the popular-price range. The same is true of wolf.

Reorders on Fall Clothing.

Reorders for men's Fall clothing are reaching manufacturers and reports agree that retailers are getting off to a fair start for Fall. The additional business reaching the cutters-up is making for a good spot demand for fabrics, which mill representatives say is better than last year at this time. Lines of tropical suits for next Summer which manufacturers have opened are generally priced at the same levels as for this year. A slight delay is expected in the showings of regular Spring lines owing to the late openings of fabrics.

Silk Demand Broadens Steadily.

Preliminary attention is now being given to the development of Spring lines in the silk trade. Indications are that prints and sheer goods will figure very prominently for the new season. Meanwhile, business in Fall silks continues to shape up very satisfactorily. Production, according to all accounts, is being steadily maintained to keep up with the broadening of the demand. Satins and Canton crêpes from a volume standpoint are doing well, with rayon and other velvets holding their own in popularity.

Interested in Wool Research.

Much interest was shown in the woolen trade here yesterday in the report that the Department of Agriculture plans to hold a conference on wool research late next month or early in November. While the Wool Institute has not as yet been officially invited to join the conference, should it be called upon to cooperate it will do so, it was stated. One of the problems expected to be taken up at the conference is the development of a new system of grading wool.

Printcloths Lead in Gray Goods.

The further break in cotton yesterday caused some additional shading of gray goods prices here, with the result that contract business was done at prices recently asked for spots. October-November deliveries of 38½-inch 64-60s sold at 7¼ cents, and there was also business in 38½-inch 60-48s at 6¼ cents. For 39-inch 68-72s 8½ cents was paid, and trading in 38½-inch 44-40s was done at 4¾ cents. The volume moved was quite large. In sheetings, business was put through in 36-inch 5.50s at 6 cents and in 81-inch 6-yard cloths at 6¼ cents. The rest of the market was not active. Prices for broadcloths were maintained on the asking basis of 8½ cents for near-by deliveries.

THE CUSTOMS COURT

Reappraisement Denied and Remission Plea Is Lost—Sea Grass Duty Cut.

An appeal taken one day after merchandise has been appraised comes within the time limit for appeal and the fact that the Collector liquidated the entry in question does not affect the plaintiff's rights, Justice George Stewart Brown of the United States Customs Court yesterday held in a dissenting opinion filed in the appeal of Griffith Henshaw of San Francisco. Justices McClelland and Sullivan sitting with Justice Brown in the Appellate Division of the court, dismissed the appeal. Henshaw sought a review of the action of a single justice in denying a claim for reappraisement.

The American Import Company, Los Angeles, is denied a remission of additional duties paid on merchandise imported there. The Court in its decision points to the fact that the same case had been threshed out and decided in both the Customs Court and the Court of Customs Appeals at an earlier date.

The other decisions made public yesterday were:

SEA GRASS CORD AND BRAID, appraised at 35 per cent. under paragraph 1439, as manufactures of grass or straw. Held dutiable at 10 per cent. under paragraph 1459, as non-enumerated manufactured articles. Wing Fung & Co., San Francisco.

PALM FIBRE or reeds, appraised at 10 per cent. under paragraph 1459. Held free of duty under paragraph 1582 as fibrous vegetable substances not specially provided for. Same plaintiff.

GOLF BAGS, appraised at 40 per cent. under paragraph 921, as cotton articles. Held dutiable at 30 per cent. as sports equipment under paragraph 1402. Meadows, Wye & Co., New York.

FOOT STOOLS, BENCHES AND ARM-CHAIRS appraised at 50 per cent. under paragraph 1119 as manufactures not specially provided for of chief value of wool. Held dutiable at 33 1-3 per cent. as wood furniture under paragraph 410. Henry Kayser & Fils, Inc., New York.

COLORED RAFFIA MATS, appraised at 40 per cent. under paragraph 1022, as floor coverings. Claim for 25 per cent. duty (paragraph 1439) as manufactures of palm leaf denied. Illinois Central Railroad plaintiff.

JAPANESE RICE STRAW RUGS, appraised at 40 per cent. under paragraph 1022, as floor coverings not specially provided for. Claim for duty at 3 cents per square yard under that part of the same paragraph providing for common Japan straw matting, denied. Frank P. Dow & Co., San Francisco.

Decline in Building Permits.

Building permits issued in 575 cities and towns throughout the United States during August amounted to $315,190,998, a loss of 11 per cent., compared with the corresponding month last year, according to S. W. Straus & Co. Among the larger cities of the country evidences of increased activity were shown only in New York, Detroit, Cleveland, Milwaukee, Cincinnati and Baltimore.

Revised prices covering deliveries of Defiance, Golden Rule and Ideal shambrays, Riverside plaids and Not-wear play cloths during the remainder of the year were sent to the trade last night by the Riverside & Dan River Cotton Mills. They are about in line with those made on Wednesday by several other houses.

These meetings will be held next week by the Dry Goods Alliance, 20 West Thirty-third Street: Monday, women's and children's knit underwear; Tuesday and Wednesday, women's and children's hosiery, and Thursday, men's hosiery, underwear and furnishings.

His condition yesterday was reported as excellent. The Chester H. Roth Co., Inc., 260 Broadway, has been appointed sole selling agent for the New York jobbing trade by the Parker Hosiery Mill and Dye Works, Inc., Portsmouth, Va.

MILL UNION MEN TO INVADE SOUTH

FOUR MEMBERS WITHDRAW

Passaic Delegates Protest Ousting of Two Associates — Postpone Hosiery Picketing.

The United Textile Workers of America, in convention at the Great Northern Hotel, decided yesterday to make a survey of conditions in Southern mills with a view to launching an organizing campaign whenever such a policy seemed fairly likely to succeed.

The resolution was adopted in pursuance of the report of President Thomas F. McMahon, who declared in his annual report that low wages, long hours and the conditions of employment in the Southern textile mills warranted an extension of the union's activities.

The survey is to be made by a committee appointed by the Executive Board which will meet later and draw up plans for the work. It was pointed out that the policy of organizing the South was a change in the old policy of the union, which was to concentrate in the North and to permit the South to take care of its own activities.

Four delegates withdrew from the convention yesterday and issued a statement protesting against the ousting of Eli I. Keller and Ellen Dawson of Passaic on Wednesday. The dissenters were led by John Di Santo and included Gustav Deak, Philip Lipschitz and Sarah Chernow. Di Santo tried to get the floor to protest the ousting of Keller and Miss Dawson, "left wing" delegates, but he was ruled out of order, whereupon he and his three associates filed from the room.

In their manifesto given out later the Passaic delegates attacked the present administration of the union and announced that they severed all connection with the organization.

A decision to picket the retail store of the Allen A. Hosiery shop at 425 Fifth Avenue yesterday was put off until noon today. A strike of full-fashioned hosiery workers, in progress for nearly seven months at the Allen A Company mill at Kenosha, Wis., was discussed by Louis Budenz, a special representative of the union.

Among the other speakers yesterday were John J. Manning, Secretary of the Label Trades Department of the American Federation of Labor; Paul Fuller of the Workers' Education Bureau and Abraham Epstein, Secretary of the American Association for Old Age Security.

Mr. Manning urged the promotion of goods bearing the union label and of goods manufactured by concerns recognized as fair to organized labor.

Mr. Epstein told the delegates that the employment age had been lowered appreciably in recent years. Many of the large corporations, he said, now set the age limit for hiring skilled men as 45 years and unskilled man as 35 years.

The convention will continue today.

RAW SILK FUTURES EASIER.

Prices Close One to Five Cents Lower on National Exchange.

Silk futures were easier on the National Raw Silk Exchange yesterday, prices closing one to five cents under the previous close, although offerings were in light volume. The November position showed the maximum decline, while October, off one cent, showed the greatest resistance to the downward trend.

There was no news locally or from the silk producing centres to explain the easing of prices, and in the opinion of brokers the market was merely finding a natural level of prices from the higher values which ruled on Tuesday, the first day of trading on the new Exchange. The volume of trading yesterday was 360 bales.

The range of prices was as follows:

	High.	Low.	Close.	Prev. Close.
October	4.88	4.87	4.88-4.89	4.89
November	4.88	4.87	4.85-4.86	4.90
December	4.88	4.87	4.88-4.90	4.90
January	4.90	4.87	4.87-4.89	4.91
February	4.90	4.87	4.87-4.89	4.89
March	4.90	4.87	4.86-4.88	4.89

ARGUE JURISDICTION IN SLAYING AT SEA

Consuls of Sweden and Brazil Differ on Question of Where Trial Is to Be Held.

KILLER TELLS OF ATTACK

Charges Fellow-Oiler Persecuted Him—Commissioner Reserves Decision on Extradition.

International complications arose yesterday in Brooklyn Federal Court in the case of Francesco Di Lima, a young oiler on the steamship Liguria, who was charged with manslaughter on the high seas, when the Swedish Consul General asked for his extradition to Sweden for trial because the vessel is of Swedish registry.

Assistant United States Attorney Alex Pisciotta said this country had no jurisdiction in the case because the killing occurred when the vessel was thirty-six miles off Ambrose Light. Olaf H. Lamm, Swedish Consul General at New York, asked Commissioner Wilson to accede to the request for extradition, while Manuel de Barros, Consul General for Brazil, requested that the case be tried here.

Di Lima, who bears a striking resemblance to the late Rudolph Valentino, is accused of causing the death of a fellow-oiler, Olaus Monson, 19 years old, on Aug. 29. On the witness stand he told of petty persecution by Monson from the time the ship left Santos, Brazil.

He described Monson as a man of quarrelsome disposition and told of several instances in which the Swede had struck him. His story was borne out by Captain Berthel Lindberg, who testified that he warned Monson to stop annoying the young Brazilian during the voyage. When the vessel was near New York, Di Lima said Monson quarreled with him over borrowing his shaving brush. In defending himself, the witness said he struck Monson with an iron bar, causing internal injuries which resulted in the man's death the following day in Holy Family Hospital.

Commissioner Wilson reserved decision on the question of jurisdiction and committed Di Lima to Raymond Street Jail without bail.

RAIN PREVENTS PARADE AT CONEY MARDI GRAS

Policemen Spread News on Tour. Through Crowds—Governor Will Be Honored Tonight.

The 500 extra policemen who are attending the Coney Island Mardi Gras this week were ordered last evening to wander through the streets in the manner of town criers, telling the crowds that because of rain there would be no parade. The Junior Order of American Merchants and the Iceberg Athletic Club of Winter bathers were guests of the Coney Island Chamber of Commerce last night.

Tonight is designated Governors' Night and Firemen's Night. Governor Smith will not be present. Tomorrow afternoon there will be the annual baby parade, with prizes and about 400 entries.

Magistrate Liota imposed $3 fines yesterday on thirty-three men who were charged with disorderly conduct at the Mardi Gras and $1 fines on seveneteen charged with peddling without licenses.

UNION LEAGUE AVOIDS VOTE.

Club Tables Resolution Attacking Sumptuary Laws.

A resolution asking the Union League Club to fight the "tyranny" of sumptuary legislation was tabled last night at the regular September meeting of the organization.

The resolution deplored the tendency toward tyranny by the majority, exercised through a multiplicity of laws and regulations and invasion of phases of human behavior upon which governments should not venture. While the resolution did not mention prohibition, the line of argument was similar to that often used by advocates of personal liberty.

If, as has been reported, the resolution threatened to develop a bitter fight that might split the club, no indication of it was made public, for Alfred E. Marling, the President, said it had been tabled promptly. It was said there was very little discussion at the meeting, which lasted only twenty minutes. The name of the member who introduced the resolution was not made public.

BANK USES HISTORICSTONES

Places Relics of Predecessor Institutions in Its Walls.

The Bank of New York and Trust Company yesterday placed in the front of its new building at Wall & William Streets two historic stones. One was the cornerstone of the old Bank of New York which was built in 1797. The other stone marked the site, directly adjoining, of the New York Life Insurance and Trust Company, which was merged with the Bank of New York in 1922.

No ceremonies marked the setting of the stones, although not a little historic interest centres about them.

New Symbols on Stock Exchange.

Strange hieroglyphics appeared on the Stock Exchange yesterday as several new issues were admitted to trading. The abbreviation for W. T. Grant & Co. common shares is GTY; that for the Spiegel, May Stern Company, Inc., SMS; that for the Florsheim Shoe Company, FLO; that for the International Printing Ink Corporation, IKN, and that for the Grasselli Chemical Company, GLR.

Elected to Sugar Institute.

The Western Sugar Refinery has been elected to membership in the Sugar Institute, Inc., and its Executive Vice President, F. E. Sullivan, has been added to the Institute's Board. The activities of the institute now extend throughout the United States, according to James H. Post, its Chairman, and about 85 per cent. of the nation's output of refined cane sugar is produced by its members.

LINES POOL REVENUE FROM PASSENGERS

Shipping Board Approves Deal on Sailings Between Italy and United States.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 13.—An agreement among the Cosulich Line, Lloyd Sabaudo and Navigazione Generale Italiana governing passenger transportation principally between Italy and the United States and Canada was approved by the Shipping Board today. It also concerns similar service between Patras, Lisbon, Gibraltar, Algeciras, Villefranche and Marseilles and North America and eastbound traffic to the Azores.

The net revenue is to be pooled and apportioned between the lines quarterly on the basis of nineteen round-trip sailings a year by the vessels of each line.

Other conference arrangements approved by the board included:

An agreement between the American-Hawaiian Steamship Company and the Oceanic Oriental Navigation Company providing for shipments on through bills of lading from Atlantic Coast ports of the United States to Oriental ports of call of the transpacific carrier on mutually agreed through rates which are apportioned equally between the lines, each of which assumes one-half of the cost of transfer of shipments at San Francisco.

An agreement between the American-Hawaiian Steamship Company and the Merchants and Miners Transportation Company which provides for shipments from United States Pacific Coast ports to ports of call of the Merchants and Miners Transportation Company in Florida, on a combination of the local rates of the participating carriers. Transfer of shipments from the intercoastal vessel is effected at Philadelphia, the cost of which is borne by the Merchants and Miners.

An agreement for cooperation between the representatives of lines operating vessels from the Far East and Colombo with respect to local matters arising at ports of discharge in the United States, such as construing bill of lading clauses and dealing with similar matters of general interest to the members. The representatives participating in the agreement have no authority to make rates or conditions in respect to transportation of cargo but are restricted to furnishing recommendations pertaining thereto to their principals.

CHILEAN SEAMEN RESCUED.

Grace Line Ship Saves 40 From Freighter Maule Near Chile.

Forty seamen of the Chilean freighter Maule of Valparaiso were rescued yesterday off the southern coast of Chile by the Grace Line freighter Toluma, according to a cablegram received at the local offices from Captain John Johnson, master of the Toluma, from Corral, Chile.

The message did not tell the fate of the Maule. It stated that the shipwrecked seamen were landed at Corral.

According to Lloyd's Register, the Maule had a gross tonnage of 1,598, was 260 feet long, had a beam of 35 feet and was 21 feet deep. She was built in Aberdeen, Scotland, in 1882.

Win Bravery Medals in Tanker Fire

"Bravery and heroic work," in the rescue of the crew of the tanker Agwisun, destroyed by fire in December, 1926, in the Erie Basin, Brooklyn, brought life-saving medals and $25 in gold yesterday to Captain George B. Bason, Louis Stenken, H. Gibbons, Arthur O'Toole, J. Janssen, H. Larsen, F. Dreiger and P. Koschner. The awards were made by D. F. McAllister of the McAllister Towing and Transportation Company of 24 State Street. The Captain and the men were on Tug Federal No. 2, operated by the McAllister firm, at the time of the fire.

Navigator Retires After 52 Years.

Special to The New York Times.

ELIZABETH, N. J., Sept. 13.—Fifty-two years ago John A. Burns of 645 Magie Avenue began steamboat navigation in New York Harbor. Yesterday he retired to private life ashore. The American Shipbuilding Corporation reports for the year ended June 30, 1928, net income of $510,695 after charges and Federal taxes, equivalent after preferred dividends to $3.15 a share on 147,144 common shares. This compares with net income of $1,743,373 of $11.52 a common share in the preceding year.

DRUG SUSPECT RETURNS.

Martini Fled to Aid Child, 2, Court Hears—Bond Forfeit Dismissed.

Joseph Martini, one of the chief figures accused of participation in the $500,000 Long Beach mail-order narcotic ring, who vanished from his trial in the Brooklyn Federal Building during a five-minute recess on Aug. 29, returned yesterday and was released under $25,000 bail by Federal Judge Clayton.

At the time of his disappearance Federal Judge Atwell directed that his $15,000 bond be forfeited, issued a bench warrant for his arrest and ordered that his bail be $50,000 when he was again in custody. Judge Clayton dismissed the bond forfeiture and the bench warrant and made the bail conform to the District Attorney's idea of what was reasonable without reference to Judge Atwell's action.

Arthur N. Saeger, Martini's new attorney, said his client had begged Judge Atwell for time to provide for his two-year-old daughter. When the jurist ignored his appeals Martini took the only other way out, the lawyer said. He did not leave the jurisdiction of the court and told his bondsmen that he would return as soon as he had provided for the child, whose mother died, the attorney said. Judge Clayton expressed his belief that Martini did not intend to flout the Government and that his actions meant no disrespect. His trial will proceed on Oct. 11.

MORE READING HERE, LIBRARY ASKS RISE

New York Branches Want $319,840 Increase Because Circulation Is Higher.

TO BUILD TWO NEW EDIFICES.

Money Also Desired for Salary Advances and to Create New Positions.

That New Yorkers are reading more books than they used to read is the declaration with which the New York Public Library fortifies its request for an increase of $319,840 in its annual budget estimate for 1929 over that for the current year. The Board of Trustees of the New York Public Library asks the Board of Estimate for a 1929 appropriation of $1,789,464.

In an explanatory statement issued by a representative of the Public Library it is declared that "the circulation for the current year is 20 per cent. higher than for a similar period in 1926 and 8 per cent. in excess of that for 1927, although the city budget appropriations for those three years were practically alike.

"Of the desired increase, $70,110 will be used for new activities, including the establishment of two new libraries, the Hunt's Point branch and the West Farms sub-branch. The erection of the building for the Hunt's Point branch has exhausted the Carnegie gift fund for public libraries. Any additional branches in the Public Library system must be erected hereafter from city funds or from funds supplied by some donor.

"The sum of $63,120 is asked for thirty-eight new positions and $122,465 is asked for salary increases for the employes of the circulation department.

"The Brooklyn and Queens Borough Public Libraries are asking corresponding increases, the administrative boards of the three library systems having united in a uniform request to the Board of Estimate, hoping to obtain for the employes an average salary increase of $3.63 weekly.

THE DAILY MIRROR AGAIN CHANGES HANDS

Bought by Albert J. Kobler, Former Publisher of the Hearst Sunday Magazines.

Albert J. Kobler, who advertised yesterday that he had resigned as President of The American Weekly, a Hearst publication, announced yesterday that he had purchased The Daily Mirror from Alexander P. Moore, Ambassador to Peru, who last March bought the paper from Mr. Hearst.

Mr. Kobler said he would assume control of The Mirror on Monday, and would continue its publication as a picture tabloid, gradually making changes in policy, eventually publishing a wider variety of news, including stock market tables.

In politics, Mr. Kobler said The Mirror will be non-partisan in its news columns. In its editorial page it is understood that it will incline to the Democratic side and will support Governor Smith for the Presidency.

At present publication will continue at the same location in Frankfort Street, but Mr. Kobler said he intended to move the paper uptown later.

They were arrested by Patrolman Amos Anderson of Darien on June 18 with an automobile load of dresses from a Bridgeport shop.

CHILD SLAYER SUSPECT IN COURT UNDER GUARD

Police Called for Arraignment of Panariello as Rumor of Jailbreak Attempt Spreads.

Three men were seen going down the stairway to the basement at Brooklyn Homicide Court yesterday and rumors spread quickly that a jailbreak was under way. Luigi Panariello of 27-68 West Fifteenth Street, Coney Island, was about to be arraigned on a charge of homicide in conection with the strangling of his 6-year-old brother-in-law, Salvatore Santomarco, on Sept. 6.

A crowd had gathered. Taking no chances of an organized jail break, Magistrate Maguire and Assistant District Attorney Eno sent word to the Snyder Avenue station for police protection during the hearing. The court room and hallway was cleared and Panariello was brought in.

Three men, suspected by the police to have been those who went to the cells below the court, were held. They were released later for lack of evidence.

The charge of homicide was brought against Panariello by Detective Grieco of the Coney Island station. Young Santomarco disappeared early in the month and was presumably held for 30,000 lire by kidnappers. The body of the boy, placed under a pile of stones in the rear of Panariello's house, was shown to the police by Panariello, who admitted taking part in the kidnapping, but said he knew nothing of the murder. He blamed three accomplices, who in turn blamed him. The three men are being held as material witnesses. They are Jerry Perino and John Moresco of 2,773 West Sixteenth Street and Pasquale Borello of 2,712 West Sixteenth Street.

Detective Grieco told the Court of Panariello's confession to the kidnapping plot. Two boys were the only witnesses called. They were Carmine Panariello, 14, of 2,838 Stillwell Avenue, no relation to the defendant, and Joseph Galli, 14, of 2,792 West Fifteenth Street, both of Coney Island. They said they were eating in a delicatessen store one night when Panariello came in and asked each to telephone to Joseph Santomarco, father of the dead boy, and tell him his son was safe in Staten Island. They identified the prisoner.

Samuel Liebowitz, attorney for the prisoner, waived further examination, and Panariello was held without bail for the Grand Jury. The street in front of the court house was cleared by the police and the jail van was backed up to the building to take the prisoner to the Raymond Street Jail.

Thousands of Men Saved Millions of Dollars

FAITHFUL reproductions of original expensive custom styles have resulted in the largest increase in the history of this business.

This is a strong statement in the face of recent figures issued by the U. S. Government showing that the total men's shoe production in America for Spring 1928 was considerably lower than the same period last year.

During the past 12 months hundreds of thousands stopped, compared the Original High Price English Models with the Regal Reproductions in our windows—stepped into our store and stepped out with a new pair of Regals — AND SAVED THE DIFFERENCE.

If all the men who purchased Regal shoes during that period had paid the same price we paid in London for the original models that we reproduced for $6.60, it would have cost them millions more.

This year we bought another New style from another Old concern. Allen & Bridge, for more than a century, have been making shoes at 4 Ryder Street at St. James S.W.1., in the very shadow of St. James Palace, the London home of the Prince of Wales.

They were awarded medals for "excellence of art and make" as early as 1851 and have continued since that time to make shoes for some of the best known men in England (I'm sorry we are not at liberty to mention their names).

Actual photograph of exclusive English Custom Model on display in Regal Stores, purchased by us in London for
in London

Actual Photograph of our Reproduction of exclusive English Model selling for $6.60
in all Regal Stores

THIS style in England is known as a semi-brogue with a "punched and notched" toe cap, vamp, outside counter and top. The Regal reproduction is an exact copy of this original style, even to the design of the tip center and the Waukenphast Wheel on the sole. The two models are identical in appearance from the invisible eyelets to the steel slugged heels.

Allen & Bridge describe the sole as an oak bark tan "middling substance", and that is what we use. The upper leather in Allen & Bridge's original is an Imported Calfskin tanned in Oisterwyk, Holland, and in the Regal reproduction we use the same identical tannage.

Now, the question that you're going to ask me is, if these shoes are so much alike, why so much difference in price. This is the answer. Allen & Bridge's shoe is made and sewn by hand. Our shoes are sewn by the same machine as practically all high priced American shoes.

In Allen & Bridge's shop only 4 men handle the shoe from the time it is cut until it is finished. In our factory, about 150 different persons perform some operation on a Regal shoe—AND WE MAKE ONE THOUSAND PAIR TO ALLEN & BRIDGE'S ONE PAIR.

We went to London because it is recognized as the authoritative source of men's style in shoes. And we went to Allen & Bridge because they are recognized as one of the best bespoke bootmakers in England, and we selected this style because it is worn by the best dressed men in London.
